A Little Lagniappe

Hello NDLS!

I really don't have much to report from this past week or weekend. Really, this is due in large part to the fact that I spent my entire weekend at the law school practicing for our upcoming Mock Trial regional tournament in the great Cleveland, OH.

Perhaps this was a good thing, however, because of the sudden surge in parental presence on campus. Yes, for those who weren't aware, it was Junior Parents Weekend. I'm sure if any of you ventured out on campus or into the city of South Bend for a bite to eat you encountered some of these JPWeekenders.

I thought the idea of a weekend for the juniors and their parents novel until I tried to park in the bookstore on Saturday. What a nightmare. I circled the parking lot 5 times before seeing someone go to leave their parking spot. At that point, I whipped my little Jeep into position to take the spot. Some small Honda tried to take it from me, but I violently threw on my blinker and wagged my finger at them--Not today, sir!

Having successfully parked, I couldn't help but recall my undergrad days when finding parking was more extreme and violent than the Hunger Games. However, I was the victor in many a parking showdown and it was clear this weekend that my winning streak will continue!

That's all I have for this week!

Until next time!

Stay Golden, NDLS

No Professor Spotlight this week. Why? Well, I opened my MMU inbox, anxious to learn who my next spotlight would be, but sadly the inbox was empty!
