General Announcements

Legal Writing Center

The Legal Writing Center is dedicated to helping law students become better writers. Our tutors accomplish this goal by listening attentively in writing conferences, reading papers carefully, and asking questions that can help writers better express their ideas and construct their arguments. Legal Writing Center tutors work with writers during all stages of the writing process—from understanding an assignment, to developing a thesis, to organizing the paper, to revising the final product. Make an appointment here or drop in to room 2146.

A Little Lagniappe

Hello NDLS!

Welcome back to another year on campus. It seems like just yesterday I was bidding you all adieu, ready to enjoy the freedom of summer. Now back to the books.....JK it's 3LOL! But for those 2Ls and 1Ls out there, better have those highlighters ready!

Much has happened since we last spoke. For starters, we welcomed a new Dean to NDLS. (Hi Dean Cole!) We are so happy to have him as a part of our NDLS family!

We also welcomed 215 new 1L faces to the law school. While this means finding a table in the Commons for lunch will be like the Hunger Games, we are glad to have you here on campus!

For the 1Ls who don't know how the MMU works, this is our weekly newsletter from SBA, composed by the one and only...Me, your SBA Secretary! Interested in submitting content? Just click the blue button above or shoot me an email--mondaymorningupdate@gmail.com.

But MOST importantly....I updated the MMU! Yes "ooh" and "ahh" at the sleek, new design compliments of our very own Amy Chen. S/O to Amy for putting up with my obnoxious emails and picky tastes in logos this summer--the finished product looks #fab if I do say so myself!

So, some points about the new MMU:

- The calendar, since it's what most of you read this email for anyway, has been moved to the front of the email. You're welcome.
- I figured out the column feature in Mailchimp! I know you're all thrilled.
- The last section of the email is entitled "A Little Lagniappe." For those of you not blessed enough to be from Louisiana, this means "a little something extra" which is exactly what this section is! It's a mix of contributions from you, the students, the faculty, and yours truly!

So I hope you have a great first day back and you enjoy the MMU!

Stay Golden, NDLS

SPORT REPORT

While we anxiously await the full return of college and NFL football, I requested the assistance of SBA Athletics Chair, Kevin Francese, to report on the state of the MLB Wild Card race! Here's what's good from Francese:

The Wild Card race is heating up! We are getting to the last few weeks of baseball and the wild card races in both leagues are both incredibly close and exciting!

| National League | | | | | |

| American League | | | | | |

Stay tuned in the coming weeks for more from Francese and the Wild Card games here in the MMU!

PROFESSOR SPOTLIGHT

This year, the MMU includes a weekly spotlight, highlighting a member of the NDLS faculty--what they teach, what they're working on, and what they like to do in their free time when not pestering us students with cold calls. This week's professor is Richard Garnett, who was kind enough to respond to my last minute plea for help! Thank you Professor Garnett!

Professor Garnett was raised in Alaska, educated at Duke University and Yale Law School, clerked for Chief Justice Rehnquist, and practiced law in Washington D.C., before joining the NDLS faculty -- along with his wife, "the more distinguished Professor Garnett" -- 20 years ago. He teaches classes on criminal and constitutional law, and his research and writing focuses on the freedoms of speech and religion. He is (he promises the Dean) almost done with a book on church-state relations.

He enjoys (but wishes he were better at) skiing, guitar playing, climbing, and mountain biking. He spends too much time blogging, tweeting, and following Duke basketball. The Garnetts have four Hoosier children -- including a first grader and a sophomore at Notre Dame -- and can often be found enjoying what's on tap at the Crooked Ewe and Greenbush Brewery.

He hopes that Notre Dame lawyers learn not only to read carefully, write clearly, and think hard but also to see and treat every person as created and loved by God.

1L OF THE WEEK

Yes, 1L of the Week, everyone's favorite MMU feature, will be returning this year starting next week!

"Next week?" you ask? TBH, I was so busy meeting all the lovely 1Ls at orientation last week that I completely forgot I needed to interview one for the email. No worries, I promise to venture into the library every day this week until I find a willing 1L participant!
