

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the pleasant task of writing this story of A Century of Law at Notre Dame, the author has had the generous cooperation and help of a number of persons. His thanks go first to the present Dean of the Law School, William B. Lawless, and to two former deans, Clarence E. Manion and Joseph O'Meara. Then he acknowledges his gratitude to the late Reverend Thomas T. McAvoy, C.S.C., University Archivist, until his untimely and unexpected death this past July 6, 1969, to the Reverend John E. Walsh, C.S.C., Vice-President for Academic Affairs at the university and his assistant, Mr. Leo Corbaci, to Professor Victor Schaeffer, Director of Special Collections at the university, to Mr. Stanley Farmann, Assistant Law Librarian, and to Mr. James Murphy, formerly Director of Public Information and now Assistant Vice-President for Public Relations, for their cooperation in placing at my disposal the several sources of this history which are in their respective charges. He is indebted to Mrs. Jeannette Allsop, former Executive Secretary of the Notre Dame Law Association, for detailed information on the association and its activities, to the Honorable Raymond Broderick,

Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania and former President of the Notre Dame Law Association for helpful suggestions, and to Mrs. Carol Berkowitz, secretary to Dean Lawless, for her courteous assistance. He extends thanks to Mr. Terrence O'Connor, second-year law student, who was his right-hand man in the collection of source materials, and to Mrs. Arabella Ellsworth and Miss Lorrie Gifford, who typed the manuscript. Special gratitude is extended to Professor James A. Corbett, who compiled the Index.
