Monday Morning Update

January 29 - February 4

Hello Notre Dame Law School,

I hope you all had a great weekend! I know I sure did. For those of you who actually read this part of the MMU, you probably know where I am going with this. The feelings I had this weekend were almost euphoric. It was pure vindication. Pure happiness. Pure joy. Pure relief. All of them, mixed together inside of my body. for those of you who do not know what I am talking about, my alma mater's men's basketball team, the University of Virginia, beat Duke at Cameron Indoor. A feat that has not happened since 1995, UVA won away at Duke and beat the #4 team in the country. For me, this was perhaps the greatest regular season victory I have ever seen UVA achieve. Growing up a Virginia fan, I was not treated to the best basketball for much of my life. Ever since the hiring of Tony Bennett, the most handsome coach in the nation (sorry, Jay Wright), UVA has been a program worth watching and one every alum can be proud of. Now I know that we are all Irish fans too, however when your first love beats a rival away in the biggest ACC game they've had since the 1980's, well you'll just need to bear with me. UVA should be ranked #1 this afternoon and if this happens, I apologize in advance of being the most obnoxious fan for the next week when we eventually lose and lose the #1 ranking.

Anyway, I need to get this email out so here are some Monday Musings:

1. While I was out of town this weekend, I heard bowling got off to a great success. I would like to shout-out Dan Eliadas and the Athletics Committee for setting up the league this year, we are all very grateful you did. My team, clearly missing their most fun member, did not perform as the championship favorite we are. However with "Big Red" back in the lineup, I am putting the league on notice.

2. With the Super Bowl this week, I am very excited but also a little bummed that sports is basically taking a month off from major events until March when we get March Madness. Now wait, I can already hear a lot of you bringing up the Olympics, but I have problems with the Olympics. 1) No NHL stars on the national hockey teams, 2) I don't like a lot of the winter events, 3) I think USA is better at the summer games so not winning the gold medal count is frustrating. But back to my point, why were there two all-star games yesterday? Why not have the Pro Bowl (well, they should scrap the Pro Bowl entirely, but that's besides the point) and the NHL All-Star game on different days? I'm not sure how to fix this, but a February filled with just NCAA basketball and curling isn't enough for me.

3. My Super Bowl Prediction officially is Patriots 24 - Eagles 20. I will be rooting very hard for the Eagles, however I just do not see Doug Pederson out-coaching Cheaty McCheaterFace when both coaches have two weeks to prepare. I think that it will be a good game, with the Patriots hitting a late field goal to put the game out of reach. The fact that Tom Brady has to face Mariota, Bortles, and Foles to win a championship is just not fair. Yet, I know that with each passing day, the Patriots are one day closer to being irrelevant again just like they were from the 60's to mind-90's.

4. I am going to continue to annoy you all with this, but if anyone wants to be Secretary of SBA next year please let me know. I am sure that you all are wishing someone ran against me so you wouldn't be subjected to these emails every week, so I encourage anyone who is interested to reach out to me. I can endorse you.

Lots of love,
Drew

The time commitment is less than 24 hours, and food and housing will be taken care of. A few NDLS students attended this retreat last year through their church and thought it was amazing, so CLS decided to host one of our own to give the opportunity to all NDLS.
