SPORT REPORT:

Good morning NDLS,

This weekend, like all weekends this season, managed to make the playoff picture both clearer and 10x more confusing. This season still feels like a collective effort between every CFB team to gaslight the fans and so far they have succeeded on that goal.

I am most impressed by Ohio State this week. The offense has been heating up all season but they were on fire against Michigan State. We can debate whether MSU should've been a top 5 team but the fact remains that no other playoff contender this year has blown out a top 5 team by 40 points. I felt so bad for MSU to the point where I started wondering what is a coach even supposed to say during the half when you are down 30 points and watching your playoff hopes evaporate. After this game, I am no longer convinced that Georgia is going to roll every team in the post-season. A matchup between the UGA defense and OSU receiving corps is the stuff dreams are made of.

Oregon, Oregon, Oregon. Where to start? The Ducks on Saturday night might have been the most shameful defensive performance I've seen all season and I'm an LSU fan. Utah's running backs were waltzing into the endzone – I've personally faced more resistance either (a) Black Friday shopping or (b) trying to order Starbucks from Lafun at noon. Don't ever let a PAC-12 fan tell you there's SEC/BIG 10 bias in the committee (even though there is) because the only reason PAC 12 teams don't make it is the entire conference just cannibalizes each other for fun.

Both Cinci and ND got huge style points this season – Cinci neutralized a pretty fast SMU offense and ND never took its foot off GT's neck. My playoff predictions this week are (1) UGA, (2) Bama UGH (3) OSU and (4) Cinci, with Michigan following at 5 and ND at 6. Ideal world, Bama and OSU swap but I'll take Cinci finally being ranked in the top 4 where they deserve. ND has an outside playoff shot as well, provided Michigan and Bama both lose to OSU and UGA, respectively.

Davis contacted me with a brief statement on Duke basketball:

As many of you are aware, Coach K's grandson got arrested for drunk driving (he plays for Duke too – wonder how he got on the team?). I have one question for you nice people: do you have a brain? Do you have common sense? That's great news, because if you're a Duke basketball player, you might not have those things.

And you know what? Coach K, this one is on you, pal. I love you, but come on man. Merriam-Webster's dictionary defines "nepotism" as exactly what you did. You had this loser who couldn't beat me in 1-on-1 on the team (who also got the season cancelled last year because he went to ANOTHER unsanctioned frat party and got covid). Coach, you messed up! You reap what you sow. And guess what? You're probably not gonna punish them either. I can see another Grayson Allen "indefinite suspension" coming up here. I bet Paolo will be "conveniently" back by the Gonzaga game, won't he? And I bet your little pumpkin will get a "stern warning" (again) and probably have to stand in the silent corner for five minutes and then will have to say he's sorry to his granddaddy (but it won't count unless he means it!).

As always, open invitation for our more passionate fans to comment on their teams' happenings!

Geaux Irish,

Ashley

1L OF THE WEEK:

Our 1L of the Week is Anthony Krempa! Like all good Michigan fans, 90% of the answers MUST refer to Michigan in some manner. Hit up Anthony on your Blackberry and grab him so coffee to bring him some joy as he enters into 1L finals szn.

Q. Where are you from/where did you attend undergrad?

I am from Shelby Township, Michigan, a suburb 45 minutes north of Detroit. I went to the University of Michigan for undergrad (go blue)

Q. What are you most grateful for in life?

Right now, I gotta say it's the fact that Michigan football is 10-1 and about to stomp OSU

Q. What's a deal breaker you could not get over in a past relationship?

Not liking Curb Your Enthusiasm, pretty pretty pretty good show

Q. What's better: cranberries canned or homemade?

Homemade, I feel like this is probably the most uncontroversial take of all time

Q. Finish this sentence... _____ has been living rent free in my head for sometime now.

America's youth. Those darn kids with their Tik Tok, Fortnite and iPads

Q. Would you rather be Batman or Spiderman?

Batman hands down, my man is the definition of work hard, play hard. (Even though both of his parents die, sorry Mom and Dad, but at least I got to know you unlike Spiderman)

Q. What trend would you love to see come back?

I would love to bring back late 2000s era cell phones. Technology is advancing too quickly, I didn't even have time to enjoy the Motorola Razr or Blackberry.

Q. Is homework necessary?

Depends on the kind of homework, miss me with that busy work

Q. Anything you'd like to say to your fans?

I just have a few statistics for y'all regarding this Michigan-Notre Dame football "rivalry", thanks Wikipedia

All-time series	Michigan leads 25–17–1 (.593) ^[1]
Largest victory	Michigan, 38–0 (2003, 2007)
Longest win streak	Michigan, 8 (1887–1908)
Current win streak	Michigan, 1 (2019–present)

 Sweetie. If you love Michigan so much why didnt you go to law school there?

Q. Who should be next week's 1L of the week?

Tony Imburgia

 = Editor's Commentary

2Ls TAKING Ls:

This week's "2l taking Ls" story comes from the queen of converse, Laura Mahoney. Pretty sure the one and only thing better looking than Laura is that prosciutto pizza. You can also find Laura on the treadmill complaining about her Splat points at her 6am Orange Theory class. Grab her some coffee when you see her! She needs it.

Now for our feature presentation:

The first time my mom left me home alone in middle school I decided to microwave taquitos for myself.

Unfortunately, I read the timing instructions for the oven and ended up microwaving 4 taquitos for 10 minutes. Needless to say, they caught on fire in the microwave (don't worry the rest of the kitchen was fine). It smelled so bad, so I tried covering up the smell by spraying perfume across the first floor of the house. My older siblings came home and were understandably pissed off. When my mom came home, all the windows in the house were open and the smell of burnt taquitos was inescapable. The citrus scented perfume made it worse. The smell lingered for days. Now at 24 years old, I am still banned from cooking taquitos in my parent's house.

In honor of this food themed story I would like to nominate Caleb Perez, the president of the Food and Beverage Law Society.

ASK A 3L:

This week's 3L feature is the host of the award winning podcast Minimum Output with Jeff & PJ, Phil Klindt!!! Phi Phi seems like a guy you'd want to get to know. If you're ready to find love in the most illogical way possible, hit him up.

Question(s) & Answers:

Q. I hear you're into all things Bachelor/Bachelorette. I'm vying to be the show's first contestant from NDLS. Any advice to help with my application?

3L Advice: Great question. I am into all things Bachelor/Bachelorette (if you're interested in joining my weekly bachelor league, please email me). Unfortunately, I'm currently trying to get JQ Lau to be the show's first contestant from NDLS so I cannot give any advice on your application. However, I would start by watching every single season and taking vigorous notes about each contestant in your free time. I've also heard Austin Dunn is well versed in Bachelor applications, so he may be a good resource too.

Q. How did you get the nickname "Phi Phi"?

3L Advice: On a wonderful night at the Backer, I decided to get some fresh air with a few friends. But I didn't get the memo that everyone was going back inside and ended up at a table by myself. Next thing I know, a woman comes up to me and begins talking to me, when all of the sudden she asked for my name. After telling her, she decided my new nickname would be "Phi Phi" (short for Phil). Little did I know, Jessica overheard this conversation and has adopted the nickname. Please only call me by the new nickname, thank you.

Q. Why did you cancel your award-winning, extremely successful podcast?

3L Advice: Although my extremely successful, award-winning, and well-listened to podcast (Minimum Output with Jeff & PJ) was in fact extremely successful for its 3 episode run, we learned that Peloton does not have as much content as we hoped for. But, to our dedicated listeners, there have been talks about a reunion episode centered around Jess King's wife making the news (google it). In the meantime, we are selling vintage Merch if anyone is interested (again, email me).

Submit your questions to next week's 3L, Gordon McCormack, below.
