Monday Morning Update

May 8 - SUMMER!

Hello Notre Dame Law School,

Isn't this just the BEST? What an AWESOME time of the year. Aren't you so happy you came to law school? Isn't this everything you hoped and dreamed it would be? Here are some Monday Musings:

1. I spoke too soon. If you want to blame me for jinxing the weather, I accept that. Walking to a final or to the library for the millionth hour in 20mph winds and mid-40s weather is probably not how you thought your May was going to go. Or maybe you did. I don't even know what to expect from South Bend anymore. Maybe when you get back to your hometowns things will be better? That's all I got for now.

2. 1Ls, the "dream" is almost over. Enjoy the Backer on Saturday.

3. 3Ls, this is probably a strange time for you. I'm sure most of you are feeling very sentimental about your three years here. Some of you are probably counting down the days until you can leave forever. Others are probably overspending on everything; chalking it up to that sweet, sweet firm money that is coming in a few short months. But overall, you should be feeling very proud. Finishing your 7th year of higher-education (potentially more for some) is an incredible and commendable feat that only a small percentage of the population get the opportunity to enjoy. Outsiders will look at the debt you have acquired and gasp. They will question your decision-making abilities, your sanity, and probably wonder if you know how "money" works. But in the end, you will be helping individuals, businesses, cities, schools, and everything in between get the legal services they are entitled to and need and that, I think, is well worth the investment. Congratulations on finishing up and good luck on the Bar!

4. 2Ls...so...close...to 3L...

5. I am looking forward to seeing some of you this summer and most of you next semester. If you think of anything you would like to see in the MMU next Fall, do not hesitate to reach out!

Please, I beg you, please keep the New York Rangers in your prayers this week.

Have a great summer!

Lots of love,
Drew

Financial Tips

If you are graduating in May:

1. Try to make extra payments on loans, when possible, to save on interest charges, and
2. Consider looking into various financial planning services (such as this, this, or this) to assist with future expenditures and life events.

If you are a 2L or 1L returning in the fall:

1. Apply for external scholarships (look here, here, and here), and
2. Look into cost-saving measures, such as getting a roommate to reduce housing expenses and eliminating credit card debt.
