And that's the way it is . . .

Events

Professors Bauer, Kozel, and McKenna will discuss recent legislation in intellectual property – the Stop Online Piracy Act and the Protect Intellectual Property Act (SOPA and PIPA, respectively) sponsored by the Sports, Communications, and Entertainment Law Forum (SCELF) on Wednesday, February 8th at 12:30 in Room 1130.

"Dress Down/Jeans" Day to Support Holy Cross Harvest

jeans

The Law School is sponsoring a "dress down/jeans" day this coming Friday, February 10 for faculty and staff to support Holy Cross Harvest. If you would like to dress more casually in jeans on Friday, all we ask is a modest $3-5 donation that can be paid in Suite 1100. Remember, a donation of $1 will provide up to seven meals for people with food insecurity issues in northern Indiana.

Free CALI course for faculty

The Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction (CALI) is offering a FREE online course called Topics in Digital Law Practice starting Friday, February 10, 2012 at 2pm ET.

This course is designed to provide an overview of the changes that are occurring in the practice of law today, especially with respect to technology. It will introduce law students for real-world situations that they will encounter in the job market and point law professors to new avenues to cover in their courses.

The course will run for one hour a week for nine weeks and will feature a different guest speaker each week. Each class will be delivered via webcast and will have a 30 minute lecture presentation followed by a question & answer period and an online, interactive homework assignment for all course students to complete. There will be no formal assessment like midterms or a final exam.

The audience for this seminar is primarily law students and law faculty who will be given priority. Anyone else can join the course for one or all of the sessions. The presentations will be recorded and posted to the course blog.

The Seminar is FREE to all registered attendees.
