Notre Dame Law School

Notre Dame's Law School is located at the entrance to the campus of the University of Notre Dame, founded in 1842 by the Rev. Edward F. Sorin, C.S.C., a French priest of the Congregation of Holy Cross.

The Law School draws its inspiration from two ancient traditions. In the tradition of English and American common law, and a peculiarly American contribution to that tradition, it is a University law school. This is an honorable tradition, one that attests to, and in part accounts for, the unusual power and prestige that the bar enjoys in the United States. Notre Dame shares it with other national university law schools.

The other tradition is the Catholic tradition, the tradition of Sir Thomas More, who was able to say he was “the King's good servant, but God's first.” Notre Dame was founded and is maintained by Roman Catholics. Its trustees are mandated to continue it as a Roman Catholic institution. In a community where people of every kind of opinion are welcome and are valued for the different contributions they have to make, the exact significance of this religious orientation is difficult to state and, in many ways, is controversial. But most people at Notre Dame agree on at least this much: 1) moral and religious questions are important; no one need apologize for raising them or for taking them seriously when others raise them; 2) everyone who comes here should be encouraged to explore basic personal commitments and to relate them to what is learned here, and 3) the University has an obligation to Christians, particularly Roman Catholics, to provide assistance in this exploration. To this end, it supports a Catholic intellectual and liturgical life for those who desire to participate in it. It welcomes and encourages the corporate manifestations of other faiths and commitments and seeks to meet the needs and desires of other members of the community.

The Notre Dame Law School celebrated its 100th year of continuous operation in 1969. It is the oldest Roman Catholic law school in the United States. Its national program is designed to equip a student to practice law in any jurisdiction. Among our graduates are members of the bar in every state and in several foreign nations. The school is approved by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools. It is a community of faculty and students of every race and creed from throughout the nation and the world.

The Notre Dame program aims to educate men and women to become lawyers of extraordinary professional competence who possess a partisanship for justice, an ability to respond to human need, and compassion for their clients and colleagues. The learning program is geared to skill and service; it is presided over by a faculty which has experience in the practice of law, on the bench, and in public life; and it aspires to a learning community in which teachers and students learn from one another.

Methods of instruction are both traditional and innovative. The first-year required curriculum is rigorous and traditional. It is taught in the case method, developed in American law schools in the 19th century and used in most law schools today. The problem method, internship practice, and innovative, experience-based techniques are used in the second and third years supplemented by seminars, interdisciplinary study, courses in other graduate departments of the University, directed readings and practice programs such as the moot (appellate) and practice (trial) courts. Unique additions to the curriculum are comprehensive courses and programs which cross traditional course lines and cover broad areas of practice.

The school is committed to small classes, particularly in the second and third years. The objective is participation by every student at every meeting of every class. Formal instruction is supplemented with lectures and panel discussions by eminent judges, practicing lawyers and legal scholars.

Legal Research and Writing Programs. The Law School maintains a thorough program of legal research and writing in all three years of study. First-year students develop a grounding in the technical use of the law library and, in the second semester, brief and argue appellate moot-court cases and assist clients in activities supervised by the Legal Aid and Defender Association.

The writing and legal research program in the second and third years of law study is elective. Students may be selected to work on the staff of the Notre Dame Lawyer to research and write legal essays for publication, and edit and critique material written by other authors. Students who choose to work in the Moot Court will brief and argue appellate cases in the course of the second year.

Students who choose to work in the Legal Aid and Defender Association will perform legal and factual research in real cases, independently or under the supervision of practicing lawyers in public-defender, prosecutor and legal-aid offices. Legal defenders are permitted to try actual cases under the supervision of practicing lawyers in the courts of Indiana and Michigan.

Students who work for the Legislative Research Service will research and write legislative memoranda and participate in drafting bills for submission to state and municipal legislatures and Congress.

Students who work in these and other such organizations are required, as part of their work in the research and writing program, to satisfy the standards of the organization and the faculty. Up to four semester hours of degree credit may be earned through participation in approved co-curricular activities.
Students may choose independent research projects in the second or third year and receive degree credit for directed readings work. These projects are usually on topics of interest to the student working on them. They are done with continuing, personal faculty assistance.

Faculty-Student Relationship. The hallmark of legal education at Notre Dame is the close liaison between faculty and students. The faculty are always accessible and spend more hours in private student conferences than in the classroom. As a result of interdisciplinary graduate programs, Notre Dame law students can expect exposure to faculty and students from other University departments, both in seminars and in formal classes.

Law Building and Library. The Law School is a handsome building with traditional Tudor Gothic exterior located at the entrance to the Notre Dame campus. The building was recently completely refurbished.

The Law Library, located in the Law School, has more than 100,000 volumes supplemented by legal and interdisciplinary research materials in the nearby 14-story University Memorial Library. The Law School subscribes to LEXIS, a computer-assisted legal research service with a terminal located in the Law Library.

Placement. The Law School recognizes a responsibility to assist its students in finding suitable employment upon graduation, and a placement service is operated as one of the functions of the Law School. Contacts are maintained with lawyers and law firms throughout the country and with corporate and government law offices and courts. Extensive efforts resulting in good success are made to help qualified students obtain judicial clerkships. Qualified applicants are put in touch with prospective employers. While the school cannot guarantee employment, it does make every effort to assist in locating employment opportunities.

Enrichment. A primary objective at Notre Dame is to recognize that a student who is responsible for his own learning learns more, learns firmly, and learns quickly with joy. There must be varied opportunities for thought, growth and learning. Consequently, our program goes beyond classroom instruction. The Law School invites scores of guests to the campus each year. Visitors have ranged from a former chief justice of the United States to recent graduates who came to ponder with us the challenges of "working within the system." Guests participate in formal lecture settings and in "brown bag" lunch hour informal sessions—some for an hour and some for a week.

Foreign Law Study

Notre Dame is the only law school in the United States which offers study abroad for credit on both a summer school and year-around basis.

London Programs. The year abroad London Program has been in continuous operation since 1968. All courses and instruction are in strict conformity to the recommended standards of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association. Each year about 40 second-year students who have successfully completed all their first-year courses elect to study in England in course and seminar work under American and English teachers. The curriculum in London changes with the needs and interests of our students. Some 45 hours of credit are generally available, and a student may select to follow a regular, second-year course of law study. For example, during the past academic year participants could enroll in such standard American courses as business associations, commercial transactions, evidence, trusts and estates and jurisprudence. In most of these classes a comparative law element from one or more foreign systems is frequently added to the base of the American law. The other half of the curriculum consists of international and comparative law electives such as public international law, common market law, and international regulation of trade and business. The students make a counseled selection of 28 to 34 hours of credit for their individual programs.

In addition, a student may engage in the following co-curricular activities, and receive credit for: 1) the Notre Dame Lawyer; 2) Moot Court; 3) the Legislative Research Service, and 4) Legal Aid. In the past, our students have enjoyed a good publication rate, as their articles, frequently focusing on an international or comparative aspect, have appeared in the Lawyer, the International and Comparative Law Quarterly, the Journal of Legislation, and other similar legal periodicals. Participation in the Moot Court program in London can lead to involvement in the prestigious Jessup International Moot Court Competition. Student legal aid work in London may be arranged, though there is no compensation and no courtroom participation is possible under the British rules.

Instruction is given in Notre Dame's own Law Centre. In addition, courses for audit and for credit may be specially and individually arranged (in consultation with the London director and the faculty and administration of the British law school involved) at a number of British law schools on the graduate level. In past years some Notre Dame London students have supplemented their regular program at the Law Centre with courses in the law departments of the School of Oriental and African Studies, King's College, and other law schools of the University of London.

Much of the library work is done in the ABA collection in the library of the Middle Temple, one of the Inns of Court. Students may also use the materials of the Senate House Library which services the law schools of the University of London.
the Reading Room of the British Museum, and the fine American, international and commonwealth materials of the library of the Institute for Advanced Legal Studies. In addition, the internationally renowned Bodleian Law Library at Oxford, one hour's journey by train from London, has been most generous and cooperative in extending readers' permits to our students for research projects. Arrangements exist with a number of other general and law libraries to accommodate the study and research needs of the London students. A core collection of American law works is available to the students in Notre Dame's own centre.

Most students take advantage of the opportunity to observe and visit the Old Bailey, the Queen's Bench, the Court of Appeals and the Judicial Committee of the House of Lords while they are in London. The courts, the barristers and the solicitors have all proven friendly and cooperative. Legislative sessions and debates in Parliament, both in the Lords and Commons, are open to the public, and many students take time in the evening to see some key measure debated in this "Mother of Parliaments."

Tuition is the same on the London campus as at the Notre Dame Law School. Classes normally begin at the end of September or early October and end in June to coincide with the British academic calendar.

In addition, since 1970, Notre Dame has operated a separate summer program for credit in London for its own students and students from other American law schools. The course offerings cover international, comparative and American subjects, all of which comply with the standards of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association regarding the content, number and duration of classes.
Joint Degree Programs

The M.B.A./J.D. Program. There is an increasing need for lawyers who are fully trained in management and administration. Neither law nor business decisions are made in a vacuum; both are closely related and interdependent. The attorney who is thoroughly trained in management can make a special contribution to both the private and public sector of society, either in corporate or governmental organizations. Both can make wide use of the person who is fully conversant with the nature and philosophy of the law as well as the complexities and techniques of modern organization.

To meet these needs, in 1970 the Law School and the graduate division of the College of Business Administration at the University of Notre Dame introduced a combined four-year program of study leading to the degrees of master of business administration and juris doctor. The student divides time between the Law School and the Business School receiving the full curriculum of both schools, the reduction of one year made possible by the elimination of certain common disciplines and some elective courses.

Each student in the M.B.A./J.D. program must be accepted for admission by both schools. In order to be considered for admission, the student must take both the Law School Admission Test and the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business. Applications for scholarships should be made separately to each school for the segments of the curriculum involved. An applicant not accepted by the Law School may still apply to the Graduate School of Business for the regular M.B.A. Program.

The M.B.A. program is under the direction of the graduate division of the College of Business Administration. The business curriculum combines an intensive study of the basic disciplines with the decision-making experience of case analysis in a unique enterprise workshop. Emphasizing a close working relationship between faculty and students, the graduate division has its own facilities in Hayes-Healy Center which features the latest equipment for management education including special semicircular classrooms, closed-circuit television, shared-time computer facilities, a "board" room, behavioral laboratories, and a "live" connection with the major stock exchanges.

Inquiries should be addressed to the Office of Admissions, Notre Dame Law School, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

The M.Div./J.D. Program. The Law School and the Department of Theology provide a five-year program leading to a juris doctor degree and a master of theology degree. This program is designed for men and women preparing for the ministry in the Catholic Church. For specific information, please contact either the Law School or the Department of Theology.

Other Joint Degree Programs. Where appropriate and with the approval of the department involved, other joint degree programs may be fashioned to suit individual interests or needs. Examples in the recent past have included joint degree programs in law and history and law and engineering. Inquiries should be addressed to the departments involved.

For further information on the curriculum, qualifications and financial assistance, contact the dean of the Law School.

Requirements for Admission and Graduation

Nondiscriminatory Policy. The University of Notre Dame admits students of any race, color, national and ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the school. It does not discriminate on the basis of sex, race, color, national and ethnic origin in administration of its educational policies, admissions policies, scholarship and loan programs, and athletic and other school-administered programs. The University of Notre Dame does not discriminate in admission, or access to, or treatment, or employment in its programs on the basis of handicap.

Application. An application for admission may be found in this bulletin or obtained from the Office of Admissions, Notre Dame Law School, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. A nonrefundable fee of $25 must accompany the application to defray some of the processing expenses.

Graduates of an approved college or university will be considered for admission. Beginning students are admitted only in the fall semester. All applicants for admission are required to take the Law School Admission Test prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J. The test is given several times a year at examination centers throughout the country, including the University of Notre Dame, and in some foreign countries. An application form and bulletin of information for the test can be obtained from Law School Admission Test, Law School Admission Services, Box 2000, Newtown, Pa. 18940.

The Notre Dame Law School requires an applicant to use the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS). Notre Dame's number for use of the service is 1841.
Standards for Admission. The most important consideration of the administration and faculty of the Notre Dame Law School is the selection of its students, for they are the sole reason the Law School exists. The goal of the Notre Dame Law School is to accept the best qualified students for the legal profession and that they be representative of all segments of American society. For the achievement of this goal the dean has appointed an Admissions Committee to assist in the selection process. The committee is made up of members of the faculty with extensive experience in law school teaching and as practicing attorneys.

The Admissions Committee members and the dean make their decisions based on the “whole person” concept. Academic ability reflected in LSAT scores and grade point averages is, of course, important. However, it is recognized that the real meaning of a GPA will vary with the quality of the institution attended, rigor of courses selected, and degree of grade inflation. The committee considers a broad array of elements in addition to the essential factors of LSAT and GPA, with a view toward assembling a diverse class while at the same time arriving at a fair appraisal of the individual applicant.

Applications should be filed as early as possible and not later than March 1. Those received after March 1 may be returned. A prospective student is urged to file application even before receiving scores from LSDAS on the Law School Admission Test. This will expedite consideration by the Admissions Committee once the applicant file is complete.

Admission Confirmation. Following acceptance, a nonrefundable confirmation deposit of $100, payable to the University of Notre Dame, must be received or postmarked by the date indicated in the notice of acceptance. Late deposits will be returned unless an extension for good cause has been granted by the Law School. If the prospective student registers, the deposit is applied toward tuition. The confirmation deposit is required whether or not the applicant applies for or receives scholarship assistance.

Applicants are admitted subject to, and while in attendance are bound by, all applicable academic, disciplinary and other regulations (and amendments thereto) of the Notre Dame Law School and the University of Notre Dame.

Admission to Advanced Standing. Applicants who have completed at least one year of work in another law school may be admitted to the second year of the professional curriculum with credit for not more than one year of such work if: 1) before undertaking the study of law the applicant had received a bachelor’s degree or an equivalent degree from a college or university of approved standing; 2) the work has been completed in an American Bar Association accredited school which is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, and 3) the work for which credit is sought has been of superior quality.

Applicants must submit an application, application fee, LSDAS report, two recommendation letters (preferably from undergraduate or law professors), plus official undergraduate and complete first-year law school transcripts.

The faculty reserves the privilege of prescribing further conditions for the granting of transfer credit and may, at its discretion, require examinations in subjects for which credit is sought.

Special Students. It is possible for special students to arrange programs at Notre Dame which fill their needs but do not lead to a law degree. Persons who may be interested in such a program are encouraged to write to the Office of Admissions for admission requirements.

Prelaw Studies. There is no particular course which must be taken by a prelaw student in order to qualify for admission. The qualities which are most important for a law student to possess are not the product of any one course or combination of courses. They can be developed in any course which is well-taught by an exacting teacher who requires the students to extend themselves. In the words of Chief Justice Stone, “The emphasis should be put on the intellectual discipline which the student derives from courses and (from) particular teachers, rather than (on) the selection of particular subjects without reference to the way in which they are taught.”
There are, though, two subjects which are recommended: a working knowledge of accounting is helpful in the study of law, thus the prelaw student is urged to take some basic accounting. Intensive work in English composition is especially useful in studying and practicing law. College years should be devoted to the cultivation of intellectual and cultural interests and to the formation of habits of inquiry, accuracy and intensive study. Any number of courses in various fields of learning will serve this purpose if they are well taught.

Requirements for Academic Standing. Ninety hours of approved courses and six semesters of residence are required for graduation from Notre Dame Law School with the juris doctor degree. The school does not conduct programs leading to further advanced law degrees.

For students entering in 1980 or earlier, grades are divided into five categories designated as A, B, C, D and F. No numerical value is assigned to these categories. Thus there is no "ranking" or "class standing" on a numerical basis.

Two failures totaling four or more credit hours in any one semester beyond the first semester of the first year, or three failures totaling six or more credit hours during the student's law school career subsequent to the first semester, render the student ineligible to continue. Failures in the first semester of the first year do not make the student ineligible to continue. However, a student who has failed six credit hours or more during the first semester of the first year will be ineligible to continue into the second year if failing three or more credit hours in the second semester of the first year.

Four grades of "D" or lower totaling eight or more credit hours in any one semester beyond the first semester of the first year, or ten grades of "D" or lower totaling 20 or more credit hours during the student's law school career subsequent to the first semester, render the student ineligible to continue.

Beginning with the class entering in 1981, grades are divided into letter categories with numerical values as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Numerical Value</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>4.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A-</td>
<td>3.75</td>

There is no calculation or publication of "ranking" or "class standing."

Individual grade point averages are calculated for use by the student and for internal use by the Law School in determining academic standing and honors. The minimal grade point average to maintain good academic standing is currently under review and will be presented to the entering class. A student failing to maintain the minimum grade point average for good standing will be ineligible to continue into the subsequent semester.

A term paper or term project may be required in lieu of, or in addition to, a final examination. A student who fails a required course must repeat it and obtain a passing grade. This requirement may be relaxed only by the faculty if good cause is shown. Failure of an elective course does not require the student to repeat it; however, it earns no credit toward graduation.

Examinations are not proctored. They are written on the honor system under which, by the very fact of entering the Notre Dame Law School, the student is bound neither to give nor receive aid in any examination. The honor system is administered by the Student Bar Association.

To insure impartiality written examinations are taken anonymously. Prior to each examination the student draws a number, and it is the student's number rather than name which appears on the examination paper. Examinations may be either written or typed but must be typed if a student's handwriting is illegible or so distinctive as to betray identity.

All examination papers and written assignments are read and graded personally by the members of the faculty.

To be eligible to take examinations a student must attend classes regularly and punctually, and classroom performance must be satisfactory.

Graduation. The degree of juris doctor is conferred upon successful completion of the prescribed program of instruction, which requires at least three academic years of law study. The degree will not be conferred upon any student who has been guilty of dishonest or dishonorable conduct.

Change of Regulations. The Law School and the University reserve the right to change at any time any regulation on admission to the school, continuance or graduation. An up-to-date copy of The Hoyne Code, which contains regulations affecting law students, is maintained in the Law Library.

Fees and Expenses

Tuition. The tuition for 1981-82 amounted to $5,220. Student fees in addition to tuition are minimal.

To assist in planning, it is roughly estimated that the cost of attendance at Notre Dame Law School for an academic year is $8,500 for the single student, considering tuition, room and board, books, fees and minimal incidentals. The estimated cost should be adjusted to the particular circumstances of the married student.

It should be noted that, due to increasing costs, annual increments in the above costs can be anticipated.

Miscellaneous Fees. Student activity fees amount to approximately $17 for all students. In addition, first-year students are charged a small fee for printed matter related to preparation for the study of law, and third-year students pay a diploma fee.

Late Registration Fee. If a student is permitted to register after the final date fixed for registration, a late-registration fee of $25 is charged.

Payment. Tuition and fees are payable to the University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. Off-campus housing is available at nominal cost.

A term paper or term project may be required in lieu of, or in addition to, a final examination. The Law School and the University reserve the right to change at any time any regulation on admission to the school, continuance or graduation. An up-to-date copy of The Hoyne Code, which contains regulations affecting law students, is maintained in the Law Library.

The tuition fee is not subject to refund unless the student 1) withdraws within 10 calendar days of the opening of classes, 2) is later obliged to withdraw because of protracted illness, or 3) withdraws involuntarily due to military service provided no credit is received for the classes from which the student is forced to withdraw.

Housing. Most students live off campus. There are a limited number of places for single men and women on campus. Students interested in living on campus should contact Director of Graduate Housing, 312 Administration Building, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. Off-campus housing is available at nominal cost.

Only a few of the available off-campus living accommodations are within convenient walking distance to the school. In most cases some form of transportation is necessary. But students who have cars are cooperative, and bus service is available between the University and downtown South Bend.

Unfurnished two-bedroom, all-electric apartments close to campus are available for married students in University Village. Preference is given to those with children.

Rental of these accommodations is handled by the rental agent, University Village, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. As the supply of residential units is limited, a prospective student who is interested in these accommodations is urged to act immediately upon acceptance for admission.

Physical Welfare. Every opportunity is afforded the student to engage in healthful exercise. The indoor program is centered in the Rockne Memorial and the Athletic and Convocation Center and is devoted to the physical welfare of the students and faculty of the University. The facilities include a swimming pool, courts for handball, racquetball and squash, rooms for boxing and wrestling, a large gymnasium for basketball, indoor tennis, badminton and other games, general apparatus rooms and rooms for corrective work. Facilities for outdoor play include an 18-hole golf course, tennis courts and large playing fields.

The Student Health Center is a modern three-story building. Physicians and psychotherapists are in attendance daily, and out-patient and bed care are available to all students. No charge is made for these services, except that students living off-campus pay a fee for bed care. A pharmacist is available to fill prescriptions. The University does not provide diagnostic tests or X-rays.

Financial Aid Program

Financial assistance to the qualified law student may consist of some combination of scholarship or grant, loan and work study.

Scholarships and Grants. Direct financial aid is funded by specific donors and the Notre Dame Law Association. Funds in this category are quite limited. Students applying for scholarship or grant assistance are urged to apply early by: 1) completing the Financial Aid Application Form provided at the end of this bulletin, and 2) completing and submitting the Graduate and Professional School Financial Aid Service (GAPSFAS) application form available at your school's Financial Aid office or on request from GAPSFAS, Box 2614, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Receipt of your GAPSFAS analysis by Notre Dame Law School is a prerequisite to awarding a grant.

The Law School provides a limited number of direct financial aid awards in two categories—scholarships which are awarded on the basis of demonstrated need and academic merit, and tuition grants which are awarded to disadvantaged students on the basis of need and demonstrated ability to perform satisfactorily in the Law School.

Scholarships and grants are renewable for the second and third years of law school subject to satisfactory progress in all areas of performance and conduct in the study of law at Notre Dame and fund availability. Awards are made with the expectation that the student's progress will merit its continuation in subsequent years.

A prospective student who expects to apply for a scholarship or tuition grant is advised to take the Law School Admission Test and file with GAPSFAS early in the annual cycle. The request for scholarship assistance should accompany the application for admission.

Among the scholarships available are the following:

- The Judge Roger Kiley Fellowship, created by a generous gift of Kenneth F. Montgomery, Esq., of Chicago, and augmented by alumni and other friends of the Law School, provides tuition and possibly a cash stipend. It is a highly prestigious fellowship of national renown and is reserved for exceptional academic leaders.

- The John J. Cavanaugh Law Scholarship, founded by Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., President of the University of Notre Dame, is in honor of his predecessor, Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C. This award is made to students who have demonstrated exceptional scholastic ability.

- The William J. Brennan Law Scholarship was established in 1956 in honor of Associate Justice Brennan of the Supreme Court of the United States. The scholarship is awarded annually by the University of Notre Dame.

- The Charles F. Williams Law Scholarship, established in 1954, is awarded under the will of Charles F. Williams of Cincinnati, Ohio, a member of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees from 1948 until his death in September, 1952.

- The Henry J. Boland Law Scholarship was established in 1952.

- The Rothschild-Barry Law Scholarship, established in 1966 by Edward I. Rothschild and Norman J. Barry '48L, is awarded to black students of exceptional promise. Mr. Barry is a member of the Law Advisory Council.

Satisfactory progress in all areas of performance and conduct in the study of law at Notre Dame and fund availability. Awards are made with the expectation that the student's progress will merit its continuation in subsequent years.

The ALCOA Scholarship, funded by the ALCOA Foundation, is awarded annually to two Notre Dame Law School students.

The Indiana Bar Foundation Scholarship is awarded annually to two third-year Notre Dame Law School students.

The Eli and Helen Shaheen Law Fellowship, founded in 1977, is awarded for scholarly excellence and commitment to social justice.

The Law Scholarship Fund is sustained by contributions from members of The Notre Dame Law Association and friends of the Law School. Grants are awarded from the fund to assist students with high potential in the field of law including economically depressed minorities.

Other special private scholarship opportunities include:

1. The Council on Legal Education Opportunity. This program, commonly called CLEO, is designed to aid economically and culturally disadvantaged students to prepare for law study. Information about the program is available from Council on Legal Education Opportunity, 818 18th Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

2. The University of New Mexico Special Scholarship Program in Law for American Indians. The purpose of this program is to encourage American Indians to attend law school and to assist them during their law school career. Information is available from the Director, Indian Scholarship Program, American Indian Law Center, University of New Mexico School of Law, 1117 Stanford NE, Albuquerque, N.M. 87131.

3. The Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund. Spanish-surnamed law students with demonstrated financial need may obtain funds for law school. Application deadline is the end of July. Write the Educational Programs Department, 28 Geary St., 6th Floor, San Francisco, Calif. 94108.

4. The Earl Warren Legal Training Program. This program seeks to increase the number of black lawyers in the United States by awarding scholarships, summer jobs and postgraduate internships. Contact the Earl Warren Legal Training Program, Suite 2030, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Loans. The loan program in which funds are most readily available is the Guaranteed Student Loan Program. The law student can borrow up to $5,000 per year, $25,000 total including undergraduate loans, at nine percent interest. The federal government will pay the interest while the borrower continues in school.

To borrow money under this program, contact the Notre Dame Financial Aid Office, Room 111, Administration Building, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.

Work Study. Although discouraged from working during the first year because of the academic rigor, the Notre Dame law student is encouraged to assist in defraying the cost of education through employment during the summer months and if necessary part-time work during the second and third years of study. There are some opportunities for on-campus employment and for assistantships in sponsored programs. Students interested in resident assistantships which cover room and board should contact the Office of the Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs by Jan. 1. Other employment is applied for through the University's Financial Aid Office. The Law School has several jobs available to second- and third-year students.
The Law Program
Student Activities

Notre Dame Lawyer. The Notre Dame Lawyer, founded in 1925, is published five times a year by students of the Law School. It affords qualified students an invaluable opportunity for training in precise analysis of legal problems and in clear and cogent presentation of legal issues. The Lawyer contains articles and lectures by eminent members of the legal profession and comments and notes by members of the staff. Entirely student edited, the Lawyer has maintained a tradition of excellence, and its membership has included some of the most able judges, professors and practitioners in the country.

Members of the staff are selected at the end of the first year of study on the basis of either academic standing or demonstrated writing ability.

The editor-in-chief of the Lawyer is elected by the staff from senior members on the basis of scholastic, literary and leadership achievements. The editor-in-chief, in turn, selects the other officers.

Moot Court. The Moot Court, conducted by students, coordinates intramural and intercollegiate competitions in its appellate, trial and international divisions.

Established in 1950, the Moot Court Appellate Division provides an opportunity for students to develop the art of appellate advocacy through a series of competitive arguments. First-year students are required to brief and argue at least one appellate case. Each year a number of students participate in the second-year program of the Notre Dame Moot Court. Students in South Bend participate in four rounds of appellate arguments throughout the year, while students in London participate in three rounds. These arguments are presented before courts whose membership includes faculty members, practicing attorneys and third-year students. After successful completion of the second-year rounds, the highest ranking participants are invited to represent the Law School in national competitions in their third year.

In recent years, Notre Dame has participated in both the National Moot Court Competition, sponsored by the Young Lawyers' Committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and the National Appellate Advocacy Competition, sponsored by the American Bar Association. In addition to sending third-year students to national competitions, the Notre Dame Law School sponsors an annual Moot Court Final Argument in which the most successful third-year students demonstrate their ability in oral argument before a Mock Supreme Court composed of eminent federal and state judges. In recent years they have included several associate justices of the United States Supreme Court, among them Thurgood Marshall, Potter Stewart, William Rehnquist and Harry Blackmun.

The Moot Court Trial Division is designed to provide indepth exposure to all aspects of courtroom trial practice for the student interested in litigation. It is available to third-year students who desire to more fully acquaint themselves with the subtleties of trial practice. Evidence and enrollment in the Trial Advocacy Comprehensive are prerequisites.

Students may participate in the Notre Dame Law School Trial Competition which consists of three rounds of trials. In each round a student participates as counsel in a trial and also serves as a witness in another trial. The student counsel's performance in the trial is evaluated and critiqued by sitting trial judges, practicing lawyers and faculty members. One member of the evaluation panel serves as trial judge and the rest serve as jurors.

From this trial competition students are selected to represent the Notre Dame Law School in the annual National Trial Competition. This competition is sponsored by the Young Lawyers' Association of the State Bar of Texas and the Texas Bar Foundation. It consists of regional rounds throughout the United States followed by the final rounds in Houston, Tex. The Notre Dame Law School Trial Team finished second in the nation in 1976 and advanced to the final round in 1981.

The Moot Court International Division allows students in their second and third years to prepare for and participate in the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition. Students are selected to represent the Law School in the national competition held each spring on the basis of interscholastic competition in the fall. The Jessup competition provides an opportunity for students to develop the art of oral advocacy in the increasingly important area of international law. In recent years the topics have included international pollution, nuclear proliferation, the rights of prisoners of war, and law of the sea.

Appellate Advocacy. Law students from Notre Dame, under the supervision of Notre Dame faculty members, brief and argue appeals for indigent clients in the United States Court of Appeals, Chicago.

Journal of Legislation. The Journal of Legislation, founded in 1974, is published by students of the Notre Dame Law School under the auspices of the Thomas and Alberta White Center for Law and Public Policy. Of national orientation and scope, the Journal contains articles by both public policy figures and distinguished members of the legal community. In addition, it publishes notes written by members of the staff. All material contained in the Journal concerns either existing and proposed legislation or public policy matters. Some articles and notes make specific suggestions regarding legislative change. The Journal is presently one of the country's leading legislative law reviews and is a member of the National Conference of Law Reviews.

Staff members are selected among students who have either written a note of "publishable quality" or completed a major research project approved by the Editorial Board. Journal work enables students to add to their legal education practical experience with legislation and the legislative process.

The Legislative Research Service, operated in conjunction with the Journal, makes available to legislative bodies and public service groups technical services, including the preparation and drafting of legislation. The services provided are designed to draw the student into the mainstream of current legal and political activity. These programs enable students at the Law School to advise and consult with various legislators, public interest groups and members of Congress.

Legal Aid and Defender Association. The Legal Aid and Defender Association is organized to combine clinical education of law students with needed legal services to the community. Students work on civil or criminal cases in all aspects from interview to trial preparation. They assist indigents in small claim matters or attend to the legal needs of special groups, such as migrant workers. Other student interns assist clients on matters ranging from landlord-tenant relationships to consumer fraud through legal aid clinics in northern Indiana and southern Michigan. The association also operates a prosecutor assistance program in which students perform all prosecutorial duties.

Another important function of the association is to provide assistance to prisoners who seek postconviction relief in state and federal courts and before parole and clemency boards.

The membership, selected primarily on the basis of interest in legal aid and defender work, consists of more than 60 students from the second- and third-year classes of the Law School.

Participation as an intern enables students to add an invaluable, practical dimension to their classroom education and affords students an opportunity to assist indigent clients in the community who are otherwise unable to obtain legal services.

Student Bar Association. The Student Bar Association is the student government at the Law School; all students are considered members. The association performs various tasks related to student life, both social and academic, such as orientation, appointment of students to various faculty committees, intramural athletics, and several social functions throughout the year. More generally, the officers attempt to represent student interests in any matter of sufficient importance. At the national level, the association is a member of the Law Student Division of the American Bar Association.

The president of the association is responsible for administering the honor code at the Law School.

Black American Law Students Association. Since 1972 Notre Dame's Black law students have been organized as a chapter of the Black American Law Students Association. The purposes of BALSA are to articulate and promote the professional needs and goals of Black American law students; to foster and encourage professional competence; to focus upon the relationship of the Black Attorney to the American legal structure; and to instill in the Black Attorney and law student a greater awareness of and commitment to the needs of the Black community.

LaRaza. Chicano students at the Law School are organized in a Notre Dame chapter of LaRaza National Legal Alliance.

Women's Law Caucus. Notre Dame women law students have formed a Notre Dame Women's Law Caucus to address the special concerns of women in law, sponsor panel discussions by women attorneys, gather legal resource materials, and work within the Law School to deal with issues of special interest and concern to the women law students.

International Law Society. Notre Dame's Society of International Law, organized in 1971, is an affiliate of the American Society of International Law Societies. The primary objective of the society is to contribute to the development of international law by fostering interest and understanding in the field. The society sponsors a speaker's forum at the Law School for distinguished visitors on international law and affairs which in recent years has included State Department officials and international lawyers. The society also aids students who seek careers as international lawyers. Members of the society participate in the annual Jessup International Moot Court competition.

Client Counseling Competition. Notre Dame participates with other national law schools in the national Client Counseling Competition sponsored by the Law Student Division of the American Bar Association. In this competition students are evaluated on their handling of a simulated interview with a client. The Notre Dame team is selected through an internal competition where a number of teams participate. Notre Dame hosted a regional round of this competition in 1973 and 1978, and the national finals from 1974 through 1977.

National Lawyers Guild. The Notre Dame chapter, organized in 1977, is an affiliate of the national organization of lawyers, law students and legal workers.

Phi Alpha Delta. Notre Dame has an organized chapter in Phi Alpha Delta, a professional fraternity which concerns itself with presenting law students varying opportunities to complement law school education.
Curriculum

First Year. The curriculum in the first year is required and demanding. It covers the fundamentals of the law using primarily the case method. Course and semester hours requirements are as follows:

Comprehensive courses and programs were added to the curriculum in 1977-78. A comprehensive program cuts across traditional course lines and covers broad areas of practice.

Ninety semester hours of course credit (including successful completion of all required courses) and six fall or spring semesters in residence are required for the juris doctor degree. A semester in residence is normally not less than 14 hours.

Course Descriptions

The following course descriptions give the number and title of each course. Lecture hours per week, laboratory and/or tutorial hours per week, and credits each semester are in parentheses. The instructor's name is also included.

501 and 502. Torts I and II (3-0-3) Rice/McCafferty
Addresses the legal rules which determine whether civil liability attaches to conduct resulting in harm to others.

503 and 504. Contracts I and II (3-0-3) Murphy
Presents a comprehensive study of the creation, transfer and termination of contract rights and duties.

505. Property I (Land Ownership) (3-0-3) Kellenberg/Kmiec Encompasses estates in land and conveyancing. It is concerned initially with common-law and statutory devices: 1) promoting the alienability of land, 2) regulating claims to property made by family members against one another, and 3) reconciling and adjusting claims of suppliers and consumers of land in the common types of land-financing relationships. The remainder of the course is devoted to a consideration of the chief methods of promoting the security of land titles: title recordation; title registration; title insurance, and adverse possession.

506. Property II (Land Use) (3-0-3) Kellenberg/West/Kmiec
Deals with private landlord-tenant law and with governmental control of land use through easements, covenants and conditions; allocation of water and air space; nuisance law; zoning and subdivision control, and eminent domain.

507 and 508. Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure (3-0-3) Dutile/Blakey
Deals with the basic principles of American criminal law such as definition of crime, defenses, proof and punishment, and the basic structure and operation of the American criminal justice system.

509. Procedure I (3-0-3) Rodes/Bauer/Thornton
Overviews the modern civil action: a brief history of the development of common law pleading and procedure; the forms of action; equity and equity procedure, and the Hilary, Field, and Judicare Act reforms. Modern pleading is then treated in detail using the federal rules as a base system with many comparisons to state code pleading. In particular, the course treats the complaint, answer, reply, motions, amended and supplemental pleadings. Joiner of claims and parties, counterclaims, cross-claims, and impleader and discovery are also covered.

510. Procedure II (3-0-3) Rodes/Bauer/Thornton
Uses the federal rules as a base system with many comparisons to state code systems. It covers in detail the pretrial conference, summary judgment, class actions, interpleader and intervention, jurisdiction and venue, basic choice of law, judgments and decrees, appellate review, res adjudicata, collateral estoppel, and the law of the case.

511. Introduction to Law and Ethics (1-0-1) Link
Studies and analyzes law as a profession and the duties and responsibilities of lawyers to society, clients and the profession. Develops an awareness and understanding by (prospective) lawyers of their relationship with and function in our legal system, and the consequent obligation of lawyers to maintain the highest standards of ethical and professional conduct.

512. Legal Research I (1-0-1) Faculty
Instructs and develops effective legal research skills through the use of various legal materials in the library, including LEXIS.
513. Legal Research II — Moot Court
(2-0-2) Faculty
Introduces the students to techniques of appellate advocacy. Each student is required to brief and argue one appellate moot court case.

514. Legal Writing
(2-0-2) Phelps
Develops efficient legal writing by having the students act as legal counsel on a particular factual situation. Each team of student lawyers drafts letters of representation, opinion letters, office memorandums, trial memorandums and appropriate pleadings. Student lawyers orally present a mock adversary hearing.

590. Notre Dame Law Review
(V-0-V) Rodes
Academic credit may be earned through research, writing and editorial work in conjunction with the preparation and publication of the Notre Dame Lawyer.

591. Legal Aid
(V-0-V) Booker/Soskin
Academic credit may be earned through research, clinical work and participation in seminars relating to legal aid.

592. Civil Rights Intern Program
(V-0-V) Kommers
Academic credit may be earned through research and writing in a broad range of constitutional and civil rights law issues.

593. Journal of Legislation
(V-0-V) Gilligan
Academic credit may be earned through research, writing and editorial work for the Journal of Legislation. Work includes preparation and publication of the Journal as well as participation in projects sponsored by the Legislative Research Service. Legislative research involves research, drafting of statutes or preparation of memoranda demonstrating significant intellectual and professional accomplishment in the legislative area.
594. Moot Court — Appellate (V-0-V) Dutile
Second- and third-year students can earn academic credit through participation in Moot Court arguments and as members of the National Moot Court Team. The student Executive Director of Moot Court earns credit for administration of the program.

595. Moot Court — International (V-0-V) Le/McCafferty
Students in their second and third years earn credit(s) through participation in the Philip C. Jessup International Moot Court competition as research fellows or as members of the International Moot Court Team.

596. Moot Court — Trial (V-0-V) Seckinger/Smithburn
Third-year students earn academic credit through participation in mock trials in the intra-law school competition and as members of the National Mock Trial Team.

597. Public Law (2-0-2) Gilligan
Limited to Thomas J. White scholars. Two credit hours are given each semester to students who successfully participate in the program of the Thomas J. White Center for Law, Government and Human Rights.

598. Center for Constitutional Studies Intern Program (V-0-V) Gaffney
Student interns may earn academic credit working with the professional staff of the center in legal research, analysis and drafting memoranda and other documents regarding the problems of independent higher education. Typical problems include governmental regulation of universities, academic freedom, student discipline, university governance, and legal liability of the university and participants therein.

601. Business Associations (4-0-4) Rodes/O'Hara Involves a study of the basic forms of business organizations and corporations including a study of the duties and liabilities of promoters, officers, directors and controlling shareholders, together with an introduction to financing a business and business combinations.

602. Commercial Transactions (3-0-3) Le
Involves a study of the rules of law applicable in the sale, distribution, payment for transactions in goods and security arrangements. The discussion is focused on Articles 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code.

603. Constitutional Law (4-0-4) Rice/Ripple
Surveys the important developments relating to judicial review of legislative action, problems of federalism, safeguards to life, liberty and property, and protection of civil and political rights.

604. Evidence (4-0-4) Booker/Seckinger/Thornton
Studies the legal principles governing the admissibility of controverted facts in judicial proceedings, with an introduction to the techniques by which evidence of such facts is presented. Traditional rules of evidence are compared with the Federal Rules of Evidence.

605. Federal Income Taxation (4-0-4) Link/Lashbrooke
Functionally introduces basic concepts of federal income taxation: gross income, exemptions, allowable deductions and credits, accounting methods, capital gains and losses and certain nonrecognition transactions.

606A. Jurisprudence (3-0-3) Rodes
Analyzes various schools of jurisprudential thought, including the scholastic theories of natural law, with particular reference to such contemporary problems as the moral obligation of law and the legitimacy of civil laws that sanction the taking of innocent lives.

606B. Jurisprudence (3-0-3) Murphy/Rice
Presents a study of jurisprudence in the light of divine revelation and Christian philosophy. A major effort is made to identify the ultimacies of various jurisprudential systems and legal philosophies (including legal positivism, Marxism and others) and to compare them to God as creator and sovereign. There is a strong historical and theological component, with extensive readings from the Bible and the works of Cicero, St. Thomas Aquinas, Alexis de Tocqueville, Hans Kelsen and R. J. Rushdoony, among others.

607. Trial Practice (2-0-2) Seckinger/Smithburn
Introduces trial advocacy. Provides a general practice exposure to the various facets of trial court litigation from the initial stage of client and witness interviewing through the trial and jury verdict. Each student is assigned to try a case to a jury before a federal or state judge. Students from the Law School and University and residents of the South Bend community serve as jurors, parties and witnesses. Classroom sessions in conjunction with the trials provide an introduction to and analysis of the various facets of the trial process. This is a general survey type course to provide an introduction and exposure to trial court litigation. For a more detailed study of the various facets of trial court litigation see Trial Advocacy Comprehensive (695) which is a two-semester course.
608. Property Settlement
(4-0-4) Mooney
Surveys the wealth transmission process consisting of an overview with emphasis on tax-motivated choices; inquires into the specifics of wills, trusts and future interests; discusses the principal estate and gift tax provision, and examines the estate administration process. Emphasis is on the use of traditional concepts in client representation.

609. Federal Court Jurisdiction
(3-0-3) Booker/Thornton
Covers jurisdiction of the federal courts; constitutional and statutory limits on jurisdiction; problems of federalism; appellate and collateral review.

610. Administrative Law
(3-0-3) Dobranski
Studies the powers and procedures of administrative agencies including the operation of the Administrative Procedure Act, functioning of the administrative process at the federal level, and the methods and extent of judicial control over agency action.

611. Labor Law
(3-0-3) Dobranski
Studies the common law and federal statutes applicable to concerted labor activity and collective bargaining.

612. Banking and Commercial Paper
(3-0-3) Le
Studies the bank-depositor relationship and the uses of drafts and notes in the business world. The course involves an intensive study of Articles 3 and 4 of the Uniform Commercial Code.

613. Estate Planning
(3-0-3) Mooney
Explores federal estate and gift taxation through simulation of law office practice to demonstrate the interrelationship of estate, gift and income taxation on any planning decision. Examines the most commonly used wealth transmission devices to emphasize the intellectual nature of client representation in the property management area.

614. Entity Income Taxation
(3-0-3) Lashbrooke
Analyzes in-depth basic tax questions involved when operations are conducted by corporations or other business entities: organization, dividends, reorganizations, reorganizations, liquidations and subchapter S corporations, and other transactions.

615. Directed Readings
(V-0-V) Faculty
Involves independent research under the supervision of one faculty member.

616. Family Law
(3-0-3) Crutchfield
Concerns problems in the following areas: the unmarried mother, “heart balm” legislation, annulment, common-law marriage, divorce, alimony and custody of children, separation agreements, property settlements, adoption, juvenile delinquency, old-age assistance and aid to dependent children, the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, and artificial insemination. Fosters an awareness, through the use of some nonlegal materials, of the need for interprofessional cooperation in the solution of these problems.

617. Advanced Jurisprudence
(3-0-3) Chroust
Studies and discusses contemporary American jurisprudence, beginning with the writings of Roscoe Pound and his theory of sociological jurisprudence, and including analysis of such scholars as Jerome Frank, Lon Fuller, Karl Llewellyn and others.

618. Conflict of Laws
(3-0-3) Ripple
Studies modern methodologies, examines traditional choices of law theory and practice, and inquires into the constitutional limitations on the choice of law process.

624. Military Law
(2-0-2) McLean
Surveys military law and procedures including an overview of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, courts-martial and appeals procedure, military personnel legislation and regulations, military legal services, defense contracting, the Law of War, aviation and admiralty law in the military context, and current developments in military law.

625. Antitrust Law
(3-0-3) O’Hara
Surveys the principles and policies developed by the courts in applying the major federal antitrust laws, including the Sherman, Clayton and Federal Trade Commission Acts.

626. Securities Regulation
(3-0-3) O’Hara
Studies the federal securities laws governing the distribution of and trading in securities, as well as the emerging federal corporate law.

627. Business Planning
(3-0-3) O’Hara/Lashbrooke
Involves advanced work in the law of business associations and its interplay with the law of securities regulation and federal taxation. Such topics as the formation and financing of business organizations, restructuring of ownership interests, merger, enterprise division and dissolution will be discussed.

628. Organized Crime Control
(3-0-3) Blakey
Considers the legal, social, economic and historical issues involved in understanding and bringing criminal and other sanctions to bear on organized criminal behavior, including gambling, narcotics, theft and fencing and public corruption. Examination of the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-452) Text: Task Force Report: Organized Crimes, President’s Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice (1967) plus extensive handouts.

629. Sports Law
(2-0-2) Rice/Cleveland
Surveys sports and entertainment law, including canons of ethics, contracts, tax alternatives and areas of current and potential litigations.

630. Admiralty Law
(2-0-2) McLean
Inquires into jurisdiction and substantive principles in the area of maritime activities; investigates existing and developing law of the sea.

631. Energy/Environmental Law
(3-0-3) Kellenberg
Presents case law, regulations and administrative proceedings relating to: the National Environmental Policy Act (42 U.S.C. § § 4331-4335); Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. § § 1251 et seq.); Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. § § 4357 et seq.); Noise Control Act (42 U.S.C. § § 4901 et seq.), and a model state environmental protection statute.

633. International Law
(3-0-3) Le/McCafferty
Surveys the leading principles of public international law as applied in decisions of domestic and international courts; the sources, development and authority of international law; the making, interpretation and enforcement of treaties; problems involving territory and nationality; and the organization and jurisdiction of international tribunals.

634. Transnational Legal Transactions
(3-0-3) Le/McCafferty
Examines a number of legal issues connected with business transactions spanning national boundaries. After a brief survey of the law of private international transactions, the course focuses on the interplay between overlapping national rules, international and national rules and the various methods of conflict-solving. The course also focuses on some aspects of world trade and investment such as forms of investment (subsidiary, branch, joint ventures, etc.), the General Agreement of Tariff and Trade, the International Monetary Fund and the European Economic Community.

638. Advanced Torts and Contracts
(3-0-3) Booker/Griffin
Studies the problems and policies dealing with the liabilities of manufacturers, distributors and retailers for defective products. Treats retributionary remedies, both legal (quasi-contract) and equitable (constructive trust, equitable lien and subrogation).

639. Public Welfare
(3-0-3) Rodes
Examines statutory systems of social welfare: social security; state and federal welfare legislation; workmen's and unemployment compensation; poor relief and related regulatory areas.

640. Trade Regulation
(3-0-3) Bauer
Surveys several bodies of law, other than antitrust, proscribing forms of unfair competition. Focus is on trademark (Lanham Act); copyright; Federal Trade Commission consumer protection; price discrimination (Robinson-Patman Act); and regulated industries including transportation, utilities and banking.

641. Real Estate Transactions
(3-0-3) Boynton
Studies mortgages and real property liens; the purchase and sale of real estate; title security.
642. Land Use Planning
(3-0-3) Kellenberg/Kmiec/West
Analyzes and critically reviews the use and misuse of land resources by private parties and governmental policies, and methods for regulating and controlling land use and development including local zoning ordinances, master plans, subdivision controls, eminent domain and taxation.

643. Comparative Law
(3-0-3) Le
Comparatively studies the common law system and the civil law system.

645. Patents, Know-how and Licensing
(2-0-2) Faculty
Studies: statutory (35 U.S.C.) subject matter of and conditions for a patent; infringement of claims; protection of know-how; property and contract interests in patents and know-how, particularly licensing; limitations on property and contract rights in patents or know-how imposed by the antitrust laws and the misuse doctrine; and litigation procedures, remedies, defenses and judgments. Practical aspects (forms, agreements) are introduced as relevant. No prerequisites, scientific or legal.

647. Street Law
(3-0-3) Crutchfield
Presents practical legal issues in the areas of criminal, juvenile, family, housing, consumer, individual rights and environmental law. Law students participate in a weekly seminar designed to prepare them for their respective teaching assignments in local high schools.

648. Religious Theories of Professional Responsibility
(2-0-2) Faculty
Examines and discusses religious faith, scripture and devotional and theological literature to determine whether a lawyer can lead a good life.

650. Legislation
(2-0-2) Faculty
Consists of the examination of the lawyer's role in the legislative process, including the interpretation and application of statutes through case analysis. Additional emphasis will be placed on the actual practice of bill drafting, committee testimony preparation and subsequent administrative rules and regulations.

659. Constitutional Litigation
(3-0-3) Ripple
Gives the student a theoretical and practical understanding of the process of constitutional litigation from the trial level through final adjudication in the Supreme Court. Emphasis is placed on recent constitutional developments, especially in the area of civil liberties.
Prerequisite: Constitutional Law.

660. International Legal Protection of Human Rights
(2-0-2) Kommers
Examines the functions, powers and jurisdiction of the main international organs established to protect human rights, and an assessment of the capacity of these organs to accomplish their tasks, together with an analysis of selected cases decided by international tribunals and an introduction to litigation before these tribunals. The course also includes an assessment of U.S. policies respecting human rights abroad.

662. Civil and Political Rights
(3-0-3) Kommers
Examines judicial decisions in selected areas of civil and political rights, an analysis of congressional civil rights policies, and a critical review of the problems of administrative enforcement of rights policies.

663. Law and Economics
(3-0-3) Faculty
Provides students with a general understanding of the way in which legal and economic processes interact, to develop an appreciation of how modern legal and economic institutions have evolved and to familiarize the students with the theoretical economic principles which can be utilized to analyze legal processes and institutions.

664. Church and State in the United States
(3-0-3) Gaffney
Historical focus: the experience of the church-state relationship in Massachusetts, New York and Virginia, and the notion of an establishment of religion in the English experience. Legal focus: self-acknowledged limits on the role of secular courts in resolving disputes arising within religious groups; the “establishment clause” and public funding of activities associated with religious groups, especially education; constitutional standards for government-sponsored religious activities; the “belief-action” distinction and the “least restrictive alternative” standard in free exercise cases; religiously based claims to conscientious objection to military service and other forms of governmental compulsion; secular humanism as the functional equivalent of “religion” in First Amendment cases. Theological focus: teaching religious groups the right to religious freedom; the role of religion in a pluralistic society. Public policy focus: application of the above themes to current issues in public policy (e.g., tuition tax credits and educational vouchers). The basic course on constitutional law would be helpful for participation in this course, but is not a prerequisite.

670. Tax Planning
(2-0-2) Faculty

695A and 695B (Fall) and
695C (Spring). *Trial Advocacy Comprehensive
(3-2-3) (3-0-3) Seckinger/
Smithburn/Singer

An in-depth study and analysis of trial advocacy techniques. The comprehensive is meant to develop a familiarity with the techniques by which evidence of controverted facts is presented in litigation before judicial tribunals. This course is designed for those students whose primary career interest is in litigation.
This is a two-semester course with three credit hours in the fall semester and three credit hours in the spring semester. The fall semester involves workshop sessions and learning by doing through simulated courtroom exercises. The various facets of the trial process are studied through student participation, observation and demonstration by practicing lawyers. In the spring semester the various trial advocacy skills are put together in a full trial which pro-ceds from the initial stage of client and witness interviewing through a jury trial and verdict. Classroom sessions in conjunction with the trials provide an examination and analysis of interviewing, negotiation, pleading, motions, witness preparation, trial briefs and jury instructions, evidence presentation and trial advocacy skills, and issues of professional responsibility.

696. *Criminal Law Comprehensive
(6-V-8) Smithburn

Integrates advanced criminal law and practice as follows:
696A. *Fall Semester

investigation, by whom and for whom, a comparative analysis; discovery problems, practicum with prosecutor; mental abnormality, competency, procedures, the insanity defense, practicum, expert witness prep interview; methods of implementing constitutional requirements in criminal procedure, practicum, motion to suppress;
sentencing problems, practicum, argument for disposition.

696B. Spring Semester (3-V-3)
Postconviction remedies and problems, mandamus, appeal, habeas corpus and coram nobis, practicum, petition for writ; prisoner's rights, substantive and procedural, field trip to holding jail and prison as practicum; administration of juvenile justice, with practicum of argument in disposition of juvenile offender; jurisprudence and ethics in criminal practice, interaction of law and religion, contemporary problem areas of criminal law; ethical duties of practitioner in the field, higher goals and continuing problems.

696C. Spring Semester (0-V-2)
Appearance in actual cases in criminal cases in courts in this area, under supervision of responsible attorney and the faculty members teaching this course. Preparation and presentation of at least three hearings, such as detention, acceptance of plea of guilty, hearing on motion to suppress, sentencing, etc. Student will be required to do interviewing and research as well as appearance. Prerequisites: Law 696A and Evidence.

697. Business Law Comprehensive (4-2-6) Faculty/Faccenda
An integrated treatment of advanced corporation law, corporate finance, securities regulation and tax planning, along with examinations and practice in the techniques of counseling and negotiation in a business context.

698. General Practice Comprehensive (6-0-6) Faculty
This comprehensive course for third-year students is divided into three components: 1) examination and experience in the skills of law-office practice (interviewing, research, counseling, negotiation, planning, drafting and problem solving); 2) practice experience in the non-adversarial substantive areas of the general practice of law (real estate transactions, family law, estate planning, landlord-tenant relations, etc.), and 3) study of the administration of law offices, from library and machinery to the development of organizations of people who are competent and able to grow in their work. The last component involves a 20-hour research project in a general practice law office. The comprehensive course involves regular written assignments, substantial amounts of role playing, seminar discussions and critique, and work with lawyer and non-lawyer guests. Limited enrollment; all required courses are prerequisites.

He is presently assistant director of the Center for Civil and Human Rights.

JAMES H. SECKINGER is a Colorado lawyer with degrees from St. John's (Minn.), Vanderbilt and the Notre Dame Law School where he was articles editor of the Notre Dame Lawyer. He was a law clerk in the U.S. District Court in Denver, a Reginald Heber Smith Fellow in the Denver legal services program, and a chief deputy in the Denver district attorney's office before joining the faculty. He is director and a faculty member of the National Institute for Trial Advocacy. He is coauthor of Problems and Cases in Trial Advocacy, which is widely used in both law school and continuing legal education trial advocacy courses. He was on leave for the 1978-79 academic year as a visiting professor at the Cornell Law School.

THOMAS H. SINGER is a partner in the South Bend law firm of Lyshohr and Singer. He received his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1959. He is active in many local, state and national trial lawyers' activities and serves on the faculty of the National Institute for Trial Advocacy. He is a Fellow of the International Society of Barristers. He has assisted Notre Dame Law School in the areas of trial practice and trial advocacy since 1975.

J. ERIC SMITHBURN is a graduate of Indiana University and Indiana University School of Law. A practicing Indiana attorney, he served as Marshall County Court Judge in Plymouth, Ind., for three years and taught part time at Notre Dame for one year before joining the faculty full time in 1978. He is a member of the faculties of the Indiana Judicial Center, National Judicial College and National College of Juvenile Justice located at the University of Nevada-Reno. He is a member of the Juvenile Justice Division of the Indiana Judicial Study Commission.

RONALD M. SOSKIN, Director of Clinical Programs in the Law School, joined the faculty in 1981 while serving as Executive Director of the National Center for Law and the Handicapped. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1973. As a New York and Indiana attorney, his experiences include working from 1973-76 on the staff of the New York Mental Health Information Service, an agency providing legal advocacy and representation of mentally ill and mentally retarded persons, and working on the staff of the National Center for Law and the Handicapped, prior to assuming its directorship. He has also taught in the psychology departments of both Notre Dame and Indiana University at South Bend.
PETER W. THORNTON came from New York to join the Notre Dame faculty in 1968 after teaching 22 years at his alma mater, Brooklyn Law School. He left for Florida in 1973 to become the founding dean of Nova University Law Center. He rejoined the Notre Dame faculty in 1976 and spent two years as director of the Notre Dame London Law Centre before returning to the home campus.

SUSAN E. WATKINS, staff librarian, received her J.D. from Dickinson School of Law and is a member of the Pennsylvania Bar. After working in the Contract Administration Office of International Business Machines-Federal Systems Division, she received a master's degree in librarianship from the State University of New York.

WILLIAM A. WEST, born in Scotland, graduated from King's College, London University, with LL.B. and LL.M. degrees, and is Barrister of Gray's Inn. Writer of many books and articles, he is the first professor of law and founder of law degrees at Reading University. He taught at the Notre Dame summer program and year-round program in London since 1973, then joined the regular faculty in 1979. His special subjects include real property, land use planning and torts affecting land.

Endowed Chairs

The donor of an endowed chair at Notre Dame becomes part of a teaching tradition nurtured carefully through the years. But while academic chairs are in a very real sense built on the past, their main thrust is forward and their implicit goal is to influence the future. The holder of an endowed professorship will touch the lives of thousands of students in his tenure, students of uncommon talent who have come to a University which is committed to finding a place for value in a world of fact. And because those appointed to endowed professorships will have exhibited the highest level of scholarly achievement, their influence on their colleagues, and their contribution to the ongoing dialogue of their disciplines should be noteworthy. Apart from skill at teaching and resourcefulness in research and scholarship, the University also looks for another quality in its named professorships—a sense of pro bono publico, of the common good. Notre Dame is particularly interested in men and women who can turn their scholarship to the service of mankind.

The Thomas J. White Chair in Law

The Thomas J. White Chair in Law was endowed by a 1937 Notre Dame graduate and his wife. Thomas White graduated from St. Louis University's Law School in 1940 then practiced law and headed a plastics manufacturing firm. In 1946 White organized a development company which has built numerous shopping centers, industrial parks and office buildings in the St. Louis area. A member of the Law School's Advisory Council, White has also received the Papal honor of the Knight of the Holy Sepulchre in recognition of his support for Catholic charitable causes in the St. Louis area.

Edward J. Murphy was the first Thomas J. White Professor in Law. John J. Gilligan is the current White Professor.

The John N. Matthews Chair in Law

The John N. Matthews Chair in Law was established by Notre Dame Trustee Donald J. Matthews, president of Johnson and Higgins of Texas, Inc., of Dallas, Texas. Mr. Matthews endowed the chair in memory of his father, Captain John N. Matthews, who died in 1970.

Captain Matthews was a shipmaster who in 1929 founded his own marine cargo firm in New York City, the Universal Terminal and Stevedoring Corporation, from which he retired in 1957. A leading competitor in yacht racing, he captained the Vim in the America's Cup selection trials in 1958, while his son, a 1955 Notre Dame graduate, sailed on the Weatherly when it successfully defended America's Cup in 1962.

The younger Mr. Matthews was elected to the Notre Dame Board of Trustees in 1971.

Professor Edward J. Murphy is the John N. Matthews Professor of Law.

The Concannon Program of International Law

The Concannon Program of International Law is endowed by a bequest of Dagmar Concannon in the name of her late husband, Matthias. The Program includes current legal education endeavors in the Notre Dame London Law Centre as well as research and scholarship in international law done on the campus of Notre Dame Law School. A distinguished scholar will be named to the newly established Concannon visiting professorship in international law. The Concannon gift adds new strength to Notre Dame's international focus in the education of lawyers.

The Institute of Public Policy

A newly organized Institute of Public Policy has been established within the Law School, incorporating four Centers of study and research which have been operating for some years. The new Institute serves essentially as a coordinating mechanism for the design and direction of the programs of its constituent centers.

The Center for Civil and Human Rights

The Center for Civil and Human Rights, founded in 1973 under a grant from the Ford Foundation, is an institute for advanced research and scholarship in the fields of civil and human rights. In addition to its publishing activities, the center serves as a resource for students and senior scholars engaged in civil or human rights research. The center also holds seminars and conferences, sponsors the Law School's Annual Civil Rights Lectures, and maintains a major library and archive in American civil and international human rights.

The center's archive contains all the publications of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, including all the personal papers collected by Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., during his 15 years as a member and chairman of the commission. Other archival collections include the issued materials of several international human rights organizations, the records of President Ford's Clemency Board, together with the field data generated by the center's Vietnam Offender Project, the trial and appellate court briefs of the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice, documents on American Indian law, and a growing library of original and secondary materials on refugees around the world.

The center is served by a national advisory council and a University advisory committee.

The Thomas and Alberta White Center for Law, Government and Human Rights

Through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. White of St. Louis, Mo., the Law School has established the Thomas and Alberta White Center for Law, Government and Human Rights to provide a focal point for public law research and add a new dimension to the Law School experience for students with both the capacity and the willingness to dedicate a substantial portion of their professional life to public service.

The center's program has several facets. A relatively small group of students who have demonstrated an interest in problems of public policy and who demonstrate exceptional promise for professional leadership in such matters are provided the opportunity of working on the various programs of the center. Of that number eight or ten are chosen in their third year as Thomas J. White Scholars. In addition to the regular curriculum, these Scholars are involved in the design and direction of the program for the White Center, including certain research projects in fields of public policy, the arrangement of a lecture series on public issues, and in some instances, internships with government agencies.

In addition, a member of the American Judiciary or an internationally known foreign judge is invited to join the Notre Dame legal community for a few days as a "distinguished judicial visitor." In that capacity, he lectures to the entire law school community, participates in classroom sessions, and spends time in consultation with the faculty and the White Scholars.

The White Center also sponsors the publication of a student-directed and -edited scholarship journal in the field of public law.

The Center for Constitutional Studies

The focus of the Center for Constitutional Studies is on the myriad of complex and intriguing legal and public policy issues faced by independent institutions of higher education, including the special problems of church-related colleges and universities. In addition to legal research and analysis, the center provides a forum to produce works for publication and will take part in selected litigation and advocacy in administrative proceedings and legislative deliberations at federal and state levels.

The structure of the center includes a national advisory board to set policy, task forces brought together to share expertise in selected areas, and a staff at Notre Dame to carry out research and other scholarly support for the publication and advocacy activities of the center.

Student clerkships are available for a limited number of Notre Dame Law School students.

The National Center for Law and the Handicapped

The National Center for Law and the Handicapped (NCLH) is a legal advocacy, education and research center which, since 1972, has served as a legal resource to the nation in the area of rights for mentally and physically handicapped citizens. It has been sponsored by the Family Law Section of the American Bar Association, the University of Notre Dame Law School and the Council for the Retarded of St. Joseph County, Ind., and has now become integrated into and operated exclusively by the University of Notre Dame as one of the Law School's several significant national legal centers.

NCLH provides diverse assistance to parents and professionals, organizations, private and legal services attorneys, state protection and advocacy systems, governmental entities, and handicapped persons. This assistance takes numerous forms: information and referral services; education through speeches and training workshops; consultation, advice and strategy on legal cases; brief writing; and participation in cases as amicus curiae or friend of the court. NCLH has filed briefs and participated in cases in numerous state courts, at federal district and appellate courts, and in the U.S. Supreme Court on several occasions. NCLH focuses upon such areas as employment, education, accessibility and right to treatment and community services.

The research products and expertise of NCLH are disseminated nationwide through articles, monographs, research papers and briefs. However, the prime vehicle of the center is its bimonthly journal, Amicus, recognized as one of the leading publications in the field. Amicus brings together the expertise of its staff and leading individuals throughout the nation in a combined effort to provide important thought and research to attorneys and laypersons.

An additional important component of NCLH is its legal internship program with Notre Dame Law School. Through this program, students are trained in handicapped law and, in turn, make significant contributions to the advancement of advocacy in this field.

The National Institute for Trial Advocacy

The National Institute for Trial Advocacy (NITA) was created in 1970 for the purpose of contributing to the development of a competent, effective and professionally responsible trial bar to serve the needs of all persons throughout the United States. To achieve that purpose, the institute has three corollary objectives: first, to train lawyers in the skills of trial advocacy; second, to develop methods and techniques for teaching and learning the skills of an effective and professional trial advocate; and third, to encourage the teaching and learning of trial advocacy skills both in law schools and in continuing legal education programs throughout the U.S.

NITA has sought to attain these objectives through the conduct of intensive trial advocacy training programs for practicing lawyers and law school teachers at various locations around the country. To date, NITA has provided trial advocacy training for about 2,500 lawyers at its national and regional programs.

Many law school professors have attended NITA and returned to their schools with the benefit of training and experience in both the skills of trial advocacy and the teaching of those skills. Consequently, courses modeled on the NITA Program now exist at many of the nation's law schools.

NITA is currently headquartered at Notre Dame Law School. It operates under the direction of Prof. James H. Seckinger of the Notre Dame Law School faculty. Policy guidance is provided by a board of trustees with membership of national reputation and experience in the field of trial advocacy.

The Law Advisory Council

The University of Notre Dame has established a Law Advisory Council to advance the school's development in its broadest context.

The Law School's advisors understand the philosophy, plans and objectives of the Notre Dame Law School. As members of Notre Dame's official family, they share this understanding with others by serving as representatives of the University in cities where they reside and in their respective business and professional communities. In addition to acquiring and transmitting to others this understanding-in-depth of the school, advisory council members, by their attendance and active participation in meetings, assist with the identification of problems and offer solutions as well as help chart the school's growth. They also help generate the financial resources which such growth demands.

The Advisory Council does not determine academic policy, but drawing on the knowledge and experience of the membership, it advises the dean on matters in which he seeks their counsel. Council members also have access to the President of the University, communicating with him at meetings or informally on matters concerning the Law School and its development.

American Journal of Jurisprudence

The Natural Law Institute, a function of the Notre Dame Law School, was organized in 1947. Five annual convocations were held under its auspices, the last one in December, 1951. In 1956, the Institute founded the Natural Law Forum, the only journal of its kind in the English language. The name of the journal was changed in 1970 to The American Journal of Jurisprudence.

It is the purpose of the Journal to promote a serious and scholarly investigation of natural law in all its aspects, and it seeks to encourage the widest search for universal standards relevant to the solution of contemporary problems.

The Journal's editorial board includes the following distinguished scholars:

Notre Dame Law Association

Notre Dame Law Association, with membership of about 4,500, represents lawyers from all over the world—Notre Dame graduates as well as other friends. It is a principal source of scholarship funds for students, and is an indispensable resource in recruiting students and placing graduates in the profession.

Francis M. Gregory, '66L, is president of the association. The association's business is conducted by a board of directors.
Honor Code

Probably the first question that comes to mind when someone ponders the "Honor Code" is framed in terms of "What is it?" The essence of the Honor Code, at least at Notre Dame, is delineated better through answering the question, "Why the Honor Code?"

Why is the honor code system something different at this institution? Initially, one must realize the uniqueness that is the Notre Dame Law School and the spirit that pervades its entire environment. The justification for "The Honor Code" at most institutions of legal education is to prepare the would-be attorney for the "real" world of legal and ethical problems. This world is guided and governed by a set of judicial ethics which tell the attorney how to react in certain sensitive situations. Most honor codes are based on this system. While this is well and good, at the same time it is unnecessary at Notre Dame where there is a more meaningful justification.

Notre Dame Law School is more than just an institution organized to produce qualified lawyers who will someday face their share of ethical enigmas. Notre Dame is a group of people who not only learn together but also live, study and laugh together. It is an amalgamation of some 500 (including faculty, staff and students) individuals who are striving to work themselves into a single unit with a common goal. We like to speak of it in terms of a community—people cooperating.

This being the nature of the institution, its preservation and perseverance demand each member to trust and depend on all other pieces of the puzzle. Without this faith in each other, the system and community is unworkable and shallow. Notre Dame is once again a run-of-the-mill law school needing a practical justification for the existence of an honor code. Thus, the Honor Code is central to the community: the means through which each individual contributes to the continuation of the trust and interdependence of the whole.

Therefore, the answer to the "why" question provides us with an answer to the "what" question. Rather than being a set of standards drawn up in statutory form (with the attending implication of rigidity and enforcement), the Honor Code is a system of values within each member of the community which permits interaction among the others in trust and respect. This is the essence of the Honor Code; this is the essence of Notre Dame.
