Notre Dame's hopes at the play-offs are all but shattered. We're back from fun times with friends and family to sit in the factory of sadness that is the law school. Exams are upon us. It's sad times. This is probably what Hagrid felt like in his brief Azkaban stint. Hang in there. Here's a gif of Honey BooBoo.

FROM PETER

Please mark your calendars: On Thursday, December 3, at 12:30 PM in the Courtroom, Professor Rick Garnett will present "Exam-Taking Tips and Strategies." Professor Garnett has been with the Law School since 1999 and has prepared (and graded) many exams over the years, so he's sure to have some good insights. We hope you are able to join us.

Call for Submissions: Cambridge Student Law Journal

I am writing to you on behalf of the Cambridge Student Law Journal. I was hoping you might be able to circulate the following to any prospective contributors.

The Cambridge Student Law Journal is a blind reviewed, student-run legal journal run in association with Cambridge University Law Society and Slaughter & May. The Journal will be publishing its inaugural volume in the first half of 2016. Our aim is to publish articles on a variety of legal topics written by students at all levels as well as early career researchers. We hope that the Journal will contribute to legal scholarship and stimulate academic debate.

The Editorial Board welcomes long articles, short articles, and case comments on all aspects of law, legal history, and legal theory. Long articles should not exceed 12,000 words and case comments should ideally be between 1,000 words and 5,000 words. We are particularly interested in articles from our international colleagues.

Articles are to be submitted for consideration to journal@camlawsoc.com on or before Friday, January 15th, 2016.

Kind regards

Charlie WS Griggs

From London

Letter from London

Burnish your CV, enhance your life, get fit, and be a better lawyer and global citizen. How? Follow in the footsteps of generations of "Londoners" who have made a year on Notre Dame's London campus part of their legal education.

Fall Only: The Hague International Institutions Tour with visits to the ICC, ICJ, ICTY & OPCW.*

Fall & Spring Internships: with US law firms, Barristers Chambers, Solicitors firms, NGOs & Dept of Justice at the US Embassy (Spring Only)

Courses: International and core required courses

Satellite Technology: Yes, it's true. Thanks to the wonders of satellite technology, you won't miss a game and, frankly, you haven't really had the full experience unless you've watched it in an English pub, in Fighting Irish regalia, and been invited to play snooker afterwards with the Queen's Guards in their barracks opposite Buckingham Palace.

How to Apply: Google it.

LAST Riddle of the Week of the Semester:

This is the annual ugly sweater riddle of the week!!!!!!

FRIDAY:

Nicholas Cage Gif of the Week:

We need a new ridiculous actor next semester's gif of the week to replace Nick Cage. If you have ideas, let me know.

SUNDAY:

Where: St. Thomas More (Law School) Chapel

Cute Pet Contest:

Thanks to everybody who responded in droves to the weekly cute puppy contest. Remember, send me your cute puppy pictures each week to be submitted.

This week's winner is Claudia Tran's hamster Ham-bone because people need one more thing to complain about in the MMU. I don't know if his (her?) name is Ham-Bone, Claudia didn't include it and since I'm not getting a grade in MMU writing my accuracy isn't my biggest concern.

Sports

Anthony Bui

It's been a great season. Despite what happened this past Saturday, team 127 exceeded all our expectations even with all the injuries. As Brian Kelly stated in the press conference, there are no moral victories but this was and is still one of the best damn teams in the country. I'm excited to see what kind of team will play next year especially with so many depth players getting invaluable experience this season. Hopefully Notre Dame gets to play a major program in one of the New Year's 6 bowls. Ideally, it would be the Fiesta Bowl versus Michigan. But we'll see. Thanks again to Brian Israel for letting me write this section during the season. Goodbye (relevant) football. Hello finals. Go Irish!

Addendum: Brian Kelly, this isn't Madden NFL.

Scooter News

Snow-tires are being shipped so I can scoot safely through the snow to finals.
