Welcome to the most recent addition of the MMU. Notre Dame enters another academic week undefeated. Go outside. Listen to the birds chirp, see the children frolic, and enjoy the day. Because the second Notre Dame loses a game; this becomes the gloomiest place on Earth. Also, consider this notice: you all have a week to start handcrafting your overly defensive, yet passive aggressive Facebook posts to be put up in the event of a loss. Talking about how proud you are of your team and how "nobody saw them getting this far" are both fan favorites.

Can You Guess Who This Is:

In this weekly segment, you have to guess who this is. First person to correctly email me the response gets this photo in an 8 x 10 frame.

A Day in the Life: One Student Describes His Interview Experience

Each week a different student will provide commentary regarding his/her law school experience.
Zach Milvo

What happened in my head:

[Why do I want to be in Cleveland? I don't want to be in Cleveland, no one does. I once saw a dog run into traffic on purpose just so he could leave Cleveland. But I need a job, okay? Cleveland, Detroit, Mogadishu, I don't care.]

What really happened:

"Cleveland is a great city and my uncle visited there once. Go Browns."

What Happened in my head:

[Is my interviewer touching my leg? Did she just wink at me? Is this going to happen?]

What really happened:

I was rubbing my leg against the interview table.

What I thought happened:

[Biggest weakness? Well, I was at The Backer at 3pm on a Tuesday this week, so you can be the judge.]

What really happened:

“I’m too big of a perfectionist.”

What happened in my head:

[Why do I want to join your firm? Because somehow I was preselected for this interview even though I’m below the class average and I’m optimistic in my chance of tricking the two of you into thinking I would be a good employee.]

What really happened:

Whatever.

Note from the author: Apologies to everyone for not producing an official MMU Football Game Recap last week. Special thanks to KC-MO and the MMU’s governing body for allowing me to officially contribute to this week’s MMU.

Notre Dame played UVA this past Saturday. Everyone was calling this a “trap game” so many times for ND that Fetty Wap could no longer comprehend what the word “trap” meant anymore.

And our worst nightmares came out during this game. Everything was going wrong. It was like every R-rated metaphor from an Eminem song was coming to life. It was just too sick to stomach. Especially with Zaire breaking an ankle instead of breakin’ ankles. As UVA alum Stephen Smith would say, we took the red pill and fell deep down the rabbit hole. That hole that would make us realize that we were slaves to the Notre Dame hype...our own hype.

But then THAT play happened. The one that happened with 19 seconds left in the game. Everyone has been buzzing about the ending to the game since. Let me take you to the real story behind that specific play.

On Saturday, a wedding took place in Cana of Galilee (not to be confused with the awesome 1 unit credit course offered by NDLS). Jesus and Mary attended this wedding. There was abundant food and drinks at this wedding. They had the Notre Dame-Virginia game on the TV as well. It was a good game with a lot of back and forth. Notre Dame had touchdowns. Virginia had touchdowns. Then, there was less than a minute left in the game and Virginia was ahead on the scoreboard. The following is an excerpt from an updated version of the Bible as of September 14, 2015 (I obtained it today but I can’t vouch for its authenticity on short notice):

“And when the touchdowns gave out, the mother of Jesus said to Him, ‘They have no more touchdowns.’ And Jesus said to her, ‘Woman, what do I have to do with you? My hour has not yet come.’ His mother called Brian Kelly and said, ‘Whatever He says to you, do it’” (John 2:3-5)

And we all know what happened now: Jesus appeared in Charlottesville on Saturday. He appeared with 19 seconds left in the game. He made Fuller make that beautiful catch. He made Kizer throw that beautiful ball on that go route (Although some would say it was a “Hail Mary” pass. They aren’t wrong. Mary can be credited for making it happen.). And Notre Dame won. As someone once told me this year, his name is not Field Goal Jesus. It’s Touchdown Jesus.

Go Irish.
