UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

The Law School

Monday Morning Update

February 18 - February 24

NDLS,

The Irish nearly upset Virginia, Duke keeps rolling, and Tennessee blue it (get it?). I'm really looking forward to the tournament, even though the Irish (and my Illini) will likely be excluded from the fun party. But I have two giant TVs at my house, so how can I complain? Many glorious hours of watching basketball await next month.

Go Irish,
Bill

Submit Acts for the Father Mike Show!

The Father Mike Show is just under two months away! If you would like to participate and put your talents on display for the NDLS community, please submit your proposed act using this form.

The form will remain open until after spring break. If you have any questions, please feel free to shoot me an e-mail.

Law Students Needed for ITA Jury Trials

The ITA Program is seeking students to serve as jurors for our Mock Trials on Saturday, February 23rd and Sunday, February 24th. After watching law students try a civil case in front of a real judge in an actual trial setting, you, the Jury, will deliberate and reach a verdict, thereby deciding the outcome of the case.

All volunteers will receive priority registration for ITA or Deposition skills classes next year.

WHERE: St. Joseph County Courthouse in downtown South Bend, IN. Street parking is available.

WHEN: Jurors should arrive no later than 8:00 am. Trials end by 3:30p.

Any questions: email Grace Nickels (gnickels@nd.edu).

Attend the U.S. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims Judicial Conference - Scholarships Available!

The CAVC Bar Association is pleased to announce a scholarship competition for law student applicants to attend the CAVC's 14th Judicial Conference, held on April 11 and 12, 2019 in Washington, D.C. The conference will include presentations from notable authorities in the field of veterans law. Selected scholarship recipients will receive paid registration and a travel stipend (up to $500). More information about eligibility and entry requirements may be found at CAVC Judicial Conference Scholarship Competition. The deadline for all entries is Wednesday, February 20, 2019 at 11:59pm EST.

LEGAL WRITING CENTER

The Legal Writing Center is dedicated to helping law students become better writers. Our tutors accomplish this goal by listening attentively in writing conferences, reading papers carefully, and asking questions that can help writers better express their ideas and construct their arguments. Legal Writing Center tutors work with writers during all stages of the writing process—from understanding an assignment, to developing a thesis, to organizing the paper, to revising the final product. Make an appointment here or drop in to room 2146 during the following hours:

- Matt
 - Monday: 10-12
 - Thursday: 11-2
- Whitney

#Content

My dears,

It strikes me, a month into the new semester, that we're really rolling along here in 2019. I mean "rolling" in the sense that I do not really think I, or many people I know, are living in the "now." Rather, everything seems to be forward-looking:

- Plans for spring break
- Plans for graduation and the trips that follow
- Plans for 2020 and the eventual replacement of this miserable, terrible, not-very-good-at-all administration (did you see that what's-her-face put out a "press release" using the iPhone Notes app instead of on... ya know... official White House letterhead since... ya know... you work at the White House and you were declaring a national emergency that you created? God.)

So I'm trying to live in the NOW. To that end, I've (once again) deleted my Twitter, uninstalled the app from my phone, and logged out on my browser. I re-installed "StayFocusd" for Chrome and limit my social media time to about 10 minutes a day. That does not include Instagram on my phone, because we all need more videos of penguins running around in our lives.

It feels pretty good and I was a lot less stressed out last week than I was in weeks' prior. Maybe that's a function of being less distracted by things that genuinely don't matter, or because I am more focused on tasks that I'd been procrastinating, or because I started to listen to Kacey Musgraves after she won that Grammy and boy-howdy can homegirl SING are you KIDDING ME!!!! And she spells her name with a cute little "c" in the middle? How funky. I had no idea who she was one week before. 'Tis life.

The future worries me, for sure. How could it not? We live on the verge of a dystopian hellscape because people deny basic facts about our mutual existence, leading to bad outcomes. But what am I going to do about it today? I'm gonna focus a little bit, work out a little bit, eat some green stuff and move right along.

I think this might be the byline to my TV pilot.

Lawyer: did your boyfriend commit the crime?

Girlfriend: honey he can't even commit to this relationship

Entire jury: OH SNAP

1L OF THE WEEK

The 1L of the week is Bradey Wright! Multiple people told me Bradey would be an interesting person to talk to this week, and she certainly did not betray their confidences. Buy this lady a coffee and pick her brain about her favorite regatta series!

Q: Where are you from?

A: I'm from Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Q: Where did you attend undergrad?

A: I went to Huntington University, it's a small school right near Fort Wayne. We were the Foresters, we had Norm the Forester - he's a big lumberjack basically.

Q: I spelled your name wrong in last week's MMU. Do you forgive me?

A: Uhhh I mean just this once but don't let it happen again.

Q: What's your favorite hobby?

A: My favorite hobby? Ooof. Hmmm. I think my favorite hobby is sailing in the summers. Just stuffing a boat full of people, a cooler, snacks and going out on the water. My family has a small sailboat - a sunfish - and we have some other boats. I race competitively on bigger sailboats. I started when I was 8, my first job was a sailing instruction. I highly recommend.

Q: What are your plans for Spring Break?

A: I'm going to be really boring - I'm going home to Fort Wayne. I have all my doctor's appointments set up. It's going to be pretty lit. I promised my niece that I'd go to lunch with her at her elementary school. See, we're gonna rage.

Q: What is the worst social media trend you've ever seen?

A: Oh there's so many to choose from. Hold on, this could take me a second. It's very difficult, I know! Do you remember planking? Like... what was that? I think I'm gonna go with planking on this one - I don't know why that popped into my head. I looked at pictures and for about two seconds I thought it was funny but then I thought about it and it's probably the strangest thing that's ever happened.

Q: What's a TV show that got cancelled that deserves a reboot?

A: I used to say Arrested Development, but then I was disappointed. So maybe a re-boot of that re-boot so they can do it justice?

* LIGHTNING ROUND*

Q: Cake or Donuts?

A: Donuts, easy.

Q: Tic, Tac, or Toe?

A: Toe

Q: Elk or Moose?

A: Moose

Q: Train or Plane?

A: Plane

Q: Telepathy or teleporting?

A: Ooo. Teleporting.

Q: Do you have anything else you'd like to say to all of your fans?

A: Ooo there's so many of them. Ya know, I'd like to thank each and every one of them for their undying support, they can check out my mixtape on Soundcloud.

Q: Who should be 1L of the week next week?

A: Lauren Hanna.

Long Read of the Week

In keeping with my extreme frustration with the current state of our politics, there's just one "Read" this week. It reminded me of a recent conversation I had with my Mom; it really struck me.

- Climate Signs

- o "For all the ferocity of my love, I'm powerless to protect my kids from the mass extinction we're in the midst of that could eliminate 30–50 percent of all living species by the middle of the twenty-first century. Why is this not the core of the core curriculum? Why aren't we all speaking about this?"
- o "What strikes me now as irrational about our response isn't our ordinary parental instinct to protect our kids from scary stuff. It was our denial. Their father and I treated that display as a vision we could put off until later when it clearly conveyed what had already transpired. "We are now faced with the fact, my friends, that tomorrow is today. We are confronted with the fierce urgency of now," preached Martin Luther King Jr. in 1967 in one of his lesser-known sermons, "Beyond Vietnam: A Time to Break Silence." He may as well have been speaking on climate change. Sandy made landfall in 2012, the year after the boy was born, while I was pregnant with the girl. It gave a preview of what the city faces in the next century and beyond, as sea levels continue to rise with melting ice sheets. The storm exposed our weaknesses, and not just to flooding. I remember that when the bodegas in our hood ran out of food, some folks shared with their neighbors. But when the gas station started running out of fuel, some folks pulled out their guns. As much as we may worry about our kids' future, it's already here."

Have a good week! Go Irish!
