The NATURAL LAW FORUM is dedicated to a critical examination of the significance of natural law for our times. To this end it seeks to provide a meeting ground for discussion and a clearing house for information. Scholarly contributions from the point of view of any intellectual discipline, whether scientific, historical, political, legal, philosophical, or theological, and whether favorable or unfavorable to the natural law approach, will be welcome. It follows, of course, that the views expressed in the contributions which are published in the FORUM are not necessarily those of the editors.
