Joe Bauer news

Our own antitrust expert Joe Bauer is highlighted on the ND home page on the merger of AT&T and T-Mobile. The story was written by our PR liaison Shannon Chapla. Since the release of the story on August 31st, there were four different comments that were published: (1) the quote; (2) the remark about the DOJ suing only when they thought they had a strong case, which was in an AP wire article; (3) a longer piece in Forbes, citing him several times; and (4) September 2nd BNA ATRR.

The first two were printed a combined 100+ places, from the NY Times and Washington Post, to NPR, CBS and ABC, to the Helena Montana newspaper and papers in Australia, Taiwan and India. > Read Article

NDLS celebrated the first Football Friday of the season with food, fun, and colorful apparel of their favorite team.

Meet Rob Kelly

Rob Kelly

Rob Kelly joined the Notre Dame Law School in July, coming to work with us through the Notre Dame Rotation Program. He was a 2003 graduate of the joint undergraduate engineering and MBA program, and worked with Honeywell International in Ohio after graduation. A huge Notre Dame fan, Rob notes that being away from Notre Dame during his tenure at Honeywell “only reinforced my affinity for Notre Dame, and I couldn’t stop thinking about coming back to work here.” When the opportunity arose, Rob and his wife Starr moved their growing family (Aidan is now 7, Keelin, 4, Brynn, 2, and “Baby” is due in November!) here just over five years ago. In an interview this fall, we asked Rob to tell us more about the ND Rotation Program, and also share more of his personal story with us. We learned he is a happy husband and proud father, a winning football coach, and that he loves to sing, among much else. If you haven't already met Rob, he welcomes visitors in his office (1156 Eck Hall), where he will be through the fall semester before the Rotation Program moves him to another location on campus. In the meantime, you can also read the interview with Rob here. Please join in extending a warm welcome to Rob during his time with us here at NDLS!
