One hundred fifteen members of the Class of 1975 will receive J.D. degrees in May. The class has one of the lowest rates of attrition on record, and will produce a goodly crop of honors degrees; most members will be employed as they leave the campus. The Law School's honorary-degree person this year is Albert Jenner of the Chicago Bar.... Associate Dean David Link won the Class of 1975 "Best Teacher" award; Dean Peter W. Thornton, a former winner, was up from Fort Lauderdale for the class dinner last week, along with Prof. and Mrs. Foschio.

Prof. Stanley Hauerwas of the Dept. of Theology, was the annual American Journal of Jurisprudence lecturer last week. Former A.J.J. editor Prof. John Noonan was on hand to hear it, along with many N.D. people. The lecture will be in the 1975 issue.... Judge Clifford O'Sullivan, '20L, of the Sixth Circuit Federal Court of Appeals, sends greetings to people here. He has been on the federal bench since 1957. His uncle Timothy, '1865, was an alumnus and a priest here, and his father and son (Patrick) are also alumni.... Our calendar for 1975-76:

Recent wording on awards to teachers: "Any lawyer who says 'shacking up' instead of 'cohabitation' is okay with us" (to Prof. Crutchfield from the Family Law class); "The Notre Dame Legal Aid and Defender Ass'n gratefully acknowledges Conrad L. Kellenberg, for his long standing guidance and devoted labors. Spring, 1975".... Lovely crystal sherry set, complete with Bristol Cream, to Nancy and me from the Class of 1975.

Our students (here and in London) are pre-registering for Fall 1975. We expect the faculty to be at 20, full-time, for the first time we have been at that barely adequate level since our enrollment began increasing in 1968. The legal bibliography program will be offered throughout the first year; we will have a new clinical program in family law practice and expanded programs in criminal-law practice, public-interest practice, and appellate advocacy--along with all existing internship programs and seminars. The trial advocacy program now has five tiers, beginning with an expanded evidence course and ending with post-trial, advanced seminars. We will offer a new course in legal systems which will concern itself with the international responsibilities of American lawyers. Three of our faculty will be new (Mennell, Connaughton, and Wernz) and two returning from leave (Beytagh) or service abroad (Booker).
Bill Labre, '77L, was appointed to the marriage-counseling committee of the A.B.A section on family law. Congratulations to Clair Elise Campfield, born last week.

Kathy Maher, '76L, is the new president of our Legal Aid and Defender Ass'n. John Cariotto, '74L, Lincoln, represented us at the dedication of the new law building at the U. of Nebraska College of Law. Prof. Seckinger was at the National Trial Advocacy Seminar in Chicago last week. Sympathy to Prof. Rice, on the death of his mother, last week.

Lou Brenner, '67L, is now a partner in his firm in St. Paul; Lou is a director of the N.D. Law Ass'n. Mike Munholland, '74L, Chicago, writes that he is busy with products liability, malpractice, and scaffolds, and that he and classmate Norm Lerum, Mike Laird, Gary Shuman, and John Gaither have been admitted in Illinois.

Tom Kronk, '73L, is prosecutor and village attorney in Newberry (Mich.).

Kathy O'Rei, '77L, is the new director of our Legislative Research Service; her classmates Guy Hoadley, Gene Turnbull, and Jim Albert are also officers, along with Georgia Luks, Jerry Fritz, and Terry Schpok, all '76L.

Prof. Link attended the national meeting of the American Society on International Law, in Washington, last week; he was a judge in the midwestern international law moot-court competition. Prof. Crutchfield will represent us at the annual meeting, next month, of the Bar Ass'n of the Seventh Federal Circuit. Prof. Dutile spoke at the National Catholic Laity Conference on Capital Punishment.

Prof. Kellenberg will represent N.D. at the Parker School (Columbia) conference on international law May 16-17. Sincere thanks to Miles Laboratories and Dr. Sokolowski for their help to our patent-law moot-court champs Fred Geil and Sid Jacobsen, '75L.

Warm congratulations and proud wishes to my friend, classmate, and colleague, Professor David T. Link, who will become, on June 1, 1975, the eighth Dean of this good law school.
