AN INSIDER’S GUIDE TO NOTRE DAME LAW SCHOOL
To the Notre Dame Law School Class of 2005:

Welcome to Notre Dame Law School! We are pleased to be among the first students to welcome you to our community. If you are anything like we were just a few years ago, you probably have plenty of questions about law school, Notre Dame and South Bend. We hope that this guide will give you answers to many of your questions and gives a window into what life at Notre Dame is like.

This is an insider's guide because it was written entirely by students. A group of about fifteen of us volunteered to collect information and reflect on our experiences to publish this guide. We think we’ve compiled a lot of information that will make your transition to law school at Notre Dame easier, and your first months on campus more fun. Even though this is not meant to be a comprehensive guide to everything you need to know to get through law school, we think that it may be a pretty good place to start. So whether you are trying to figure out where to live next year, what is the best way to get to South Bend, where to find a good Italian restaurant, or what law students do on the weekend, this guide should answer many of your questions. More importantly, we think this guide should answer questions about what life at Notre Dame Law School is like.

We have both come to treasure our experiences at NDLS. The professors, students, and staff of this law school are unique—their warmth, friendship and flair has made studying law at Notre Dame fun and, undoubtedly, has provided us with a better foundation for us to successfully achieve both our personal and professional goals. We hope that our enthusiasm, and that of other students, will be apparent throughout this guide. Although we know that you have already been inundated with information from the Law School and from the University, we hope that this guide will be valuable as you prepare for classes in August.

Once again, welcome. Enjoy the remaining months before you begin law school, and we look forward to seeing you in August.

Best wishes,

Eric Nedell

A Different Kind of Lawyer

IT'S NOT JUST HYPE

OK, you’ve seen the admissions material, you’ve heard the catch-phrase that Notre Dame trains a different kind of lawyer. It sounds terrific, but what does it mean? We tried to write something that explained it, but what we wrote ended up sounding too formal and too much like it was written by someone in the public relations department. So instead, we asked students for examples and thoughts as to what being a different kind of lawyer means. Here’s a sampling of what we heard:

Notre Dame trains a different kind of lawyer by connecting our study of the law to real people and by exploring how ordinarily lifeless, textbook-driven doctrines affect the lives of thinking, feeling humans. This commonly occurs by introducing ethical considerations into every course, not just the Ethics class. For example, Professor Robinson was once describing the doctrine of attorney-client privilege as it relates to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. He pointed out that some of the exceptions to the duty of confidentiality are vague. There is no good law on whether an attorney may break confidentiality in order to prevent an innocent person from being executed. Pointing out this uncertainty, along with a few citations, would have left us fully “educated,” but Professor Robinson took it a step further. He explained, “I don’t know what the law is in this area, but I would hope that saving an innocent life would be worth more to you than saving your law license.” With that, we returned to the vagaries of civil procedure.

— Anonymous 3L

The academic culture at Notre Dame has been refreshing for me because I find that I am not only comfortable to bring my faith to the discussion, but I am challenged to do so. The ability to actively consider and discuss the moral import and purpose underlying the law provides an essential dimension—often missing at other universities, speaking from experience—to the discussion. As a result, I am not only learning the black letter law, but I am thinking critically about the laws themselves.

— Jason Manning, 2L

During the summer prior to Law School, I had received warnings from different individuals who experienced first hand at several different Chicago area law schools (which shall remain anonymous) about the cutthroat atmosphere encountered at those schools. A recurring example given to me was how texts needed for a Research Class assignments would go missing during the time period they were needed or have the relevant passages removed via razor blade. Couple these stories with my reading of Scott Turow’s One L and I was all prepared for a cutthroat atmosphere at NDLS. Much to my pleasant surprise, I have yet to experience any such experience. Students are generous with their notes and assistance to their fellow students. If such demeanor is carried by these students into their professional careers, they will stand out as exceptions to the cutthroat image the public has of attorneys in general.

— Dave Maquera, 2L

Notre Dame trains a different kind of lawyer through its models of faith in our professors. Many of my professors begin classes with prayers or make the sign of the cross.
There have been so many positive experiences here at NDLS it is hard to single one out. One of the things that has struck me is the integrity, character and lack of pretension of many of the law school professors. Not only are they brilliant minds, many are uncommonly friendly towards students. The student body has also proven on the whole to be warm and helpful. Many of us come from different social strata and hold varying political viewpoints—but the Notre Dame community allows us to discuss such differences without hostility or denigration. There seems to be a true open-mindedness at this law school lacking in many more professedly “liberal” schools. Notre Dame also provides an atmosphere that fosters the growth of intelligent faith, challenging us to be true to our consciences both personally and professionally.

Christine Niles, 2L

Right before each final during my 1L year, the lounge was filled with my classmates who were calming each other down and asking each other last minute questions and clarifications. After each final, we would go out to dinner or a movie or something like that to clear the old final out of our minds and prepare for the next final. This was just one of many ways that I saw community coming first during my first year. Notre Dame lawyers care about their communities.

Kate Meacham, 2L

From the start, professors here are gracious. They breathe a sense of community into the atmosphere that carries down to the students. In turn, this is very important in your daily life as a law student for many practical reasons. Nobody steals books, nobody touches your laptop, nobody seeks to hurt another student in any way. But what students do well, is help. Part of being a different lawyer is cooperation. Students here cooperate very well. People share notes, outlines, even take time to explain concepts to each other when they are very busy. I believe this sense of cooperation and sense that people are human beings and not just means to our own ends, will carry over into our practice. We'll need to see our clients and colleagues as not just business interests, but people we can genuinely help if we only step out of our own busy selves to take the time.

Andy Mayle, 3L
Community

OK, YOU’LL HEAR A LOT ABOUT THIS

You will spend a lot of time at the Law School, there’s no way around it. Three years at Notre Dame Law School are both difficult and enjoyable. Let’s face it, law school anywhere is hard work, but going to law school at any of the first tier law schools in the country is incredibly difficult. You have to read thousands of pages of legal material each semester, write at the highest standards, be prepared for picayune questions from professors, and study hard for weeks to prepare for exams that determine your entire grade—and that’s just the first year. In spite of everything else you read in this guide, realize that everyone at Notre Dame works hard. In spite of the work, the stress, and the long hours, spending three years at Notre Dame Law School is enjoyable. It’s enjoyable because the people who come here care more about people than grades, about community than competition. Grades are still important, and some competition still exists, but the most distinctive feature of Notre Dame Law School is the genuine concern that the people here, from the Dean to the woman who runs the snack shop, show for each other.

What sets our faculty apart is the effort they will put forth not just for the student body as a whole but also for each individual student. In looking at other law schools whose academic standards were as demanding as ours, I had not seen a more accessible, friendly faculty willing to donate as much time and effort to the individual student as I had seen at Notre Dame Law.

These feelings tend to run deep among the student body as well. No student here wants to see one of their classmates fail and will do a great deal (within the boundaries of the Honor Code, of course) to help another student in anyway he or she can.

We are a community here. The ultimate end is academic and personal success for everyone, but just as important are the means by which we attain that success. The success of one is not achieved to the detriment of another. The study and practice of law is stressful enough. As a community, we learn together and support one another. I cannot think of a better environment in which to study law than here at Notre Dame.

– Bryan Wise, 2L

Despite the horror stories you hear about how competitive law school is, I have found Notre Dame to be a very supportive community. Although everyone wants to do well, people do not want to do well at the expense of others. On several occasions I have missed a class and found in my mailbox copies of other students’ notes for that class.

– Tim McCurdy, 3L

This community has allowed me to remember that there is much more to life than the classroom. Whether it be Notre Dame sports, meeting friends for a drink or hanging out at someone’s house, this community encourages you to not spend every waking moment thinking, studying or worrying about law school. And as a result, people at ND Law are arguably more happy than your “average” law student.

– Ben Tschann, 1L
I was impressed with the sense of community when I visited Notre Dame Law School for the first time. It was the deciding factor for me in coming to Notre Dame. I've always had a sense of being supported by other students here. While the students here want to do well, people don't try to do well by causing other people to do badly. Assigned books don't disappear out of the library. If you miss a class, several people will offer you their notes to copy. If a professor calls on you and you don't know the answer, people will raise their hands to volunteer to help you out.

The sense of community goes beyond what happens in class. During my first year, a couple of students lived in a house that caught fire. They lost everything. Within a couple of days, some students had organized a drive to get them some basic household goods and clothes so they could reestablish their home. People donated dishes, silverware, food, a microwave and other items. The response was quick and overwhelming. Notre Dame Law School is a place where people look out for each other, which makes it a great place to go to school.

- Beth Riga, 3L

Notre Dame is a place where a much higher premium is placed on collaboration than competition. Perhaps it is the lack of class rank or maybe the people who are attracted to a place like Notre Dame, but it is rare to hear stories of people who have the “me versus the law school” mentality. I can recall many situations where I missed class for job interviews where peers offered me the class notes I missed before I even asked for them. Notre Dame Law School is a place where most people realize that excellence is not zero sum - success at the expense of your peers is shunned.

- Bryan Yeazel, 3L
A Catholic Law School

AN IDENTITY

Come to Notre Dame Law School and you will not miss the fact that this is a Catholic law school—and we believe the premier Catholic law school. There's a marble bust of St. Thomas More, the patron saint of attorneys, outside the library. There are crucifixes in most rooms in the building. Some professors pray “In the Name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit” before each class. But these are just trappings—the real nature of Notre Dame Law School’s identity as a Catholic law school comes from its devotion to integrating diverse approaches to the life of faith with the life in the law.

To make this clearer, you have to realize that the word “Catholic” has several meanings. To most people, it refers to things having to do with the Roman Catholic Church—the mass, the Pope, the rosary, etc. Notre Dame is Catholic in that sense—we have regular masses, there is a priest-professor (Father Pearson), and we have a class in canon law. Catholic also refers to the universal church—what the Bible refers to as Christ’s body. Notre Dame is catholic in that sense as well—there are Christians of many different denominations at the law school, groups like the Christian Legal Society provide opportunity for fellowship, and the beliefs of Protestant and Orthodox Christians are as welcome in class discussions as the beliefs of Roman Catholic Christians. Catholic also means broad in sympathies, tastes and interests. Again, Notre Dame is catholic—viewpoints from all points of the political spectrum are welcomed and probed, believers of all faiths are encouraged to contribute to the dialogue about the law, students of all races find a home in the law school community, and the international LLM program means we always have a number of foreign attorneys in our midst. In short, Notre Dame Law School embraces the diverse views of the nation and world in which we live with the special emphasis on the historic Roman Catholic faith.

Notre Dame is a Catholic law school and never lets us forget it. The conscious choice of students & professors, whether Catholic or not, to be in a religious environment results in a strong community where faith is taken seriously, and a challenge is given to keep our priorities straight. Several of my professors have started each class with a prayer. . . . Students are not just individuals who happen to be memorizing information in the same room; we are here to grow in faith, to become good lawyers and good people, and we are doing this together. Several friends of mine at other law schools have told me that people there treat each other like competitors rather than friends, and I think the many close friendships formed at ND are made possible because of our unique atmosphere.

- Catherine Dougherty, 3L

As a Catholic who wanted to learn more about my religion and become more active in my practice of Catholicism during my time in law school, I enjoyed the opportunities Notre Dame provided to practice my faith. I liked the sense of community and the convenience of the weekly mass in the law school on Sunday afternoon and the masses in the law school chapel during Lent. Most of all, I appreciated the chance to discuss legal issues from an ethical perspective. I think it's very difficult to separate legal issues from ethical issues. I don't want to be the type of lawyer who checks her ethics at the door when she practices law. I'm happy that Notre Dame gave me the opportunity to examine legal issues from a perspective that included religious and ethical points of view. I think it will make me a different kind of lawyer.

1 MERRIAM-WEBSTER'S COLLEGIATE DICTIONARY 181 (10th ed. 2000).

- Beth Riga, 3L

Notre Dame provides a platform for dialogue about faith and law. This carries a connotation that faith is a prerequisite for discussion, but that is not true. It merely opens up the discussion and doesn't discourage the discussion, like many other institutions. Faith here is not merely another doctrine to be kept private, but one more way to look at the law; an expanding principle.

- Jocelyn Penner, 1L

Although I thought attending Notre Dame and being a member of the Latter Day Saints Church may have posed some difficulties, I have found Notre Dame to be a great community where individuals of any background can feel welcome and appreciated for their views.

- Ryan Dahl, 2L

To me [Notre Dame's Catholic nature] means that NDLS is a place where it is easy to practice your Catholic faith. The resources that ND has on campus and in the law school are second to none for those students who want to continue having an active faith life despite the rigors of law school. In addition, the Catholic aspect of NDLS is unique in that it provides an atmosphere that is open to a wide variety of ideas. Students who find themselves on the more conservative end of the political spectrum need not be afraid to speak up in class and express their beliefs. The same is true for the more liberal students. Unlike so many other institutions of higher education, NDLS is TRULY open to all ideas - not just the politically correct ones.

- Phil Sicuso, 3L

Having attended a very liberal undergraduate university, Notre Dame Law School has provided me with the opportunity to see the other end of the liberal/conservative spectrum. Although we are no longer "kids" by any stretch of the imagination, many of us are still young people that need to be open to the opportunities to experience various perspectives.

Although I am Catholic, I had not (and in many cases still have not) adopted all Catholic teachings. However, being surrounded by professors and fellow students who are devoted Catholics, I have learned much more about my own religion and other conservative views. At the same time though, I feel my views have certainly not been compromised, but have contributed to the law school community.

- Kevin Stella, 3L
For students who are not Catholic (or just not faith-oriented) like myself it means you will have a lot of new friends who are. It means that there are faculty members who will express views in debates and dialogues that would be considered reactionary in most other modern law schools. It means that many professors will start class with a prayer. It's what you make of it—if you want to have a law school experience that includes Catholic theology and social theory you don't have far to go. If you don't care one way or another you still get a great legal education.

- Erik Olson, 2L
Read Thousands of Pages and Still Be Home by Six

I think I was the only person in the country who was frightened by “Legally Blonde.” The fiercely competitive classmates, hostile study groups, and unforgiving professors that tortured Reese Whitherspoon’s character made ME wonder what I was about to encounter at law school. As I left the movie theater these images merged with other warnings about the lost hours of sleep and the thousands of pages of reading into a big tangle of worry, fear, and concerns about whether or not I needed to rethink my wardrobe for law school.

Luckily, all of these fears except one vanished rapidly. The pages of reading did reach into the thousands by the end of the first semester, but I was amazed then, and continue to be amazed by the students, faculty, and administrators I have encountered here. I’m sure you will find yourself, as I often do, impressed by your classmates’ eloquence, intelligence, and readiness to help. The faculty and administrative staff reflect these attributes – please consider them allies and resources.

The workload is impressive, but I have taken a “business approach” to the challenge. I arrive at school by 9:00 am and leave by 5:00 or 6:00 pm, depending on what assignments are due. I am old-fashioned in that I outline the readings by hand, and then create outlines on the computer for all of my classes at the end of the semester as a review.

The hours between classes provide enough time to read homework assignments, eat lunch with my friends, and take occasional walks around the lakes when the weather is good. If I am focused enough during the day, my evenings are free to exercise, cook dinner, keep in touch with my family, and go out with my friends. This schedule left my Saturdays free for football in the fall (very important!) and I have continued the “Saturdays Off” tradition into the spring semester. My Sunday afternoons are often spent in the library preparing for Monday and working on long-term assignments. The Law School Mass in the student lounge at 5:00 pm on Sundays usually finishes up the day with a chance to reflect on the past week, anticipate the week ahead, and reflect on how grateful I am to have the opportunity to attend school at Notre Dame.

Susan Brichler, Class of 2004
Life Outside the Law School

Contrary to the horror stories most people tell about the first year of law school, the reality is that life as a 1L at Notre Dame is, overall, a relatively enjoyable experience. The typical description of the first year experience normally concentrates on just two things: studying an obscene amount, and existing in an ultra-competitive environment. It is my experience, however, that this generalization could not be any more inaccurate in attempting to describe first year life here at Notre Dame. Now, I am not going to claim that you won’t study a lot during your first year; you will, and that is going to be the case wherever you attend law school. All I am trying to say is that if you do decide to go through with it, Notre Dame provides a relaxed, even fun, environment in which to do it.

The social aspect that Notre Dame provides first year students was the biggest and most pleasant surprise that I encountered in my first year. Maybe it was a product of reading One L about a week before I arrived on campus, but I envisioned law school as an all-encompassing endeavor, one that would barely allow me enough time to eat, much less go out with classmates. I was amazed to discover that it was not just empty rhetoric when our professors harped upon the importance of “life outside law school.” From football games in the “House that Rockne Built,” to a variety of law-school sponsored social events throughout the year, the social life that exists here at Notre Dame is a welcome, and much deserved, break from the rigors of torts and criminal law.

As far as classes go, I know that there is nothing I could say that can completely put your mind at ease, but here goes anyway: Don’t stress about them. If you do the work, you will be fine. The bottom line is that you would not be a future Notre Dame law student if you were not capable of handling the academic requirements. Notre Dame does not rank its students, so any stories that you hear of hidden books and conniving classmates that may exist at other places do not occur here, so don’t even waste any time worrying about that aspect. This place is as laid back as it comes, and that is a major part of what makes it so special, at least in my opinion.

Relax about the decision you have made to go to law school and enjoy the summer. Take some time to have fun in your last remaining months, before you are introduced to such spicy topics as the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and you get to experience first-hand the joys of writing an appellate brief. Don’t let yourself become overwhelmed by anyone else’s first-year nightmares, these stories are much like tales of the South Bend winters: they are designed to frighten and instill fear, when in actuality it is not all that bad. Stay away from One L and The Paper Chase: they are severely dated and dramatized for entertainment purposes, and serve no purpose other than raising your heart rate.

"The bottom line is that you would not be a future Notre Dame law student if you were not capable of handling the academic requirements."
If you still are not convinced that you can handle law school after my account of things, then there is only one other thing that will certainly make next year seem a little brighter: At least the football team has got to be better.

Jeff Truxclair, Class of 2004

Procrastination – It Can Work In Law School Too

Despite a number of claims to the contrary, a day in the life of a typical law student doesn’t have to consist of working constantly, pausing only to sneak in an occasional meal or doze off for a few hours before the 8:00 am property class for which you, naturally, didn’t have time to read. That’s not to say law school is a walk in the park, by any means. I hope this little narrative shows that you can have at least a little fun while you’re here, as long as you remember there is still work to be done, and realize that you can still do well in your coursework without giving up all semblances of a life.

Weekdays are fairly standard ... wake up around 7:30 or 8:00 (except for those blessed days when class starts a bit later, giving you precious hours of sleep), pack up for the day and go to the law school. I have every intention of remaining there until sometime late in the afternoon, or possibly early evening—this is a very realistic scenario. It’s always good to grab a quick breakfast (those cereal bars are great on the run), and I like to get to the building with time to spare before class for relaxing, socializing, or just trying to wake up.

To be honest, it doesn’t really matter to me which classes are up for the day, some are obviously more enjoyable (some much more so) than others, but in the end, they all count for roughly the same. I make sure to get the reading done in advance and hope that, should I be called on to answer, the professor doesn’t ask me about the one point in the assignment I didn’t understand or skipped over—this is always a distinct possibility (Murphy’s Law is very appropriate for law students). Basically, I try to get what I can out of the lecture/Socratic questioning, take plenty of notes, and plan on studying it later (it’s amazing that “later” seems to mean, for every class, the week before the final). In the event that class is perhaps more dull than usual, there are a number of diversions available: solitaire on the laptop, a rousing game of Six Degrees of Separation—a slight variation on the old Kevin Bacon game—or simply observing classmates try to find ways to amuse themselves as well. [Note: This is not to say I endorse not paying attention in class, but we all have our moments of weakness, I suppose.]

Aside from class, there’s still plenty of work to be done for the day...this is why I plan to be at the law school for many hours in a given day. Between classes is a great time to sneak in a reading or two—unless you’re like me, in which case it’s a great time to sit down with buddies and do a crossword or play around on the internet for a while (procrastination is essential, if you ask me). Lunch at the venerable South Dining Hall with friends is also a welcome break from the day’s labor, and it’s fun to sit around and relax for a while, eating whatever “gourmet” selection is up in the rotation and chatting about various things. At some point, however, usually after my last class, I finally break down and get to work. This means several hours of reading, perhaps note taking, and otherwise preparing myself for class. Not much to say about this part of the day, but it has to be done. My philosophy is to treat it like a job: just go to school, go to class, get the work done, and try to keep my evening free (this does not always work, but it's a decent enough plan). And very occasionally, I do get the urge to go be somewhat athletic and go play some basketball or lift weights for a while after the work is done.

Evenings are actually good times, assuming you've used your time wisely and gotten everything done. Like I said, I try to do this, but there have been many occasions when I've spent many hours in my room, trying to balance watching TV with reading my Contracts assignment. Assuming I'm on top of things, though, I am free to enjoy all that South Bend has to offer—which of course means I'll be staying home, watching movies on my DVD player. (Of course not, as you can tell from this guide, there’s plenty to do here, and I’ll now share a few of my favorites...though a good movie is hard to beat when nothing else is going on).

What to do depends largely on the night of the week. Mondays and Tuesdays are rather plain—perhaps an occasional meal out, a movie, or, if I’m in a strangely responsible mood, I might even work ahead a bit (this is extremely rare and I basically kicked this habit after the first week). Wednesday, it all changes. There’s truly nothing like a good evening spent at the Alumni Senior Club, affectionately known as Senior Bar, where you can hang out with friends, throw some darts, play some pool, and generally just forget any aspect of law school for a few hours (except, perhaps, to complain about how you still have to wake up and go to class at 9:00).

But that’s not all. Thursday is another enjoyable night (at places like the ‘Backer, if you so desire) or just to do something non-law related once again. Never underestimate the value and fun of all-you-can bowl nights like this at Beacon Bowl. The law school even has an extremely popular league in the Spring semester. And, if that’s not enough (after all, rolling a fourteen pound ball into a set of pins for several hours isn’t everyone’s thing), take a late night trip to Michiana’s own “club,” Heartland, where a mix of undergrads, some law students, and a host of townies get their proverbial “groove on” till the wee hours of the morning. At the very least, the curiosity factor should merit a trip.

The weekend is, well, the weekend. Friday and Saturday nights see law students descend upon the local beverage establishments like locusts, free for a few hours from the law school’s clutches. Saturdays in the Fall are days in which absolutely no work can, or should, be done (for anyone wondering why, please refer to the section about Notre Dame football), and basketball games are a nice diversion during the Winter months, whatever day they happen to fall upon. Sunday is not so much a day of rest as it is a day of getting all the work done for Monday that you planned to do on Friday and Saturday but just never got around to it. And the cycle begins anew.

Basically, I’m just trying to give you a glimpse into some of my typical days here at ND. I firmly believe in not stressing myself out about work, thus I try to find alternative activities for normal days and attempt to restrict my work to the daylight hours.
while I'm at the law school itself. Obviously, this changes as things occur (especially finals), but this method keeps me sane, despite the admittedly heavy workload. My ways may not be for everyone, but this should at least give you an idea that you don't have to go full tilt and work 24-7 while you're here, though I suppose one is always free to do so...you'll just be missing out on the fun.

- Chad McTighe, Class of 2004
South Bend stinks—or does it?

Everyone loves to discuss their so-called hatred of South Bend. However, the weekend before classes began for my second year of law school, I found it hard to believe that anyone truly hated the place. While walking around campus, buying books at the bookstore or going to Corby’s, everyone seemed excited with anticipation of the upcoming year. This time we returned to South Bend instead of coming for the first time and realized that somewhere along the way the place had become home.

If I stand now before you on my soapbox, I suppose I have to warn you that law school is intense. If it were easy, everyone would do it to avoid working for another three years. People here take academics seriously – on the other hand I must admit that I’ve missed a few classes, and not necessarily for the best reasons. I admit this to you because I never worried about people at Notre Dame studying hard – indeed, I worried that it would be the only thing they did. Don’t worry – people work hard, very hard, but I’ve always been able to find some time to play intramural soccer, go out with friends or even simply watch MTV’s Spring Break. This is a great place to go to law school.

William James, an American philosopher, once said, “Wherever you are it is your own friends who make your world.” I think about that a lot and when I look around here at Notre Dame, I’m very glad that it’s my world.

– Joe Huser, Class of 2003

Yes, it can get busier than first year

While looking for a job, my daily life was busy and exciting. On campus interviews, office visits, and moot court kept my busy in addition to my regular classes. Many late nights were spent at the library, but without question, six Saturdays in the fall were devoted to home football games. I also helped the admissions office by volunteering at open houses and continue to volunteer to work visiting days and to contact admitted students to answer their questions.

During interview season and toward the end of the semester I spent all day at the law school, eating dinner on campus with friends, but now that my summer job search is complete, my schedule is a bit more relaxed. When I have time, I go to the home basketball games, and I participate in the law school bowling league on Thursday nights. After finishing one year at Notre Dame, I feel very comfortable with my professors, and I am generally more comfortable as a law student, allowing me to finish my work faster and feel more confident, which is vastly different from the the early days during first year when everything was brand new.

– Maria Hrvatin, Class of 2003
I believe I have a unique perspective on Notre Dame Law School because I transferred to another law school after my first year, and then, after realizing how much I missed it, I returned to Notre Dame after one term away. Like many incoming students, I had the opportunity to attend other law schools but chose Notre Dame. Throughout my first year, I wondered if I had made the right decision. I was especially troubled because Notre Dame had a lower ranking, according to the major magazines, than some of the other law schools that I was admitted into. Believing that another school would offer me more career opportunities, I decided to transfer.

Shortly after arriving at my new law school, I realized that I had made a mistake. Not only did I have just as many career opportunities at Notre Dame, but I also had a much higher quality of life. For example, I developed strong friendships with my fellow classmates at Notre Dame. But after transferring, I did not develop the same type of friendships at the new school. In addition, although the professors at the new law school answered my questions, I never formed good relationships with them like I did with my Notre Dame professors. Finally, the campus at Notre Dame is both scenic and peaceful while the campus at the other university was within the middle of a busy city, with buses going past my classrooms during lectures. All of these factors made me realize that Notre Dame Law School really was the right choice for me.

I am sure that you have heard this before, but from my experience at another school, I can tell you that Notre Dame truly is a different kind of law school.

-- Brian Mastee, Class of 2003
I left a career in teaching to come to law school. As a married person, I was looking for a law school where my husband and I could become part of a community. Some of the law schools I considered attending did not offer this sort of community. Students at those schools seemed not to understand what I had in mind. They reported that spouses did not figure into the law school equation.

Our experience at Notre Dame has been the exact opposite. Beginning with my first year, my classmates and upperclassmen were interested in forging friendships with both me and my husband, Sean. Several of my classmates invited Sean to play on intramural soccer, then basketball teams. We became friends with a diverse set of new people: some married, some single, some fresh out of college, some our age or older.

The Notre Dame community became particularly important shortly after first year when Sean and I learned we were expecting our first child. After my first thoughts of joy, I entertained a slew of worries. Sean and I knew we would require support from our law school community.

We received support in abundance. Reaction to our news was universally positive. We received encouragement, advice, and baby equipment from students who were already parents. Single girlfriends listened sympathetically to my worries, cooked meals, and volunteered to babysit. A member of the faculty loaned me maternity clothes. Two guys carried my books to class when my back started to ache. My classmates’ wives organized a baby shower. My professors made it clear they intended to be supportive, and this came in handy when my doctor ordered me to bed for a week due to preterm labor. It was good to be in a community where babies were welcomed as blessings.

Shortly after Betsy was born, Sean’s parents came to visit us here in South Bend. Initially, Sean’s parents had questioned my decision to attend Notre Dame rather than a more highly ranked school on the East Coast. Seeing the friendships we had made here and the joy our friends took in Betsy, Sean’s mother took me aside to say that she and her husband totally understood why we had chosen Notre Dame. I’m so glad we did.

Faculty

INTIMIDATING—SOMETIMES, CONVIVIAL (ALWAYS)

The faculty set Notre Dame Law School apart. Sure, some schools have more Harvard and Yale grads. Other schools have more former-Supreme Court clerks. No school in the country has a faculty that has as many well-respected AND gracious professors. For example, one of us left the law school at 10:30 one night after it had snowed heavily and was walking down Notre Dame Avenue. Dean O’Hara stopped as she was driving by and offered a ride. It’s the little things that make the faculty here special.

In this section, we have again given you some comments by current students, a list with some comments about professors who are likely to teach first year courses, and finally a list of most of the rest of the faculty.

Students’ Comments on Faculty

This is a sampling of comments about particular faculty members we received from students. We also heard about how Professor Velasco can be found pacing the halls at the beginning of the semester memorizing all his students’ names (100+ for business associations); how Professor Rick Garnett plays basketball with a student team each winter; how Professor Nagle has students in the Christian Legal Society to his home every semester for a barbeque; and how the research librarians will regularly drop whatever they’re doing to help students research for projects. These comments give just a glimpse of the graceful and debonair nature of the faculty at NDLS.

I recently asked Prof. Patricia Bellia to write a letter of recommendation for my federal clerkship applications. Prof. Bellia wrote a great letter for me, in fact the letter was so good that I had a federal district court judge called me for an interview after receiving only her letter, and none of my other materials. . . . Not only did she write me an outstanding letter, but she has always been available outside of class to answer questions about course work or the clerkship process. Prof. Bellia has genuine concern for her students and is truly a great teacher of the law.

Keith Eastland, 2L

Professor Hull, an adjunct professor at NDLS, has been very helpful to me. Professor Hull teaches a class on disability law & works at Indiana Legal Services. On several occasions, he has met with me to talk about disability law (a field in which I am very interested). Even though, he is extremely busy -- he always makes time to take me to lunch to chat about his cases, my career, and law in general. He's great!

Sara Culley, 3L

Prof. AJ Bellia is great inside and outside of class. . . . Outside of class, Prof. Bellia discussed summer employment with me and took the time to inform me about a position he was very familiar with (i.e. an externship with a judge he clerked for).
During my first semester, I really appreciated the advice that Professor Cathy Kaveny gave us on surviving law school during her contracts class. Some of it was very basic: things like making sure you get enough sleep as the semester wears down and how, when outlining, organizing your outline in the same sequence as the casebook table of contents is helpful. Some of her advice was more comforting, like telling us that a person's grades in law school bear little relationship to how good a lawyer he or she will be. I was impressed that a professor took the time to remember law school from a first semester student's perspective and tried to come up with small things we could do to make law school a less stressful and more satisfying experience. Professor Kaveny, like many of the professors at Notre Dame, went out of her way to be helpful. Her advice made my first semester—and the rest of my time at Notre Dame—a lot more enjoyable.

Beth Riga, 3L

Undoubtedly the most rewarding aspect of my law school experience has involved my work at the Immigration Clinic under the direction of Professor Barbara Szveda. This woman and the work that she gets law students involved with embody the spirit of the law school's mission "to educate a different kind of lawyer" in order to zealously advocate for the voiceless and victimized in today's society. As a legal intern under Professor Szveda's supervision, we represented individuals and families whose life stories often brought tears to our eyes in many an intake. It is an indescribable feeling to see the look on a client's face after he realizes that his asylum claim has just been granted, to see a noticeable difference in the way he walks away from the courtroom with an entirely new outlook on life. The work of Christ teacher and advocate of the poor takes place every day at 725 Howard Street—you simply must check out the law school's Legal Aid Program.

Mark Farrell, 3L

An experience that has defined life at our law school has almost nothing to do with law. Last semester I blew out my knee—tore my ACL—playing football. Unfortunately, it occurred at a time when insurance coverage through my parents was ending, and I didn't have a backup. It looked like I was going to pay for surgery myself. That burden, along with the general stresses of second year, first semester really wore me out. Several of my professors were concerned and asked me about it. Dean Rougeau not only asked, but he also offered to help and hooked me up with a knee doctor who would work with my financial situation. I can't imagine this happening at other law schools.

Diane Meyers, 2L

First Year Professors & Courses

First year, you will all take the same classes. The class is split into two sections, and you take all your substantive classes with the same group of people. While some people find that they have a hard time getting to know people in the other section, you will find that it’s easy to form study groups and lasting friendships with the students in your section.

In this section, we’ve listed the first year classes with a brief description of each and provided a list of professors who will probably teach first years in 2002-2003. There are fifteen credits each semester.
Professors:

Joseph Bauer
Teaches: Civil Procedure I, Conflict of Laws, Anti-trust, Trade Regulation, Intellectual Property. J.D from Harvard University. His yearly birthday party is one of the most highly anticipated events of any IL’s first semester.

AJ Bellia
Teaches: Contracts I & II, Federal Courts. J.D. from Notre Dame. Professor Bellia is one of Notre Dame’s two husband-wife teaching teams. Clerked for Justice Scalia. His contracts class is highlighted by his humorous asides which demonstrates how much he loves what he is teaching.

Patricia Bellia
Teaches: Constitutional Law, Cyberlaw. J.D. from Yale. Married to Bellia, supra. Clerked for Justice O’Connor. Don’t think you’ll go unnoticed in her class—she has a knack of knowing people’s names on the first day.

Fernand “Tex” Dutile
Teaches: Criminal Law, Law of Education. J.D. from Notre Dame. No one knows how a professor from Maine with a Boston accent got to be called “Tex” but his criminal law class is very popular with first year students. Along with his University position as faculty NCAA rep comes an enormous Football national championship ring from 1988.

Nicole Garnett
Teaches: Property, Local Government Law, Urban Property Seminar. J.D. from Yale. Professor Garnett is another half of one of the husband and wife teaching teams. Clerked for Justice Thomas. Watch out for her terrific wit and sense of sarcasm.

Richard Garnett
Teaches: Criminal Law, Constitutional Criminal Procedure, Death Penalty, First Amendment. J.D. from Yale Law School. Professor Garnett is married to Professor Garnett supra. Clerked for Chief Justice Rehnquist. Professor Garnett’s love of teaching the law is surpassed only by his love of his two little children and an obsession with Duke basketball (we almost ruined his tournament this year).
Alan Gunn

Associate Dean Roger Jacobs
Teaches: Legal Research, Directed Readings. J.D. from University of Detroit. Professor Jacobs is an excellent communicator and also a very skilled professor of legal research.

Cathleen Kaveny
Teaches: Contracts I & II, Ethics and Law at the End of Life, Mercy and Justice. J.D. from Yale. Her pep talks are terrific, and she has a tremendous bag of word pictures for contract concepts.

William Kelley

Dwight B. King
Teaches: Legal Research. J.D. from University of Michigan. Poetry and cartoons are both part of the teaching of legal research when Professor King is in the room. A very popular teacher of legal research.

Patti Ogden
Teaches: Legal Research. J.D from University of Texas. Professor Ogden loves to teach legal research to first year students who love to learn it from her. Her availability in the library in the days leading up to the legal research exam is always appreciated by first years.

Fr. John Pearson
Teaches: Property, White Center Seminar, Environmental Law. J.D. from University of California—Berkeley. Most avid user of PowerPoint in the law school—even ties in audio clips.
Teresa Phelps
Teaches: Moot Court and Legal Writing, Gender Issues and the Law. Masters of Science of the Law from Yale Law School. Professor Phelps, in addition to teaching all of the first years how to avoid passive voice in their legal writing, is also the advisor for the very popular Group Alternative Live In Legal Educational Experience. (GALILEE)

Warren Rees
Teaches: Legal Research, Advanced Legal Research. J.D. from Southern Illinois University. Professor Rees is a quiet fountain of knowledge for first years eager to learn how to do effective legal research.

John Robinson
Teaches: Civil Procedure I & II, Ethics I, Trusts and Estates. J.D. University of California – Berkley. Professor Robinson’s sense of humor is renowned throughout the law school and his knowledge of the details of the cases he teaches never ceases to wow his first year students.

Jay Tidmarsh
Teaches: Torts, Civil Procedure II, Federal Court Jurisdiction, Modern Tort Liability, Remedies, Complex Civil Litigation. J.D. from Harvard. Well liked and funny, Professor Tidmarsh is perhaps most well remembered by first year students for his use of “props” and card tricks to demonstrate the facts of cases read by his class.

Classes:
Civil Procedure I & II
Civil Procedure is the set of rules governing civil trials in the federal court system. The class focuses on the constitutional and statutory framework within which the civil justice system operates. In particular, it examines the sources and limitations of judicial power over people and organizations (personal jurisdiction) and over cases (subject matter jurisdiction). The court also explores the extent to which state law must be applied in federal court. Second semester Civil Procedure examines how litigation is conducted in federal courts, from the initiation of the lawsuit (pleadings) to the manner in which claims and parties are added to or dropped from the lawsuit (joinder, intervention, interpleader, class actions), to the exchange and gathering of information among parties to the lawsuit (discovery), to the resolution of the lawsuit (summary judgment, trial, appeals) and the impact of the completed lawsuit on future litigation (claim and issue preclusion). Five credits (2F/3S).
Constitutional Law I
Examines the structure of our government as defined by the federal Constitution, Supreme Court precedents interpreting that document and the traditional practice of the elected branches. Focuses on the distribution of power among the three branches of the federal government, and the division of power between the federal government and the states. Three credits (S).

Contracts I & II
Presents a comprehensive study of the creation, transfer and termination of contract rights and duties. Contracts deals with the formation of private law between parties, the resolution of ambiguities that are within contracts, and the resolution of disputes that arise from them. You may also be lucky enough to learn the dance of offer and acceptance. Five credits (3F/2S).

Criminal Law
Deals with the basic principles of American criminal law such as the definition of crime, defenses, proof and punishment, and the basic structure and operation of the American criminal justice system. You will learn what cool sounding and often-used Court TV terms such as voluntary manslaughter and malice aforethought really mean. Will make Law and Order make more sense. Three credits (F).

Ethics I
Studies and analyzes law as a profession, as well as the duties and responsibilities of lawyers to society, clients and the profession. Develops in prospective lawyers an awareness and an understanding of your relationship with and function in our legal system, and the consequent obligation of lawyers to maintain the highest standards of ethical professional conduct. A one hour team-taught seminar that touches upon areas of ethics and the law ranging from ethical billing practices to an attorney’s duty to report a colleague for misconduct. One credit, pass/fail (S).

Legal Research
Designed to introduce you as a 1L to the tools and methodology of legal research and to help develop the research skills that are essential both in law school and in law practice. Although seemingly impossible, you will also quickly learn your way around the library, including where Reporters, Digests, Law Reviews and ALRs can be found. Another team-taught seminar that will bring you back to your childhood days with a showing of a certain cartoon about how a bill becomes a law. One credit (F).

Legal Writing
Introduces you to the new world of legal discourse and provides instruction, experience, and guidance in learning to write those documents that you will someday write as lawyers. You will learn to despise the passive voice. Two credits (F).

Moot Court

Introduces you to techniques of appellate advocacy. Each student is required (with a partner) to brief and argue one appellate Moot Court case. Probably the most fun class during first year. Two credits (S).

Property

Addresses the issues surrounding the creation, transfer, sale, possession, and inheritance of both real and personal property. You will learn the difference between a fee simple absolute and a fee tail. You will also become familiar with covenants, servitudes, future interests, and the always helpful landlord-tenant relationship. The only class during first year that discusses RAP. Four credits (S).

Torts

Addresses the legal rules which determine whether civil liability attaches to conduct resulting in harm to others. Try to define “tort” as you may, it is most often described as a “civil wrong.” Brush up on your Latin, and be prepared for some of your most interesting cases that you will read during your first year. Topics include proximate cause, negligence, assault, false imprisonment, duty/breach/causation/injury and foreseeability. Four credits (F).

List of Faculty

In case you are as confused by faculty titles as we were, assistant professors are the most junior faculty and are untenured; associate professors may be both tenured and untenured; professors are tenured, senior faculty. Deans are involved in the management of the law school and may also teach. Professors with titles like “Michael Corleone Professor of Law” are chaired professors.

The list below contains professors who do not teach first year classes. For more information about a particular faculty member, or to retrieve contact information, please visit the faculty web pages at http://www.law.nd.edu/faculty/faculty.html.

Notre Dame Law School recruits nationally, so schools from all over the country have sent students here. You'll find that schools of all different sizes and kinds are represented, including a large number of small liberal arts colleges. By far, the best-represented undergraduate school is Notre Dame, and these students are the so-called "Double Domers."

Pennants from the schools that NDLS students have attended for undergrad hang from the ceiling. The pennants represent most, if not all, the schools that law students attended in the past fifteen or so years. If you find that a pennant from your undergrad is not there, you are encouraged to get a pennant for the café (you'll be envied by your peers)

The following lists are based on the students enrolled for the 2001-2002 academic year.

Orientation

LIKE KINDERGARTEN—YOU GET TO STAND IN LINE

Getting everything in order before class starts is pretty simple at ND. The Law School will send you a continuous stream of correspondence making sure you know when and where you can get everything you’ll need: parking permits, books, supplies, etc. The Law School will also let you know the schedule for registration, and the law school has a great orientation program to make sure enrollment goes smoothly and you’re ready for the first day of class.

There are some things of which you should be particularly aware. The university will send you particulars regarding each of these, but keep them in mind and don’t forget to get them taken care of. First, whether you lucked out and got into Fisher Grad, or you’re living in the “rustic opulence” that is Turtle Creek, it’s nice to have someone else take care of your dining needs at least occasionally. Notre Dame Food Services has a variety of meal plans for all students, on and off campus, ranging from a few meals per week to a full 21 meal-per-week plan, and varying amounts of Flex Points (usable at a number of campus favorites: some unique to ND, such as Recker’s and Allegro, and some perhaps better known, like Burger King). If nothing else, it’s handy to have a few meals so you can hit one of the two dining halls with friends for lunch every now and then … and the convenience of having your choice of meal at a buffet instead of fending for yourself is especially nice when you need to eat and your contracts assignment looms due in an hour.

Health insurance is required to enroll in classes. During the summer, you will receive insurance information. If you have insurance already, send proof of insurance to Health Services. If you forget, the university will bill you for the standard student insurance. If you forget to mail the insurance information in during the summer, take proof of insurance to health services (just north of the Main Building) before classes start or during the first week.

Campus parking is a must for those living off campus, though some living in houses near campus may find a brisk jaunt to the law school better than the trek from the C1 lot. A parking decal is easy to obtain, affordable, and useful, especially since fines for parking in the all-too-inviting bookstore lot near the law school can add up fast. For 2002-2003, the parking decal costs $91. The easiest way to get your parking decal is to sign up during the orientation day—remember your license plate number.

You’ll also want to get your student ID as soon as possible (before the bulk of the undergrad Freshman class arrives and lines become similar to those at Disneyland)—you should receive information about where to do this (usually South Dining Hall) over the summer. It might also prove useful to get your computer set up for ResNet (if you’re living on campus or have a laptop you plan to use while in the law school or at various other campus sites with network access) or to get the software for dial-up access from off campus. The Office of Information Technology can help you with this, and, once again, the sooner you get this done, the better, as they tend to be swamped during the first couple weeks of classes. The law school has its own computer staff, check with them first. More information will be sent to you this summer.

Pretty much everything else you'll need to take care of occurs as part of orientation. You will definitely need to get your books early, as there will be reading assignments due on the first day and (unlike some undergrad courses with similar first-day tasks) you will need to do them. Orientation will include a law school tour (when you're assigned lockers and mailboxes and get to see the library where you'll spend some time), your schedule of classes, your ID for accessing the campus network, and other basic orientation activities, including a trip to the bookstore where second and third year students will make sure you get all the required texts for classes. The easiest way to make sure that you get the right books is to wait until orientation.

A final checklist of things you should get/take care of before classes start:

- Student ID
- Health insurance
- Parking (during Orientation)
- Meal plan
- ResNet/Dial-up access
- Books (during Orientation)
For some, the first day of class at law school is a walk in the park; for others, it can be a harrowing experience. Lots of you may have watched The Paper Chase or read One L to get an idea of what to expect, and it’s safe to say that these are not quite indicative of the Notre Dame experience. No professor in the first year curriculum quite compares to Kingsfield (though some are certainly more intimidating than others) … that’s not to say by any means that they’re pushovers. Some may adhere more to the Socratic method than others (peppering one or more students basically at random with questions about the assigned cases for the duration of the class period), but all will expect you to be prepared to discuss the text (and, it almost goes without saying, they expect you actually to be present in class). While “passing” may be acceptable in some classes if you’re stumped, don’t expect to succeed in doing so on the first day. If you’re a gambler, you might figure you can slip through the cracks and avoid being called on (after all, they can’t get all ninety students involved in the lecture in one day), but you do so at your own risk…

The best way to ensure smooth sailing on day one is simply to do the assigned readings (and do a good job of it), and to be ready to answer questions about them. Some professors will email the assignments to you (another good reason to get your AFS account set up quickly), but most will post them on the aptly named “assignment board” located between the lounge and the locker area in the law school. Briefing the cases is also useful—without getting into any details, write up a summary of the facts for each case, the legal issue that seems to be presented, how the court resolves the issue, and a synopsis of the court’s reasoning in deciding as it did. And remember, even if it seems otherwise at times, no professor is out to embarrass anyone or to humiliate someone in front of the class. They just want to get you ready to be a good lawyer, and to be one, you’ll need to be able to think on your feet and analyze case law closely to find the precedent—that’s basically all the professors’ “grillings” are designed to do.

Perhaps the biggest thing to remember (for the first day and all of law school thereafter) is that law school can actually be fun, and certainly interesting. Just relax, do the work, and be ready to talk about it. Take good notes (laptops are quite common, and are an extremely handy way of keeping all your class notes organized … as long as you remember to keep everything backed up) and pay attention. Feel free to ask your professors questions (they’re all more than willing to help you understand; go to their office hours if you have something that comes up outside of class). If you want some more help understanding the readings, many students find hornbooks and other supplements helpful (Glannon and Gilbert’s are common)—you can get many of these at almost any bookstore (Notre Dame’s included). Just find the one for your particular subject (ones written by the author of your text are especially helpful, if you can find them), and read away. Good luck!
Football Weekend

IT'S NOT JUST FOOTBALL, IT'S NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL

Notre Dame has approximately 10,000 students. But our football stadium holds over eight times that many people and every weekend the minions stream into South Bend and turn Notre Dame's picturesque campus into a big festival. A home football “weekend” in the shadow of the Golden Dome starts as early as Wednesday. That is when you first start to notice the many, many fans. These are not just people coming to the game; these are people on a pilgrimage to one of the meccas of American sport. Even several weeks into the season it is still just a little strange to see people posing for pictures outside of buildings you consider just part of the campus landscape. But of course there is one building on campus that is way more then just part of the landscape.

Notre Dame Stadium. The house that Knute Rockne built (literally). Capacity of more than 80,000. Over 150 straight sell outs. Home to the 11-time national champion Fighting Irish.

So while you start to feel the beginning of the home football weekends on Wednesday and Thursday, the festivities truly kick off on Friday at noon with the football luncheon in the Joyce Center (Notre Dame’s Basketball/Hockey Arena). The luncheons are opportunities to meet with Irish coaches and players, and the keynote speaker is always Notre Dame’s head coach. By mid-afternoon the “buzz” on campus is evident. The Student Bar Association normally hosts a T.G.I.F party on football weekends at the law school, which is always a good time. Friday’s events culminate in the famous Friday-night pep rallies. While this may sound like a high-schoolish event it certainly is not. The gates to the Joyce Center open at 5:30 and by the time the “Best Band in the Land” marches in at 6:30 the arena has been packed to the gills with 12,000 people. The pep rallies feature cheerleaders, the Notre Dame band, the football team and coaching staff and of course special guests. Past guests have run the gamut from Wayne Gretzky to Dick Vitale, Regis Philbin, and Jenny McCarthy. After the pep rally it’s off to some of the famous sports bars around South Bend to rub elbows with alumni, fans and of course fellow students.

Saturdays are game days and they are packed with activity. Most people start their day off with a trip to the Grotto to light a candle and then a tour through the Basilica, where you might see the team going to Mass. After seeing the team walk across campus from Mass you might be hungry, so grab a Bratwurst and a soda from one of the concession stands set up on the quads and run by student groups. Another must see on game days is the band’s “Concert on the Steps” at Bond Hall where you can hear the best college fight song in the land, the Notre Dame Victory March. By now it’s nearing noon and it’s probably time to check out the open air tailgating parties going on in the parking lots surrounding the stadium, truly a sight to see and take part in.
Game time is always 2:30 p.m eastern time because every Notre Dame home game is broadcast on live, nationwide television by NBC (Notre Dame Broadcasting Company). But the T.V. coverage doesn’t matter because one of the best fringe benefits of being a law student at Notre Dame is getting to buy football season tickets in the student section. So after tailgating grab your ticket booklet and head over to Gate E of the stadium and don’t forget to bring comfortable shoes … the students at Notre Dame stand for the entire game. Several hours later feeling tired and hopefully very, very happy (because Notre Dame won) you file out of the stadium and either participate in some post-game tailgating or you can head over to the law school for a post-game reception. The reception, in the law school lounge, for alumni and students, is a great opportunity to network with ND law graduates who have returned from across the world. Of course there is much more to a Notre Dame football weekend but you just have to come here and experience it for yourself to truly understand … at least that is what we had to do!
Airlines & Airports

How to In & Get Out of South Bend

South Bend Regional Airport

The closest airport to campus is the South Bend Regional Airport, located about 15 minutes away. The airport has several dozen flights each day to eight airports throughout the Midwest and East Coast. The following airlines fly out of South Bend Regional:

- United Express – Chicago (O’Hare)
- Delta Connection – Cincinnati and Atlanta
- Northwest Airlines – Detroit (Metro) and Minneapolis-St. Paul
- USAirways Express – Pittsburgh
- American Connection (formerly Trans World Express) – St. Louis
- ATA Connection – Chicago (Midway)

Any domestic flights, and most international flights, will at most require one more transfer. Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, and Atlanta offer non-stop international service to most of the main European hubs. The flight to Chicago is ridiculously short, but even so, it’s nicer than having to pay to park at O’Hare. Don’t worry—flying around the country for call-back interviews is no problem.

South Bend Regional Airport is located on the northwest side of town on Lincolnway West. There is plenty of parking at the airport available at a reasonable price. Taxi fare between campus and the airport is about $10. Unfortunately, airfares out of South Bend are often much more expensive than at surrounding airports.

O’Hare and Midway

Chicago’s O’Hare International Airport, the world’s busiest airport, is only a two-hour drive from Notre Dame. O’Hare offers non-stop flights to destinations throughout the world as well as airfares that are usually cheaper than those at South Bend Regional. Midway Airport, located on Chicago’s southwest side, is only 1.5 hours from South Bend. Midway is a hub for two low-cost airlines—Southwest and American Trans Air (most of the major airlines also have limited service out of Midway).

Most Notre Dame students who fly out of O’Hare and Midway use the United Limo bus service (www.busville.com, 800-833-5555) to travel from campus to the airports. The United Limo picks up passengers near the Hammes Bookstore on campus as well as at the South Bend Regional Airport. The bus fare is $31 each way or $57 round-trip. Because the United Limo stops in several cities between South Bend and the Chicago airports, the bus ride takes about three hours.

An Insider’s Guide to Notre Dame Law School
Indianapolis International

Indianapolis International Airport, located on the southwest side of Indianapolis, is about a three-hour drive from the Notre Dame campus. Indianapolis is the only major Midwestern airport that is not a hub of any major airline. As a result, there are fewer flights to fewer destinations (although you can fly from Indianapolis to just about any major city in the East Coast, South, and Midwest). Because the Indianapolis market is not dominated by a single airline, airfares out of Indianapolis are some of the cheapest in the Midwest.

The biggest problem with flying out of Indianapolis International is getting there. Realistically, the only way to get there is to drive there yourself. There is plenty of parking available, and the parking rates are very reasonable. Although a few South Bend taxicab companies will take passengers from South Bend to the Indianapolis airport, their fares are extortionate.
Athletic Department: Just the mention of Notre Dame suggests images of legends. National Championships, NCAA tournament appearances, New Year’s Day Bowl Games. With colors of Navy Blue and Gold, and the occasional Kelly Green for good luck, the Fighting Irish mystique makes the University of Notre Dame's athletic department the most storied collegiate program in the country. Its rich history is embedded with tales of heroes who have overcome overwhelming odds to lead the Irish to victory. A truly national University, the Irish sports teams are comprised of athletes from coast-to-coast, and you're sure to find at least one “subway alumni” in every city across the country.

Joyce Center: Notre Dame's legendary double-domed home of basketball, fencing, hockey, volleyball, and swimming. Named after former executive vice-president and chairman of the Faculty Board on Athletics, Father Joyce, the Joyce Center houses Notre Dame's athletic offices in addition to several varsity teams. It opened in the fall of 1968 and is due for renovation. Within the past two years, the building has hosted other community events, including a U2 concert, World Wrestling Federation shows, and the Harlem GlobeTrotters show.

Facilities and teams: From legendary Notre Dame Stadium to the Joyce Center, to the one-of-a-kind Loftus Field House boasting the finest indoor track-and-field complex not in a dome, the Irish sporting venues are about a ten-minute walk from anywhere on campus. Fall sports include football, women's volleyball, cross-country, and men's and women's soccer. Winter sports include ice hockey, fencing, men's and women's swimming, and men's and women's basketball. Spring sports include baseball, softball, men's and women's tennis, men's and women's lacrosse, men's and women's track-and-field, and men's and women's golf.

National Championships: Most recently celebrating a women's basketball national championship in 2001, a championship caliber of play is expected under the Golden Dome. A member of the BIG EAST Conference in all major sports, with the exceptions of hockey (CCHA) and football (independent), Notre Dame has claimed 22 team national championships. In fact, the 2001 basketball champions were greeted by hundreds of students outside of all places—the law school. Notre Dame football has won more national championships (11) and hosted more Heisman Trophy winners (7) than any other program in the nation.

Student Section: Well-over 90% of the Notre Dame student-body attends football games, a weekly rite of passage on the typical fall Notre Dame weekend. Standing upon the wooden bleachers in the Notre Dame student-section, one can be sure to leave the stadium feeling somewhat hoarse—certainly in merriment of another football triumph. Notre Dame was ranked No. 1 in the category of "Students Pack the Stadium" in

Pep Rally: The appetizer for the Notre Dame Football Weekend is the traditional Friday evening pep rally at the Joyce Center. With guest speakers ranging from Baseball Hall-of-Famer Tommy Lasorda to NHL legend Wayne Gretzky, the rally normally attracts high-profile speakers with an electric capacity crowd on the edge of their feet. The September 5, 1997, pep rally before the Georgia Tech Re-Dedication Game was held in Notre Dame Stadium and attracted more than 35,000 fans.

Victory March: The most recognizable college fight song in the country, the “Notre Dame Victory March” was written by brothers Michael J. Shea (1905) and John Shea (1906, 1908) graduates at the turn of the century. Believe me, you’ll learn to sing this with pride after a few weeks on campus.

Rally sons of Notre Dame:
Sing her glory and sound her fame,
Raise her Gold and Blue
And cheer with voices true:
Rah, rah for Notre Dame
We will fight in every game,
Strong of heart and true to her name
We will ne'er forget her
And will cheer her ever
Loyal to Notre Dame

Cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame,
Wake up the echoes cheering her name,
Send a volley cheer on high,
Shake down the thunder from the sky.
What though the odds be great or small
Old Notre Dame will win over all,
While her loyal sons are marching
Onward to victory.
Notre Dame finished second in the category entitled "Everyone Plays Intramural Sports."

Bars

PLACES TO DRINK, DANCE & JUST HANG OUT

Benchwarmer's Sports Lounge
236 South Michigan 232-0022
A decent bar, offering several pool tables in addition to a small dance floor that actually gets used. It's pretty popular on the weekends... watch out for underage people—this used to be a favorite spot for them. Drink specials on the weekends are decent but get there early because pitcher prices have been known to double around 11:00.

The Boat Club
106 Hill St. 288-6888
A seedy bar with the highest cover, most watered-down beer, and tons of undergrads... and yet there's just something that draws people to the Boat Club. It's one of the few bars where people go to dance in addition to drink; just don't be surprised if that person you're dancing with happens to be underage. On a bright note, they rent out the upstairs portion of the bar for a dollar for parties, as long as you can assure that there will be at least fifty people there. This is a place to check out, just to say you've been there. Thursday-Saturday are your best bets.

C.J.'s
417 North Michigan Street 233-5981
Best burgers in the area... smaller place to catch dinner, maybe the first stop on a weekend excursion. Don't forget to check out the walls for autographs from past and present N.D. athletes, and don't be surprised to see your professors hanging out there too. Stop in for lunch any day of the week but Sunday.

Club 23
744 Notre Dame Ave. 234-4015
(Intersection of Notre Dame Ave. and S.R.23)
A less crowded, more laidback (some would say shady) bar with sticky carpeting... the advantage is that it's open later than most bars in the area. If you're feeling adventurous during the week, odds are this is where you'll end up. Also a good spot to go if you like karaoke or making fun of drunk people who like karaoke.
Coach’s Sportsbar
2046 S.R. 23  277-7678
A larger bar that lacks character… Tuesday and Sunday are the days to head here. Drink specials on Tuesday nights are hard to resist. Sunday features dollar burgers and drinks, plus karaoke starting at 7:30 for all those interested in embarrassing themselves. Expect big crowds on football weekends due to its proximity to campus.

Corby’s Irish Pub
441 East LaSalle  233-5326
The best bar in South Bend… Corby’s has the best atmosphere of any bar around. Drink specials make this the place to be on Tuesday nights. Don’t be surprised to see many of your fellow law students here on the weekend. Several pool tables and dartboards coupled with a nice outdoor area for when the weather is nice make Corby’s a favorite.

Heartland
222 South Michigan  234-5200
Like to dance? Heartland is the closest thing to a dance club South Bend has to offer. Thursday night is college night: dollar cover, dollar beer and well drinks along with over a thousand college students make this one of the better places to be. Just pray you don’t get called on in that early class on Friday.

The Library (formerly Finnigan’s)
113 East Wayne St.  293-0452
In the middle of downtown South Bend, this place offers various specials throughout the week. Wednesday is probably the busiest night, but it’s a good place to hit on the weekends too. It’s more of a socializing bar where people get together, drink, talk and hang out more than anything else. Plus, don’t you feel less guilty telling your parents you’re going to the “library” on Friday night?

Linebacker Lounge
1631 South Bend Ave.  289-0186
(close enough to see from campus)
All roads lead to the 'Backer… a favorite of many students, it’s a small, unassuming little bar that packs in way too many people, blaring music loud enough to make your ears ring for days. Odds are that this is where almost any weekend outing will end up. Just look out for the “Backer Sludge” that coats your shoes and pants. On the bright side, cover is only three bucks which comes with a free drink coupon… try the Long Islands.
Senior Bar
On-campus
Expect to spend some Wednesday nights here... just south of the stadium, it's the only bar on campus. The place law students go to drink on Wednesday nights. They feature a lifetime membership so that you don't have to pay a cover every time you go. Get your membership during the first few weeks of September for half price ($10 in 2001). Buy a 20 oz. Senior Bar Cup and you can refill it at a discount any time you use it.

Other Places to get a Beer with your Meal...

Between the Buns
1803 S.R. 23 247-9293
Close to campus, this is a pretty good place to sit down with friends and watch a game. They bill themselves as being "fun for the whole family" and boast the "best wings in the area." The area is limited to about three blocks because BW3's wings downtown are better.

BW3's
123 West Washington 232-2293
This is a chain sports bar whose specialty is its wings. Plenty of big screen TV's, interactive games, and a hearty beer list make this a good place to watch your favorite game, or just hang out. They have drink specials every day but go for wing specials on Tuesdays and Saturdays. First years have been known to take their third year writing assistants here for wings and beer at the end of the year.

Club LaSalle
115 W. Colfax 288-1155
The nicest place to get a drink in South Bend, it's above the LaSalle Grill in downtown South Bend. The entrance is in the back. Business casual dress required. A great place to catch live jazz on the weekends.

Macri's Deli (2 locations)
Downtown: 214 North Niles Ave. 280-4824
Mishawaka: 227 West University Dr. 277-7273
Macri's has some of the best deli-style sandwiches around. Coupled with more big screen TV's and interactive games, it's a good place to catch a game, or just lunch some day. Try the cannoli for desert—it's terrific.
Mishawaka Brewing Company
3703 North Main (Mishawaka) 256-9993
German-style food and their own really good micro-brewed beers (and root beer!) are the signatures of the Brew Co. The focus here is more on relaxing with friends and taking your mind off of things than anything else. Definitely one place you have to try while you’re here.

Oaken Bucket
1212 South Ironwood 289-1616
Not too many people know about this place, but it probably has the second best burgers in the area.
Bowling

GET READY FOR SPRING LAW SCHOOL BOWLING LEAGUE

Surprisingly, bowling is an important part of the spring semester at the Law School. Each spring, the Student Bar Association organizes the law school bowling league. So, to help you get ready for Law School League Night (Thursdays), here are the two most popular bowling alleys in South Bend.

Beacon Bowl
4210 Lincolnway West 234-4167
About a fifteen minute drive from campus. Near the airport. All-you-can-bowl for $5 on Thursday nights, Rock-n-bowl (black lights & ‘80’s rock) after 10:00 on Fridays. Surprisingly popular with law students; hosts the law student bowling league.

Chippewa Bowl
225 W. Chippewa Ave 291-5093
About ten minutes south of campus. Across the street from the Showplace 16 Theater (see Movies). Go bowling with your date before catching the late showing.
Bikes

GETTING AROUND CAMPUS & AREA TRAILS

Notre Dame has a fairly large campus with student parking at the edges. Many students take advantage of the bike racks at the law school and ride in either from home or from the parking lot. Dwight King, one of the research librarians, can often be seen in his bicycle helmet, walking into the law school in all kinds of weather.

If you do decide to take a bike to the law school, remember to bring a sturdy U-lock as bike theft is the most-reported campus crime, the local crooks will even take rusty, beat-up bikes. Notre Dame Campus Security offers free bicycle registration online at www.nd.edu/~dnemeth/bike/bikereg.html.

Bike Shops

Any of these shops should have relatively current trail information.

Pro-form
2202 South Bend Ave 272-0129
The closest bike shop to campus, at Ironwood and State Route 23. A nice high-end shop.

Albright’s Cycling and Fitness
2720 Lincolnway West (Mishawaka) 255-8988
About fifteen minutes from campus by car. Less expensive than Pro-From and still a good shop.

Outpost Sports
3602 N. Grape Rd. 259-1000
Has some mountain biking equipment.

Mountain Biking & Trails

The local trail in South Bend is in Rum Village Park and consists of about four miles of winding single track created by mountain bikers with the blessing of the City. Difficulty depends on how fast you ride—some narrow stretches and tight corners make this a fun diversion, especially since it is only a fifteen-minute bike ride or five-minute drive from campus. To get there head south on US 31 (Michigan Ave) and turn right a mile or so past downtown on Ewing. There is a sign on this corner pointing to Rum Village Park and Nature Center. The trails in the main part of the park are off limits to bikes, so go past the park and turn left on Gertrude. The entry to the ride area is on your right a few hundred yards up. The City is pretty serious about controlling erosion in the area, so if the sign says it's closed, as it frequently is in wet weather, don't ride. If you get caught, you risk confiscation of your bike, and telling the cop you are a law student isn't likely to help your cause. Rum Village Park is also home to the local Frisbee golf course.

If you have time to get away for a few hours there are more riding options. Southern Michigan has a few rides, though you'll probably notice the topography is still pretty flat. T.K. Lawless County Park in Cass County is about an hour away and has a little over ten miles of trails for mountain biking. To get there, take US 33 north towards Niles, and turn east on MI 60. Shortly after Vandalia turn right on Lewis Lake Road and then east on Monkey Run Street. There is a sign for the park on M60. Parking costs a couple of bucks. If you find out why they call it Monkey Run Street let us know.

If you are not looking for single track there are a couple of good trails for family cycling in the area, including a Rails to Trails path that runs from Kalamazoo to South Haven in Southwestern Michigan, and a bicycle trail at Potato Creek State Park. There is also a trail running from Holland, Michigan up the coast of Lake Michigan to Grand Haven (about 23 miles).

More Ways to Get In & Out of South Bend

Amtrak

The South Bend Amtrak station is located west of Downtown at 2702 West Washington Avenue. Three different Amtrak trains stop in South Bend each day:

- The Lake Shore Limited (Chicago to New York City and Boston via Cleveland, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, and Albany)
- The Capitol Limited (Chicago to Washington, DC via Cleveland and Pittsburgh)
- The Pennsylvanian (Chicago to Philadelphia via Cleveland and Pittsburgh)

South Shore Railroad

The South Shore Railroad is a commuter rail line that connects South Bend with Downtown Chicago. The South Shore departs from the South Bend Regional Airport and makes numerous stops throughout Northwestern Indiana en route to Chicago. Schedule and fare information is available on their website (www.nictd.com). Because of its color and use to get home from late nights in Chicago, it's been nicknamed the Vomit Comet by students. Only $6.50 will get you into downtown Chicago—only takes about two hours.

Greyhound Bus

Greyhound has several buses each day from South Bend to various destinations, including: Chicago, Toledo, Kalamazoo, Fort Wayne, and Indianapolis. Greyhound buses depart from South Bend Regional Airport.
The career services office is a resource that is open to the students all year. First-year students across the country may begin working with career services offices in November. The NDLS staff members are very good at what they do and are always willing to help. They sponsor numerous workshops on a variety of topics ranging from resumes and cover letters to tips on networking. The staff is also available to look over resumes and cover letters and to offer specific advice.

The job search for second year students is important because the position they have during their second summer may likely turn into their first permanent position. The career services office encourages students in this position to begin their search before returning to school for the second year. The office is open during the summer, and career services personnel remain in contact during this time to help students plan and organize the job search.

In the fall, the upperclassmen can participate in mock interviews with local practitioners. Notre Dame has an extensive program for on-campus interviews. Public and private employers come to campus from across the country. Public interest law is also quite popular, and the career services office can provide advice for obtaining any necessary funding.

One resource that can be very helpful at Notre Dame is the alumni network. There are alumni clubs located across the country and are always willing to involve more people in their activities. Cathy Pieronek, the Director of the Law School Relations Office, frequently sends out e-mails regarding alumni club activities during academic breaks. These activities are a great way to make contacts that could lead to a job. Also, one of the things that distinguishes Notre Dame is the willingness of the students to help each other. This transfers into the alumni network as well, and the university's alumni directory is only one of the many resources available in the career services office.

Community Service

OPPORTUNITIES TO SERVE THE LOCAL COMMUNITY

As someone interested in Notre Dame's philosophy of "educating a different kind of lawyer," you may be searching for community service opportunities in the South Bend area. And for those of you concerned about the demands of first year studies, you may find that spending a few hours in community service is a fulfilling and relaxing study break!

As you advance in your legal career, you will find that a law degree and your specialized training give you unique opportunities and abilities to serve the community. The one-credit GALILEE (Group Alternative Live In Legal Educational Experience) course—a three day group-designed program of public interest and legal aid exploration in the city of your choice over Christmas break—attempts to reveal some of these opportunities so that you may carefully consider the direction and pursuits of your legal career. After your first year of studies, you may participate in the Notre Dame Legal Aid Clinic or the Immigration Clinic. In addition, the Public Interest Law Forum gives law students grants for unpaid summer internship positions in legal aid and public interest. There are also a number of highly competitive alumni-sponsored summer public interest internships throughout the country. The Career Services Office also provides career direction and networking in the legal aid and public interest fields.

But for now, many organizations in the area would appreciate your time and efforts as a volunteer.

The law school has several community service traditions. The Student Bar Association (SBA) includes community service as one of its missions. This year SBA has chosen three themes for service—children, education, and compassion. Law students are conducting Storytime for Children with local Headstart chapters, tutoring children at the South Bend Center for the Homeless, and serving weekly dinner at the Dismas House, a half-way house for people re-entering the community from prison in downtown South Bend. In addition, SBA helped sponsor the Blitz Build, a Habitat for Humanity project over fall break, a Halloween Trick-or-Treating event for local elementary children, Thanksgiving baskets for the less fortunate, and a Children's Olympics for the Boys' and Girls’ Clubs. Many other clubs and organizations on campus also include a community service dimension in their programming.

Students and staff members have also independently begun community service initiatives. NDLS alum Felipe Merino ('01) coordinated a community center called Dream Center in South Bend, and many NDLS students have served as volunteers there in the adult education, after-school tutoring, and reading club programs. Reference librarian Lucy Payne coordinates NDLS Women Build opportunities in conjunction with Habitat for Humanity. These traditions represent just a few of the service opportunities within the law school.

Computers

AN OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD: THE BLUE SCREEN OF DEATH

Computers are essential to law school. We can’t imagine what typing 60-page law review notes with hundreds of footnotes or even moot court briefs on a typewriter was like. You will be frustrated enough if you have to type your bar application on a typewriter during your third year to make you forgive any problems you have ever had with a computer.

A few notes about computers, their use, and their availability. Many students have laptops, and they’re growing more common with each class. Professors allow students to use laptops during class to take notes (and play Solitaire). The library has a wireless computer network—you can buy a wireless card from the Solutions Center computer store http://solution.nd.edu/ when you get to campus. The library also has over 100 data drops that can be used twenty-four hours per day. The network supports both Macs and PCs. New in 2002, laptop users can print directly to the printers in the computer labs from anywhere in the library.

For those who don’t have a laptop or a computer at all, the law school has two computer clusters that are open twenty-four hours a day. On the second floor the library, the main cluster has 34 PC’s and two Macs. On the third floor, the instructional lab has an additional thirteen computers that are available for student use except when Westlaw and Lexis hold computer training. There are also three computers in the lounge for checking e-mail. The labs have three high speed laser printers. Printing is free.

If you do have a laptop at the law school, we suggest that you get a Kensington lock (www.kensington.com) or some other locking device to secure your laptop. While there have not been any laptop thefts in the past year and the law school is a very safe place, it’s better to be safe than sorry. A cable lock will probably cost you about $45, but what’s that compared to the cost of your laptop?

You will get access to Westlaw and Lexis when you arrive on campus. Westlaw and Lexis are powerful legal databases that provide access to just about any legal source you can think of (except the one you need at 2:00 am the night before a paper is due). Both provide training, competitions to encourage use, and free printing. The Lexis and Westlaw printers in the law school can be selected from the company’s internet sites and are available from anywhere including off-campus.

If you have computing questions, the Law School has several onsite computer experts and they’re incredibly helpful. Contact Dan Manier (manier.2@nd.edu 631-3939), Director of Information Technology, or Tim Gritten (gritten.2@nd.edu 631-9793) for assistance.
Campus-wide computing assistance is available through the Office of Information Technology, Room 111, CCMB (www.nd.edu/~ndoit 631-8111). The following campus clusters are available to all Notre Dame students but any printing done in these labs will be charged against your student account (you start with $100 each semester; pages are 10¢ each).

Indiana Courses

9-Hole Notre Dame Course
Phone Number: (574) 631-6425
Distance from Campus: On Campus
Price: Student Rate: $6, maybe a few bucks more on weekends
Driving Range: No
Yardage: Short
Par: 35
Twilight Rate: Yes
Pro-Shop: Not Really
Comments: The course is basically a cow-pasture, but for the price and convenience it is hard to beat. Be sure to set up a tee-time, because the tee is usually full, and the staff will make no effort to work you in. Don’t try and talk them into a 5-some, because they are very strict on their 4-some limit.

Warren Course
Phone Number: (574) 631-4653
Distance from Campus: Across Douglas.
Days in advance for tee-time: 14
Handicap Rating: 70.6/122
Yardage: 6346
Par: None
Weekday Rate: $17 (student rate)
Weekend Rate: $22 (student rate)
Twilight Rate: $12
Cart Rate: 16
Driving Range: Yes
Large Bucket: $8
Small Bucket: $5
Pro-Shop: Yes
Comments: A definite step up from the 9-hole course. The course is challenging, but it is still young and will be much more impressive after it matures a bit. For the level of play offered and the student discount, it is well worth it. The Warren is a moderately long, and relatively tight.
Blackthorn
Phone Number: (574) 232- 4653
Distance from Campus: 8 miles
Days in advance for tee-time: 14
Handicap Rating: 72.7/129
Yardage: 6497
Par: 72
Weekday Rate: 31
Weekend Rate: 38
Twilight Rate: 25 after 3:00
Cart Rate: 14
Driving Range: Yes
Large Bucket: 8
Small Bucket: 5
Pro- Shop: Yes
Comments: This course has an Irish atmosphere, and is one of nicest courses in the area. At its inception, Blackthorn hosted the Senior PGA Tour. The degree of difficulty of this course greatly depends on which tees you choose to play. The course has many elevation changes, and good character.

Elbel
Phone Number: (574) 271-9180
Handicap Rating: 68.3/108
Yardage: 6100
Par: 72
Rates: Reasonable
Driving Range: Yes
Pro- Shop: Yes
Comments: I believe that this course is built into a swamp, which makes it fun. There are a lot of dog-legs, but aggressive players can cut them with a good drive. If you play this course enough, you can learn how to manipulate it. All in all, it is one of the areas better courses.
Erskine
Phone Number: (574) 291-3216
Distance from Campus: 10 miles
Handicap Rating: 68.5/120
Yardage: 6098
Par: 70
Rate: Cheap
Driving Range: No
Pro-Shop: Yes
Comments: This course is a great value, and it is reasonably close to campus. I have never played here, but I hear that it is a welcomed step up from the 9-hole Notre Dame course.

Studebaker Park
Phone Number: (574) 287-6634
Distance from Campus: 5-10 miles
Handicap Rating: N/A
Yardage: 1898
Par: 29
Rates: Cheap
Driving Range: No
Pro-Shop: Yes
Comments: This course is a great place for young beginners. If you have kids or someone that you believe has no business on a regular course, take them here. The course is primarily made up of par-threes, and can be a place to work on your short game.
Michigan Courses

Brookwood Golf Course
Phone Number: (269) 695-7818
Distance from Campus: 15 Miles
Handicap Rating: 70/124
Yardage: 6418
Par: 72
Weekday Rate: 16
Weekend Rate: 22
Twilight Rate: Yes
Cart Rate: 16
Driving Range: Yes
Large Bucket: 5.50
Small Bucket: 4.50
Pro-Shop: Yes
Comments: Located in the beautiful town of Buchanan, Michigan. This is one of my favorite courses to play because the front and the back nine are substantially different. The front is blind and tight, while the back is open enough to bring out the big stick. This course is also a favorite of Lou, Ara, and the retired Notre Dame golf coach.

The Oaks
Phone Number: (269) 429-8411
Distance from Campus: 35 miles
Days in advance for tee-time: anytime
Handicap Rating: 71/123
Yardage: 6350
Par: 72
Weekday Rate: 17
Weekend Rate: 27
Twilight Rate: 10 after 6:00
Cart Rate: 13
Driving Range: Yes
Bucket: 3
Pro-Shop: Yes
Comments: This course is long, and you will likely use all of the clubs in your bag here. There are a few easy holes, but placement shots are required. Playing this course for the first time will probably cause you trouble, but once you understand the tricks, it will become more manageable.
Hampshire

Phone Number: (269) 782-7476
Distance from Campus: 25-30 miles
2- 18 Hole Courses
Original
- Handicap Rating: 71/123
- Yardage: 6645
- Par: 72
Dogwood Trail
- Handicap Rating: 69.2/122
- Yardage: 6179
- Par: 72

Weekday Rate: Reasonable
Weekend Rate: Reasonable
Driving Range: No, but there is a practice area
Pro- Shop: Yes

Comments: Both of the 18 hole courses offer a different view of the game. The original course is long from the blues and relatively open. Because of its length and slick greens, the original course has hosted the qualifier for the Western Amateur for many years. The Dogwood Trail course is shorter, and placement shooting is necessary to get the proper angle for a good approach. The original course is good for long ball hitters, while the Dogwood Trail course is more suited for placement players.

Whittaker Woods Golf Community

Phone Number: (269) 469-3400
Distance from Campus: 30-45 miles
Handicap Rating: 74.3/144
Yardage: 7072
Par: 72
Rates: Varies, but pricey
Driving Range: Yes
Pro- Shop: Yes

Comments: The front-9 of this course will eat you alive, unless you are Tiger. This course is well maintained and very scenic. There is a good combination of both distance and placement shots. If you decide to tackle this course, I would recommend bringing an extra dozen balls unless you are Professor Kelley, and then you should bring a few. If I could play here everyday, I would.
GROCERIES

PLACES TO BUY FOOD, DRINKS, AND . . . NINE IRONS?

Kroger
Your typical grocery store - no frills, but the prices are fair. Located on S.R. 23 near University Park Mall. The only national grocery chain in South Bend.

Martin's
The home-grown South Bend chain. Your typical big grocery store, with a few specialty items like sushi. The deli and sandwich shop is excellent. The store closest to campus is located on the corner of State Road 23 (South Bend Ave.) and Ironwood. It has a Starbucks outlet inside.

Meijer
Your typical modern super-store. If you've never heard of Meijer, then this is a must see during your first week at ND. You can buy a lobster, whipped cream, a nine-iron, and a car battery all on the same trip. They are also hip to the "information age" as Meijer has numerous check-yourself-out lanes (perfect for Sunday afternoons, when the entire Michiana area descends upon the store). Located on Grape Road in Mishawaka, and Cleveland & Portage in South Bend.

Sam's Club
A membership is required to shop here. Just like a BJ's Wholesale Club or Costco. Great deals on just about everything, and possibly the best deal is that you buy so much that you don't have to go shopping as much! Next to Wal-Mart across from Indian Lakes Apartments on Main Street.

Wal-Mart Supercenter
Wal-Mart's response to Meijer. Everything that Meijer has, plus you can even get your haircut, your nails done, and then your picture taken at their portrait studio. Located on Indian Ridge Road in Mishawaka.
Housing

YES, THERE ARE NICE PLACES TO LIVE IN SOUTH BEND

This is our attempt to help you find a place to live. Honestly, finding a place to live in a city that you don’t have any connections to is not easy, but we hope that this list of apartment complexes, ratings, and references will help you track down someplace you will enjoy living during your three years at Notre Dame. Fortunately, housing in the South Bend/Mishawaka area is very affordable, especially if you’re used to living on the East or West Coasts.

We have tried to provide ratings of some of the more popular complexes by contacting law students who currently live in these complexes and asking them what they think of their current digs. Some students have agreed to allow you to e-mail them to ask questions about their current apartments. Their e-mail addresses are listed below. These ratings are the opinions of students, NOT of the University or the Law School. We have tried to include off-campus complexes where a lot of law students live and others that seem like they might work for law students. There are two complexes we want to warn you against. Hillcrest Apartments and the Notre Dame Apartments, while close to campus, are not in particularly nice areas and are not known for being well-maintained.

Caveat emptor (look, we’re law students, so we had to use at least one Latin phrase). Keep in mind that you should verify this information and any information you get from the Housing Office with the landlord or management agency.

GETTING STARTED

Call the University Office of On-Campus and Off-Campus Housing (574) 631-5878 and ask them to send you the informational packets on on-campus and off-campus housing options. The information provided on on-campus housing is thorough and very helpful. The packet on off-campus housing (you’ll get it in the mail, but you can also log onto their website and print it off—you’ll need an AFS ID) has a lot of practical information, like phone numbers and addresses, but it doesn’t really tell you what different housing opportunities are like, how far they are from campus, who lives there, etc. We’ve tried to fill in those gaps with the information below. The packet the University puts together for off-campus housing can be really excellent if you’re looking to sublet, want to find a roommate, would like to live with a family, etc. Make sure you look at it and cross-reference with the information below.

If you want to live on-campus, submit your application AS SOON AS POSSIBLE! There are many more graduate students who would like the convenience of living in University housing than there are spots. The University recommends you submit your housing applications as soon as you are accepted. If you wait to look for housing, it’s unlikely that you’ll find an availability on-campus. There is a waiting list, but a spot on a list is not a roof over your head.
Decide what you need out of a living situation before you begin your search. Sit down and ask yourself whether you need to live alone or want to be surrounded by people, do you already have a roommate(s) in mind, what kind of hours you like to keep, what kind of study habits do you have, do you like to cook, do you have a car, how much can you afford to spend, etc. If you know what you want this will be a much smoother process.

Look online. Go to www.rent.net and search by South Bend and Notre Dame University campus and try www.southbend.com/RealEstateHome.shtml. Also try www.apartmentguide.com. To find apartments around Notre Dame, choose to look for apartments in the state of Indiana in the metro area “Michiana and NW Indiana.” On the next screen, choose St. Joseph County.

Good Luck! The good news is that even if you don’t like your first year living situation, you’ll probably never be there because it’s first year, and let’s face it, you live at the library! To be totally honest, almost everyone I know is happy with their living situation. South Bend is cheap, the people are nice and nothing is too far from campus. So don’t sweat the housing search too much and worry about more important things like finding a bag big enough to haul around 137.5 lbs of law textbooks!

FISCHER GRADUATE HOUSING

Description
New construction multi-bedroom townhouses and apartments. These are the nicest option for on-campus housing so everyone wants to live here. People who stay on campus for more than one year generally request to live here. You’re still right on campus, but you’re safely separated from the undergraduate dorms by a parking lot.

Everyone living here is a graduate student. If you apply to live in graduate student housing the University will match you up with one or more roommates from any of the graduate programs. You can also request a roommate. People keep odd hours because everyone is a student, but it’s quiet and clean and best of all its managed directly by the University.

Distance to the Law School
About a 5 minute walk across campus. You can ride your bike, but you’d never need to drive—although it’s not unheard of for people to drive to the lazy lot (you’ll have to ask some 2L or 3L about other places we park but aren’t supposed to when you get to campus).

Rent, Utilities & Parking
$1,868/semester
All utilities included
Parking available steps from your door for $80/school year. Unfortunately, there’s no covered parking so come January get your shovel and scraper ready! It’s a good thing you won’t need to drive to class.
Amenities & Pets
There is coin laundry within walking distance. It is only accessible to Notre Dame graduate students, so you can feel safe washing your lucky exam socks alone late at night. Fish only. No other pets.

Student Comments
The first great thing about Fischer is the price. It's dirt cheap, and it includes some pretty good furniture. All utilities are paid for at a flat rate (also a very low price), so we had our AC roaring 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. There is almost no noise whatsoever, any time – so it's no Turtle Creek (i.e. MTV Spring Break). The apartment is a decent size – living room, small breakfast nook, 2 bedrooms, bathroom + extra sink, kitchen. The kitchen is adequate, with a garbage disposal, but unfortunately no dishwasher. Decent closet space, but not great. No laundry machines – you have to walk to the community center, and sometimes it's a very cold walk. Never a security problem, nice area, no thugs or ruffians around. A few more notes: you have a chance of getting a crappy, antisocial roommate – it is a grad student residence, after all. I've lucked out twice, but I know people who haven't fared as well. Also, all ND on-campus housing has PLENTY of rules that they try to mom-and-dad you with – but enforcement is lax. Finally – if you want to live here, book your spot EARLY – it fills up fast.

O’HARA-GRACE GRADUATE HOUSING

Description
Older multi-bedroom townhouses and apartments. You’re right next to Fischer, still safely separated from the undergraduates. There are probably more 1L’s (that’s you) in O’Hara-Grace simply because it’s harder to get a spot in Fischer. Some 1L’s complain that the apartments are a little run down, but maintenance is reliable. About a 5 minute walk across campus. You can ride your bike, but you’d never need to drive.

Rent, Utilities & Parking
$1548.50/semester
All utilities included
Parking available steps from your door for $80/school year. Unfortunately, there’s still no covered parking

Amenities & Pets
There is a coin laundry in walking distance. It is only accessible to Notre Dame graduate students.

Student Comments
It’s cool, depending on who you’re living with. A lot of 1L’s live around you and you get to know/party with them. Plenty of space.

O’Hara-Grace Townhouses are located on-campus, right next to the Fischer Graduate Student Housing complexes. Each townhouse is fully furnished and has four bedrooms, one and a half bathrooms, a kitchen, and living area. The bedrooms are located on the upper floor while the living area and kitchen are located on the first floor.

It is cheaper to live in O’Hara-Grace than in the Fischer apartments. However, it comes with its share of drawbacks as well:

- Four students share one full bathroom. That’s one shower for four people!
• Four students share one phone line. Students can opt for a personal line for a hefty fee. But it's well worth the price if you want to make and receive phone calls freely.
• The buildings (and the furniture) are older than those in the Fischer apartments.

Living at O'Hara-Grace has its advantages too. It is close to school & many of your friends live nearby! Also, the rent (for the entire semester or year) is directly deducted from your student account so you never have to worry about paying rent and/or electricity!

Between O'Hara-Grace and the Fischer apartments, I would personally have liked to live in Fischer. I moved off-campus after my first year at O'Hara-Grace. And I wonder if I would have moved at all if I was living in Fischer.

These apartments are very close to campus and just around the corner from the supermarket and drug store.

Pretty much exclusively students, both graduate and undergraduate.

An Insider's Guide to Notre Dame Law School
CANDLEWOOD APARTMENTS @ Edison & Grape in Mishawaka

Description
Right by the movie theater and not too far from campus, Candlewood apartments are spacious and in great condition. Quiet with a strictly enforced noise policy and safety patrol at night.

Who Lives There
While the management claims that there are very few law students and most of the residents are senior citizens and families, don't believe them. This is one of the more popular places for law students to live.

Distance to the Law School
A 12 minute drive straight down Edison. Too far for the average person to ride a bike.

Heat is included with your rent, but all other utilities are your responsibility. Carports or garages are available for no charge. Deposit is $250

Amenities & Pets
Dogs under 35 lbs and cats – $250 deposit and $ 25/month extra. Washers and dryers in all apartments, believe me this is such a huge convenience! Indoor pool & outdoor pool. Playground for the kids. Weight room.

Student Comments
Convenient location with moderate prices. About twelve minutes to campus with quick access to shopping and restaurants on Grape and McKinley as well as Cinemark Movies 10. Heavy traffic on Edison can make exiting the Wood an adventure, but apartment buildings are far enough from the street to avoid noise problems. Facilities include both an indoor and an outdoor pool, small exercise area, and covered carport. Two bedroom apartments include a small washer/dryer unit and a dishwasher, but some of the bedrooms do not have phone jacks. Atmosphere varies from building to building depending on the number of students. Generally, Candlewood is quiet with law students scattered throughout the complex. It lacks the convenience of Fischer Grad, but the in-apartment washer/dryer and dishwasher are a real plus.

Irish Law 2002
CASTLE POINT APARTMENTS @ Ironwood & Cleveland in South Bend

Description
The closest thing to Camelot you’ll find in South Bend. The complex was built on this bizarrely landscaped hilly terrain to look like a medieval forest (no I’m not kidding). The buildings are named things like “Enchanted Forest” and “Camelot”. If you have King Arthur fantasies, look no further. In all seriousness, the apartments are new and very attractive. Students living here are very happy with the experience and have enough space to throw a few parties for the rest of us.

Who Lives There
Students and non-students alike. Quite a few law students live at Castle Point, especially 1L’s.

Distance to the Law School
About a 10-15 minute drive. You could possibly ride your bike in the warm weather, but certainly can’t walk.

Deposit is $300.
Leases: Month to month, 6, 9, or 12 months.

Amenities & Pets
This place has every amenity known to man. It’s more of a country club than an apartment complex. You have a pool, tennis courts, basketball courts, a workout facility, a banquet hall etc.

Student Comments
While most residents agree that the Medieval theme of Castle Point is silly, bordering on ridiculous, the complex offers a reasonably priced alternative to living on campus that is no more than a ten minute drive from the Law School.

Units are fairly spacious for the price. Many of the units have been recently renovated with new carpets, paint, kitchen counters, bathrooms and wallpaper (these units are available for a small surcharge). However, all the units have old (and noisy) appliances. Dishwashers are standard, the kitchens have ample counter space and each unit is wired for cable television in both the living room and the bedroom(s). While each building has a laundry room, there are not many machines in each facility, which can be inconvenient, especially on Saturday and Sunday. Laundry is expensive. The staff is helpful and willing to work with students to accommodate preferences and bring the rent down.

The facility also has a fitness club, an outdoor pool (open only in the summer for reasons which will soon be obvious to you) and several tennis courts. The tennis courts are nice, but the weight room is a joke. Admission is free.

Overall, Castle Point offers a convenient and affordable option for those interested in living off campus. Just be prepared to be laughed-at when you provide your mailing address.

Student Comments
Pluses: Apartments are spacious, clean, and well-maintained. Each apartment includes a washer and dryer. All appliances are new. Garages are also available. Apartment complex has outdoor swimming pool, tennis court, basketball court, and clubhouse. Located in a quiet residential area about 1/2 mile north of Cleveland Road.

Minuses: One of the more expensive apartment complexes in the area. Traditionally, Georgetown has not been a popular choice among law school students - the tenants are primarily younger professionals, families, and senior citizens. Not the best place to live if you like throwing late-night parties at your apartment.

Recommendations: Although a bit expensive, these apartments feature a number of nice amenities and are located fairly close to campus. Those interested in Georgetown may also want to look at Main Street Village Apartments in Granger. For a slightly higher price, Main Street Village offers brand new apartments with more amenities.

Student Comments
Cheap. The greatest benefit to living at Indian Springs Apartments is that it is cheap. In addition to cheap, they come with a washer and dryer inside the apartment. That definitely is a plus. The apartment also pays for heat, water and gas leaving only electricity and other luxuries to be paid for. If you’re looking for a cheap place to stay with easy access to laundry (the machines are in the kitchen area), Indian Springs is your place.

Living here isn’t perfect though. Indian Springs is about 10 to 15 minutes away from campus. It is probably farther away from campus than most of the other apartment complexes. It’s also on the opposite side of town than are the other apartments. The neighborhood isn’t the greatest either. While the complex itself seems pretty safe, it’s pretty bad down the street. Also, while maintenance is pretty quick to help out, if there’s a maintenance emergency after hours, like broken car horns going off at dinner or a leaking washer at midnight, you’ll have to wait until morning. All in all, I think that the rent is cheap because of the apartment’s distance from school and its location.

If Indian Springs were closer to campus, I would rate it higher. If you don’t mind commuting to class and you know tae-kwon-do or some other form of self-defense (like hunting), you might consider this place.

THE POINTE AT ST. JOSEPH On LaSalle on the River

Description
Nice looking complex overlooking the St. Joseph River downtown. Only a few blocks from Corby’s and Macri’s. Ready access to the river walk and the chase (for kayaking).

Who Lives There
Mix of students and young professionals.

Distance to the Law School
A five to ten minute drive. Wouldn’t bike it as it takes you through some pretty rough neighborhoods.

Student Comments
The Pointe is a great place. The apartments are spacious and clean. They come with washer and dryer. Everything is included in the price, except electricity and gas. The staff is friendly and usually service your requests promptly. Not many students so it's very quiet. Although it’s in downtown South Bend, it’s pretty safe. However, my wife and I are pretty careful if we venture out past 10:00. My car was broken into once, but nothing was stolen. If I were to come back to South Bend after graduation, I’d stay at the Pointe again and not look anywhere else.

Student Comments
Runaway Bay offers a good combination of quality for price in an apartment complex. They may run slightly more expensive than some complexes, but the additional square footage in your kitchen and bathroom make it worthwhile.

Every unit has a fireplace and balcony. Most have laundry hook-ups with the option to rent a washer and dryer. If you prefer to use this room for storage space, a public washer and dryer is available for every twelve units. The walls are a bit thin, so don't talk about your guests as they arrive since they can hear everything in the hallway.

The service from the office and repair staff is great. They resolve every repair the day you raise it. The facility has a fitness room, an outdoor pool and two tennis/basketball courts. I opt for the on-campus facilities, so I cannot vouch for them.

TURTLE CREEK APARTMENTS @ Edison and State Road 23 in South Bend

Description
This is the closest possible living arrangement to campus. The apartments are nice and in good shape. The management is professional and there is a police officer living in the complex to keep you safe.

Who Lives There
The undergraduate hockey team! Well, not just them, but TC is notorious for its rowdy undergraduate parties. The trick is to request to live in the one building which only has quiet students ... seriously they have one, I live there, it’s as silent as the grave. Meanwhile people are doing kegstands in the building next door. If you like the undergrad life and aren’t quite ready to let go, then live in one of the “not so quiet” buildings. There are a bunch of law students here, but mostly people who don’t mind a little noise. People here are friendly and the maintenance staff is great.

Distance to the Law School
A hop, skip and a jump between the athletic fields on foot gets you to the law school in 15 minutes. On your bike under 10 minutes. I drive and park in C1 by the stadium and I get from my door to school in 10 minutes. In terms of distance, you won’t find a more convenient location than this.

Amenities & Pets
24 hr/day coin laundry available on property. There are washer/dryer connections available in the townhouses, so you can install your own or rent from the management. You can have two pets, no more than 75 lbs. The pet will cost $15/month and a refundable $200 deposit.

Student Comments
University Park is located near the corner of Grape and Douglas Roads in Mishawaka. It is approx. 2.5 miles from campus. In good traffic, the drive is seven minutes to campus. To get from door to door in most conditions is a 15-20 minute proposition. Rent is approximately 600 dollars for a two bedroom and one bath unit. For ND students and employees, the complex does not require a security deposit. The apartments are clean and functional, and the staff is generally friendly. There is a pool and a sauna on site. On the bad side, there is only one central laundry facility that you must drive to in order to wash clothes. Also, there are more townies than in other complexes. The distance is a good buffer from campus and its bustle. The proximity to Grape Road shopping is a double-edged sword because while it is convenient to have close shopping, there can be noise problems. All in all, though, this is a great option for 1L's; it can be summed up as convenient, clean, and affordable housing.

WILLIAMSBURG ON THE LAKE On Main St. just south of Catalpa in Mishawaka

Description
You know you’re not an undergrad anymore when you move into an apartment like this. The apartments are very well kept and spacious. Manager Gene Glick is known for taking great care of his properties and his renters. There is a strictly enforced noise policy, so don’t live here if you like to play your electric guitar.

Who Lives There
According to their leasing office there are a lot of law students at Williamsburg. There are students and non-students, but no undergraduates. The management said they have single, married and married with small children students.

Deposit is $200.
6 & 12 month leases

Amenities & Pets
There are 24 hr/day coin laundry facilities on the property. The townhouses have washer/dryer connections, so you can install your own or rent from the management company for $28/month.
You can have up to two pets. The weight limit is 80lbs. There is a deposit fee, which changes depending on how “damaging” your pet looks, so call and ask.

Student Comments
Rent is reasonable and gas is included. Electricity is a separate utility, more expensive in the summer due to air conditioning. Management is alert and always helpful. Laundry facilities are available near the clubhouse (which includes a meeting room and an outdoor pool). A washer/dryer combo is available for a minimal rental cost inside the apartment as well as a reserved carport.

An Insider’s Guide to Notre Dame Law School
The housing office has a list of houses, rooms, and apartments in houses that are available for rent. If you are interested, please contact the housing office or go to the office’s website at www.nd.edu/orlh. You can also find a local real estate agent.

If you want to buy houses, the best time to look is in the spring, but fortunately, property prices in South Bend are very good. Also check out www.Southbend.com/RealEstateHome.shtml.
YOUR CHANCE FOR PHYSICAL ACTIVITY

Now that you’re in law school, it doesn’t mean that you can’t stay active. You may find that having time to get to the gym is tougher now, but there are plenty of chances to get involved in organized leagues through RecSports or through the law school.

There are leagues set up only for law students, and they range from competitive to very relaxed. In the fall, join the Notre Dame football tradition by getting a group of friends together for law school flag football. The RecSports office has a more structured flag football league where students from all graduate departments can compete for a chance to play for the championship in Notre Dame Stadium. Also in the fall, there is the graduate soccer league with games played outdoors in the evening.

The winter season brings about basketball leagues. The law school hosts an informal league with competition mostly on the weekends. The RecSports office has a structured league with an exciting playoff bracket. Just like the football league, the championship game is played where the varsity team plays – this time on the floor of the Joyce Center. Also in the winter, you can find CoRec (campus-wide co-ed) volleyball and indoor soccer.

The spring season is the most diverse, with the law school bowling league and the graduate softball league. No exciting playoff scenario for either, but ask any law student and they will tell you that Thursday night bowling is one of the most popular activities during the spring semester.

If you want any more information on any of these programs, you can visit the RecSports website at http://www.nd.edu/~recsport/intramurals/intramurals.htm. Just watch for deadlines, because they sneak up on you pretty quickly and you may miss your chance to dazzle your peers with your athletic prowess.
Located in the Law School lounge, the Irish Café is open daily to serve the needs of your taste buds. It offers daily soup selections, along with a daily lunch special. Also available are deli sandwiches, salads, deserts, and an extensive selection of coffees and other beverages. It’s most popular at lunch (especially on rainy days when no one wants to leave the Law School!). On most days, if you’re planning on having a calzone or picking up a danish for breakfast, stop early or they’ll be out.

Get to know Vicky, the woman who runs the Irish Café—she’s friendly, helpful and a fixture in the law school.

The lounge is a great place to see people, watch T.V., check your e-mail, nap, or read The Observer (Notre Dame’s daily newspaper). The lounge is usually full of activities from arranging Thanksgiving baskets for needy families to Westlaw and Lexis displays offering free goodies. The lounge also has pennants from the undergraduate schools that Notre Dame law students have come from. The collection dates back to the 1980’s. If you’re lucky, you will have the opportunity to add your school’s pennant to the wall.
EXCUSES TO STAY IN THE LAW SCHOOL INTO THE WEE HOURS

Although you will not be involved with any of the journals or law review in your first year, you will certainly hear plenty about them. A law review or journal is a legal periodical that includes articles by members of the legal community and public policy figures on a current topic of interest. Students in their second or third years have the opportunity to publish a note or case comment on a particular subject. The subjects of the articles, case comments and notes vary depending on the focus of the publication.

Participants for the periodicals are chosen through a writing competition that occurs after final exams in the spring. (The only exception is Law Review - the top 10-15% of people in the class "grade on" and do not have to submit a written sample. Several spots are reserved and people can also write on). There are meetings each spring to describe the writing competition process and requirements.

Second year law students serve as staff members for the periodicals, while third year students make up their editorial boards. The University of Notre Dame publications include: the Notre Dame Law Review, The Journal of College and University Law, Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics and Public Policy and The Journal of Legislation.

Notre Dame Law Review
The most illustrious legal journal to work for, the Notre Dame Law Review is a student-run legal journal founded in 1925. The staff and editorial board work together through the process of selecting and editing some of the finest current legal scholarship, published in five volumes throughout the year. Special issues each year focus on outstanding members of the legal community and the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. In addition to editing responsibilities, staff members are also required to write a note or case comment of their own for publication.

The Journal of College and University Law
This journal is published by the Law School and the National Association of College and University Attorneys. It is the only law journal in the U.S. dedicated exclusively to the law of higher education. It is second in readership only to the Yale Law Review. Headed by both faculty editors and a student editor, JCUL maintains a staff of 25 students who both process the work of outside authors and contribute their own work for publication.

Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics and Public Policy
This journal is unique among legal periodicals insofar as it directly analyzes law and public policy from an ethical perspective. Published by the Thomas J. White
Center on Law and Government, the Journal strengthens the Law School’s moral and religious commitment by translating traditional Judeo-Christian principles into imaginative, yet workable, proposals for legislative and judicial reform. Staffers are known as White Scholars and are required to take a seminar class during the fall semester of their second year. Recent issues have addressed the problems in legal education, international security, poverty and violence. Past authors include Presidents Reagan and George W. Bush.

The Journal of Legislation

Of national orientation and scope, the Journal contains articles by both public policy figures and distinguished members of the legal community. In addition, it publishes notes written by members of the staff. All material contained in the Journal concerns either existing and proposed legislation or public policy matters.

American

You’ve heard of most of these places. South Bend has no shortage of chain restaurants. You will find we have omitted fast-food restaurants—don’t worry, there’s an overabundance of those too.

Applebee’s

6615 North Main Street 273-0003
Offers steak, ribs, burgers, soups and sandwiches. There is also a location north of the Toll Road on Portage Rd. that tends not to be as busy as the restaurants on Grape Rd. after football games.

Chili’s

4810 Grape Road 271-1330
Try their Fajita-Rita Monday Nights (fajitas for two, $10, margaritas, $2).

Damon’s The Place For Ribs

52885 U.S. 31 North 272-5478
Also the place for big screen TVs. You can find better ribs elsewhere.

Doc Pierce’s

120 North Main Street (Mishawaka) 255-7737
Place for steaks – under same ownership as the Emporium.
Jersey Mike’s Giant Subs
5714 North Main (Mishawaka) 247-0056
Located next to Indian Lakes Apartments. They offer great subs at a great price – authors highly recommends at least one lunch trip there.

K’s Grill & Pub
1733 South Bend Avenue (SR23) 277-2527
They bring out homemade cookies as appetizers.

Le Peep
127 South Michigan 288-7337
A good place downtown for a lunch date.

Lone Star Steakhouse
4725 Grape Road 272-5656
Does a mean pork chop and Delmonico steak.

Macri’s (2 locations)
214 North Niles, South Bend 280-4824
227 W. University Drive, Mishawaka 277-7273
Authors highly recommend this place. Run by a real Italian family. Sandwiches are terrific—try the Godfather. The deserts are terrific. The downtown South Bend location is a good place for lunch with family or friends. Try the Mishawaka location to watch a game or play trivia.

Outback Steakhouse
4611 Grape Road 271-2333
If you’ve never been, you’ve gotta go. It’s worth the price. This author suggests the Bloomin’ Onion.

TGI Friday’s
4730 Grape Road 271-8443
675-9999 (for delivery)
If you’ve been to one, you’ve been to them all.

Wolfie’s
SR 23 across from Coach’s. 243-9911
Good subs on good bread for good prices. They also deliver.
Asian Food

Hanayori of Japan
3601 Grape Road 258-5817
They cook at your table—be sure to make reservations, especially for dinner.

Tokyo Japanese Restaurant
123 North St. Joseph (downtown) 288-2288
The priciest of area Japanese restaurants, it is widely regarded as being a surprisingly good sushi joint.

Toyo Grill
620 Edison Road 254-9120

Great Wall
222 S. Dixie Way (US 31) 272-7376
Sunday buffets are the way to go at the Wall.

Mandarin House
2104 Edison Road 287-4414
Many recommend the lunch specials. The House is legendary for its General Tso's Chicken. Some students will say that the House is a place of worship. This author agrees and suggests the Crab Rangoon.

New Saigon
Ask a 2L or 3L how to find this place.
Very affordable. Don't be fooled by its residential location and its modest exterior. Affectionately known to a few 2L's as "The Den of Decadence," the New Saigon offers some of the most renowned dishes in all of Michiana. This author suggests the Beef Vegetable Deluxe and its Mind Blowing Brown Sauce.

Sunny's Korean Garden
512 South Spring (Mishawaka) 255-5274
Receives many recommendations from the Professors Garnett (try the Princess Chicken).
Siam Thai Restaurant
211 North Main (downtown) 232-4445
Despite a lack of ambiance, a very good Thai restaurant. Their spring rolls are money – but they don’t require a lot of it.

Malibar
1640 South Bend Avenue (SR23) 282-2977

Bakeries & Breakfast
Yes, there’s more to it than just coffee. Stick your library cup in the dishwasher and venture out to one of these finds for real morning food.

Bibler’s Pancake House
1430 North Ironwood Drive 232-3220
Ritual stop for many after Sunday church. Pancakes from around the world, omelette specialties, more breakfast choices than you knew existed. Try the apple pancake – you may as well be eating dessert.

Colonial Pancake House
508 Dixie Way North (Route 31) 272-7433
Standard breakfast place, located on 31 between the Toll Road and Cleveland.

Greenfield’s
Hesburgh Center (south of the law school on campus)
Best café on campus. Serves Notre Dame waffles and other great food for breakfast. Very popular for lunch with its international menu.

Macri’s
214 North Niles, South Bend
Considered by these authors to be the best bakery in South Bend. Good bread, terrific danishes. If you want to impress your family or friends with a terrific desert, try the cannoli or cheesecake. Not open on Sundays. Their wedding cakes have a terrific reputation.
Nick’s Patio
1710 North Ironwood Drive 277-7400
A favorite late-night spot for many ND students, Nick’s really does serve breakfast throughout the day (and night). When you can stomach eggs & cheese after dancing the night away at Heartland, you’ll know you have the stamina of a Domer.

Coffeehouses
Ah, caffeine... it will be your closest friend over the next few years. But remember to get it in a “library-approved” container so you can take it with you wherever you go in the law school.

Barnes & Noble Café
The next closest Starbucks outlet is in Merrillville (where on earth is that?). Lots of tables for studying, good lighting. Just stay away on games night when flocks of kids squawk upon the place.

Borders Books
Smaller than Barnes & Noble, but less busy. Electrical outlets in the café area make laptop users happy.

Lula’s Café
631 Edison Road 273-6216
Located right across from the Backer, Lula’s is a great place to get a cup of coffee, read, or just hang out. Both healthy and heinous food choices provided. Popular law school study group spot, but be aware they play music and have an extensive collection of board games.

Molly McGuire’s
Corner of Eddy & SR 23
Molly is Bridget’s little sister (ask inside for the story). Comfortable coffee shop with oldstyle atmosphere – and a big red “gas” pump from Molly’s days. Great muffins. Usually quiet, unless the workers bring their kids for the day.
Desserts

Ritter's
3921 North Main Street (Mishawaka) 255-8000
One of the best-kept secrets in South Bend – located on Main Street between Day and Edison. Famous for their frozen custard.

The South Bend Chocolate Company
122 South Michigan Street (next to The Vine) 287-0725
After dining at The Vine, make sure to stop by the Chocolate Factory for dessert and coffee. Serves chocolates, coffee and desserts.

Fine Dining

So it’s Valentine’s Day and you’re out with your honey. Or you have to take a suit out for a business dinner. The fine dining choices below guarantee a high score.

Basil’s on the Race
501 North Niles 233-1300
Upscale business casual, with cigar lounge and live entertainment. Your date will be impressed - or at least think you aspire to Manhattan taste. Minimalist décor, maximum quality.

East Bank Emporium
121 South Niles Avenue 234-9000
Located downtown on the river. Full glass wall allows multiple seating levels to take advantage of the view. Menu is not very extensive, but inexpensive compared to other nicer restaurants.

Fondue!
100 N. Center, Mishawaka 257-1792
Upstairs in the old brewery. Who knew fondue could be more than cheese? Unique dining experience – just keep your hands away from the hot oil! 25% off on Thursdays for students.
LaSalle Grill
115 West Colfax Avenue 288-1155
Very good food, very expensive prices. After dinner try the Club LaSalle for a surprisingly chic little bar that will often host some good jazz.

Miller’s Country House Restaurant
16409 Red Arrow Hwy, New Buffalo, Michigan (616) 469-5950
A fancier restaurant serving fresh seafood, steak and pasta.

Tippecanoe Place
620 West Washington 234-9077
The old Studebaker Mansion provides great atmosphere. You can choose to eat in the library, the parlor, or any number of individual rooms. Prices are fairly high, but the food is wonderful—try the highly recommended Sunday brunch for an exceptional value.

The Vine
122 South Michigan 234-9463
A newer restaurant downtown next to the College Football Hall of Fame. Good food, but small portions. Named for its specialty wine bar and complementing appetizers.

Yesterday’s
12594 SR 23 (Granger) 272-7017
Large selection of exceptional desserts.

Greek
Grecian Delights
2349 Miracle Lane (Mishawaka) 255-5223
Pretty good Grecian place—service is known to be slow.
Italian

When the moon hits your eyes... choose a fine bottle of wine, order spaghetti to share, and you've got all the makings of amore. Now if you were only sure that darn pesto bit wasn’t stuck between your front teeth.

Catalino’s Trattoria

S. Michigan & Wayne 233-1000
Downtown near Heartland. A great family-run Italian restaurant. They like ND students and sometimes give discounts, or even free dessert.

Cosimo & Susie’s

2446 Miracle Lane (Mishawaka) 258-4911
May look like a dive from the outside, but it receives a Professor Garnett recommendation for authenticity. Cash only.

Fazoli’s

527770 US 31 277-4008
Serves fast-food Italian. Does not win any awards for authenticity. You’ve got to love the magical breadstick lady with her basket of goodies.

Francesco’s

1213 Lincoln Way West 256-1444
Dine in an old stone home, far away from campus and lit by candles. You can’t get much better than that.

Nicola’s

1705 South Bend Avenue (SR 23) 277-5666
Meals ranging from pizza and sandwiches to Italian entrees, steaks and seafood. So close to campus that not a lot of people think to go there.

Olive Garden

6410 Grape Road 277-6503
Also does not win awards for authenticity. Not a bad place to go with your friends for those days when you’ve got two hours for lunch, especially during their all-you-can eat pasta promotion.
Papa Vino’s
5110 Edison Lakes Road 271-1692
Great food, always crowded. Italian with a funky twist. Don’t eat for days before going here, or you’ll be crying because it smells so good but you just can’t fit anything more in.

Parisi’s
1412 South Bend Ave. (SR 23) 232-4244
A parent favorite on football weekends. They advertise that you can see the Dome from your table. A bit pricey for the quality, but hey, it’s tradition. Isn’t everything else here?

Polito’s

Yet another small, family-owned Italian restaurant. Like the others, it receives excellent reviews for authenticity. Checkered tablecloths and loud waiters. You’d think you were in Italy for all the choices here in Michiana—oh yeah, it can’t possibly snow that much in Italy.

Chicago

OK, so South Bend isn’t the greatest city in the world, and you’re going to have to get away from it every once in a while. Fortunately, the Windy City is less than two hours away and offers more to do than you can imagine.

Getting There...

It’s really easy to get to Chicago. If you’re driving, just hop on the toll-road (80/90) and take it west. You can either stay on 90 which takes you over the skyway and into the city from the south side (great if you want to go to a White Sox game), or you can get off and take Lake Shore Drive. This provides one of the most scenic views around and leaves you minutes from downtown. Also, if you don’t feel like driving, the South Shore leaves from the South Bend airport and can take you right into downtown. It’s less than ten bucks each way... not too bad.

Shopping & Dining...

In a city of 3 million people, there are more places to shop and eat than you can imagine. One of the places you will probably want to check out is the stretch of Michigan Avenue known as the Magnificent Mile (check out www.themagnificentmile.com for more info). Aside from shops and restaurants, the Mile also is home to great architecture. In addition, while you’re there, don’t forget to stop at Water Tower Place (835 N. Michigan, (312) 440-3166). Inside the building is an 8-story mall with over 100 shops and dozens of places to eat.

Another place to check out is State Street. The best time to do this is around Christmas. I know that you will have finals looming over your head, but it’s hard to beat the beauty at this time of year. There’s a chill in the air, the trees lining the street are all decorated and lit... and don’t forget to see the windows at Marshall Fields (111 N. State). People come from all over just to see how they have decorated them for the season. Don’t forget that you can shop there too.

If you make your trip while it’s still warm outside, check out the beaches. North Avenue beach will probably be the most popular choice and the busiest, but hey, more people in bathing suits to look at can’t be too bad, right? Afterwards, try visiting Navy Pier (I don’t think they have an official address... just look for the 150ft. high Ferris wheel. It’s kind of hard to miss). They have all kinds of shops and restaurants, an IMAX theatre, and on certain nights they have fireworks shows. (call (800)595-PIER for more info.)
These are just a few of the things you can do in Chicago. For more choices as far as restaurants, bars, nightclubs, and more, try www.chicago.citysearch.com. Or, you can ask another law student. It seems like a lot of them are from the Chicago area anyway.

Sporting Events…

Chicago is a sports town, that’s all you really need to say. There’s the Bears (although they’ll be in Champaign next year while Soldier Field is being renovated), the Blackhawks, the Cubs, the White Sox, and the Bulls. Ok, so you might not be a fan of Chicago teams, or you might think some of them just plain suck, but you can still go and see your favorite teams play against them. If you’re interested in tickets, check out their websites, or call TicketMaster.

A bit of a side-note… Cubs games in the summer and fall are good times. Even if they’re losing, Wrigley Field will still be full. If you’re there for the game, pretty much anywhere is a good seat. If you’re there for the atmosphere, try getting bleacher seats. But be warned, these are the most popular and tend to sell out the fastest. (1060 W. Addison, (773) 404-4107)

Museums and Other Attractions…

Yes, Chicago has a cultural side too. If you’ve got the time, check out the “Museum Campus” on the lakeshore. Depending on what you like, the Museum of Science and Industry ((773) 684-1414), the Field Museum ((312) 922-9410… just look for the really big dinosaur skeleton), the Shedd Aquarium ((312) 939-2426), and the Adler Planetarium ((312) 922-STAR) are all located next to each other. And if you’re into art, the Art Institute (111 S. Michigan, (312) 443-3600), with its famous bronze lions guarding the steps, is a must.

Other areas of interest might be the Civic Opera House (home to the Lyric Opera), the Second City comedy club, the Steppenwolf Theatre Company, the Auditorium Theatre, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, or even Brookfield or Lincoln Park Zoos. (Lincoln Park is the Nation’s oldest free zoo.)

In Closing…

Hopefully, you’ve seen that Chicago offers a wealth of experiences if you’re looking for a weekend of fun, or just a day away from the books. The list above is by no means all-inclusive… in fact, it only covers part of the city and doesn’t even begin to discuss what the suburbs have to offer. Just remember that your purpose in getting away is to have fun… don’t try and do too much in one day. Besides, that just means that you’ll have to make another trip later which is just another day of not having to worry about work.

Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Indiana’s capital and largest city, is located about three hours south of South Bend. Although Indianapolis does not have as many attractions and sights as Chicago, it’s definitely worth making at least one visit there during your law school career.

Getting There...

There’s really only one way to get from South Bend to Indianapolis—by car. Just follow U.S. 31 south for about 140 miles. Once you get to Indianapolis, U.S. 31 becomes Meridian Street, which will take you into downtown. With the exception of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and the airport, just about anything of interest in the city is either in the downtown area or on the city’s Northside.

Shopping & Dining...

Indianapolis has six major shopping malls that are located throughout the city. The two best known malls are Circle Centre Mall (located Downtown near the intersection of Washington and Illinois Streets) and The Fashion Mall at Keystone at the Crossing (located on the Northside near the intersection of 86th Street and Keystone Avenue). Circle Centre, Indianapolis’ newest mall, is spread out over several city blocks and has a number of upscale department stores (Nordstrom’s and Parisian), retail stores, restaurants, movie theaters, and nightclubs. The Fashion Mall is Indianapolis’ most upscale mall with a large number of high-end stores (like Parisian and Jacobson’s) and boutiques. The Cheesecake Factory and several other restaurants are located adjacent to the mall.

The Northside neighborhood of Broad Ripple (located near the intersection of Westfield Boulevard and College Avenue) is home to some of Indianapolis’ best ethnic restaurants, including several French, Greek, and Indian establishments. Broad Ripple also has several nice shops and nightclubs.

Sporting Events...

Indianapolis is best known throughout the world for auto racing. Three of the biggest races in the world take place at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway (located near the corner of 16th Street and Georgetown Road on the city’s Westside) – the Indianapolis 500 (IRL race in late May), the Brickyard 400 (NASCAR race in early August), and the U.S. Grand Prix (Formula One race in mid-September). Although each race draws hundreds of thousands of spectators, getting tickets to any of these events should not be too difficult.

Indianapolis has a number of major professional sports teams. The Indianapolis Colts (football) play in the RCA Dome and the Indiana Pacers (basketball) play in the Conseco Fieldhouse (a brand new retro-style basketball arena). Both the Colts and Pacers have been among the most successful teams in their sports during the past few years. There are several other professional teams in Indianapolis, including the Indiana Fever (WNBA women’s basketball) and the Indianapolis Indians (minor league baseball team). In recent years, Indianapolis has also been the host of several major college and amateur championship events – including the NCAA Men’s Basketball Final Four in both 1997 and 2000.

Museums and Other Attractions...

The Indianapolis Children’s Museum (located at the corner of North Meridian and 30th Streets) is the largest children’s museum in the world. Besides numerous exhibits, the museum also has an IMAX theater. There are several attractions in White River State Park (on West Washington Street, just west of the Statehouse), including the NCAA Hall of Champions, the Eiteljorg Museum (collection of Native American paintings and artifacts), and the Indianapolis Zoo.

The Verizon Wireless Music Center (located about 15 miles northeast of Indianapolis along Interstate 69) is an outdoor amphitheater that hosts dozens of concerts each year. Other concerts are held at the Conseco Fieldhouse, the RCA Dome, and the Murat Theater (located on the east side of downtown on New Jersey Avenue).

Michigan City

Michigan City, Indiana, is home to both Indiana’s maximum security correctional facility and the Lighthouse Place Premium Outlet Center. We recommend visiting the latter. Lighthouse has a terrific variety of outlets spread out in a pedestrian mall.
Getting There...

There are several variations on this route to the outlet stores, but this is the easiest way to get there. Take I-80/90 west to Michigan City, Indiana (exit 39). Travel north on US 421/ Franklin Street, 9 miles to 6th Street. This will literally take you through downtown Michigan City. The town is a little shady, but don’t worry, the outlets are much nicer than the rest of town. Turn left on 6th Street; two blocks to Lighthouse Place Premium Outlets. It takes about an hour to drive to Michigan City from South Bend.

You can also take the South Shore Line from the South Bend Airport. Call (219) 879-2650 for fares and schedules. The train stops at 11th Street six blocks south of the Lighthouse Place Outlets. Call (219) 879-2650 for information regarding shuttle service meeting selected trains.

Although most of Indiana remains on Eastern Standard Time year-round (no time changes), Michigan City is in the part of Indiana that observes Central Standard and Daylight Savings Time. From approximately the beginning of November to the end of March, Michigan City is an hour behind South Bend. For the rest of the year, the times are the same.

Shopping...

There are more than 120 outlets at Lighthouse Place. Among the stores are Ann Taylor, Brooks Brothers, Burberry, Crate & Barrel, Donna Karan, Gap, Eddie Bauer, Geoffrey Beene, Liz Claiborne, Polo Ralph Lauren, Tommy Hilfiger and Timberland. Law students have been known to get incredible deals on suits for interviews from Brooks Brothers and Hart Schaffner & Marx. There are also numerous houseware outlets with much better prices than you can find in South Bend. If you have a long list of basic things you need to furnish your apartment in South Bend, a trip to Michigan City may be worthwhile.

Studebaker Museum

For the first time, the Law School has a Director of Student Services who acts as a liaison between students and the administration. Student Services deals with most aspects of the non-classroom aspects of Law School life. The Director of Student Services approves student organizations’ expenditures, helps student groups find additional funding when necessary, and ensures that students are aware of the policies found in Du Lac (University rules www.nd.edu/~orlh/dulac/index.htm) and the Hoynes Code (Law School rules www.nd.edu/~ndlaw/student/hoynescode/hoynes_code_brochure_2001.pdf). The Director of Student Services also provides a contact for individual and group student concerns.

As exams approach, the Director of Student Services also assists students by rescheduling exams and accommodating any problems caused by illness or disability. Bank this information away, because when you’re a 2L and you realize that you have five exams in three days, you’ll want to know what to do.

Finally, the Director of Student Services provides counseling services. Students with academic or personal challenges should seek assistance from Student Services. Conversations are confidential. If you broke your leg and can’t get around or are depressed and can’t take an exam, this is the place to go.

Additional counseling resources at Notre Dame can be found at www.nd.edu/~ndlaw/studentservices/counsel.html.
Student Organizations

OR HOW TO EAT LOTS OF FREE PIZZA

While there are only about 525 law students at Notre Dame, there are more than twenty student organizations, and each year students form new organizations. Early in the semester, the SBA organizes a club night. All the student clubs have tables in the lounge and provide information on who they are and what their plans are for the coming year. Most club meetings and guest lectures are held during the lunch period between classes (12:15-1:00 M-F). The clubs usually provide free Papa John’s pizza, so if you’re feeling particularly poor, it’s a great way to pick up a free lunch.

American Civil Liberties Union
The Notre Dame American Civil Liberties Union (ND ACLU) is the student chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU). Since its founding in 1920, the ACLU, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization, has been the guardian of the individual rights and liberties guaranteed by the Constitution and laws of the United States through direct advocacy efforts in the nation’s courts, legislatures, and communities. The ND ACLU seeks to further the civil liberties through advocacy, dialogue, and education, staying ever respectful of the religious nature of the University of Notre Dame.

The Society challenges its members to engage educators and practitioners, as well as each other, in learning about the various areas of IP law. By hosting professionals in academia, government, and the private sector at the Law School, the group and its members seek to stay current with IP law developments and learn of available resources that may be valuable both during school and following graduation.

International Law Society
The International Law Student Association (ILSA) is a national organization dedicated to international law topics - especially dealing with humanitarian activities. Irish Law 2002
Public Interest Law Forum
PILF aims to promote awareness of and interest in public interest law. PILF defines “public interest law” broadly in recognition of the wide variety of career opportunities typically encompassed within the category of “public interest law,” including careers as legal services providers, criminal defenders and prosecutors, government attorneys, judicial clerks, and attorneys for non-governmental and non-profit organizations.

In pursuit of its goals, PILF is working with the NDLS administration to establish a self-sustaining loan forgiveness program so that working in a public interest law career after graduation is economically feasible for NDLS graduates. PILF also conducts fundraisers to raise money for the loan forgiveness program and for “Student-Funded Fellowships,” which allow NDLS students to intern during the summer for public interest agencies that cannot afford to pay interns. Finally, PILF organizes talks and discussions by professors, NDLS graduates, and others on public interest law topics.

SBA sponsors various events for the Law School community, including the annual Law Ball, the Dean’s Picnic, New Year’s Eve Party and monthly TGIF’s. SBA elections to fill the 1L class representative positions are held in September (you’ll see some very ingenious as well as some ridiculous campaign signs). Elections for 2L’s and 3L’s are held in the spring.

St. Thomas More Society
The mission of the St. Thomas More Society is to foster full integration of our Catholic faith into the daily practice of law, and thereby to emulate St. Thomas More, the patron saint of lawyers. They strive to fulfill this mission by living lives worthy of the title Christian and by holding fast to the teachings of the Gospels and the Magisterium of the Church. Their activities are open to Catholics and non-Catholics alike.
Women's Legal Forum

Open to both men and women, WLF was formed for the discussion of legal issues directly affecting women and indirectly affecting society as a whole. Activities include monthly meetings featuring faculty speakers, presentations on domestic violence and sexual harassment litigation and an annual auction fundraiser to benefit a community organization.
Worship

TAKING TIME TO BE HOLY

It’s hardly surprising that at a Catholic university, the opportunities for Catholic services abound. You may be surprised to learn that the opportunities for Protestant fellowship on and off campus is terrific, and that South Bend is host to three synagogues, an Islamic center, and an LDS ward. The opportunities for people of faith to worship together abound. In this section, we’ve tried to pull together information about area and campus worship opportunities. The list of opportunities is by no means exhaustive, and if you don’t find the worship opportunity you’re looking for here, please check the yellow pages and ask around the law school.

Worship at the Law School

There are opportunities for prayer and worship each day at the law school. The St. Thomas More Chapel, located on the first floor, is the center of the law school’s formal religious life. The Christian Legal Society invites the law school community to pray there together each morning before classes. On Fridays at noon, the St. Thomas More Society organizes Mass there. The chapel is open 24-7 for students wishing to retreat for meditation and prayer. During the fall semester, the chapel also contained a list of people related to the Notre Dame Law School community who had fallen prey to the September 11 attacks. During the Christmas season, the Student Bar Association has asked Campus Ministry to provide services in the mornings before classes start.

Many law students join together each Sunday at 5:00 in the lounge to celebrate the Mass. Students often wander down from the library to join the law school community in worship. The Mass is usually presided over by the Rev. John Pearson, CSC, his very self.

The Christian Legal Society also hosts a weekly student-led Bible study. The St. Thomas More Society hosts speakers and discussions of current topics of interest to Catholics in the law. Recent topics have included the Pope’s pronouncements on the role of Catholic attorneys in divorce and the death penalty.

Catholic

The Basilica of the Sacred Heart is the center of Notre Dame’s religious life. The beautiful basilica is next to the Main Building. As you walk up to the law school, you can see the Virgin Mother on the Main Building and the cross on the Basilica. Services are held throughout the week. The Basilica is a functioning church, and parishioners gather each Sunday morning at 10:00 and 11:45.
No one should miss the opportunity to participate in services at the Basilica during Holy Week. The 11:00 Tenebrae service on Holy Thursday and the Celebration of Christ's Passion at 3:00 on Good Friday are especially poignant. Similarly, services during Advent are beautiful.

Each dorm on campus celebrates the Mass on Sunday evening and at least one night during the week. Many law students who were undergraduates at Notre Dame enjoy going back to their old dorms for Mass.

If you would like to get away from campus for services on Sunday, there are numerous Catholic churches in South Bend. These are just a few. For a complete list, please visit the Archdiocese of Fort Wayne-South Bend's website (www.diocesefwsb.org).
