International and Graduate Programs - Global Lawyering in Practice Series Fall 2021: Climate change, Human Rights and Due Diligence in the Energy sector

Frédéric Gilles Sourgens is the Senator Robert J. Dole Distinguished Professor of Law and Director of the Washburn Oil and Gas Law Center. He serves as Editor in Chief of Oxford University Press' Investment Claims reporter of international arbitral awards between states and foreign investors. Professor Sourgens is a globally recognized authority on the intersection between international energy law, international dispute resolution, and transnational law and globalization. Many of his books and articles are routinely cited by counsel in international legal proceedings as well as affirmatively relied upon by international courts and tribunals. Freddy was recently included in the 2021 Who's Who Legal list for international arbitration as one of half a dozen academics in the U.S. and approximately 30 academics worldwide. He is active in numerous learned societies and institutes. He served as past-chair of the American Society of International Law's Private International Law Interest Group. He is a member of the International Practice Steering Committee for the Institute for Energy Law, and a member of the Academic Council of the Institute for Transnational Arbitration (ITA). He also currently serves as Academic Advisor to the Center of International Law in Nepal. Through this engagement, Freddy co-chairs or co-chaired several regular international conferences including the Oxford Investment Claims Summer Academy convened by Oxford University Press in Oxford, England, the ITA's 30th Workshop and Annual Meeting in Dallas, Texas, and, previously, the Juris Annual Investment Treaty Arbitration Conference in Washington, DC.

SPORT REPORT:

Good morning ND,

First and foremost, let's start with the best news I've gotten since I was literally admitted here. Ed Orgeron is gone!! The media made a pretty big deal about the fact that he was fired only 21 months after winning the national championship but 1. I don't care, he literally hasn't won anything since and 2. see point one. Yesterday's hits don't win today's ball games, people!

The Penn St.-Illinois game continued the trend of upset playoff contenders. The biggest takeaway from that game was that Big 10 offenses (outside of Ohio State) are actually incapable of a single ounce of energy this season. I mean, it literally took 9 overtimes before Illinois wrapped it up with a 2-pt conversion. Some might say it was great defense, but if you have nine (ok seven, given the first two field goals) shots at the endzone from the three yard line and you can't make it work, you must be starting a literal fifth grader as your running back. I'm actually not kidding, I watched my sister's middle school football game over break and saw more offensive talent than I did on Penn St's side of the ball. The fact that Illinois finished with 38 passing yards total and still won is both impressive and also embarrassing to the entire Big 10.

Speaking of offensives, Notre Dame finally gets credit for making the right adjustments. BK's postgame interview made a big deal about how they were trying to hurry up and get the ball out this game. Still not sure why we only realized this was an option in week 8 (especially given the o line play earlier this year) but I'll take it. Even if this season is spent adjusting to a high-tempo offense, it will be a season well spent, provided we don't revert back to the traditional ND offense next year. Outside of letting USC somewhat back into the game in the fourth quarter, this was a super encouraging step in the right direction for the long-term if it indicates that BK is finally finally finally willing to embrace more of a spread offense.

Cincinnati came super close to being the next top 5 team to lose to an unranked opponent but they pulled through. Sucks for them because the committee could possibly take an Oklahoma team who can barely beat Kansas over Cinci if it comes down to style (in which case I would actually picket outside of their headquarters, so someone lmk where they are). Power 5 teams can't afford to grind out wins, even if they do so every week. Right now, I like Georgia and Ohio State for two spots, Alabama a close third, and I'm not even going to try to predict who gets the fourth spot because I'm sure this season will prove us all wrong.

Geaux Irish,

Ashley

1L OF THE WEEK:

Our 1L of the Week is Shaniya Raheja! Go bake some goodies w/ Shaniya & ask her to make you a PSL with her beloved keurig!

Q. Where are you from/where did you attend undergrad?

A: I'm originally from Dubai, but I went to undergrad at UC San Diego.

Q. Have you tried Dave Portnoy's frozen pizza? If so, what score would you give it? Do you know who Dave Portnoy is?

A: I love Barstool and I definitely know who Dave Portnoy is, his pizza reviews are pretty entertaining, but I didn't even know he had his own frozen pizza ! It's definitely on my bucket list now

Q. What is one item (not your phone) that you could not live without?

A: My keurig, I need at least a cup of coffee a day to get me through all those readings.

Since it's fall PSLs are a must (don't knock it till you try it)

Q. What's worse: being too hot or too cold?

A: Definitely too cold is way worse ! Growing up in a desert I can handle the heat. Unsure how I'm going to handle Indiana winter

Q. Finish this sentence... I love it when my mom _____

A: cooks authentic Indian food. (my mom is definitely the best chef I know)

Q. Who is your childhood celebrity crush?

A: Super predictable but it was Justin Bieber (and still is today tbh).

Q. If you were a fruit, what would you be?

A: I feel like strawberry because I'd like to think I'm sweet, but I also just love pink ! (I know strawberries are red but close enough)

Q. Are mandatory school uniforms suppressive or freeing?

A: I used to have a school uniform in elementary school and it honestly wasn't that bad. Though, I'm super into fashion so I love being able to choose my own outfits for sure.

Q. Anything you'd like to say to your fans?

A: I'm super passionate about baking ! And since Halloween is coming up lemme know if anyone wants to bake together :) Pumpkin or Apple pies are a must for October :)

Q. Who should be next week's 1L of the week?

A: Colton Gregg

2Ls TAKING Ls:

This week's "2l taking Ls" story comes from the sass king himself, Matteo Taraborelli.

Teo is nothing ✨ short ✨ of a good time. This New Yorker will tell you like it is, but we love him for it. Buy him a drink when you see him at the next non sponsored law school gathering.

Now for our feature presentation:

This summer, the firm I worked for was located in the financial district of Manhattan, all the way at the bottom of the island.

With the goal of being early and leaving a good impression on my bosses, I left two hours early for my job which was an hour away. Taking the Long Island Railroad, I arrived in the city with no problem.

Once in Penn Station, I was so nervous, I hopped on the first train on my line that came into the station. The only problem, it was headed the wrong way. Sitting on the subway listening to Riley Green, it took me twenty minutes to start wondering why it was taking so long to reach the end of the line, then I realized. After hopping off the train and rushing to get on a train headed in the right direction, I arrived at the office with a minute to spare.

The moral of the story, give yourself some extra time on the first day.

Shannon Moore, you're next.

ASK A 3L:

This week's 3L feature is Emily Dufner!!! Am I the only one drooling over that stunning clover pretzel? Emily provided us with some great Halloween inspo. Buy her a pretzel when you see her at the next ND game!

Question(s) & Answers:

Q. What should I be for Halloween? Is the vibe funny or scandy here? Are there any good haunted houses around here? Thx."

3L Advice: So, unfortunately I do not know of any haunted houses around here, let alone good ones :(but I can try to help you out with your Halloween costume! If you're thinking something trendy/topical, you could be Kim K at the Met Gala or cold Bernie Sanders at the inauguration. This year I'm going classic - Jacqueline Lau and I are going to be Annie and Hallie from The Parent Trap. Hope this helps!
