KRESGE LAW LIBRARY HISTORY

The Notre Dame Law Department was established in 1869. The first published mention of a law school library was not until 20 years later, when the Columbia Law Times described the small library of 2,500 volumes as “spacious, well-lighted,” and “well-ventilated.”

In these early years of development of the library's collection and staff was slow. The Law School did not appoint the first law librarian, John Whitman, until 1925. His selection coincided with the Law School’s accreditation by the Association of American Law Schools. By 1930, after more than 60 years of existence, the library had only grown to 10,000 volumes. This modest collection did not require a large staff.

In fact, in 1942, a single librarian, Lora Lashbrook, oversaw the entire operation while serving concurrently as teacher of a course in legal ethics. Raymond Hume became the first head of the library in 1945. He guided the collection for 25 years. After his retirement, the library stood at 69,000 volumes — quite small by American Bar Association standards.

The enlargement of the library’s physical space in 1973 came under the leadership of the next librarian, Kathleen C. Farmann. Expansion and increased funding of the library, made possible in part by a gift from the Kresge Foundation, were welcomed but were nevertheless insufficient for the library’s continued growth. In 1985 the University committed itself to building a library that would support scholarship of the highest order, and it needed a librarian to spearhead that campaign. Roger F. Jacobs, then the librarian of the U.S. Farmann. Jacobs, then the librarian of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, became the fifth Notre Dame law librarian. During his 21 years of leadership, library staff, seating, and shelf space more than doubled. The total physical area of the library increased by a third, and the collection grew to more than 640,000 volumes.

The progress of the past continues into the future under Ed Edmonds, who was appointed the sixth librarian in summer 2000. He is proud to welcome you to the Kresge Law Library in Biocchi Hall of Law. Here a talented staff, quality collection, and superb physical facility combine to make the law library one of the Law School’s finest assets.

Law Library Guide 2016–17

Welcome to Notre Dame Law School’s Kresge Library. This library guide will inform you about the library’s services, policies, and physical layout. If you have other questions, please ask the staff for assistance. The staff is here to help you.

The primary mission of the Kresge Law Library is to provide the necessary scholarly foundation for legal research and to provide space for independent and collaborative study for Notre Dame Law School faculty and students. The law library supports the curricular and scholarly interests of the Law School by acquiring and providing access to electronic and print resources, and by offering formal and informal guidance in their use. Secondarily, the law library supports the legal research requirements of the larger University community.

The library occupies four floors. Enter through the main entrance adjacent to the north end of Eck Commons. (Eck Commons is the bridge connecting Biocchi Hall of Law and Eck Hall of Law.)

The library seats 550 people, 152 at individual study carrels. Five professional librarians, eight support staff, and numerous student assistants comprise the library staff.

BORROWING PRIVILEGES

Law students and other members of the Notre Dame and South Bend communities may, with proper identification, borrow library materials for a specified time. To determine if an item circulates, check with a Circulation Desk attendant. All items checked out are subject to recall if needed by another user or for course reserve.

CARREL RESERVATIONS

The following students are eligible for a carrel: LLM/ JSD students, law journal students, research assistants, the International Moot Court team, the Appellate Moot Court team, and the AAJ/Baristers trial teams. First-year students are not eligible for carrels. For details, stop by the Research Services Assistant’s office, Room 2301.

CATALOG

Use the online catalog for information on the electronic and print sources available. Two designated workstations for access to the online catalog are located on Level 2. To search other campus libraries, see the Hesburgh Libraries.

ELEVATORS

There are three elevators for those using the library. Press “2” on Elevator B adjacent to the Biocchi Hall of Law Chapel to arrive at the library entrance. Use Elevator C next to the Circulation Desk or Elevator D at the north end of each library floor (near the men’s restroom) to move from floor to floor.

FOOD and DRINK

Generally, food is not allowed in the library; however, light snacks that are not damaging to the collection or distracting to others are permitted. Beverages in bottles that can be re-closed (screw-top) or other containers with lids are permitted.

GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS

Since 1986 the law library has been a selective depository for United States government documents. These items, found through the online catalog, are available to the public.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN

Law faculty and students may borrow materials not available in the law library or the Hesburgh Libraries through interlibrary loan using the ILLiad borrowing system available on the library’s website.

LIBRARY ETIQUETTE

The law library is for serious research and study. Please refrain from loud conversation and other inappropriate behavior. Non-law students may not use the library as a study hall. Anyone violating library policies may be ejected.

Help maintain a quiet atmosphere by silencing your cell phone when entering the library. Please do not talk on your phone in the library. You may not receive or place personal phone calls on your phone.
