An Insider's Guide to Notre Dame Law School

Dear Notre Dame Law School Class of 2009,

Welcome as a potential student to Notre Dame Law School! We are thrilled to be among the first to receive you into our family. We know that this is an exciting time for you and that, if you are anything like we were just a couple of years ago, you probably have plenty of questions about law school and Notre Dame. That's why we've prepared the Guide. We hope it will answer many of your questions and that it will provide a window into Notre Dame Law School. We also hope that once you look through that window, you'll be as eager to join us as we are to have you!

This is called an Insider's Guide because it has been written entirely by students. Over the past semester, we've updated and revised old sections, compiled and created new sections, and edited and re-edited the whole in hopes of making your transition to law school at Notre Dame easier. This isn't a comprehensive guide to everything you need to know to get through law school, but it is a great place to start. Whether you're trying to figure out where to live next year, what is the best way to get to and around South Bend, where to find a good Italian restaurant, or what law students do on the weekend, the Guide will be a terrific resource.

Although many of us never expected to, we have come to treasure our experiences here at NDLS. The professors, the students, and the staff of this law school are unique – their warmth, friendship, and true support have made studying law at Notre Dame fun and, undoubtedly, have provided us with a better hope that our enthusiasm, and that of other students, will be apparent throughout the Guide. We have appreciated reflecting on our experiences here and enjoyed putting the Guide together for you. And, although we know that you have already been inundated with information from the law school and the university, we hope that this look at NDLS from the perspective of your soon-to-be colleagues will be valuable as you prepare for classes in August.

Once again, welcome! We hope to see you in August!

Best wishes,

A Different Kind of Lawyer

IT'S NOT JUST HYPE

Okay, you've seen the admissions material; you've heard the catch-phrase that Notre Dame trains a different kind of lawyer. But what does that really mean? To find out we asked several students what they thought, and here is what they had to say:

The natural reaction to an organization's promises, especially when the promises are sent to prospective students, and sound as good as the ones in Insider's Guide, is a healthy dose of skepticism. At least, that was my reaction when I read the 2004 edition. I remembered past friends who had gone to law school and found law school life far different from what the law school and its students promised about law school life.

As usual, Notre Dame is different. You could call my 1L year a vindication of the 2004 Insider's Guide. From Notre Dame's sense of community to football excitement, from life in South Bend to life outside of the law school, what you read really is what you will experience. Notre Dame really is that good.

A few days into the semester, Professor Tidmarsh called on me in Civil Procedure class. I was nervous, but I soon found that he was not asking me questions to trip me up. He wanted to know if I thought justice was done in the case. He also made me more curious about the law we discussed, and that same day he happily spent half an hour with me in his office discussing legal and ethical issues surrounding that day's discussion.

What you read really is what you will experience.

The professors may have different methods, but their underlying spirit is much the same as Professor Tidmarsh's. If you find yourself in Professor Rick Garnett's Criminal Law class, first go thank the Registrar. Then watch Minority Report and all the episodes of "Law and Order" you can, because they will come up in class. And when you show up in class, be sure to bring your moral compass, because it is every bit as important as your casebook.

♣ David Mathues, Class of 2007

The summer before I started law school, I was scared. I had watched the movies, read the books, and heard the stories. I was expecting to be miserable for three years, never taking my nose from a book and constantly competing with my classmates. However, I was pleasantly surprised by my first year at Notre Dame. The students, in my class and the 2Ls and 3Ls, were nice and helpful – sharing outlines, forwarding notes when I missed class, and discussing readings when I was confused. Furthermore, the professors encouraged us, even as 1Ls, to get involved in other activities and not allow law school to take over our lives. They even gave us “pep talks” before our exams. I enjoyed my first year of law school, much to my surprise and delight!

♣ Anna Wollscheid, Class of 2006

The case of PepsiCo v. Leonard is becoming a favorite among law students. Indeed, most of us had heard of it before we even got here – it’s the one about the guy who collected 7,000,000 Pepsi Stuff points and demanded the Harrier Jet portrayed in the commercials. And so when we got to it in Contracts class, we all assumed that Professor Mr. Bellia would just point it out as an amusing illustration of the doctrine of offer and acceptance and move on – but his first question was whether the jury should have awarded Leonard the plane regardless of the strictures of the law. He led a discussion on the importance of discovering when observing the letter of the law doesn’t necessarily produce a just result – and that justice is often best served by the jury’s expression on conscience. I suspect that there are few other schools where a discussion of whether a Pepsi commercial constitutes an offer for the purposes of contract leads to a discussion of deeply rooted values of justice and right – but at Notre Dame, it’s a daily exercise.

A Catholic Law School

CALLING AND IDENTITY

To begin his first year Criminal Law class, Professor Richard Garnett tells his class, “We believe in God here. You are free to disagree. But at Notre Dame, belief in God means that the law is about more than a paycheck. It means the law is about justice. And we believe justice is a reflection of the mind and heart of God.”

At Notre Dame, we affirm that every human person is created in the image and likeness of God. Students of all faiths, races, and political beliefs attend this school. They are all welcomed, loved, and accepted in a community that many students have characterized as closer than they would have expected, and closer than any other law school with which they are familiar. You do not have to be Catholic to attend Notre Dame or to enjoy this school.

When you get here, however, you will notice that who we are, as a Catholic law school, is neither vague, nor ethereal; who we are is a transcendental sign to the world. In an age of moral relativity, we champion God’s natural law. In an American academia that is largely Godless, we acknowledge our dependence on our Heavenly Father. In a society that values individualism and secularism, we define the human person in relation to others. In a culture that celebrates diversity for its own sake, we rejoice not in our differences, but in the unity that we forge by focusing our shared identity as children of God.

We know who we are.
Thus, we know what we are called to do.

Our natural law identity is represented by the Natural Law Institute, housed here at Notre Dame. It is also reflected in the courses on St. Thomas Aquinas; Morality and the Law; and End of Life Issues.

Our humble dependence is embodied in our professors, many of whom begin class with a prayer and lead student prayer groups and faith discussion groups outside of the classroom.

Our relational nature is apparent in our vibrant community, which is seen at Sunday Mass in the law school, clothing and food drives for the poor, and meaningful student/professor relationships. It is seen in a faculty that goes out of its way to help students learn and find meaningful employment (and is ranked fifth nationally in student satisfaction).

Our focus on unity is evident in our shared mission of justice. A banner hanging in the library reads: “If you want peace, work for justice.” Our Legal Aid Clinic testifies to this mission, as does our Public Defender Program, and the number of Notre Dame law students who enter public service or social justice related professions.

St. Thomas More is quoted as saying, “Each day you hold your self like water in your hands. If you spread your fingers just a bit, the water spills out; you lose your very self.” At Notre Dame, we firmly hold our relational, our universal, our Catholic identity as a sign to the world of the duty of justice of all to all. We know who we are. Thus, we know what we are called to do.

Come to Notre Dame Law School and you will not miss the fact that this is a Catholic law school – we believe a premier and Catholic law school. There’s a marble bust of St. Thomas More, the patron saint of attorneys, outside the library. There are crucifixes in most rooms in the building. Some professors pray “In the Name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit” before each class. But these are just trappings – the real nature of Notre Dame Law School’s identity as a Catholic law school comes from its devotion to integrating diverse approaches to the life of faith with the life in the law.

The word “Catholic” has several meanings. To most people, it refers to things having to do with the Roman Catholic Church – the Mass, the Pope, the Rosary, etc. Notre Dame is Catholic in that sense – we have regular Masses, there is a full-time priest-professor (Father Coughlin), and there are classes offered in canon law. Catholic also refers to the universal church – what the Bible refers to as Christ’s body. Notre Dame is catholic in that sense as well – there are Christians of many different denominations at the law school. Groups such as the Christian Legal Society provide opportunity for fellowship. The beliefs of Protestant and Orthodox Christians are as welcome in class discussions as the beliefs of Roman Catholic Christians. Catholic also means broad in sympathies, tastes and interests. Again, Notre Dame is catholic – viewpoints from all points of the political spectrum are welcomed and probed, believers of all faiths are encouraged to contribute to the dialogue about the law, students of all races find a home in the law school community, and the international LLM program means we always have a number of foreign attorneys in our midst. Notre Dame Law School embraces the diverse views of the nation and world in which we live with the special emphasis on the historic Roman Catholic faith.

A Catholic Law School means recognition that there is a God. It means that we use our gifts and skills for a higher purpose than the worldly measures of success. Being a non-Catholic, it is important that it does not mean “hitting you over the head” with Catholicism or trying to convince you that Catholic is right and your religion is wrong.

♣ Geoffrey Spiess, Class of 2008

There’s a crucifix in every classroom, there’s a basilica right on campus, Easter is a recognized holiday, Mass is given in the law school, and priests occasionally teach classes. Other than that, it’s like every other law school. Right?

♣ Angel Orrantia, Class of 2007

Notre Dame is a law school with a student body that is dedicated to integrating the Catholic teachings of social justice into a holistic study of law.

♣ Kate Mosesso, Class of 2007

Because I was someone who was familiar with and had been studying and exploring the Catholic faith for several years, Notre Dame Law School was not just about getting a legal education but also about growing in my faith as well. I expected to have to search to find opportunities to learn about the Catholic faith. I had talked to friends that had gone to other Catholic schools who told me that it really made no difference. I was totally surprised to find out that, at Notre Dame Law School, faith is taken seriously. This doesn't mean that you have to be Catholic or subscribe to the teachings of the Church, but if you want to better understand the history and teachings of the Church and to grow with Christ you have no excuse not to. In the law school alone there are daily Masses, morning prayers and a lunchtime Rosary several times a week. Groups like the St. Thomas More Society, Campus Ministry and Jus Vitae are constantly bringing speakers to campus. And I was pleasantly surprised by the resources that my fellow students brought as well, both those who are Catholic and those who are not.

My journey to the faith ended during Easter of my 1L year when I was baptized, confirmed and welcomed into the Church, with two of my classmates as sponsors and another as my godfather, while Fr. Coughlin (a priest and a professor at NDLS) co-presided. It was a very special day, and the beginning of my life within the Church. For me, Notre Dame is not just a place where I learn about the law, but where I learn about the world that God has given us to live in, and where I learn about myself and my own faith.

♣ Courtney Tawresey, Class of 2006

Notre Dame offers more than average opportunities to incorporate spirituality into your studies and day-to-day experiences.

♣ Jill Weidner, Class of 2006

Notre Dame embraces Catholicism in its literal sense as being universal. The pennants in the lounge from all the previous undergraduate institutions provide a moving testament to this. It was a true honor when I purchased my alma mater North Dakota State University pennant over break to hang up with all the others.

♣ Chad Prososki, Class of 2008

Notre Dame is undoubtedly a Catholic law school. However, don't interpret that as meaning that it's unwelcoming to those of different religious backgrounds. As a non-Catholic, I've found that Notre Dame's Catholic ties serve more to encourage, rather than repress, different points of view. Issues are never discussed in mere political or legal contexts. Instead, professors encourage students to share their opinions on the religious or moral aspects of any given topic. That being said, students here are outspoken, and it won't take you long to find out just how varied those opinions can be.

♣ Doug Borgmann, Class of 2006

A Community

OKAY, YOU'LL HEAR A LOT ABOUT THIS

You will spend a lot of time in the law school building, there's no way around it. Three years at Notre Dame Law School are both difficult and enjoyable. Let's face it, law school anywhere is hard work, but going to law school at any of the top tier law schools in the country will be incredibly demanding. You have to read thousands of pages of legal material each semester, write at the highest standards, be prepared for picayune questions from professors, and study hard for endless weeks to prepare for exams that determine your entire grade – and that's just the first semester. The long hours and work aside, spending three years at Notre Dame is enjoyable. It's enjoyable because the people who come here care more about people than grades; more about community than competition. Grades are still important, and some competition still exists, but the most distinctive feature of Notre Dame Law School is the genuine concern that everyone here shows for each other.

My experience so far at Notre Dame Law School has been highlighted by the staff's willingness to help, the accessibility of the faculty, and the cohesiveness of the students. I will illustrate each unique aspect of this law school with a personal anecdote.

The first week of the second semester, Ms. Hamilton, the law school registrar, was in the process of manually entering in all of our grades into the IrishLink computer system. On top of this, students were lining up outside her office to get their grades. I stopped in unannounced to ask her for help regarding a transcript request and immediately Ms. Hamilton put everything else aside so that she could fax my request right over to the administration building!

At the start of my second semester, I made an appointment with Professor Tidmarsh, my Torts professor, to discuss my final exam from the previous semester. He graciously opened his office to me right after he had finished teaching at 3 p.m. on a Friday. We talked for about an hour. He gave me helpful critiques of my exam, compliments on sections that I had done well in, and talked to me candidly about both my professional goals and his personal journey to being a professor. I was thoroughly touched by his humility, his sincerity, and his commitment to helping students.

Finally, an event last semester brought together the law school in a way that I have never witnessed before in any collegiate setting. One of my close friends found out two months into the first semester that she would have to undergo emergency open-heart surgery. It was totally unexpected and shocking news for the entire law school community. The response from my peers was both heart-warming and inspirational. Prayer meetings were held before and on the day of her surgery. One of my classmates hosted a party to celebrate her birthday, which happened to be two days before her operation. A mutual friend of ours purchased a tape-recorder and volunteered to record all of the classes she was going to miss. The whole class donated money toward the expenses of this purchase and toward a large "Get Well Soon" card, which we all signed. I think this tremendous show of support was one of the reasons she was able to recover from her surgery so quickly. I feel blessed to be surrounded by such a caring community of people.

♣ John Huang, Class of 2007

There is a strong sense of community within not only Notre Dame Law School, but the entire University. Cooperation is encouraged, not competition. Many see law school as a place to learn about law; Notre Dame is a place to learn not only about law, but about life.

♣ Sara Arbogast, Class of 2008

During my daughter's 2L year she fell and broke her leg, and needed help to do most daily tasks including driving, attending classes, and everything in between. I was able to get time off, and come to South Bend and help her out. I moved in with her into her one-bedroom apartment, and went to all her classes. It was not an easy time, especially for her as she prepared for final exams while being hurt, but what impressed me most was the care and concern that the students and faculty showed.

Her leg break was quite extensive, requiring surgery, and about a four day stay in the hospital. During that time, several students and even one professor came and visited her in the hospital. Students brought her books from school, and one volunteered to feed her cat so that I didn't have to make trips back and forth from the hospital. Once she was able to go back to school, many students offered notes from the classes she had missed, and everyone helped out in small ways, whether giving her words of encouragement or holding doors open as I pushed her wheelchair.

I had to leave shortly after she was able to start walking and driving again, and life was not yet back to normal for her. It was hard for her to be on her leg for long periods of time, or to get up and down flights of stairs. It saddened me to have to leave, but I knew that she would be alright because of all the wonderful and caring people that are at Notre Dame Law School. I am happy that she decided to make it her "home away from home".

♣ Mary Tawresey, mother of Courtney Tawresey, Class of 2006

I feel blessed to be surrounded by such a caring community.
of people.

Faculty Stories

THE SOURCES OF ALL KNOWLEDGE SPEAK OUT

Students at Notre Dame are clearly very impressed with their faculty. We thought that for this year's guide it would be beneficial to allow the faculty to have the opportunity to tell you about what they think is special about Notre Dame, and why they continue to teach here (despite the much higher firm salaries that they could earn).

Notre Dame is a truly distinctive place with a truly unique mission. We seek to be a great university that preserves, and remains faithful to, our Catholic identity. This mission is a challenging, but critically important one, and we at the law school play an instrumental role in fulfilling it. For better or worse, many of the most important questions in our nation become, at some point, legal questions. I feel privileged to be a part of a community of scholars that seeks to engage those questions both rigorously and completely, by fostering a debate that is both catholic (small c) and Catholic (large C).

Notre Dame also is the kind of place that fosters scholarly exchange between students and faculty. We take our teaching seriously here, and we like and respect our students. I have learned a great deal from my students, both inside the classroom and outside. This kind of interaction enables the true integration of scholarly research and teaching. Just as much of my research starts with ideas that were initially batted around in the classroom, my teaching is also informed by my scholarship. Finally, Notre Dame is a community where people care about one another. Our students rally around colleagues in need, and they understand (or, at least I hope that they understand) that the faculty are always here to help as well.

♣ Professor Nicole Garnett

As a Notre Dame law student in the 1980s, I experienced first-hand the cooperative and nurturing environment that Notre Dame Law School offers. Many of my professors, some of whom are now my colleagues, taught me much more than the law as they ably combined their professional careers, personal lives and religious beliefs, and encouraged us by word and example to do the same. Serving as a faculty member offers me a unique opportunity to combine my chosen profession with my religious beliefs and to contribute to a community that has enriched my life in so many ways. I hope that I can encourage future generations of law students to grow in faith and knowledge during their time at Notre Dame Law School. Whether in or out of the classroom, I strive to challenge these Notre Dame lawyers to keep a healthy balance among their careers, family and faith, and to use their legal training to serve others.

♣ Professor Matthew Barrett

I came to Notre Dame in 1973, having lived virtually my whole life on the East Coast, and expected to stay for two or three years before returning 'home.' Instead, I am now in my 33rd year on the Law School faculty. In this more than quarter-century, I have found that Notre Dame is a special place. The University has tremendous resources that have enabled me to develop and mature as a teacher and scholar. My colleagues are intelligent and supportive, and the students are bright and great fun to teach. For me and my family, this is clearly now "home"

♣ Professor Joseph Bauer

I first laid eyes on the Golden Dome in 1962 when I visited the Law School as a prospective student. Had anyone told me then that I would spend 26 years (and counting) on the faculty here, I would have been stunned by disbelief; at the time, I aspired only to succeed as a law student. Since I came from a small eastern liberal-arts college, Notre Dame seemed big and scary to me. As it turned out, the Law School formed a true, small community within a larger, but still true University community.

Life at Notre Dame proved, and still proves, exhilarating. We have a vibrant teaching faculty – one that takes a deep interest in our students. We have exceptionally bright – and good – people as our students. Equally important to me, they are a delight to work with. Despite the inevitably growing gap between their constant youth and my steadily advancing age, my time here has been a joy; there's no place I'd rather be. Students seem to feel the same way – many leave here more attached to Notre Dame Law School than to their undergraduate school. 'Nough said!

♣ Professor Fernand "Tex" Dutilleul

At Notre Dame, we aspire to provide a counter-cultural voice -- one that affirms the dignity of the human person, the complementary relation between faith and reason, and a vision of law and lawyering that is rooted in vocation, intellectual rigor, and service. Our foundations in faith mean that our students and our faculty enjoy the freedom to pursue questions that are too often pushed "off the table" elsewhere and to strive to integrate their work, faith, family, and ideals. I'm proud to be a part of this community.

♣ Professor Rick Garnett

The Parents' Turn

EVERYONE'S GOT AN OPINION

And whose opinion matters more than your parents'? For many of us, our parents were a major consideration when choosing a law school. We aren't the only ones excited about being here: our parents and families are excited too (which makes buying Christmas presents easy – shop at the SBA for law school paraphernalia); and they want you to know how they feel.

Nothing makes me more proud than to have my son at one of the greatest law schools in the country, my alma mater, Notre Dame Law School. It is a place where one is taught, not just how to be an outstanding lawyer, but also an upstanding and caring human being.

♣ Pat Salvi, father of Patrick Salvi, class of 2007

The letter I received three years ago brought forth a response that would have led any onlooker to think my child had just been visited by Knute Rockne himself. After several minutes of tears and screaming (joyful that is) and after thanking the good Lord for His blessings (and mercy) I was finally able to read the letter out loud to the rest of the family who by now thought I had lost my mind – or won the lottery (In my opinion, winning the lottery could not have measured up to that letter).

Your child is going to a school that knows what it is, knows what its mission is.

I have always been proud of my daughter and I really shouldn't be surprised by anything she accomplishes, but this was more than just a run-of-the-mill "you're accepted" letter – this was the "you're accepted to the law school at NOTRE DAME" letter. Those last two words add another dimension of pride that can only be experienced by those who understand and appreciate the tradition, the history, and the aura of Notre Dame (and by this I refer again to the great Knute Rockne).

Having a child at Notre Dame means more than just knowing your child is going to get a great education. It means bragging rights. It means getting a decal for the back window of your car that reads "ND Mom" and hoping to get stuck in traffic long enough so everyone can see who you are. It means visiting the campus bookstore to do Christmas shopping and knowing everyone will love the gift they receive whether it is in ND Blue and Gold or Fighting Irish Green and White. And, it means sticking up your nose at U of M fans knowing they would convert if they could.

Being invited to orientation day means you learn what it is to have reverence in hallowed halls, to have respect for a grotto and a basilica, and to speak in hushed tones, even if you are not Catholic. Listening to the welcoming remarks by seasoned professors is learning that your child is going to a school that knows what it is and, knows what its mission is, and knowing that as a unit, the school is proud of itself.

And now, three years after “the letter” and three years after orientation day, graduation day draws closer. Reflecting on all I have experienced as a ND Mom, I am saddened a bit because I am not sure everyone has heard me say, “Hey, did you know my daughter goes to Notre Dame?”

♣ Shelley Klug, mother of Kristina Barroso, class of 2006

My daughter had acceptance letters from many of the top law schools in the country, so it was a difficult task to try to choose which school to encourage her to attend. Of course, there were numerous factors to consider, but ultimately, it all boiled down to encouraging her to go to the school where I felt that, in addition to receiving a fabulous education, she would also have the best opportunity to continue her growth as an individual. At Notre Dame, I knew she would receive affirmation from those surrounding her, both fellow students and faculty, that the morals and virtues that I have tried to instill in her are ones we should all strive towards and allow to become the very fabric of our beings. I believe that the ND Law School Experience will reconfirm for my daughter the importance of a virtuous character, honesty, integrity, and justice, and provide her with the best possible opportunities to continue to grow in all aspects of her life.

♣ Susan Brown, mother of Rebecca Brown, class of 2008

Our daughter was in the middle of her first semester of law school at Notre Dame when she had to undergo emergency open-heart surgery. My wife and I have been so impressed and blessed by the supportive and Christ-like compassion displayed by Peter Horvath, director of student services, the Notre Dame Law School faculty, staff, and students. Every effort was made to assist our family in this crisis and to help our daughter during her recovery. Remarkably, due to this extraordinary support, she was able to finish the semester despite having major surgery. Truly, Notre Dame is not only an academic community of outstanding scholars, but also a caring community that seeks to live out the Christian ethos of “love thy neighbor”.

Notre Dame is not only an academic community of outstanding scholars, but also a caring community.

♣ John and Doris Auxier, parents of Adele Auxier, class of 2007

We all know that first impressions are very important. One of the things that impressed me about Notre Dame Law School is the personal attention given to each student. My daughter and I were unable to attend any of the official student visit days, so we arranged a visit on another day. When we arrived for our appointment, there was a professional sign on the front desk welcoming my daughter by name. The personal attention given to us during our appointment made us feel like we were very important to the school. They even arranged to have our law student tour guide be a graduate of my daughter's university. It was apparent to me then that ND Law really took the time to get to know their prospective students. I felt assured that my daughter would be far from home at ND but would be spending the next three years surrounded by people who care about her as a person. And of course the Catholic traditions on campus are wonderful too.

♣ Linn Jencopale, mother of Anna Wollscheid, class of 2006

I encouraged my daughter to attend Notre Dame because it is a great school, and has a great reputation, but most importantly because it is a place where one can obtain an excellent education in an environment of enlightened perspectives where the benefit of man and life's purpose become one.

Before Classes Start & Orientation

LIKE KINDERGARTEN – YOU GET TO STAND IN LINE

Getting everything in order before class starts is pretty simple at ND. The law school will send you a continuous stream of correspondence making sure you know when and where you can get everything you'll need: parking permits, books, supplies, etc. The law school will also let you know the schedule for registration, and there is a great orientation program to make sure enrollment goes smoothly and you're ready for that exciting first day of class.

HEALTH INSURANCE

Health insurance is required to enroll in classes. During the summer, you will receive insurance information. If you have insurance already, send proof of insurance to Health Services. If you forget, the university will bill you for the standard student insurance. If you forget to mail the insurance information in during the summer, take proof of insurance to Health Services (on the west side of campus, on the corner of Dorr Road and Holy Cross Drive) before classes start or during the first week. Also, after classes have started, check to make sure you haven't been charged for the University health insurance if you already had your own. Student Accounts has been known to make this mistake, but will correct it without much fuss.

CAMPUS PARKING

Campus parking is a must for those living off campus, though some living in houses near campus may find a brisk jaunt to the law school better than the trek from the C1 lot where most law students park. A parking decal is easy to obtain, affordable, and useful, especially since fines for parking in the all-too-inviting bookstore lot near the law school can add up fast. For the 2005-2006 academic year, the parking decal cost $95. The easiest way to get your parking decal is to sign up online – just remember your license plate and registration. You'll be able to pick up your permit within a few days of signing up. We recommend taking care of this ASAP, but don't worry – the University police are really lenient the first week. Just stay out of the bookstore lot and the circle by the law school!

STUDENT IDS & COMPUTER IDS

We recommend getting your student ID prior to Orientation. This will save time, since the freshmen class of about 2,000 will also be arriving and settling in at that time. You should receive information about where to do this (usually South Dining Hall) over the summer. When you get your student ID, you will also have the option to get a meal plan or add Domer Dollars to your student ID. See "Eating on Campus" for more information about meal plans and Domer Dollars.

It might also prove useful to get your computer set up for ResNet, the University's computer network. Everyone is issued an "AFS ID" which will be your key to technology while at Notre Dame. Go to the Office of Information Technology (OIT) building located between the football stadium and Hesburgh Library (the really tall building with "Touchdown Jesus") to get the required information and software for dial-up access from an off-campus apartment. You can also buy computer supplies here, like the heavily discounted software for Microsoft Office. Once again, the sooner you get this done the better, as they tend to be swamped during the first couple weeks of classes. The law school has its own computer staff, so you may want to check with them first. Believe me, you will get to know Dan Manier, Tim Gritten and Jeremy Brown very well. More information about technology is on the Class of 2009 website, and this will be updated in late spring or early summer.

ORIENTATION

You'll receive information from the law school about the mandatory Orientation Weekend. Besides introducing you to the school and getting all of the formalities of enrollment taken care of (which can now almost be done completely on the web), Orientation will be the first time that you officially meet your classmates and some of the 2Ls and 3Ls as well. Take advantage of getting to know the unique and interesting people you'll be sharing the next three years of your life with before you are swamped with reading assignments and studying. One of the opportunities to meet people during Orientation are the optional group service projects, such as volunteering for the afternoon at a Goodwill Store or making care baskets at a woman's shelter.

Orientation is also a good opportunity to explore campus and see all the places you'll never go to once you start school and discover that the law school is your second home. Orientation Weekend is also the time that you can find the class assignments for the first day of law school. Check the assignment board, located in the basement by the lounge, on Sunday to see how much you have to read for Monday morning.

The first day of Orientation will be long and draining. Be prepared to be overwhelmed by people, books, materials, forms, etc. Dress comfortably; in particular wear good shoes, because a campus tour should be on the schedule. Also, bring some sort of money (cash, checks, credit cards) to pay for fees and your books, and don't forget to bring a bag or backpack to carry those incredibly heavy books back home.

It's tempting to buy your books before Orientation, but it's not a good idea. First, you won't get your final schedule until Orientation. And, more importantly, during the Orientation "field trip" to the bookstore, 2Ls and 3Ls will be on hand to make sure you buy the exact books you need for your classes and make recommendations as to study aids.

Another great inside tip (that not too many students know about on the first day but learn to LOVE) is that at Notre Dame, you can "charge" purchases at the bookstore to your student account. What this means is that as long as you have your student ID card, you can go to the bookstore and pay for your books (and your new Notre Dame sweatshirt) with it. The purchase will automatically show up on your student account. Also, your student account does not accrue interest like credit cards, so you can actually put your books on your student account and pay them off throughout the course of the semester. However, be aware that the Office of Student Accounts knows of this strategy and will not allow you to simply keep a running balance straight through to graduation. If you abuse the privilege of "charging" to your student account at the bookstore, they will cut off your card, so be careful. It is always a good idea to bring along a credit card during Orientation, just in case.

The Big Day: 1L Day One

R, WHAT IN THE WORLD HAVE I GOTTEN MYSELF INTO

For some, the first day of classes in law school is no big deal; for others it can be a terrifying experience. Many may have read 1L or watched the Paper Chase, but it is safe to say that while the books might represent Harvard in the 1960s, they do not even come close to representing the Notre Dame experience. No professor even resembles Kingsfield, but they do expect you to have prepared well for class each day. Some will use the Socratic method a lot (calling on a random student to discuss the cases assigned for that class period); others will not use it quite as much.

Welcome to law school.

You'll quickly learn to love it.

The best way to prepare for classes is to do the assigned readings, and be ready to answer questions about the material. Please, please, please – don't think you can blow off the reading just because it's the first day. The professors do call on students on the first day and, while they won't expect you to be perfect, they will expect you to have read the material. Once again, welcome to law school. You'll quickly learn to love it.

You may find that briefing the cases is also helpful, which basically means writing a quick summary of the facts, what legal issue(s) are presented, how the court resolved the issue, and the reasoning that it used. At least one of your teachers will explain this process to you within the first couple of days. Briefing the cases as you read also makes outlining easier at the end of the semester.

On the first day, be sure to bring your textbooks, laptop and/or notepad, a pen or pencil, and money or your ID card to purchase food and beverages. If you do have a laptop, note that the building is wired for wireless internet, so bring a wireless card with you for the down time between classes. Beware of surfing the net in class, however. Not only is it disrespectful but at least one professor is sure to catch you off guard. You are not required to use a laptop in class, although the vast majority of students do. The rest take notes by hand. It's a matter of personal preference. Even if you don't take notes by hand, it's helpful to bring paper to class. Some professors make diagrams or use tables, which can be tough to duplicate with a laptop.

You'll also want to bring a combination or key lock for the lockers, graciously provided for us by the administration, as the books get heavy quickly! If for some reason there is already a lock on your assigned locker, see the registrar of the law school.

As far as dress for the first day of classes, wear whatever you feel comfortable in. If there's one thing Notre Dame students are not, it's uniform. You will be required to wear a suit the first day of Orientation, but after that, it's (almost) anything goes. The last thing you want to worry about is your clothes being uncomfortable on your first day of law school.

Finally, don't stress out about the first day. Professors will be understanding, helpful and kind – just make sure you've done the readings. The 2Ls and 3Ls, as well as the law school staff, will be around and eager to help you with any questions or problems that you have. Enjoy the first day of many, and welcome to Notre Dame Law School!

1L Classes

LIFE, AS YOU KNOW IT, IS OVER

On the plus side, you'll probably love your first year of law school classes. First-year classes are when you get to know your classmates' minds and skills. You'll bond together against a common enemy – failure, and chances are, you'll prevail.

Civil Procedure I & II

Civil Procedure is the set of rules governing civil trials in the federal court system. The class focuses on the constitutional and statutory framework within which the civil justice system operates. In particular, it examines the sources and limitations of judicial power over people and organizations (personal jurisdiction) and over cases (subject matter jurisdiction). The course also explores the extent to which state law must be applied in federal court.

In addition, the course examines how litigation is conducted in federal courts, from the initiation of the lawsuit (pleadings) to the manner in which claims and parties are added to or dropped from the lawsuit (joinder, intervention, interpleader, class actions), to the exchange and gathering of information among parties to the lawsuit (discovery), to the resolution of the lawsuit (summary judgment, trial, appeals) and the impact of the completed lawsuit on future litigation (claim and issue preclusion). Five credits (2 Fall, 3 Spring).

Constitutional Law I

Constitutional Law examines the structure of our government as defined by the federal Constitution, Supreme Court precedents interpreting that document and the traditional practice of the elected branches. Two major themes are the distribution of power among the three branches of the federal government and the division of power between the federal government and the states. Three credits (Spring).

Contracts I & II

Contracts presents a comprehensive study of the creation, transfer and termination of contract rights and duties. Contracts deals with the formation of private law between parties, the resolution of ambiguities that are within contracts, and the resolution of disputes that arise from them. Five credits (3 Fall, 2 Spring).

Criminal Law

Criminal Law deals with the basic principles of American criminal law, such as the definition of crime, defenses, proof and punishment, and the basic structure and operation of the American criminal justice system. You will learn what the cool sounding and often-used Court TV terms, such as voluntary manslaughter and malice aforethought, really mean. Law and Order will make a whole lot more sense after this course. Three credits (Fall).

Ethics I

This course studies and analyzes law as a profession, as well as the duties and responsibilities of lawyers to society, clients and the profession. Ethics helps lawyers develop awareness and understanding of their relationship and function in our legal system, and the consequent obligation of lawyers to maintain the highest standards of ethical professional conduct. Professors discuss topics from ethical billing practices to an attorney's duty to report a colleague for misconduct. One credit (Spring), satisfactory/unsatisfactory.

Legal Research

Legal Research is designed to introduce you as a 1L to the tools and methodology of legal research and to help develop the research skills that are essential both in law school and in law practice. Although seemingly impossible, you will also quickly learn your way around the library. You'll not only learn the location of Reporters, Digests, Law Reviews and ALRs, but you'll also learn what to do with them once you find them. This is a team-taught seminar, guaranteed to take you back to your childhood with the showing of a certain cartoon about how a bill becomes a law. One credit (Fall).

Legal Writing

Legal Writing introduces you to the new world of the legal discourse community. The course provides instruction, experience and guidance in learning how to write the basic documents – memos, letters and briefs – you will someday write as lawyers. You will learn to despise the passive voice, nominalizations and the other cardinal sins of the legal writing world. Two credits (Fall).

Moot Court

Moot Court introduces you to techniques of appellate advocacy. Each student is required, with a partner, to brief and argue one appellate case before a panel of "judges." This is one of the most fun classes of the 1L year. Two credits (Spring).

Property

This course addresses the issues surrounding the creation, transfer, sale, possession, and inheritance of both real and personal property. Although you didn't know that you wanted to, you will learn the difference between a fee simple absolute and a fee tail. You will also become familiar with covenants, servitudes, future interests, and the always helpful landlord-tenant relationship. This is the only class during first year that discusses RAP. Four credits (Spring).

Torts

Torts addresses the legal rules which determine whether civil liability attaches to conduct resulting in harm to others. "Tort" is most often defined as a "civil wrong." Brush up on your Latin, and be prepared for some of the most interesting cases you will read during your first year. Topics include proximate cause, negligence, assault, false imprisonment, and foreseeability. Prepare for class by repeating: Duty – Breach – Causation – Damages. Four credits (Fall).

Transfer Students

WELCOME TO THE CLUB

First off, welcome to Notre Dame! If you are still unsure whether Notre Dame Law School is the right place for you, please know that the student body, faculty, and administrators welcome new students to the Notre Dame family with open arms. As a transfer, you can expect a terrific football season, a helpful and intelligent student body, a variety of social events and law school functions, and a faculty that are known nationally and internationally for their legal scholarship. Further, you are able to participate in the Notre Dame OCI process, become an officer in a law school club or organization, and become heavily involved in the law school community very quickly.

You will find that your transition will be fairly smooth and within a week or two, you will get the hang of life at Notre Dame Law School. Many administrators, like Peter Horvath, Dean Peshel, and Anne Hamilton, will be able to assist you with any questions you have about moving to South Bend, applying for financial aid, enrolling in classes, getting your first day of class assignments and setting up your email. Further, the student body and the faculty are extremely friendly and always willing to help.

GENERAL INFORMATION

In general, be sure to read the Irish Law Insider's Guide sections that pertain to activities to do prior to the start of classes and before orientation. For activities like getting a student ID, setting up your email account, getting a parking pass, and signing up for a meal plan, follow the same instructions given to first-year law students. Many of the simple activities, like getting a student ID or getting your books, can be done in the weeks prior to classes starting. Generally, you should plan on arriving to Notre Dame either a week or two before classes start to give yourself time to move in to your apartment, familiarize yourself with South Bend and ensure that you have done all the little things that need to be taken care of prior to school starting.

THE TO-DO-QUICKLY LIST

The biggest problem that you will face is how quickly you must act to complete a long to-do list of activities to get ready for the coming year and specifically, the first day of class. Once admitted, a to-do list will arrive with your acceptance in the mail and it will include a timeline establishing dates to accept admission to the law school, a date that financial aid should be transferred from your old institution to Notre Dame, and a list of other mandatory activities, like talking to Anne Hamilton about a class schedule. Further, if you want to interview during Notre Dame OCI, which begins the first week of classes, you will have to talk to Notre Dame Career Services for assistance with Symplicity. Try to stick to the dates listed on the to-do list to ensure that all the mandatory activities will be done prior to the start of classes.

LOCATING AN APARTMENT AND MOVING

Since transfers are admitted later than first year students, getting an apartment can be a challenge because many of the apartment complexes do not have vacancies. Living in the Fischer-O'Hare-Grace apartments is great because they are the cheapest apartments in South Bend and the closest to school, but the availability is very limited because they are usually already filled by rising 2Ls and 3Ls and incoming 1Ls. Many recent transfer students found availability at: Castle Point, Main Street Village, and the Georgetown Apartment complexes. If you cannot visit South Bend before the start of the school year to find a place to live, try web sites like www.rent.com so that you can read about apartment descriptions in the area and also see pictures of the various complexes.

In addition to finding a place to live, depending upon what state you are coming from and how much furniture you are bringing with you, moving can become very expensive and time-consuming. Many students will not bring much with them if they are coming from out of state, opting to buy furniture when they arrive in South Bend. However, other students will want to bring enough furniture to fill an apartment, which will require a moving truck. If your move requires a moving truck, think about driving a U-Haul yourself and paying for movers to come load and unload the truck or consider hiring a moving company to load, ship, and unload your furniture. Remember that the beginning of the school year is a very busy time for movers, so moving companies will need to know about a possible move as early as possible to plan for it and give you an estimate of the cost.

CLASS SCHEDULE, BOOKS, FIRST DAY ASSIGNMENTS

The registrar, Anne Hamilton, will either contact you or you will have to contact her about the courses available for the upcoming semester. She will email you a list of classes with the times they meet and the number of credits that each class is worth. The minimum number of credits per semester is fourteen. In the past, many transfers were unable to register for their own classes online. If you have this problem, contact Anne Hamilton. If you email your desired course schedule to her, she will enroll you in the classes that you have selected. If you are not sure what classes to take, contact the admissions office and ask for the names and email addresses of current students that you could contact to discuss your course schedule. Also remember that if you are unhappy with a class that you selected, you will have a week to add or drop a class once school begins.

After you have selected a class schedule that you feel comfortable with, go to the bookstore and purchase your books. All of the law books and legal study aids are on the second floor of the bookstore, arranged by the call number of the class. If you have any questions the staff can assist you. The first day of class assignments are posted on the bulletin boards near the men's restroom in the basement of the Law Building. The assignments are usually not listed until a day or two before the start of classes. Check the boards frequently before classes start because new assignments are posted randomly and frequently.

LAW REVIEW AND LAW JOURNALS

As a transfer student, you are able to participate in the same writing competition that Notre Dame rising 2Ls compete in to obtain spots on the Law Review or one of the Law Journals. If you are interested, you must complete the note, following the competition instructions, and send it in by the due date. If selected, you will find out around the time you hear from the Notre Dame Admissions Office. As a member of the Law Review or a Law Journal, you can improve your research and writing abilities, meet new people and become friends with other staff members, and help build your resume.

JOBS

As a transfer student, you can participate in the OCI process at Notre Dame. The OCI process consists of four phases and it begins during the first week of classes and ends in mid-October before fall break. If you are interested in participating in any of the phases and especially if you are interested in participating in phase one, contact Career Services as soon as possible to get a password for e-attorney and the schedule for registering to interview with employers during the various phases. Career Services is extremely helpful and will be more than happy to review your resume, list of references, writing sample, and cover letters. To have your documents reviewed, you can either meet with a staff member in person by scheduling an appointment or send your documents via e-mail during the summer.

As a transfer, list the law school that you previously attended on your resume and include your class rank, GPA, and various activities you participated in at that school. Even though you are participating in the Notre Dame OCI, employers will be more than willing to meet with you and make you job offers. To determine whether you qualify to interview with a specific firm, compare your GPA from your previous law school to the minimum GPA the firm is willing to interview. Be sure to have a good answer as to why you transferred and never put down the law school that you previously attended during an interview.

If you are not interested in working at a law firm, Career Services can help you find the type of employment that you are looking for, such as a legal aid position or a judicial clerkship. Meet with a staff member to discuss your interests or call them over the summer so that you have a head start on the employment process. The Career Services staff has a tremendous amount of knowledge about public interest careers and judicial clerkship opportunities.

I graduated from Notre Dame in 2004 and went back home to Texas for my first year of law school. I did well my first year, but I always felt like something was missing. I missed the type of student body that Notre Dame attracted. I missed the campus, the faith life, Notre Dame's commitment to service, and the amazing classroom discussions. I decided to leave Texas and return to South Bend for my remaining two years of law school.

I missed the type of student body that
attracted.

By changing schools, I broke my apartment lease in Texas, incurred a huge moving expense, and had to rush to complete a long to-do list of activities prior to classes starting. As a Notre Dame 2L, I am so happy that I transferred! I was able to participate in the OCI process and I received job offers from my top two Texas firms. Also I was able to quickly become involved with various law school organizations and one of the Law Journals. I miss my friends from Texas, but transferring to Notre Dame was the right decision because the Notre Dame student body is less competitive, more welcoming, and more involved, and so many more opportunities for career choices and public interest work have become realistic possibilities.

Non-Traditional Students

IT'S NOT EXACTLY A WALK IN THE PARK, BUT YES, YOU CAN DO IT.

If you're more than a year or two out of undergrad, or married, or have children, or some combination of the above, then you're probably tired of people thinking you're crazy for wanting to go back to school. The good thing is, we don't think you're crazy.

In fact, yet another up-side to the whole community thing at Notre Dame Law School is that it is a real benefit to students who have additional demands on their time or who have been out of the academic groove for a while. Students, professors and administrators alike are willing to help, incredibly understanding, and genuinely interested in the unique perspective such students bring to the classroom and the community. As a Catholic university, Notre Dame is certainly pro-family, from the plethora of cheap-or-free entertainment options to the "family time" hours at the athletic and recreational centers on campus. And, the lower cost of just about everything in South Bend means that students with spouses and families just might be able to make those student budgets stretch a little farther here than in the various urban meccas tempting with their siren songs.

This section is devoted to the information and resources that non-traditional students in particular might find helpful. But even if you don't meet that description, keep reading. If we've done our job properly, you just may discover some hidden gems of wisdom that will have you feeling like an insider in no time.

HOUSING

As an addendum to the overall section on apartments and housing, we recommend you hit the web or make some phone calls to verify the information in this guide. Some of the complexes may actually have three-bedroom, or bigger, units, but they weren't originally included in this guide because they are out of the typical student's price range. But with a spouse and a child, or two, or more (don't laugh – one member of the Class of 2007 has four children), that extra space is likely more important to you than a few extra dollars to drop at Bookmaker's.

Most married students cannot say enough good things about University Village, Notre Dame's housing for married students. If you're even thinking about Notre Dame, be sure to check it out. It's tight living, but it's the BEST deal in town. It's all the perks of on-campus housing for dirt cheap. The amenities include water, sewer, trash, local phone service, Ethernet, an all-enclosed playground in the center of the buildings, an organic community garden, a playroom, NDSP and fire security (which lowers our renter's insurance dramatically), and a club house that's free to rent. Rent is a little over $400, which includes local phone service, but does not include long distance and electricity. There are tons of activities going on all the time: BBQs for couples without children, family campouts on the playground, Village picnics, playgroups, Rosary group, La Leche League, story time, etc. They also have a program called Parents' Night Out each month, which is essentially free babysitting by members of the freshman class for a few hours.

Transportation is easy because of the convenient shuttle. The bus picks up residents at their doors and drops them off at the door to the Law School. Best of all, it's free. It's a great way to save on a parking pass and a walk-free way to give older relatives/visitors a tour of the campus.

Other housing options include both renting and buying a single-family home. If you're interested in buying, check out realtor.com or similar sites listing houses for sale. If you'd rather rent, the University's Residence Life and Housing website has a section for graduate students – orlh.nd.edu/housing/graduate/index.htm – that includes links for both family housing and off-campus options. Once you're an "admitted and confirmed student," you can go through the off-campus section of this website to access a master list of all rental properties in the area that have registered with Notre Dame. This is an extremely valuable list that will simplify your house hunting greatly.

Finally, the admitted students' website will include a list of houses available for rent or sale, usually from current or recently-graduated law students. Heather Moriconi in the Admissions Office helps facilitate the passing of property from one law school generation to the next, so if you're looking to rent, be sure to let Heather know.

Okay, so South Bend isn't exactly New York or Chicago. Maybe they're just giving away jobs to everybody who sets foot in the big cities, but in our little hamlet, finding a job for your spouse might take just a smidge of effort. Fortunately, there are many resources to help here as well. For starters, try the University itself. One of the area's largest employers, Notre Dame always seems to have several openings, including some that are particularly appropriate for spouses of students. Currently available positions are at greentree.hr.nd.edu/asewebexternal/ASEPage\_JobListMenu.asp, which is accessible through the Human Resources main page at www.nd.edu.

While you're looking for university employment, don't forget about nearby colleges and universities: Notre Dame's sister school, Saint Mary's College; Holy Cross Junior College; Bethel College; Indiana University-South Bend; Goshen College, and, Ivy Tech. Still in the educational vein, South Bend Community Schools, Penn-Harris-Madison district, and the City of Mishawaka schools are the major school systems in the area.

If your spouse works in a health care field, there are two major hospitals in the area, South Bend Memorial and St. Joseph's Regional Medical Center, which would be good starting points. And if there's one thing South Bend has plenty of, it's doctors of every conceivable specialty.

If there's something else South Bend has plenty of, it's retail space. Right next door to Notre Dame is the Grape Road Shopping Conglomerate, a couple miles' worth of virtually every big box chain store known to man, as well as a good-sized regional mall (see "Shopping") and chain restaurants galore (see "Restaurants"). Such places are always in need of additional help. Pretty much no matter where you go to law school, your spouse may need to sacrifice a little in terms of their career aspirations, just as you two agreed would be the case when you decided to embark on this path (You did have that “sacrifice today for a better future tomorrow” talk, right?).

Another option to consider is choosing a place to live where your spouse can commute somewhere other than South Bend for his or her job. For example, the cities of Edwardsburg, Niles, St. Joseph and Benton Harbor in southwest Michigan all offer expanded opportunities for a job search if you’re willing to drive a little further.

To the east of South Bend, Elkhart and Goshen offer additional options, and to the west, Chesterton, Merrillville, and even Chicago are potentially doable. Sometimes the spouse does the commuting, sometimes the law student. Students have lived in South Bend during the week and returned to faraway families only on the weekends. Students have driven an hour (or more) each day for class and returned home each night. One student arranged his class schedules so that all his classes were on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. His only complaint seemed to be that the drive down could be a bit iffy if the weather is bad.

If all else fails, check the South Bend Tribune, www.southbendtribune.com, for job listings. There are jobs here. There must be, or else they wouldn’t keep building new subdivisions.

CHILD CARE

As challenging as it can be to go back to a college-esque environment as a married person, in a perfect world there would be a special notation on one’s diploma for undertaking to earn a degree full-time while not only being married, but a parent besides. As noted earlier, Notre Dame is perhaps one of the few places where one can study law in an environment conducive to raising children. Many of the faculty are themselves raising young families, and a number of students have rightly perceived that the family-friendly community of both Notre Dame and the South Bend-Mishawaka area, coupled with a lower cost of living, make this an especially attractive place to pull off the feat of going to school and being a parent.

And while the stars may align just right and permit your spouse to stay home with the children while you attend classes and study, the likelihood is that you will need child care in South Bend. The following is a list of just a few of the major child-care options in South Bend (read: the options this writer actually investigated for his own children). It is by no means a complete or comprehensive list. A number of other possibilities exist, from licensed pre-schools to church-run co-ops to nice neighbors who take care of kids in their own homes. As with any city, big or small, the decision of where to leave your children for several hours a day is as personal as it is important, so we encourage you to use this information as a starting point.

Early Childhood Development Center of Notre Dame

hr.nd.edu/worklife/ecdc.shtml

The Early Childhood Development Center, or ECDC, is affiliated with the University but is officially its own organization, with a separate Board of Directors. It actually operates two facilities – one on the campus of Notre Dame, on Bulla Road right across from Fischer-O’Hara-Grace, and another on the campus of nearby Saint Mary’s College.

The advantages of ECDC are location – right on campus; you must be affiliated with Notre Dame as a student, staff, or faculty member in order to qualify; and, at the Notre Dame site, the cost is calculated on a sliding scale determined by your income (which in the case of students means it is likely to be the lowest point on the scale!). The disadvantages are that, because it is an extremely popular and sought-after program, it fills up quickly – as soon as February for the year beginning the following August. But don't despair – schedule changes and cancellations do occur, so if you're interested, be sure to get on the waiting list just in case. Another disadvantage – they don't enroll children under two years of age.

La Petite Academy

www.lapetite.com/home.html

574-255-3701; 219-234-7109

La Petite Academy is a nationally-based chain of day-care facilities. In this area you have your choice of the Mishawaka location, just off Main Street on Catalpa; the South Bend Memorial Hospital location on St. Joseph Street; or an Elkhart location. What makes La Petite Academy unique is its standardized curriculum – every location in the country works from the same basic handbook in terms of lessons and goals. You can learn more about their curriculum and how it is applied at the website listed above.

Growing Kids Learning Center

www.growingkids.com

574-273-9048 (location closest to campus)

Growing Kids Learning Center is a local chain of facilities that is well-liked by its patrons. The location at Douglas and 23 is most convenient to campus, unless you live closer to one of the others. The children love “Main Street,” an indoor playroom decorated like a town. They can play inside or outside the “buildings,” climb, slide and jump about. Growing Kids is one of the few day care centers that offers late-evening care – until 11:30 pm.

Starz Academy

No official website

574-259-1966 (location closest to campus)

It's unfortunate that Starz Academy apparently still doesn't have a website, because it's another extremely convenient option in this area. However, there is more information at indiana.schooltree.org/private/Starz-Academy-015264.html. There are several locations around town, including one on Edison Road near Grape, and another on State Road 23 in Granger. A third is located on Jefferson Boulevard near Ironwood. The big feature at Starz Academy that the children love is a giant indoor play structure that enables them to climb way up high, look out plexiglass windows, and eventually climb or slide down. Think of a McDonald's Playland, but bigger. Starz Academy emphasizes the different curricula in their classrooms, as well as their security procedures for drop-off and pickup.

Beyond these options, literally dozens of other day-care facilities exist in the South Bend area. Some elementary work on Google will turn up websites such as www.daycare-info.us/IN/South-Bend.asp that can help you find many of those other options. But of course, web searches and cold-calling can only go so far when it's the care of your children at stake. Only personal visits to see the facilities and meet the teachers will truly suffice, and for that you kind of have to be here. Still, hopefully this information will help you use your limited time most efficiently.

Another challenge you'll face is finding decent, affordable health care for you and your children. If your spouse can cover them (and maybe you, too) through his or her work, then you're in much better shape. But you may find that your most obvious option is to enroll your entire family in the university-sponsored student insurance plan. While there's certainly nothing wrong with this option and it may be all you or your spouse need, you may feel a little better knowing that your children have additional coverage. Take a look at Hoosier Healthwise. It's Indiana's version of the federally supported State Children's Health Insurance Program, which means yes, it's a form of government assistance. But virtually every student family in University Village participates in the program, and it's designed to help people in situations like yours. Find out more information at www.in.gov/fssa/hoosier\_healthwise/, and remember: everybody's doin' it.

If you can't or don't want to qualify for Hoosier Healthwise, the consensus seems to be that Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield is the next best alternative for health insurance. Explore your options and get a rough quote at www.anthem.com.

Another option is the BABE store. The BABE store is a great way to get stuff your kids need for free. By going to your doctor appointments when you're pregnant, and/or taking your kids to their doctor appointments, you can earn BABE coupons. You can also earn them by attending approved parenting classes, seminars, La Leche League meetings, etc. You can use the coupons to shop at the BABE store. It's a great reward system for those who are proactive about taking care of their kids. There are at least two BABE stores in the area. They offer clothing, diapers, wipes, toys, cribs, car seats, strollers, formula, baby bath, bottles, bibs, and seasonal things. It doesn't take much to earn the coupons, and it doesn't take many coupons to buy things.

BUDGET SAVERS

Okay, so you're here, you've found a place to live, your spouse has a meager source of income to supplement your loans, and your kids are in decent day care and are adequately insured. On those rare occasions when you're not studying, how can you and your family have a good time on the approximately eleven cents per day you can devote to recreation?

The following suggestions offer ways to make those dollars stretch – without going without:

- If you live in South Bend, get a library card, which allows you to check out children's movies for free; grown-up videos are $0.75. Sure beats Blockbuster! Also, don't forget the Kresge Library right here at the law school has several dozen popular movie titles available for free checkout. Granted, most of them have a legal theme to them, so they might not be the best choice for those nights you want to think about anything other than the law. But in general, it's another free entertainment option to keep in mind.
- That South Bend Library card also enables you to check out FREE passes to the Studebaker Museum, Healthworks, the College Football Hall of Fame, and the Northern Indiana Center for History, which has a kids' museum and a homes tour, where you can tour the Oliver Mansion and a working-class family's home.

- The Rockne Memorial recreation center and the Rolfs Sports Rec and Aquatic Center offer family swim times on the weekend – no charge to ND students and their families. Also, because you are a student, your spouse can get his or her own ID card to access Rockne and Rolf, free of charge.
- The Notre Dame bookstore has an “AWESOME” story time every Tuesday at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. They read a story, sing songs, and do a craft. (A lot of moms at the Village either walk or take the shuttle together for the morning time.)
- Papa Murphy's has the best pizza for the price around. It's take and bake, but their ingredients are so good and fresh (think fresh, homemade dough), you might find yourself nibbling the cheese and tasting the sauce while you wait for your oven to heat up. It's located at 316 West Cleveland Road, between Grape and Main, next to Talbots. Their phone number is 574-272-0072.
- Admiral Petroleum (on 933, aka Michigan Ave.) always has the cheapest prices around. Phillips 66 (next to the Village) is a decent second choice for gasoline.
- Notre Dame Security Police has a car-seat expert on staff who can inspect your car-seat(s). Even better, they can get you a free car-seat, if you need one. The South Bend Police Dept. can do the same. They love it when parents get their car-seats inspected, so they will reward you with tons of freebies.
- Consider using prepaid phone cards for your long distance needs. Sam's Club has the best deal at 3.47 cents per minute – no surcharge. It's cheaper than most long distance plans. Plus, it's renewable at the same rate. Even if you factor in the cost of a Sam's Club membership, you come out ahead (but surely you can find somebody who already has a membership and tag along with them).

SURVIVAL TIPS

We end this section with a few quick pointers on how to manage the juggling of your many responsibilities. We would not presume to declare any one way to be the way to get through law school as a non-trad. Indeed, part of the beauty of being a non-trad is to come up with the best solution that meets your unique needs. But there are still some things that can apply across the board – universal truths, if you will – which, in keeping with most hard-and-fast laws of nature, you may feel free to accept or reject.

- As an older student, you've probably spent some considerable time in the workforce, and as a result, you've learned how to manage your time and developed the discipline to stay relatively focused from 9 to 5, or longer. These skills will serve you very well in law school, where the direct demands on your time are much fewer – you're only in class a few hours a day – but the workload is enough that if you stick to the 40 (or more) hour week you're already used to, you'll find you have a lot more time than you thought you would (but note this is not the same thing as “a lot of time”).

- Speaking of computers, deciding whether or not to take notes by hand or on computer is a matter of personal preference. But it helps to think about this issue in terms of your past experience – did you use a computer in your job? Are you more used to writing or typing in your pre-law-school day-to-day routine? The bottom line is, don't listen to advice that "feels" wrong to you. Only you know what will work best for you, based on what has worked best for you before.
- Take the practice exams!! Since you've been out of school for a while exams are probably a distant memory. Even if you don't study for them, just the experience of reading the questions under time pressure will be instructive. If you want to study, it might help to just study diligently for one or two of the four courses (the most difficult ones), and don't worry about the others. That way you can use the exams you take to see whether your study method is working for you. If you try to study for all four classes, the likelihood is you won't prepare thoroughly for any of them, and as a result you won't get very meaningful feedback on your study habits.
- If you want to meet other people in the same boat as you, there are several clubs and organizations at school that can help. There is a Married Students Organization, and a Military Law Students Organization. As well, by next year, there may be a Non-traditional Law Student's Organization.
- Don't be afraid to socialize. The married and unmarried students, the younger and older students, the students with children and the students who are children, all tend to mingle and interact almost without any regard for their demographic differences. Many non-trad students agree that the thing they found most surprising about Notre Dame was how they did not feel ostracized or segregated on account of their status. Of course, friendships form and groups solidify during the first few weeks of classes, but there is amazingly little homogeneity. As daunting as it may seem to be returning to school with "peers" who are from a few to several years younger, the bottom line is that you're all there for the same reason. The reading, the materials, the assignments, the workload – all are equally new and challenging and time-consuming to everyone. In the end, you find out, as happens in all good tests of character, that you have a lot more in common with one another than you ever would have guessed.

Study & Time Management Tips

OR THE ANTI-"PAPER CHASE"...

You'll quickly find that everyone in law school handles the academic side of school a little differently. . . but there are some common things that help everyone. Here's a sampling of what those who have been through it have discovered:

READ THOUSANDS OF PAGES AND STILL BE HOME BY SIX

Legally Blonde is a perfect example of everything that scares 1Ls about law school: the fiercely competitive classmates, hostile study groups, and unforgiving professors that tortured Reese Witherspoon's character. That's in addition to the lost hours of sleep and the thousands of pages of reading into a big tangle of worry, fear, and concerns about whether or not you needed to rethink your wardrobe for law school.

Luckily, all of these fears will vanish rapidly, except maybe one. The pages of reading you'll do each semester will easily reach into the thousands. However, unlike Legally Blonde, you will be helped and supported by classmates, faculty, and administrators.

For many students, the hours between classes provide enough time to review homework assignments, eat lunch with friends, and take occasional walks around the lakes when the weather cooperates. If you are careful and focused during the day, it frees up your nights to exercise, have dinner, talk to family and go out with friends, guilt free. Also, you'll want at least one day per weekend free, especially during the fall for football. If you plan ahead, you'll find that minimizing the stress of the first year isn't impossible.

Basically if you love reading huge numbers of court cases night after night, this place will be like Disneyland. Even if that isn't listed as one of your hobbies coming in, law school really isn't that bad. One thing that makes it manageable is your mind set. I basically knew what I was signing up for when I came here--lots of reading, some late nights, etc. And in that sense, law school has not disappointed. But the fact that I was prepared to do a lot of work has made it a lot easier. In undergrad I had a job and other things to worry about, but here, learning the law is my main responsibility and so spending a lot of time doing it doesn't really bother me so much. You will have to devote a lot of time to getting your work done – some people decide to devote about 20 hours a day to this. But don't let those people scare you. If you are like most people here, you will do your work and still have time left over to watch TV, go to football games and mingle in South Bend's cosmopolitan night scene.

And one more thing: make sure you complain incessantly about how much work you have. It is a favorite pastime of 1L's and you won't fit in unless you do so.

♣ Zach Dougherty, Class of 2008

The sooner you learn to be a selective reader the sooner you'll start getting more than three hours of sleep a night.

PRIORITIZING V. PROCRASTINATION

Despite a number of claims to the contrary, a day in the life of a typical law student doesn't have to consist of working constantly, pausing only to sneak in an occasional meal or doze off for a few hours before the 8:35 a.m. class for which you, naturally, didn't have time to fully read. That's not to say law school is a walk in the park, by any means. You can have a little fun, and the semblances of a life, as long as you remember that there is work to be done.

Weekdays are fairly standard for most first year law students: wake up around 7:30 or 8:00 a.m. (except for those blessed days when class starts a bit later, giving you more precious hours of sleep), pack up for the day and go to the law school. Plan to remain there until sometime late in the afternoon, or possibly early evening – this is a very realistic scenario. It's always good to grab a quick breakfast (those cereal bars are great on the run), or at least coffee (the Chocolate Macadamia in the Irish Café is very popular).

Especially your first year, you should try to have the reading done in advance and hope that, should you be called on to answer, the professor wouldn't ask you about the one point in the assignment you didn't understand or skipped over (in an Irish law school, Murphy's law is reality). If you don't get a chance to read, take plenty of notes, and plan on studying them later, although it's amazing how "later" often seems to mean the week before the final.

Aside from class, there's still plenty of work to be done for the day. Between classes is a great time to sneak in a reading or two, if you spent too much time yesterday hanging out with your friends. Lunch at the venerable (and nearby) South Dining Hall with friends is also a welcome break from the day's labor, and it's fun to sit around and relax for a while, eating whatever "gourmet" selection is up in the rotation. Some people treat law school like a job: work during the day (go to class, get the work done), and play at night (it doesn't always work that way, but it's a decent plan). Then, evenings are actually good times, assuming you've used your time wisely and gotten everything done.

These suggestions may not work for everyone. You know, better than anyone, what works best for you. Even if you're a procrastinator, eventually, you're going to have to do work. If you don't study every day, be prepared to work hard during the last few days before finals. If nothing else, though, hopefully this article helps you understand that you don't have to go full tilt and work 24-7 while you're here.

You can have a little fun, and the semblances of a life as long as you remember that there is work to be done.

Law school and life is about priorities. This simple concept can make a huge difference in your law school experience. Keeping your life in balance while acclimating to law school will enable you to remain a whole person. You don't want to become a law school drone. No one wants to hang out with a one-sided. Law school, though challenging, is not as bad as many make it out to be – if it was, no one would go! It will be challenging, but if you keep your life in balance you will find it can be a lot of fun, too.

♣ Chai Park, Class of 2008

In undergrad, most of us could play all semester and then pull a few all-nighters before finals and get good grades. I think the most important thing for law students to realize is that those days are over! Law school involves an immense amount of material. The only way to do well at the end of the semester is to keep up with your readings, go to class, review your notes, and ask questions when you have them. If you procrastinate, you will be overwhelmed and will probably receive grades you've never seen before. Keep up with your work each week and you will do fine.

♣ Anthony Favero, Class of 2008

TRUST YOURSELF

The best advice we can give you is to trust yourself. Remember that you got into Notre Dame for a reason – you wouldn't be here if you weren't smart and capable of learning. Law school involves a lot of work, of course, but some of the biggest difficulties stem from the fact that it's a new way of learning, with a new lexicon and ways of thinking. But that doesn't mean that you can't rely on ways of studying that you have cultivated in the past. The most important aspect of studying in law school is to do what makes you feel comfortable that you are following along with the professor in class. Some students never make a single mark in their books, others highlight in "technicolor," still others type detailed briefs of the cases and notes from the readings. But no matter what you choose, if you feel like you're comprehending the reading and understanding class discussion, then ignore what others do and stick with what works for you.

If it feels good, do it. If you are more comfortable taking notes in a legal pad, do it. Taking notes on a laptop may not be the best way for everyone to learn. You had successful study habits that got you here, so don't feel like you need to change them to emulate what your classmates are doing. If you feel like you are comprehending the material, then don't alter your approach just because the person next to you is highlighting their book in more/fewer colors. Also, don't look over your shoulder. Never judge how much you are doing by how much others are doing. Only you know the amount of time that you must spend in order to grasp the concepts.

Do not be intimidated by people studying on Friday and Saturday nights, or outlining criminal law instead of going to the football game. Not everyone needs to do this in order to be successful in law school. Unfortunately, the opposite is true as well. If you feel like you need to study instead of going out, trust yourself and get your work done. You might be glad you did. You know what work you need to do, so do it, and when you are not doing it, do not be afraid to have a good time.

The most important thing to know when entering law school is yourself – know how you best learn. If you need flashcards, make them, if you are a visual learner outline and map key terms. Remember what worked for you as an undergrad and continue doing that. Don't worry about what others are doing or how and when others are studying. The only thing that matters is what works for you. Know yourself, and you will do fine.

♣ Courtney Homan, Class of 2008

Getting adjusted to law school can be a challenge; there is always work to do and always ways you could improve and continue to revise the work you've done. You have to learn that there is a time for work and a time for play. Taking time for yourself to do what you enjoy is essential. It is what will give you energy and motivation throughout the semester. Professor Bellia emphasizes that law school is a marathon, not a sprint. Keep that in mind, do your best, but remember who you are and what makes you happy.

♣ Akia Haynes, Class of 2008

UNVEILING THE MYSTERIOUS OUTLINE PROCESS

---

Outlining is absolutely necessary for law school success. With that said, it's important for you to understand that outlining techniques vary greatly between students. There are students who start outlining for each class 48 hours before the final, and others that spend every Saturday of the semester outlining. Both techniques have landed students on law review. But if you're tempted to try the 48-hour approach, keep two things in mind. First, only experienced procrastinators need apply. This approach requires that you study up to 16 hours a day for two weeks straight – many can't handle that pressure, and those who can still curse themselves for getting into such a bind. Second, both approaches ultimately take similar amounts of time. The workload is just distributed differently.

The key to outlining is to review all of your notes and then condense

To best prepare for outlining of any kind, read for class every day. Read every page that's assigned, even the notes. I'll venture to say that a large portion of students would disagree with that last point, but I personally think it's important. Take notes over what you have read. You can take notes in the margin rather than in a separate notebook. This can work, but if you use this method and choose not to outline as you go, keep in mind that you'll have to flip through 2000 pages to review at the end of the semester.

Go to every single class. Take notes over what is said. If the professor's version of the law and the book's version don't seem to connect, talk to the professor about it. Make sure that you understand the material as you go. Whenever your class is moving on to a new subject (e.g. from conspiracy to complicity), make sure you understand the old subject.

The key to outlining is to review all of your notes and then condense them. Again, there are several approaches to this. For a closed book exam, it's best to have a summary of the semester that is less than 25 pages long. This alone will take several drafts. For some people, that's enough. Others try to condense the class further, to a page or two of black-letter law that you can easily remember, and that will jog your memory if you get stuck. The point of outlining, though is that the process of review and "boiling down" prepares you for the final. It ensures that you see everything at least once, and the important information a dozen times. Remember that for a closed book exam, the sole purpose of outlining is to review and to memorize. The final product doesn't need to be pretty. If you have an open book exam, your outline can be more detailed but should be indexed and tabbed for fast reference. Set the schedule that fits your personality, test type and your tolerance for stress.

SURVIVING AND THRIVING IN LAW SCHOOL

Time can be your dearest ally or your worst enemy. The key to success in law school is apportioning your time to ensure that you have balance in your life: Your brain needs rest and your body needs exercise. Get into a steady routine early. Plan each week and stick to your plan. Getting good grades requires a lot of time and there is no getting around it. Everyone in your class is of roughly the same intelligence, (if you are one of those very few geniuses, please disregard all of my remarks) so in order to make yourself stand out when test time comes you need to have put forth a special effort to learn the material backwards and forwards. This cannot be done at the end of the semester, it must begin from day one.

Keep your body fit,
yourselves.

So my main piece of advice I could give would be to get serious about your studies early on in the year, turn off your internet and pay close attention all class, every class. By focusing in class you will save a lot of time when you are worried about what will be on the exam. The stuff you talk about in class will be on the exam! Finally, I reiterate balance. Keep your body fit, and enjoy yourselves. Being sick (which most of the law school is come finals) will make you waste more time with inefficient studies. Good luck.

♣ Richard W. Mear, Class of 2006

I strongly recommend doing practice exams. True, this may not be a fun exercise, but it will help prepare you for finals.

♣ Rebecca Brown, Class of 2008

The biggest thing to staying cool is to get into a rhythm and just follow it everyday. If you force yourself to stay on the ball and hit the books you'll make time for all the really fun stuff. What I cut out of my life was the hours of sitting around watching TV, screwing around on the internet, and sadly, recreational reading. This might sound horrifying now, but once you really get immersed in the situation you'll see that even a spare hour is a pretty precious thing. You'll get so used to it though that warning bells will be going off in your head when you finally do get some free time. "Shouldn't I be spending this time doing something better?" As the semester wears on you may start seeing people disappearing into the nether reaches of the library, never going out to bars, not even going to football games. Don't buy into the hype. It's just not necessary to be successful. There's no award for spending the most time in the library. Notre Dame is a destination, people want to come here for a reason, and it's not the interior walls of the dingy law library. Go out and immerse yourself in the university experience. Pep Rallies, Football Games, Hockey Games, Basketball Games, Dining Halls, Intramural Sports are all vital to staying sane. If you put in the time, the academics will take care of themselves.

If I had to give you one piece of academic advice (and I believe I'm contractually bound to) it would be to selectively cut corners. Do not listen to professors when they tell you not to buy study aids. However, use them as supplemental, not primary sources of information. Additionally do not brief a case beyond the first week of class unless a professor absolutely requires a perfectly expressed statement of the case. Highlight, or take some notes in the book, so you have quick access to the relevant info should you forget a holding, but don't put in the extra hours in making it squeaky clean unless a professor absolutely demands it.

Be self-disciplined.

In undergrad, almost all those who are intelligent enough to be admitted to Notre Dame could avoid studying during the semester, pull a few all-nighters before finals, and still get good grades. I think the most important thing for incoming law students to realize is that those days are over! Law school is a super-intensive endeavor, with literally thousands of pages to read and digest over the course of the semester. Those students who stay up on their reading, adequately preparing for their classes each day, find it all very doable, and generally do well grade-wise. Those who procrastinate in their reading, putting it off until the week before finals, find themselves overwhelmed. So, my advice to incoming students with regard to studying is: Be self-disciplined. Do your reading when it is assigned! You can still go to football games, hang out with friends, and generally be a well-rounded person. But, you must determine to be a law student FIRST!

♣ Joe La Rue, Class of 2006

AND MORE ADVICE, FROM THOSE WHO HAVE COME BEFORE US

Early on in the fall semester, Professor Garnett distributed a "survival" tip sheet for his incoming 1Ls. The tip that left the greatest impression on me was his advisement to us to "take care of each other." That's what the Notre Dame Law School community is all about. This school recognizes cooperation over competition, respect over righteousness, and ethics over easy answers. Many law schools will preach justice and truth; Notre Dame calls for us to live each day in search of these things. How privileged we are to study law in this environment!

♣ Jaclyn Villano, Class of 2005

Adjusting to the demands of life in law school can be overwhelming, but NDLS and the friends you'll make here help to maintain a perspective, and always provide you with that needed chuckle. The atmosphere is definitely not one of competition, but rather one of support and encouragement. We're all in the same boat – we can take pride in one another's accomplishments and help pull each other up from heavy demands of the work load. You'll be surrounded by inspiring and intelligent peers and professors who continually amaze and encourage you to work hard, but be sure above all else to enjoy everything that the NDLS community has to offer.

♣ Kathleen Eich, Class of 2005

The greatest piece of advice I heard prior to law school was “know your priorities.” Simple, but it made a huge difference to me. Bringing your life into balance with the things that matter most while acclimating to law school might be the thing that keeps you the most sane. Law school isn't that bad – people wouldn't actually go if it were the living nightmare that everyone suggests. Just know how to resolve law school with the pillars in your life.

♣ Brady Fritz, Class of 2005

I think it is easier to come in with the expectation that the first year is going to be very demanding and that you will probably have to work harder than you ever did in college. That being said, it is also important to make some time for yourself along the way. Work hard, and stay focused, but keep perspective and know that everything is going to be just fine in the end.

♣ Ana Perez-Arrieta, Class of 2005

Work hard,
and stay focused, but keep perspective.

The most important thing for a 1L to remember is not to get caught up in what everyone else is doing. Find what works for you – when to study, where to study, what your outlines look like, etc. – and don't worry that your classmates are doing something different. The test is not how many hours someone sees you pouring over your casebook in the library. Instead, test your mastery of the subject by investigating the numerous questions in the “notes” sections of the casebook, taking practice exams, discussing your questions with a study group, and trying to answer the questions that the professor is asking your peers during class. You'll know you're doing well when you can anticipate what the professor is going to ask before she asks it.

♣ John Bradley, Class of 2005

Don't forget there is life outside of law school. Take time for yourself. Schedule time when you absolutely won't study – whether that's every Saturday or a couple evenings a week. Don't let work overwhelm you. Taking breaks help you remember the other stuff in life that makes you happy – and keeps you sane.

♣ Michelle Tyler, Class of 2005

Do practice exams even if you do them the day before the final. Especially if one is not used to writing three hour exams, this can really help in getting the correct organization for writing an exam.

♣ Jeremy Moseley, Class of 2005

Please recognize the importance of these three years of your life. I don't mean the pressure of making the grade and finding the job. I'm referring to the fact that for most of you this will be your last chance to be a student. Your last chance to spend the day in old jeans and T-shirts. Your last chance to stay out all night and sleep in the next morning. In short, your last stop before the working world. Realize that it is possible, if you are (key word) disciplined, to have a full and complete life and still make stellar grades. Prepare for class. Don't wait until the last minute to start outlining. Make serious efforts to understand the material as you go along. Come up with a schedule that works for you and stick with it. Law school has been infinitely more fun than I ever could have hoped it would be. Make sure you experience the whole of it while you're here.

♣ Kristen Bailey, Class of 2005

Law school has been infinitely more fun than I ever could have hoped it would be.

I have three pieces of advice for future 1Ls:

(1) Time management is of the utmost importance. Constantly ask yourself 'how can I use this present moment most efficiently?' You certainly need time to read, to think about what you've read, to outline, to formulate questions for the professors, but you also need time to do the other things in your life . . . like reading a book for pleasure or going to the football games.

(2) Your classmates are your most valuable resource. Talk to them about the law; debate with them. Ask them hard questions; ask them for study tips but also be prepared to share your own. Lawyers need to be able to talk well with people, and law school is a great time to develop these skills even more than you already have.

(3) Learn to love the study of law. It is not just a professional degree; law school touches every aspect of life, and since you have to study so much, make sure you enjoy it. Some of the cases are actually interesting, and as you learn more, you often find yourself becoming fascinated by things that would have bored you to death in your days before law school. Love the law, and be prepared to eat, drink and breathe it.

Faculty

INTIMIDATING? SOMETIMES. CONVIVIAL? ALWAYS!

The faculty sets Notre Dame Law School apart. It is easy to be impressed by the credentials of a particular law school's faculty but we believe no school in the country has a faculty that has as many well-respected AND gracious professors as we do. For example, a previous Insider staff member left the law school at 10:30 one night after it had snowed heavily and was walking down Notre Dame Avenue. Dean O'Hara stopped as she was driving by and offered a ride. It's the little things that make the faculty here special.

STUDENT PERSPECTIVES ON THE FACULTY

This is a sampling of comments about particular faculty members we received from students, but we also heard about how Professor Velasco can be found pacing the halls at the beginning of the semester memorizing all his students' names; how Professor Rick Garnett plays basketball with a student team each winter; how Professor Nagle has students in the Christian Legal Society to his home every semester for a barbeque; and how the research librarians will regularly drop whatever they're doing to help students research for projects.

Before classes began, I was visiting campus and the law school doors were locked. A man (with his son) walked up to me and we started joking around, and he took out a key and let me in. We chatted for maybe 10 minutes; he was very curious about my background. As I thanked him profusely for his kindness and suggestions, he told me he was a dean at the law school! It was Dean Pratt, and since then he has gone out of his way to make me feel welcome and offer his help. I spent time at the "top" law schools and I can tell you that the administrators and faculty are not anyway near as accessible and genuinely caring as they are here.

The Professors Garnett are very committed to students learning the concepts and thinking for themselves. Both of their classes were very stimulating and encouraging in that they actually did help me to see how being a "different kind of lawyer" had implications for ethics, practice and my personal faith as an individual and a Christian.

Many professors are very friendly and helpful – it's a true open door policy. Especially Professor A. J. Bellia and Professor Tidmarsh; they have a way of making you feel like you're never interrupting, and what you have to ask them is important.

My advisor, Professor Seckinger, has been really great. He invited all his advisees (1Ls, 2Ls and 3Ls) out to dinner, paid for our meals and let the 1Ls use the opportunity to get all kinds of advice and study tips from the older students. I feel like this was a really friendly gesture on his part and he really wanted to help us feel comfortable as our workload increases.

In my first few days on campus a 2L told me that at the end of the year I'd actually be sad that Contracts was over because A. J. Bellia was just that good. I didn't believe him at first, but now I do. I think that truly exceptional teachers are rather rare and he is undoubtedly one of the finest. His lucid and concise explanations of even the most elusive subtleties of contract law make it almost easy – and his Seinfeld references and personal stories make it fun.

Professor Tidmarsh was late for a meeting one day. Nevertheless, he stayed in his office with me and explained something TWICE, until I understood it. It was a HUGE help.

I've had great interactions with so many professors. Probably the best was with Professor Amy Barrett, when I went to ask her a question about Civil Procedure class. She actually bothered to ask me how the class was going, and if I thought I was following along. That struck me, because I think the common perception about law school is that the professors don't really care if you understand or not, they just stand in front of the room, belittle people who don't know the answers, and then give grades out at the end of the semester. But here she was caring. And she isn't the only one who cares either – all the professors have been very open to questions, making comments on drafts of my outlines, etc. From talking to friends at other law schools, I know this isn't the case at other places. I think that is really what sets Notre Dame apart.

When I first joined the Women's Liturgical Choir and the director handed me over to Patti Ogden (law librarian and legal research teacher), I figured it was just because he assumed I'd know her from the law school. I soon discovered that he puts every new member under her care. I was impressed to discover not only that she had chosen to involve herself in the college community so closely but that she was the go-to person for making new choir members feel welcome.

I've had so many wonderful experiences with teachers that it's hard to pick one or two to comment on. Professor Bauer is a wonderful teacher, and he brings a lot of energy and fun to Civil Procedure. One of my favorite memories from 1L year is the day we did the Burger King case. Imagine our shock and surprise when he came to class wearing a Burger King crown! So during his birthday party (which his 1L class throws for him every year), we all wore the crowns. He spent the class period telling us war stories from his practice days.

The best piece of advice I have heard was from Professor Rick Garnett. He emphasizes to his 1L Criminal Law students that it is important to 'take care of each other.' These first few months I have been surprised to see how much the students at Notre Dame take that to heart.

FIRST-YEAR PROFESSORS

First year, you will all take the same classes, fifteen credits each semester. In this section we have provided a list of professors who will probably teach first year classes in 2006-07, followed by a description of those classes. This list is not absolute, though. Notre Dame is constantly bringing in visiting professors, who bring their own unique perspectives to the Notre Dame community.

Amy Barrett

Teaches: Civil Procedure II, Evidence, Statutory Interpretation Seminar.

J.D. from Notre Dame. She clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia. Professor Barrett is known for her no-nonsense attitude and her incredible command of the material. Her students will tell you that learning from her is a pleasure. She is always warm and welcoming to students who stop by her office for help.

Joseph Bauer

Teaches: Civil Procedure I, Conflict of Laws, Copyright & Trademark, Anti-Trust.

J.D. from Harvard University. The most important thing to say about Professor Bauer is that his birthday is November 3. His student-planned yearly birthday party is one of the most highly anticipated events of any 1L's first semester. We don't want your class to be the one that breaks the tradition of surprising him with a unique celebration. Also, you may spend weeks on Pennoyer, but you'll know it like the back of your hand.

A. J. Bellia

Teaches: Contracts I & II, Federal Courts.

J.D. from Notre Dame. Professor Bellia is one half of Notre Dame's two husband-wife teaching teams. He clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia. His contracts class is highlighted by his humorous asides. Because of his love for both, you'll be able to discuss contracts in terms of Seinfeld by the end of the year. Also you can find him leading the Rosary in the law school chapel several days a week during the lunch hour.

Patricia Bellia

Teaches: Constitutional Law, Cyberlaw, Copyright & the Constitution.

J.D. from Yale. Married to A. J. Bellia. She clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. Wore red every day for the Red Sox during the playoffs. Don't think you'll go unnoticed in her class – she has a knack for knowing people's names on the first day.

Alejandro Camacho

Teaches: Property, Environmental Law

J.D. from Harvard. Professor Camacho is a new addition to the Law School, so the reviews aren't in yet.

Fr. John J. Coughlin, O.F.M., B.A., M.A., Th.M., J.D., J.C.L., J.C.D.

Teaches: Legal Ethics, Intro to Canon Law, Canon Law of Marriage, Professional Responsibility.

J.D. from Harvard. Despite apparently having more initials after his name than any other professor in the building (has law degrees from Harvard University and the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome), Fr. Coughlin is both friendly and approachable. Fr. Coughlin presides over daily Mass in the law school chapel, and frequently also presides at the Sunday Mass in the law school lounge.

Fernand "Tex" Dutile

Teaches: Criminal Law, Law of Education.

J.D. from Notre Dame. No one knows how a professor from Maine with a Boston accent got to be called "Tex" but his criminal law class is very popular with first year students, despite his other nickname – The Smiling Assassin. Along with his University position as faculty NCAA rep comes an enormous football national championship ring from 1988.

Nicole Garnett

Teaches: Property, Local Government Law, Urban Property Seminar.

J.D. from Yale. Professor Garnett is another half of one of the husband and wife teaching teams (married to Rick Garnett). She clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas. Recently appointed by President Bush to serve on the National Prison Rape Reduction Commission. Bright and funny, Professor Garnett can demonstrate most property law concepts by reference to The Carolina Blue House and the use of table saws in suburbia.

Richard Garnett

Teaches: Criminal Law, Constitutional Criminal Procedure, Death Penalty, First Amendment.

J.D. from Yale. He clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice William Rehnquist. Rick Garnett is married to Nicole Garnett. Only Professor Garnett's family and his obsession with Duke basketball beats his love of teaching the law.

Jimmy Gurulé

Teaches: Criminal Law, Complex Criminal Procedure, Criminal and Scientific Evidence, International Criminal Law, Law of Terrorism.

J.D. from University of Utah. A former Undersecretary of the Treasury for Enforcement and an internationally known expert in complex criminal litigation, Professor Gurulé also recently helped train the Iraqi judges presiding over the arraignments of Saddam Hussein. If you're interested in criminal law, Professor Gurulé can be a great resource. He has a passion for encouraging students to pursue this side of the law – with the utmost integrity. His classes are always peppered with "war stories" from his days prosecuting major crimes. He is a demanding professor, but you leave his class really knowing criminal law.

Associate Dean Roger Jacobs

Teaches: Legal Research, Directed Readings.

J.D. from University of Detroit. In addition to being a former librarian to the United States Supreme Court, Professor Jacobs is an excellent communicator and a very skilled professor of legal research. Has been known to distribute candy in exchange for correct answers during class.

Cathleen Kaveny

Teaches: Contracts I & II, Ethics and Law at the End of Life, Mercy and Justice.

J.D. from Yale. Whether the topic is consideration or chickens, Professor Kaveny has a real knack for bringing potentially dull cases to life with her vivid descriptions of the "characters," whom she often "casts" for hypothetical Hollywood movies. Pop-culture references flow freely in her class. Her pre-exam pep talks have a well-earned reputation for helpfulness.

Dwight B. King

Teaches: Legal Research.

J.D. from University of Michigan. Poetry and cartoons are both part of the teaching of legal research when Professor King is in the room. A very popular teacher of legal research.

Associate Dean John Nagle

Teaches: Property, Biodiversity and the Law, Environmental Law, Election Law, Legislation.

J.D. from University of Michigan. Professor Nagle's property class is a joy for students and teacher alike, and his sense of humor never fails to delight.

Patti Ogden

Teaches: Legal Research.

J.D. from University of Texas. Professor Ogden loves to teach legal research to first year students who love to learn it from her. Her availability in the library in the days leading up to the legal research exam is always appreciated by her students. Keeps healthy chocolates in her office for student sweet-tooths.

Teresa Phelps

Teaches: Moot Court and Legal Writing, Gender Issues and the Law, Law and Literature.

Masters of Science of the Law from Yale Law School. Professor Phelps is considered to be one of the top legal writing professors in the country. She also worked with some of the great feminists of recent years, including Katherine McKinnon.

Warren Rees

Teaches: Legal Research, Advanced Legal Research.

J.D. from Southern Illinois University. Professor Rees is a quiet fountain of knowledge for first years eager to learn how to do effective legal research. Although he earned his wings as a pilot not too long ago, it's those "Buff Warren" posters that really keep his head in the clouds.

Associate Dean John Robinson

Teaches: Ethics I, Trusts and Estates, Street Law.

J.D. University of California-Berkley. Professor Robinson's sense of humor is renowned throughout the law school and his knowledge of the details of the cases he teaches never ceases to wow his first year students.

Vincent Rougeau

Teaches: Contracts I & II, Real Estate Transactions, Catholic Social Thought.

J.D. from Harvard. Professor Rougeau brings a lot of energy to his classes and obviously enjoys his role in the learning process. His one-man rendition of the drunken negotiations in Lucy v. Zehmer is already an instant classic.

O.C. Snead

Teaches: Torts, Constitutional Criminal Procedure.

J.D. from Georgetown. Professor Snead was the General Counsel for the President's Council on Bioethics for 2 years, and continues to aid the Counsel as an Expert Consultant. He teaches Torts with a youthful sense of humor with which his students identify. Make sure you know the facts of every case down cold, and pay attention to the squibs and notes. Although Professor Snead is a new addition to the faculty, he has already earned a nickname from his students: The Alabama Slammer.

Jay Tidmarsh

Teaches: Torts, Civil Procedure I & II, Federal Court Jurisdiction, Modern Tort Liability, Remedies, Complex Civil Litigation, Law Review.

J.D. from Harvard. Well-liked and funny, Professor Tidmarsh has the coolest ties in the law school. He also uses "props" and card tricks to demonstrate the cases read by his class.

SECOND AND THIRD YEAR PROFESSORS

---

Many of the professors listed under the 1L section also teach upper level courses, but there are a few who do not teach 1Ls. Besides the professors listed below, there are often visiting professors, and adjunct professors, such as John Gallo (teaches Federal Criminal Practice), who is a practicing attorney in Chicago, but drives to Notre Dame once a week to teach.

Matthew Barrett

Teaches: Accounting for Lawyers, Federal Income Tax, Not-for-Profit Organizations.

J.D. and B.B.A. from Notre Dame. He's no relation to Professor Amy Barrett. Professor Barrett is very helpful, and extraordinarily kind to Federal Tax-challenged students. He's also a big fan of accounting/tax trivia.

G. Robert Blakey

Teaches: Constitutional Criminal Procedure, Jurisprudence, Criminal Procedure, Terrorism.

J.D. from Notre Dame. Not only did he write the RICO statute (seriously, he did!), he has been involved in RICO prosecutions in more than twenty states. He knows an amazing amount of legal trivia (ask him sometime how the Basilica got those beautiful stained glass windows). He also did extensive work on the investigations of the assassinations of JFK and Martin Luther King, Jr.

Gerard Bradley

Teaches: Trial Advocacy, Legal Externship-Public Defender.

J.D. from Cornell. He writes extensively on religion and the law, and constitutional law. He worked as a prosecutor in New York for many years, and has fantastic stories to tell.

Paolo Carozza

Teaches: International Law, Jurisprudence, International Human Rights.

J.D. from Harvard. Professor Carozza clerked for the Supreme Court of the Federated States of Micronesia. He leads morning prayer in the law school chapel, and he and his wife recently completed a pilgrimage with a local priest and others on their bicycles.

Lisa Casey

Teaches: Business Associations, Commercial Law of Sales, Securities Regulation.

J.D. from Stanford. You're likely to experience Professor Casey if you are at all interested in corporate law.

Barbara Fick

Teaches: Labor and Employment Law, Employment Discrimination Law, Negotiation, Advanced Topics in Labor Law.

J.D. from University of Pennsylvania. Professor Fick worked at the NLRB. She's known for her demanding grading, but class time is interesting and students really learn labor law.

John Finnis

Teaches: Social, Political, and Legal Thought of Shakespere, Social, Political and Legal Thought of Aquinas.

He earned his LL.B. from Adelaide University (Australia) in 1961 and his Ph.D. from Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar in 1965. Every year, he spends one semester in South Bend, and the other semester at Oxford. He's a well known and often quoted legal philosopher. Students in Jurisprudence read one of his many books.

Judith Fox

Teaches: Legal Aid I, and Legal Aid II.

J.D. from Notre Dame. Teaches Legal Aid Clinic course and manages students in their work at the clinic. Her sections focus on debtor/credit issues, and family law.

Michael Jenuwine

Teaches: Legal Aid I.

J.D. from University of Chicago. Another professor who teaches in the Legal Aid Clinic and supervises student work there.

Robert Jones

Teaches: Legal Aid I, and Legal Aid II.

J.D. from Harvard, B.A. from Notre Dame. Another professor who teaches Legal Aid and assists students in their work at the clinic. Professor Jones focuses on landlord/tenant law. Professor Jones also works with GALILEE.

Michael Kirsch

Teaches: Federal Income Tax, International Taxation, Estate and Gift Taxation.

J.D. from Harvard. Professor Kirsch valiantly attempts to make tax law interesting to the unenlightened, with some success.

Donald Kommers

Teaches: Comparative Constitutional Law.

M.A. and Ph.D. from University of Wisconsin-Madison. He also teaches an undergrad course in American Constitutional Law, for which he usually hires at least one law student to be a teacher's assistant.

Lloyd Mayer

Teaches: Federal Income Tax, Taxation of Business Enterprises.

J.D. from Yale. New to Notre Dame Law School in the Fall of 2005. Reviews from students are positive, and indicate that he has a way of actually making Federal Tax somewhat understandable, no small feat.

Mary Ellen O'Connell

Teaches: International Law, International Law and the Use of Force, International Dispute Resolution

J.D. from Columbia University. Professor O'Connell is a new addition to the law school. Her students appreciate her teaching style and the skill with which she imparts her extensive knowledge to them.

Charlie Rice

Teaches: Morality and the Law.

J.D. from Boston College. Spends fall semester as a visiting professor at Ave Maria. Professor Rice coaches the Bengal Bouts (boxing matches in March where students box each other to raise money for charity). He's also a well known scholar in natural law and constitutional law.

Honorable Kenneth Ripple

Teaches: Conflict of Law, Judicial Process Seminar.

J.D. from University of Virginia. Judge Ripple currently serves on the United States Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit in addition to teaching at NDLS.

Robert Rodes

Teaches: Jurisprudence, Ethics II and Administrative Law.

L.L.B. from Harvard. Professor Rodes has extensive, albeit often obscure, knowledge about other countries, and can converse as easily about the constitution of India, as of the United States. Plus, he loves to play cards, and he has an extremely quirky sense of humor.

Thomas L. Shaffer

Teaches: Legal Aid, Poverty Law Topics, Elderlaw Seminar

J.D. from Notre Dame. Yes, he really is the nation's most prolific legal author. You will undoubtedly have the opportunity to read one of his books at some point in your law career. If you are lucky, you will also get to work with him at Legal Aid.

Teaches: Deposition Skills, Trial Advocacy.

J.D. from Notre Dame. He teaches one of the most widely respected Trial Advocacy programs in the United States.

J. Eric Smithburn

Teaches: Evidence, Juvenile law, Family law.

J.D. from Indiana University (Bloomington). Professor Smithburn has strict rules for the students in his classes. The classes are always worth it, though, because he's an amazing teacher, who makes his students really understand and enjoy his classes.

Barbara Szweda

Teaches: Asylum Law, Immigration law, Legal Aid Immigration Clinic I and II.

J.D. from Pepperdine University School of Law. Well-respected and liked by the students who work at the Legal Aid Clinic.

Julian Velasco

Teaches: Business Administration, Securities Regulation, Mergers and Acquisitions.

J.D. from Columbia. Professor Velasco is known for memorizing the names and faces of his students before classes even start!

Career Services

JOBS! JOBS! JOBS!

The Career Services Office (CSO) is a resource that is open to all law students throughout the year. The CSO staff members are very good at what they do and are always willing to help. In addition to providing basic information about how to do a job search, CSO sponsors numerous events throughout the year with speakers from many different practice areas, including public service, government, and the private sector to help students find out what kind of job they may want. From judicial clerkships to public interest, from big-city firms to the public defender, CSO can help you find a job.

The CSO is “off-limits” for 1Ls until November 1 of each year (this is a national policy, not a Notre Dame policy) but after that time, you’ll find them extremely helpful. In particular, they will help each of you create an appropriate resume and cover letter to send out in “resume drops” (bulk mailings

wealth of information on employers, cities and practice areas and they are eager to share.

to certain firms via the CSO sent out in early December) or to individual firms for summer jobs. Because you’ll likely be studying for (or stressing over) finals by then, we recommend having a resume together when you come in August.

Mock interviews are available beginning second semester of your first year. Professional interviewers will come in, interview you and then offer feedback on how to improve. CSO has a wealth of information on employers, cities and practice areas, and they are eager to share. They also have a tendency to serve food at their functions, which makes CSO events popular with students.

At the end of your first year, CSO will introduce you to the on-campus interview process, or OCI, which is available to 2Ls and 3Ls, primarily in the fall. The job search for second year students is important because often the position you have during your 2L summer (between your second and third year) will turn into your first permanent position. CSO will encourage you to begin your job search before returning to school for the second year. The office is open during the summer, and career services personnel remain in contact during this time to help students plan and organize the job search.

Notre Dame has an extensive OCI program with hundreds of public and private employers who come to campus from across the country. Oddly, these visits often coincide with home football weekends. Students sign up for interviews, ranging in length from 20 to 30 minutes, with employers they are interested in, via on-line database of employers, which you will learn about in the spring. After the interview, usually within a few weeks, the firm will contact you. If they are interested in hiring you, you may get what’s called a “call-back.” Typically, the firm will invite you to their office (at their expense) where you will spend the day being interviewed by various attorneys, asking questions and, generally, getting wined and dined. The idea is for you to get to know them and for them to get to know you. Some firms wait until the end of “the season” before making any hiring decisions, others make offers throughout the season. CSO is available to help you throughout the process, including the etiquette of interviews, call-backs and offers.

Not surprisingly, public interest law is also quite popular among Notre Dame law students, and the Career Services Office can provide advice for obtaining any necessary funding for those positions as well. Judicial clerkships, state and federal, are another option, both for the summer and after graduation. Hiring guidelines for federal clerkships determine when application can be made for these highly coveted positions.

One career resource that can be very helpful is the Notre Dame alumni network. Alumni clubs are located across the country and are always willing to involve more people in their activities. Emails are frequently sent out in regards to alumni club activities in cities throughout the country during academic breaks. These activities are a great way to make contacts that could lead to a job, so take advantage of them when you are at home. Also, one of the things that distinguishes Notre Dame is the willingness of the students to help each other. This transfers across into the alumni network as well, and the university's alumni directory (about the size of a phone book) is full of individuals ready to help Notre Dame students in any way they can.

Student Services

GO SEE PETER, HE CAN HELP

Peter Horvath, the Director of Student Services, serves as a liaison between students and the administration in the law school. Most aspects of non-classroom law school life come within his bailiwick. Among his other duties, Peter approves student organization expenditures, helps student groups find additional funding when necessary, and ensures that students are aware of the various and sundry policies in du Lac (University rules, www.nd.edu/~orlh/dulac/index.htm) and the Hoynes Code (Law School rules can be found at www.nd.edu/~ndlaw/currentstudents/hoynes/hoynes\_code\_brochure.pdf).

In addition to handling various fiscal matters, Peter deals with individual and group student concerns, exam schedule conflicts, exam accommodations due to illness or disability, and excused absences. Peter also provides counseling services for students with academic or personal challenges. Additional counseling resources at Notre Dame can be found at www.nd.edu/~ndlaw/student\_services/links.html.

Some common problems that require Peter's help:

- If you have five exams in three days, go see Peter
- If your student group's faculty advisor left the country before approving the expenditures for that special party, go see Peter
- If you are depressed and you can't take an exam, go see Peter
- If you broke your leg and you can't get around, call Peter
- If you wake up thirty minutes after your Civil Procedure exam began, go see Peter really fast – he can help.

For a number of reasons, I wasn't quite ready to start law school when I started law school. The big two were that I had put my house on the market in March (thinking it would easily sell by August in time to move), but I hadn't gotten a single offer by the time orientation started; and that my wife and I were expecting our second child sometime in October. I was concerned about the potential impact of both of these factors on my first semester of law school, but in retrospect, things could not have gone more smoothly. Peter in Student Services put my wife and me at ease from the very start, and when I finally got an offer on my house, every professor was extremely understanding about missing class. I had some catching up to do, of course, but in general I feel like I didn't miss a beat. And fortunately, the baby came during Fall Break – what a good kid!

The 2L and 3L Years

THE REST OF THE STORY . . .

In addition to a lot of lawyer jokes, chances are you'll have heard this bit of conventional wisdom by the time you make it to law school: The first year, they scare you to death. The second year, they work you to death. The third year, they bore you to death. I admit there is some truth to this: the first year is scary and the second year is busy. The third year is something else again, but I'm not sure it's boring.

One of the difficulties in describing life beyond the 1L year is that there is no one experience or class schedule common to all. We all have to take the required upper-level classes (Federal Income Taxation, Jurisprudence, Business Associations, Ethics and a writing requirement) and get our 90 hours to graduate, but the way we go about it varies greatly. As a 2L, you can go to London for a year, a summer or not at all. You can be involved in journals or law review, or try out for one of the legal competition teams including moot court, barristers and client counseling. You can sign up for the legal aid clinic or the public defender externship and deal with real clients. You can concentrate on getting your required courses out of the way as a 2L and save hands-on classes like trial advocacy, deposition skills and moot court for later. Or do just the opposite. You'll probably be involved in one or more of the law school clubs, and you may be an assistant rector in one of the dorms on campus. One of the few things you are almost guaranteed to do as a 2L is participate in on-campus interviews in the fall semester – which accounts for a lot of “busy” and a lot of “stress” for the typical student.

Third year is usually described as the year they bore you to death. At least at Notre Dame, that seems to be far from the truth. Many 3Ls undergo a job search in the fall, similar to their 2L year. Others may already have offers from their summer employment. By the time your third year rolls around, you'll probably feel like an old hand at the whole law school thing. You'll know the Eldridge factors, the definition of hearsay, and what “the punctilio of an honor most sensitive” is. Things will make more sense, you will see connections, you will be able to anticipate your professor's next words. Fall semester, you'll spend realizing that the “lasts” are beginning. Your last first day of school, your last first home football game, your last home football game, etc. You'll spend more time just hanging out with your law school friends, ignoring your work (or at least until right before Thanksgiving when you realize it might be a good time to start those two papers you should have been working on all semester). One way or another things all get done (or at least this writer hopes so, since she hasn't started her papers either).

Spring semester brings more “fun stuff”, like registering for the bar exam, taking the MPRE, figuring out moving details. But there are things that are actually fun. You'll also have to vote for 3L awards, attend or host the 100 Days parties, order your tickets for graduation, write your last paper, acquire your academic garb, take your last exam, house your relatives when they come for graduation, receive your diploma, and, finally, try to figure out how to say thank you to the people who've made the last three years so special.

Like I said, boring may not be the right word to describe third year . . .

Outside 120 and 121

DO SOMETHING FOR YOUR FELLOW MAN

You can't learn law in a bubble. Notre Dame offers a number of hands-on opportunities (class or co-curricular credit) for 1Ls, 2Ls and 3Ls. All the options are wonderful experiences and serve as reminders that there is life outside of law books and that there is a great need for dedicated lawyers in the community around us.

GALILEE

GALILEE is an acronym for Group Alternative Live-In Legal Education. The program is designed to acquaint Notre Dame law students with the legal problems of the urban poor in ways impossible to learn in the classroom and to broaden students' understanding of the legal profession through exposure to various areas of public interest law.

The GALILEE program takes place over Christmas break and students receive one co-curricular credit for participation. Students generally participate during their 1L year, although 2Ls and 3Ls are welcome as well. GALILEE provides students with the opportunity to live for a few days in the inner city (of students' choosing) to learn the legal needs of the urban poor, and to observe the ways in which these needs are presently met. As a result, students develop ways to incorporate their religious and ethical value systems into their future practice of law.

LEGAL AID CLINIC

The Legal Aid Clinic is open to students who have completed three semesters of law school (3Ls and 2Ls in the spring). It requires class time and "Clinic time." Students work with NDLS professors as their supervising attorneys to aid those local people who cannot afford counsel. Students can choose to work on Landlord/Tenant law, Consumer Protection, Mental Illness/Disability, Immigration, or Asylum cases. Indiana allows students to conduct motion hearings, evidentiary hearings, negotiations and administrative hearings on behalf of their clients. In addition, students interview and counsel clients. The credits vary depending on the class.

PUBLIC DEFENDER EXTERNSHIP

Involves assisting actual public defenders in representing indigent clients at the St. Joseph County Courthouse – Trial and Misdemeanor Division. Students can expect to represent clients in many capacities including negotiating plea bargains with prosecutors, preparing and conducting bench trials, interviewing and subpoenaing witnesses, and writing and filing discovery motions. Plus, students enrolled in Public Defender Externship are eligible to take Public Defender Ethics, which satisfies the Ethics requirements.

STREET LAW

Students in their 2L and 3L years may participate in "Street Law." Students pair up and teach practical legal issues in the areas of criminal, juvenile, family, housing, consumer, individual rights and environmental law to local high school students. The law students develop the curriculum, create the lessons, and test the high school students.

MOOT COURT

Open to 2Ls and 3Ls. Students prepare a brief and an oral argument. Opportunities for Appellate, International, and Trial moot court. If you want to be on one of the Moot Court teams (there are quite a few of them), you have to compete as a 2L. The competitions will be your 3L year (although it's essentially a two-year commitment, you don't have to take two years of the class). If you don't compete your 2L year, you can still take Moot Court your 3L year.

LEGAL EXTERNSHIP

Students may earn one unit of co-curricular externship credit for student volunteer legal work of six weeks or more during the summer months in any court, agency, or public or private law office.

Student Organizations

CHANGE THE WORLD AND EAT LOTS OF FREE PIZZA

While there are about 550 law students at Notre Dame, there are more than twenty student organizations, and each year students form new organizations. Early in the semester, the SBA organizes a club night. All the student clubs have tables in the lounge and provide information on who they are and what their plans are for the coming year. Most club meetings and guest lectures are held during the lunch period between classes (12:15-1:00 M-F). The clubs almost always provide lunch (predominantly pizza), so if you're feeling particularly poor, it's usually a great way to pick up a free lunch and learn something new. If you want to start a new club, talk to Peter Horvath in Student Services for requirements and paperwork.

PILF defines "public interest law" broadly in recognition of the wide variety of career opportunities typically encompassed within the category of "public interest law," including careers as legal services providers, criminal defenders and prosecutors, government attorneys, judicial clerks, and attorneys for non-governmental and non-profit organizations. PILF fundraises for summer public interest fellowships, invites speakers on public interest law topics and has worked with the administration to develop a Loan Forgiveness program for NDLS, so that public interest law can be economically feasible for NDLS graduates.

Social Justice Forum

Established in 1983, the Social Justice Forum (SJF) exists to promote and encourage social responsibility within the Notre Dame Law School and to create and maintain a network of concerned individuals who are willing to work toward social justice. To these ends, students and faculty members have sponsored speakers and community service projects, proposed changes in curriculum structure and placement programs, and helped to establish the Notre Dame Law Student Sponsored Fellowship.

Student Bar Association

SBA serves as the student government of NDLS. Monthly town meetings address important issues. In the past, topics included the Honor Code, financial aid, grading and attendance policies and employment issues. SBA sponsors various events for the Law School community, including the 1L Practice Exam Party, the Halloween Party, the Fall Ball, Spring Bowling (and other athletic events), the Father Mike Show and the Barrister's Ball. SBA elections to fill the 1L class representative positions are held in September (you'll likely see some very ingenious, as well as some ridiculous, campaign signs). Elections for 2Ls and 3Ls are held in the spring.

St. Thomas More Society

The mission of the St. Thomas More Society is to foster full integration of our Catholic faith into the daily practice of law, and thereby to emulate St. Thomas More, the patron saint of lawyers. They strive to fulfill this mission by living lives worthy of the title Christian and by holding fast to the teachings of the Gospels and the Magisterium of the Church. Their activities are open to Catholics and non-Catholics alike.

Women's Legal Forum

Activities include monthly meetings featuring faculty and outside speakers, presentations on domestic violence and sexual harassment litigation, and an annual auction fundraiser which goes toward WLF's student-funded summer fellowships. The auction items donated by faculty and staff members in the past have included "pizza and Law & Order" with the Professors Garnett, one hour of flying time over Michiana with research librarian Warren Rees, the use of a Chicago apartment for the weekend, an autographed copy of RICO, and numerous other interesting items.

The London Law Program

OR "PROGRAMME," AS IT'S SPELLED ACROSS THE POND

The London Law Program is the highlight of many students' tenures here at Notre Dame Law. It allows students to deepen their understanding of U.S. law through the study of its English common law roots, as well as compare the common law system with other legal regimes.

The happiness of London is not to be conceived but by those who have been in it. I will venture to say, there is more learning and science within the circumference of ten miles from where we now sit, than in all the rest of the world.

S. Johnson<sup>1</sup>

The program comes in two forms: Summer and Second Year. Ours is the oldest summer law program located in London, and for the summer, students come from schools all over. Many come from Australia, and each year, approximately forty U.S. law schools are represented in the Notre Dame program. The summer program lasts for about six weeks and is scheduled to allow six or seven weeks earlier in the summer in case a student wants to do a half-summer internship. Furthermore, the classes are planned so that the students are able to take advantage of their time in Europe by traveling as class demands permit.

The Second Year in London Program is also quite popular. As the name indicates, during this program, students spend their entire second year in London.

There is a diverse assortment of course offerings, including some of the required classes. Most students find that a blessing because no one wants to be stuck taking all four of their post-1L requirements in the third year (that year is for golf, remember?). When you get to your second year (if you don't go to London yourself) you'll see lots of new faces around the school. Be careful when you ask them if they're enjoying their first year. They might have just returned from London. Anyone who has been for the year will tell you the lasting friendships they formed with their classmates and the invaluable experience of it all.

Both the Summer and 2L programs are taught by a distinguished faculty of American and international professors, and the facilities are first rate. We even have our own beautiful building! It's located right in central London, just a skip from Trafalgar Square. The building is lacking in no modern convenience. There's a library with wireless capabilities, several computer labs, lockers, and a café and lounge area with a television, vending machines, and ping pong tables in the basement. Even though you'll get quite your fill of exercise walking around London, the building also has a gym, which contains exercise machines and basketball courts for your pleasure.

Although the program has an international focus, students need not be planning to work in the areas of international law upon graduation to appreciate the courses. In this ever-shrinking world, a lawyer working in any legal arena should be aware of the world around him, and this is just the program to provide that perspective. Don't forget the website: www.law.nd.edu/london/index.html (where you'll even find a "Survivor's Guide").

The academic-year program was overall a great experience. Although the classes are longer (sometimes 2½-hour blocks), they only meet once a week, so it's possible (as I did) to set your schedule up to have a four-day weekend every week! Consequently, most of us were able to travel throughout Europe on weekends. (Go Ryanair!) As for the actual schoolwork, I found the classes that compared U.S. law to other legal systems quite fascinating. I would recommend the year-long program to anyone with an interest in international or comparative law, as well as anyone who feels that they simply cannot endure three South Bend winters in a row.

Pros: great museums, travel throughout England and beyond, no South Bend winter, awesome ethnic food, each class meets once a week, internship possibilities (if you are ambitious)

Cons: one of the most expensive cities in the world, no home football games, limited time for job search, 2½-hour classes, finding housing for Second Year program!

Journals & Law Review

EXCUSES TO STAY IN THE LAW SCHOOL INTO THE WEE HOURS

Although you won't be involved with any of the journals or law review in your first year, you will certainly hear plenty about them. A law review or journal is a legal periodical that includes articles by members of the legal community and public policy figures on a current topic of interest. Students in their second or third years have the opportunity to publish a note or case comment on a particular subject. The subjects of the articles, case comments and notes vary depending on the focus of the publication.

Notre Dame Law School has four Journals. First year students compete for staff positions on the journals during a writing competition at the end of the spring semester. For Law Review, however, the top 10-15% of people in the class "grade on" and do not have to submit a writing sample. A few other spots are reserved for which students may compete with a writing sample. There will be a meeting near the end of your first year where the editors-in-chief will present information about each journal, and explain what the writing competition is all about. The actual writing competition is conducted after exams are complete, and you mail your submission back to the law school.

The journals provide a great opportunity for students to improve their organizational, management, leadership, and writing skills. Second year law students serve as staff members for the periodicals, while third year students make up their editorial boards. The University of Notre Dame publications include: The Notre Dame Law Review, The Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics and Public Policy, The Journal of College and University Law, and The Journal of Legislation.

The Notre Dame Law Review

The Notre Dame Law Review was founded in 1925 and was known as the Notre Dame Lawyer until the name was changed in 1982. It is published five times a year by students of the Law School. It affords qualified students an invaluable opportunity for training in precise analysis of legal problems and in clear and cogent presentation of legal issues. The Law Review contains articles and lectures by eminent members of the legal profession and comments and notes by members of the staff. Entirely student edited, the Law Review has maintained a tradition of excellence, and its membership has included some of the most able judges, professors and practitioners in the country. Members of the staff are selected at the end of the first year of study on the basis of either academic standing or demonstrated writing ability. The editor-in-chief of the Law Review is elected by the staff from senior members on the basis of scholastic, literary and leadership achievements. The editor-in-chief, in turn, selects the other officers.

The Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics and Public Policy

The Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics and Public Policy (JLEPP) is unique among legal periodicals insofar as it directly analyzes law and public policy from an ethical perspective. The Journal of Law, Ethics and Public Policy strengthens the Law School's moral and religious commitment by translating traditional Judeo-Christian principles into imaginative, yet workable, proposals for legislative and judicial reform. Directed at both scholarly and public audiences, the Journal publishes in a symposium format and solicits contributions from distinguished scholars and prominent members of the public community. Recent issues focused on law and politics as a vocation, and the American worker. Forthcoming issues include Pope John Paul II and the law, and Aging America. In addition to publishing issues, the journal hosts two symposiums a year, where three or four speakers come and debate on a subtopic of one the themes. These are always interesting and stimulating events to attend.

Second-year members of the journal spend their time “admining” (checking cites of the authors), and writing their own note. JLEPP is also unique because 2L members will receive three graded credits (as opposed to the pass fail credits that members of other journals receive.) 2L members will also attend during first semester a once a week seminar on one of the two issue that will be published during their 3L year. Third-year members serve as editors and senior staff members. The Editor-in-Chief is chosen by the members of the journal, and then he or she chooses 3Ls to fill out the rest of the positions. Third-year members receive one pass fail credit each semester.

The Journal of College and University Law

The Journal of College and University Law, published by the Notre Dame Law School and the National Association of College and University Attorneys, is the only law review in the United States dedicated exclusively to the law of higher education. Since post-secondary education represents a microcosm, virtually all legal issues of significant interest – including, for example, interests of race, gender, freedom of speech, religion and bioethics – arise on our campuses. The Journal has a national circulation of 3,800. Headed by both faculty editors and a student editor, the Journal maintains a staff of 25 students who both process the work of outside authors and contribute their own work for publication. The Journal publishes four times a year.

The Journal of Legislation

The Journal of Legislation is published by students of the Notre Dame Law School. Of national orientation and scope, the Journal contains articles by both public policy figures and distinguished members of the legal community. In addition, it publishes notes written by members of the staff. All material contained in the Journal concerns either existing and proposed legislation or public policy matters. Some articles and notes make specific suggestions regarding legislative change. The Journal is presently one of the country's leading legislative law reviews and is a member of the National Conference of Law Reviews. Staff members are selected among students who have either written a note of “publishable quality” or completed a major research project approved by the editorial board. Journal work enables students to add to their legal education practical experience with legislation and the legislative process. These programs enable students at the Law School to influence various legislators, public interest groups and members of Congress.

Assistant Rectors

BACK TO UNDERGRAD?

Notre Dame offers a unique opportunity for its graduate students to get involved in undergraduate life. The position of Assistant Rector is open to all rising 2Ls and 3Ls; in the 2005-2006 school year about 40 out of 54 assistant rectors were law students. Student Affairs likes to hire rising second-year law students as assistant rectors because, with two years remaining in law school, law students can provide continuity in the hall by serving a two-year term.

Assistant rectors live side-by-side with undergrads in their respective residence halls. ARs, as they are called, contract for a full-time academic-year appointment, and are provided with an apartment (fully or partially furnished), a meal plan, laundry benefits, partial tuition remission (3 credits) and a stipend of approximately $7,000 per semester.

The job of AR isn't something to do for the perks – although the perks are wonderful. Rather, it's a true ministry position. You are expected to give a great deal of yourself, but the returns can be immeasurable. Responsibilities in the hall include working closely with the Rector, being "on duty" two to three nights per week, supervising RAs and hall council, helping with dorm Mass,* counseling residents on academic, social, and disciplinary issues, and generally being available as a resource. The exact responsibilities vary among residence halls because each rector determines how they want to make use of their assistant rectors.

For those who think they might want to apply for AR, the best advice is to talk to current ARs, and even spend some time in the dorm with them. Applications are generally available early second semester, and interviews are held in March.

* ARs are not required to be Catholic.

Worship

TAKING TIME TO BE HOLY

Not surprisingly, there are numerous opportunities to participate in Catholic services at Notre Dame, from formal High Mass at the Basilica of the Sacred Heart to more humble celebrations of daily Mass in the dorms. Both on and off campus, however, there are also many opportunities for those not of the Catholic faith to worship. In addition to many Protestant congregations, there are three synagogues, an Islamic center and an LDS ward in South Bend.

We've included a sampling of worship opportunities on campus and in the area. The list is by no means exhaustive, and if you don't find what you're looking for here, please check the yellow pages and ask around the law school. The Campus Ministry website (<http://campusministry.nd.edu>) also contains a listing of area churches under Liturgy and Music, as well as fuller listing of the various services on campus.

WORSHIP AT THE LAW SCHOOL

There are opportunities for prayer and worship each day at the law school. The St. Thomas More Chapel, located on the first floor, is the center of the law school's formal religious life. The St. Thomas More Society prays the Rosary on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Mass is celebrated on Fridays at 12:15 p.m., as well as other times during the week. Morning prayer is held at 8:05 a.m. daily. The chapel is open 24-7 for students wishing to retreat for meditation and prayer.

Many law students join together each Sunday at 5:00 p.m. in the lounge to celebrate Mass. Students often wander down from the library to join the law school community in worship.

The Christian Legal Society hosts a regular student-led Bible study as well as outside speakers. The St. Thomas More Society hosts speakers and discussions of current topics of interest to Catholics in the law.

The Basilica of the Sacred Heart is the center of Notre Dame's religious life. The beautiful basilica is next to the Main Building. As you walk up to the law school, you can see the Virgin Mother on the Main Building and the cross on the Basilica. Services are held throughout the week at the Basilica, including daily Mass at 11:30 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. with Confession before each Mass. The Basilica is a functioning church, and parishioners gather each Saturday at 5:00 and every Sunday morning at 10:00 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. Vespers, the evening prayer of the Church, is sung every Sunday that school is in session at 7:15 p.m. in the Lady Chapel of the Basilica; the service lasts about 45 minutes and is a great way to end the weekend. The Rosary is prayed each evening, regardless of the weather, at the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, which is located below the Basilica, across from the lakes.

No one should miss the opportunity to participate in services at the Basilica at least once. The Tenebrae service on Holy Thursday and the Celebration of Christ's Passion on Good Friday are especially poignant. Services during Advent are beautiful. Additionally, there are many opportunities to attend mass after home football games. It starts 30 minutes after the game in a number of dorms, and 45 minutes after the game in the Basilica and the Stepan Center. For more information, please visit the Archdiocese of Fort Wayne-South Bend's website, www.diocesefwsb.org.

Each dorm on campus (including the graduate housing at FOG) celebrates Mass on Sunday evening and at least one night during the week. Many law students who were undergraduates at Notre Dame enjoy going back to their old dorms for Mass.

Community Service

OPPORTUNITIES TO SERVE THE LOCAL COMMUNITY

As someone interested in Notre Dame's philosophy of "educating a different kind of lawyer," you may be searching for community service opportunities in the South Bend area. And for those of you concerned about the demands of first year studies, you may find that spending a few hours in community service is a fulfilling and relaxing study break!

As you advance in your legal career, you will find that a law degree and your specialized training give you unique opportunities and abilities to serve the community. The one-credit GALILEE (Group Alternative Live In Legal Educational Experience) course – a three day group-designed program of public interest and legal aid exploration in the city of your choice over Christmas break – attempts to reveal some of these opportunities so that you may carefully consider the direction and pursuits of your legal career. After your first year of studies, you may participate in the Notre Dame Legal Aid Clinic or the Immigration Clinic. In addition, the Public Interest Law Forum gives law students grants for unpaid summer internship positions in legal aid and public interest. There are also a number of highly competitive alumni-sponsored summer public interest internships throughout the country. The Career Services Office also provides career direction and networking in the legal aid and public interest fields.

However, you don't need a law degree to serve the community. Various organizations within the law school participate in community service activities including raising funds for disaster relief and for people in need in the South Bend and larger community, collecting clothing for the YWCA Women's Shelter, sponsoring blood drives at the law school and providing Thanksgiving Dinners to area families in need. The Student Bar Association has a Service Committee that plans a Halloween Party for the Boys and Girls Club, an Easter Party, a day at the ND Baseball game and many other activities as well. However, many organizations in the local area also need individual volunteers. The following is a list of local agencies' contact information.

Notre Dame Traditions

A RICH HISTORY

It is very possible that few colleges (and undoubtedly even fewer law schools) are so rich in the history and tradition that make the collegiate atmosphere so much fun. At the root of much of Notre Dame's tradition is its football team. On football weekends, the campus bustles with tens of thousands of visitors from all over the world clamoring to take part in the traditions of Notre Dame. Take some time away from your books to enjoy the rich history that is Notre Dame. For greater depth on Notre Dame traditions and some wonderful campus photos, visit www.nd.edu/~wcawley/default.htm and www.archives.nd.edu/ringel/default.htm, but here are a few traditions to help you become acclimated:

START BY WATCHING A FEW NOTEWORTHY MOVIES IN NOTRE DAME HISTORY

1. Knute Rockne: All American – In possibly his most famous role, Ronald Reagan plays George Gipp, former Notre Dame football coach in this biographical picture that traces the life of former Notre Dame football player and coach, Knute Rockne.
2. Rudy – Rudy is the story of Rudy Ruettiger, an undersized Notre Dame undergraduate who fulfilled his dream of playing football for the Irish.

WHAT IS THAT SONG I KEEP HEARING THE FIRST WEEK ON CAMPUS?

After the first week of school, most Notre Dame students can sing the fight song in their sleep. The Notre Dame Victory March is easily the most recognizable fight song in all of collegiate athletics. The song was written by two brothers, John and Michael Shea, who were Notre Dame graduates.

The Notre Dame Victory March

Rally sons of Notre Dame:
Sing her glory and sound her fame,
Raise her Gold and Blue
And cheer with voices true:
Rah, rah, for Notre Dame
We will fight in ev'ry game,
Strong of heart and true to her name
We will ne'er forget her
And will cheer her ever
Loyal to Notre Dame
Cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame,
Wake up the echoes cheering her name,
Send a volley cheer on high,
Shake down the thunder from the sky.
What though the odds be great or small
Old Notre Dame will win over all,
While her loyal sons are marching
Onward to victory.

HOW DID A SCHOOL IN INDIANA WITH A BECOME THE “FIGHTING IRISH?”

While the true etymology of the “Fighting Irish” is unknown, two stories endure. One suggests that while Notre Dame was leading Northwestern 5-0 at halftime, Northwestern students began to chant, “Kill the Fighting Irish, Kill the Fighting Irish.” Another story suggests that one Notre Dame player chastised his teammates during a 1909 halftime in Michigan when Notre Dame was trailing by saying, “What’s the matter with you guys? You’re all Irish and you’re not fighting worth a lick.”

LAW SCHOOL SPECIFIC TRADITIONS

The Facebook – otherwise called the Student Directory, it has everyone’s picture in it, so you can look up that guy or girl you met the first day and whose name you just can’t remember.

3L “100 Days” Parties – Starting 100 days before graduation, the 3Ls hold parties for themselves every 10 days leading up to the final farewell. 1Ls and 2Ls also invited – we are a family, after all.

Law Ball and Barrister’s Ball – one semi-formal, one formal, both great occasions to get all dressed up for a night with friends

Father Mike Show/WLF Auction – one of the highlights of the spring semester, the Father Mike Show is a talent show of sorts, with law students and faculty strutting their stuff on stage. In between acts, the Women’s Legal Forum auctions off a number of items donated by faculty and staff. You’ve got to see it to believe it!

Bowling – Every spring ND law students come together for some good clean bowling fun (including 1Ls – yes, you will have time). Grab a group of 6-10 friends, pick a team name, make t-shirts, and come out once a week for 2 hours of relaxation (told you you’d have time). It can be as competitive or goofy as you like. Of course, those “in the know” realize that “bowling” is just another way of saying “pre-gaming.”

OTHER TRADITIONS

The Knute Rockne Memorial Building – Students rub nose on the bust of Knute Rockne for good luck on their final exams

The “Backer” – Yes, the infamous Linebacker Lounge, which has become the time honored tradition of Domers near and far. Visit this tiny, jam packed place on football weekends, or any weekend, for that matter, for a rollicking good time dancing the night away with friends when you just can’t seem to keep your head in a book.

The Golden Dome – While not “enforced” it is said that only those who are alumni of Notre Dame may walk up the steps of the Main Building. Those of us who have yet to earn our degrees should enter at ground level.

Football Weekend

IT'S NOT JUST FOOTBALL, IT'S NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL

Notre Dame Stadium. The house that Knute Rockne built (literally). Capacity of more than 80,000. Over 150 straight sell outs. Home to the 11-time national champion Fighting Irish.

Notre Dame has approximately 10,000 students. But our football stadium holds over eight times that many people and every weekend the faithful stream into South Bend and turn Notre Dame's picturesque campus into an enormous football festival. A home football "weekend" in the shadow of the Golden Dome starts as early as Wednesday. That is when you first start to notice the many, many fans. These are not just people coming to the game; these are people on a pilgrimage to one of the meccas of American sport. Fans love touring the campus, enjoying the events, and snapping photos in front of the Main Building, the Basilica, the Grotto, Hesburgh Library (or more accurately, the mural adorning the library affectionately called "Touchdown Jesus"), and some of the other beautiful buildings that make up the Notre Dame landscape. But among all present there is no mistake as to which building it is they've really come to visit.

So while you start to feel the beginning of the home football weekends on Wednesday and Thursday, the festivities truly kick off on Friday at noon with the football luncheon in the Joyce Center. The luncheons are opportunities to meet with Irish coaches and players, and the keynote speaker is always Notre Dame's head coach, Charlie Weis. By mid-afternoon the "buzz" on campus is evident: the marching band performs, the parking lots fill, and the Hammes Bookstore looks like Wal-Mart at noon on Christmas Eve as the Fighting Irish fans stock up on gear for the game.

Friday's events culminate in the famous Friday-night pep rallies. Don't be deceived by the title – this is not your average pep rally! The gates to the Joyce Center usually open at 5:30 and by the time the "Best Band in the Land" marches in at 6:30, the arena is packed to the rafters with 12,000 fired-up fans. The pep rallies feature cheerleaders, the Notre Dame band, the football players and coaching staff, and special featured guests. Past guests have run the gamut from Wayne Gretzky to Dick Vitale, Regis Philbin to Joe Montana, and Dusty Baker to Jenny McCarthy. After the pep rally it's off to some of the famous sports bars around South Bend to rub elbows with alumni, fans and fellow students. Don't miss out on the Midnight Drum Circle.

Saturdays are game days and they are packed with activity. Most people start their day off with a trip to the Grotto to light a candle and tour through the Basilica, where you might see the team going to Mass. After seeing the team walk across campus from Mass you might be hungry, so grab a bratwurst and a soda from one of the dozens of student-run concession stands set up on the quads or one of the famous steak sandwiches at the Knights of Columbus Center across the Main Quad from the Law School. Another must see on game days is the band's "Concert on the Steps" at Bond Hall, an hour and a half before kick-off, where you can hear the best college fight song in the land, the Notre Dame Victory March. By now it's nearing noon and it's probably time to check out the open air tailgating parties going on in the parking lots surrounding the stadium.

Game time is almost always 2:30 eastern time because every home game is broadcast by NBC (aka the Notre Dame Broadcasting Company). But the TV coverage doesn't matter because one of the best fringe benefits of being a law student at Notre Dame is getting to buy football season tickets in the student section. So after tailgating, grab your ticket booklet and ID, and head over to the stadium. Don't forget to bring comfortable shoes – the students at Notre Dame stand for the entire game. Several hours later, feeling tired and hopefully very happy (because Notre Dame won) you file out of the stadium and either participate in some post-game tailgating or head over to the law school for a post-game reception. The reception in the law school lounge for alumni and students is a great opportunity to network with ND law grad who have returned to football mecca.

THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL<sup>3</sup>

1. Notre Dame Stadium is one of the most hallowed arenas in the history of college and professional sports and seats over 80,000 fans.
2. Every Notre Dame football game is televised nationally on a major network.
3. Since the AP began certifying winners of its national title in 1936, Notre Dame has won more national championships than any other college. Notre Dame has won eight titles: 1943, 1946, 1947, 1949, 1966, 1973, 1977, 1988.
4. The 2006 Notre Dame Football Schedule:

Sept. 2	at Georgia Tech
Sept. 9	PENN STATE
Sept. 16	MICHIGAN
Sept. 23	at Michigan State
Sept. 30	PURDUE
Oct. 7	STANFORD
Oct. 21	UCLA
Oct. 28	at Navy (Baltimore, Md.)
Nov. 4	NORTH CAROLINA
Nov. 11	at Air Force

There is something almost magical about Notre Dame football and a home game weekend. You just have to come here and experience it for yourself to truly understand. You'll be glad you did!

The Ticket Process

GETTING INTO THE HOUSE THAT ROCKNE BUILT

As a Notre Dame student you are guaranteed the opportunity to buy season tickets for a seat (or, more accurately, a “stand”) at the Irish home football games. There is an easy, but important, process which must be endured to get the tickets. The Athletic Department often revises the process but here are the basics of the system.

At Orientation (or shortly thereafter), you will receive a Ticket Order form. At the designated time a few days later, you will take your Ticket Order form and your student ID to the stadium ticket office (on the east side of the stadium, by Juniper Road), and a friendly person in a yellow jacket will put a Lottery Number on your Ticket Order form. After all the Lottery Numbers are distributed, two numbers will be drawn at random – one for the undergraduates and one for the law/MBA/graduate student pools. Your designated time for purchasing your tickets is determined by the number drawn in the ticket lottery. At a designated time, you will return to the stadium ticket office with your Ticket Order form, your student ID and your payment (cash or check) to purchase your actual Student Ticket Booklet. Your seat location is determined by your designated purchase time. The earlier you go, the closer your seat is to the field.

Groups of students have the ability to sit together. The students making up a seating block must have sequential numbers on their Ticket Order form. The easy way to make that happen is by sending representatives to the ticket office at the designated times to obtain a Lottery Number and the Student Ticket Booklet for each person in the group. Each representative can bring up to six IDs and order forms, so some simple math can ensure everyone in the group is covered. Also, for the married folks among you, you can purchase a second season ticket booklet for your spouse/child at the student rate if you have proof of marriage with you (i.e., a copy of your marriage certificate). The cost is the same for both booklets.

On game day, you return once again to the stadium with your signed Ticket Booklet and your student ID. Don't detach your tickets, by the way, because you won't be able to get in if you do.

Once you have your ticket, you may want to exchange it in some way. A limited number of student tickets can be exchanged, for a fee, for general admission tickets which can be used by non-students. Ticket trading among students also goes on (“I’ll trade you my Pitt ticket for a Navy ticket”) and you will see many, many signs begging for tickets in the law school. Your best bet is to consult a Double Domer about how to do it without incurring the wrath of the ushers – who can confiscate your booklet and kick you out of the game.

The demand for Notre Dame football tickets, regardless of the kind of season we are having, is enormous and some people are willing to pay a lot of money for a ticket. Although you may be tempted to sell your ticket so you can afford to buy Prosser on Torts and the like, be aware of the Athletic Department's Resale Policy. If you sell an individual ticket for more than face value, you lose ticket privileges for two years. If you sell your ticket booklet for more than face value, you lose ticket privileges for five years. Ticket privileges for repeat offenders may be permanently revoked.

Student season tickets for men's basketball are handled differently, as there are only a limited number of tickets available to students. In 2005 the Athletic Department distributed tickets at an event called "Late Night with the Leprechaun Legion." Resembling the 'Midnight Madness' season opening rallies across the country, this event is a chance to meet the team and get inspired for the season. Upon arrival students receive a ticket voucher which is redeemable for a season ticket booklet later in the evening. Basketball ticket rules are less strict than those for football. Individual tickets can be detached from a booklet and be used by any student with an ID. In other words, you can buy a book and share the tickets with your buddies. Tickets for games during academic breaks are much cheaper (and sometimes free), if you happen to be in town.

General admission is charged at women's basketball, hockey, baseball, women's soccer, men's soccer, and volleyball games, but students are admitted free with an ID. Some restrictions apply, but most of the time you'll have no problems getting in. Admission to swimming, fencing, lacrosse, tennis and softball is free for everyone. See und.collegesports.com/tickets/nd-tickets.html for more information.

CLASS, BRASS, & KICKS (BUTT)

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Just the mention of Notre Dame suggests images of legends. National Championships, NCAA tournament appearances, New Year's Day Bowl Games. With colors of Navy Blue and Gold, and the occasional Kelly Green for good luck, the Fighting Irish mystique makes the University of Notre Dame's athletic department the most storied collegiate program in the country. Its rich history is embedded with tales of heroes who have overcome overwhelming odds to lead the Irish to victory. A truly national University, the Irish sports teams are comprised of athletes from coast-to-coast, and you're sure to find at least one "subway alumni" in every city across the country.

JOYCE CENTER

Notre Dame's legendary double-domed home of basketball, fencing, hockey, volleyball, and swimming. Named after former executive vice-president and chairman of the Faculty Board on Athletics, Father Joyce, the Joyce Center houses Notre Dame's athletic offices in addition to several varsity teams. It opened in the fall of 1968 and is due for renovation. Within the past several years, the building has hosted other community events, including a U2 concert, World Wrestling Federation shows, and the Harlem Globetrotters show.

FACILITIES AND TEAMS

From legendary Notre Dame Stadium to the Joyce Center to the one-of-a-kind Loftus Field House, which boasts the finest indoor track-and-field complex not in a dome, the Irish sporting venues are about a five minute walk from anywhere on campus. Fall sports include football, women's volleyball, cross-country, and men's and women's soccer. Winter sports include ice hockey, fencing, men's and women's swimming, and men's and women's basketball. Spring sports include baseball, softball, men's and women's tennis, men's and women's lacrosse, men's and women's track-and-field, and men's and women's golf.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

The women's soccer team captured its second national championship in 2004, demonstrating again that championship caliber play is expected under the Golden Dome. A member of the Big East Conference in all major sports, with the exceptions of hockey (CCHA) and football (independent), Notre Dame has claimed 23 team national championships to date. The Irish fencing team has racked up seven national championships, the most recent being in 2005, and the women's basketball team captured the national title in 2001. Notre Dame football has won more national championships (11) and hosted more Heisman Trophy winners (7) than any other program in the nation. The football team hasn't captured a national championship since 1988, but expectations are high for 2006 after the impressive performance in 2005 under new head coach Charlie Weis. Domers across the country are confident the luck of the Irish will return very soon.

STUDENT SECTION

Notre Dame students love their varsity teams, and they are some of the best fans in the nation. Well over 90% of the Notre Dame student-body attends football games, a weekly rite of passage on the typical fall Notre Dame weekend. Standing upon the wooden bleachers in the Notre Dame student section, one can be sure to leave the stadium feeling somewhat hoarse – certainly in merriment of another football triumph.

Support for the basketball team is no less energetic. Often affectionately referred to as the “Leprechaun Legion,” the Irish hoops fans know how to show their support for the guys and gals on the hardwood. The same goes for the faithful who turn out for soccer, volleyball, hockey, and the many other competitive and entertaining athletic teams.

Regardless of the sport or season, Notre Dame athletics are a fun, unique, and special aspect of student life under the Dome.

PEP RALLIES

The appetizer for the Notre Dame Football Weekend is the traditional Friday evening pep rally at the Joyce Center. The rally normally attracts high-profile speakers and holds an electric capacity crowd on the edge of their feet. In preparation for the USC v. ND game in 2005, the pep rally was held in Notre Dame Stadium. More than 40,000 fans attended the nationally televised spectacle, which featured Irish legends such as Joe Montana, Tim Brown, and Daniel E. “Rudy” Reuttiger. These rockin’ events ensure that the Irish faithful are ready to support the team on Saturday.

BOOKSTORE BASKETBALL (WWW.ND.EDU/~BKSTR)

Some schools have Gus Macker tournaments, we have Bookstore Basketball. Bookstore Basketball is a 5-on-5 tournament held in April every year. It is wildly popular (over 500 teams compete), and a wonderful respite before exams. It’s so well-known, it’s even sponsored by Adidas. Law school teams frequently participate in the tournament, with mixed success. Their website has all sorts of fascinating information (for instance, did you know that Tim Brown participated in Bookstore Basketball and won a Heisman Trophy?).

BENGAL BOUTS (BENGALBOUTS.ND.EDU)

“Strong bodies fight, that weak bodies may be nourished.”

Dominic J. “Nappy” Napolitano

For over 75 years, the men of Notre Dame have fought under this mantra in the spirit of charity. The Bengal Bouts is an activity of the Notre Dame Men's Boxing Club and is the largest amateur boxing tournament in the world. More than just a boxing tournament, though, the Bengal Bouts is a charity fundraiser for the Holy Cross missions in Bangladesh (thus, the “Bengal”).

The Bouts started, as so many other ND traditions, with Knute Rockne. In the early 20th century the University, strapped for cash, put the then-varsity boxing team on the chop block after a winless season. Knute stepped in, sensing an excellent off-season conditioning program for his football players. He turned the varsity team into an intramural competition. With his God-given wisdom, Knute also tied the competition to a missionary purpose, thereby ensuring the tournament's longevity at ND.

The law school has a strong winning tradition in the Bouts. Every year a group of about 10 students competes, and several many have made it to the championship round. You're very likely to know at least one champion during your time here. Training for novices starts late second semester. 1Ls can either view this as some MUCH needed stress relief, or a hindrance to their studying. If you're managing your time properly, you can afford at least a few visits per week to the boxing gym. Training in earnest begins first day of undergrad classes, second semester.

The women of Notre Dame have an opportunity to box in the Baraka Bouts. The Baraka Bouts are only a few years old – no law students have yet participated in that tournament.

Intramurals

YOUR CHANCE FOR PHYSICAL ACTIVITY, OR STOP STUDYING AND DO SOMETHING FUN

Even though you're in law school, you can still be active! You may find that having time to get to the gym is tougher now (was it ever easy?), but there are plenty of chances to get involved in organized leagues through RecSports (Notre Dame's organized Recreational Sports, hence the nickname) or even the law school itself.

The RecSports office runs a flag football league where students can compete for a chance to play for the championship in Notre Dame Stadium. There are graduate student and open leagues. Teams can be single sex or co-ed. Sign-up is early in the semester, so be on the lookout for fliers in the law school and at the two gyms on campus, Rolfs and 'The Rock.' Flag football is popular among the law school students, and with teams like the "Bad News Barristers" prowling the intramural gridiron, the law school almost always has a team in the stadium game. Join a team and help keep the tradition alive.

There are many other RecSports leagues held in the fall and winter. Soccer, both indoor and outdoor, is another law school favorite. For those students looking for a change from the norm, dodgeball, horseshoes, or innertube water polo are great options.

Basketball starts after Fall Break in October, with another exciting playoff bracket. Just like in the football league, the IM basketball championship game is played where the varsity team plays – this time on the floor of the Joyce Center.

The spring season offers the most intramural diversity. Upon your return from Winter Break, the law school bowling and basketball leagues await you. Ask any law student (we'll call him "that guy") and that guy will tell you that Thursday night bowling is one of the most popular activities during the spring semester. For basketball, the law school has an informal league with competition among law students, mostly on week nights. Finally, once the ground thaws, RecSports offers the popular graduate softball league, among other enjoyable sports and games.

If you want any more information on any of these programs, you can visit the RecSports website at recsports.nd.edu/programs/intramurals/index.html. Just watch for deadlines, because they sneak up on you pretty quickly and you may miss your chance to dazzle your peers with your athletic prowess. If you lack prowess, bloopers are always a good conversation piece in the law school lounge.

Eating on Campus

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

Located in the Law School lounge, the Irish Café is open daily to serve the needs of your taste buds. It offers daily soup selections, along with a daily lunch special. Also available are deli sandwiches, salads, desserts, and an extensive selection of coffees and other beverages. It's most popular at lunch (especially on rainy days when no one wants to leave the Law School). On most days, if you're planning on having a calzone or picking up a danish for breakfast, stop in early or they'll probably be out.

The lounge is a great place to see people, watch TV, check your e-mail, nap, or read The Observer (Notre Dame's daily newspaper). The lounge is usually full of activities from arranging Thanksgiving baskets for needy families to Westlaw and Lexis displays offering free goodies. The lounge also has pennants from the undergraduate schools that Notre Dame law students have come from. The collection dates back to the 1980's. If you're the lucky first NDLS student from your undergrad, you will have the opportunity to add your school's pennant to the wall.

The Irish Café is not the only on-campus eatery; there are seven other "express" options for lunch, serving sandwiches, salads, pasta and other quick, often portable, victuals. They include Café Commons (in Mendoza College of Business), Café de Grasta (in Grace Hall), Café Poche (in Bond Hall/Architecture), Decio Commons (in the Decio Faculty Building), Waddick's (in O'Shaughnessy Hall), Warren Grille (at the golf course) and the Bookstore Café.

North Dining Hall and South Dining Hall are located on the North Quad and South Quad, respectively. They offer a variety of all-you-can-eat-but-not-take-out food at every meal. You don't need a meal plan to eat there, but it is a lot cheaper if you have one.

The dining hall at Notre Dame is unlike any other dining hall I've ever eaten in before. The selection is unbelievable and a lot of food is made to order. When you can sample breakfast food, dinner entrees, Asian cuisine, pasta, pizza, a full salad bar, and Mexican fare all in the same meal, who's going to complain? There really is something for everyone. Be careful not to gain the "first year fifteen" though!

Shannon Morales, Class of 2007

Huddle Food Court in LaFortune Student Center includes five food sources: Burger King, Subway, Starbucks and Huddle Mart (think: convenience store with a deli counter, salad bar and ice cream cones) upstairs and Sbarro downstairs. Also downstairs: the bank, the barber shop, the hair salon, the travel agency, the print shop, the design shop, the florist and the arcade, so you can multitask at lunch.

Varying in formality and price and menu, there are four restaurants on campus. Sorin's, located in the Morris Inn, gets the prize for high-end and doesn't garner a lot of student business (probably because they don't take FlexPoints). Legends of Notre Dame which is located just south of the stadium, on the other hand, is both pub and restaurant, and thus more welcoming to students (and not just because they accept FlexPoints). Greenfields International Café is located in the Hesburgh Center for International Studies, located across from the bookstore, and offers delicious breakfast and lunch fare with an international twist. On the south side of South Dining Hall, Reckers is the only 24-hour eatery on campus and, as such, is very popular with students at all hours of the day and night.

MEAL PLANS, DOMER DOLLARS AND FLEX POINTS

MEAL PLANS

Meal Plan allows you to eat a specified number of meals per semester at the dining halls only. If you have a "premium" meal plan (14 or 21 meals per week), your unused meals expire at the end of each week. If you have a "block" meal plan (25 to 120 meals per semester), your unused meals expire at the end of the semester. Meals do not roll over to the next semester (but if you break your leg halfway through the semester, and your mom comes to town to take care of you for three months, and she cooks good food for you every night, and you can't really use your meals at the dining halls, Food Services will work with you on this policy).

Some of the major meal plans are listed below, but keep in mind that grad students can pretty much tailor a plan to their needs. If you plan on eating at one of the dining halls, it's more economical to buy a lot of meals. Just make sure you use them – they expire at the end of the semester. For updates, check food.nd.edu/mealplans/grad\_meals.html

DOMER DOLLARS

Domer Dollars can be purchased on a dollar-for-dollar basis and can be used in a wide variety of ways on campus. In addition to food purchases, you can buy stuff at the bookstore, the copy shop and other services on campus. For those living on-campus, one of the most useful features of Domer Dollars is that they can be used to do laundry or to purchase items from the vending machines in residence halls. Unlike meal plans and Flex Points, Domer Dollars do not expire but continue on your account for as long as you are a student here. If there is a balance when you graduate, you'll get it back. One drawback of Domer Dollars is that you apparently have to actually purchase them and can't just charge them to your student account.

FLEX POINTS

Flex Points can also be purchased on a dollar-for-dollar basis and used for food at (almost) any campus restaurant. You can have Food Services add Flex Points to your card and charge it to your student account. Flex Points roll over until the end of the spring semester when they expire. It's easy to use them up, though, if you are approaching the end of the semester with a balance remaining – just treat your buddies to a cool drink at Legends or stock up on 20-ounce colas at the Huddle. One advantage of Flex Points, at least if you have a weakness for shopping in the bookstore, is that you can't blow all of your lunch money on the latest ND apparel.

(MOSTLY) FREE FOOD!!!

QUARTERDOGS

The existence of quarterdogs is a little-known secret even amongst the undergrads, and only a very few law students – mostly Double Domers– have been able to take advantage of this phenomenon. Every day at midnight in LaFortune, the Huddle sells its hot dogs for a quarter each until they run out. Trust me, there are few things greater than getting four hotdogs for a dollar in the middle of an all-nighter at the law school. Onions, mustard, and ketchup are available to round out your dawgin' experience.

COLEMAN-MORSE CENTER (Co-Mo)

Also known as the “free pop” building (or free soda, or free coke), the home of campus ministry provides free popcorn and free carbonated beverages. Technically, though, you're supposed to leave a quarter for your first cup.

LAW SCHOOL LUNCH MEETINGS

Pizza and Jimmy John's are available about three times a week to anyone willing to attend the lunchtime meetings. Don't worry, 25% of everyone else at the meeting is also there just for the food.

Groceries

PLACES TO BUY FOOD, DRINKS, AND ... NINE IRONS?

THE USUAL SUSPECTS

---

Aldi

Closest to Campus: 3401 North Grape Road, Mishawaka

Other locations: 3502 North Bendix Drive, South Bend
202 East Ireland Road, South Bend

Unsurpassed for low prices, but the selection is always uncertain, and you must remember to bring your own bags (unless you want cucumbers and ice cream rolling around in the back of your car). But if you're on a budget, its peccadillos are completely worth it.

Kroger

Closest to Campus: State Road 23, in University Commons, behind University Park Mall

Other locations: Western Avenue, South Bend; East Ireland Road, South Bend; Hickory Road, Mishawaka

Typical grocery store – no bells and whistles, but the prices are fair. Be sure to get the discount card!

Martin's

Closest to Campus: State Road 23 and Ironwood, South Bend

Other locations: Western Ave., South Bend; Erskine Plaza, South Bend; State Road 23, Granger; McKinley Road, Mishawaka; Ironwood Road, Mishawaka; Bittersweet Road, Mishawaka

Chain supermarket local to the Michiana area. A typical big grocery store with some specialty items like sushi, a sizeable deli, and a not-too-shabby wine selection. The location at SR23 and Ironwood also houses a Starbucks outlet, has a good selection of prepared food (including excellent garlic mashed potatoes), great baked goods and is open 6 a.m. to midnight. It also has a small café area that's nice for studying.

Meijer

Closest to Campus: Grape Road, Mishawaka

Other locations: Cleveland Road, South Bend; Portage, South Bend

The Midwest's very own contribution to the super-store lineup. Even if you don't buy anything, it is a must-see. You can buy a lobster, whipped cream, a nine-iron, a car battery and embroidery floss on the same trip. They also feature some self-checkout lanes – which come in handy on Sunday afternoons when everyone in Michiana descends on the place. Those of you coming from big cities will need resuscitation after seeing the prices. Best of all, it's open 24 hours.

Sam's Club

Closest to Campus: Indian Ridge Road, Mishawaka, next to Wal-Mart

A members-only shopping club like BJ's or Costco. Everything is in bulk, which carries two benefits: lower prices and time savings. The hours aren't as convenient as the other grocery stores in the area, but the saved money and time might compensate.

Super Target

Closest to Campus: University Drive, Granger (off Main in Mishawaka)

Other locations: Ireland Road, South Bend; Midway Road, Goshen (regular Targets)

Another multi-service grocery/department store. Not as many extras as Meijer and Super Wal-Mart, but there is a pharmacy, photo lab and optical store as well as groceries and the usual department store fare.

Wal-Mart Supercenter

Closest to Campus: Indian Ridge Road, Mishawaka

Other locations: Portage Road, South Bend

Wal-mart may be the epitome of capitalism, but it's hard to resist the low prices. Like a mini-city, it has everything you could possibly want. Both locations are open 24 hours.

AND THE OUT-OF-THE-ORDINARY

Fair Trade Coffee

Sacred Heart Parish Center

574-631-7508

Fair Trade is a program that pays farmers a fair wage for their products, and ensures that the products are grown in environmentally sound conditions, without any civil rights abuses. The university offers bulk coffee, and will hopefully begin offering bananas and other products soon. FTC is also available in the dining halls. For more information on the Fair Trade campaign, see www.nd.edu/~psa/byron/campaigns/fairtrade/index.html

Farmer's Market

Location: 1105 Northside Blvd., just below the river

South Bend has the nation's largest farmer-owned market. Local farmers sell their own products in season and imported produce at other times of the year, as well as bulk spices and organic meats at killer prices. Other merchants sell antiques and crafts. The obscenely good Great Harvest Bread Company also occupies a stall. It's open year round, during the day on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. During growing season, there are additional hours on Friday. And it's all inside, so you don't have to worry about the weather.

Italian Markets

Locations: Macri's Bakery, 214 North Niles, South Bend
Bamber Superette, 1145 Mishawaka Ave., South Bend

Organic & Natural Products

Locations: Harmony Market, Grape Road, Mishawaka

YES, THERE ARE NICE PLACES TO LIVE IN SOUTH BEND

This is our attempt to help you find a place to live. Honestly, finding a place to live in a city where you don't have any connections to is not easy, but we hope that this list of apartment complexes, ratings, and references will help you track down someplace you will enjoy living during your three years at Notre Dame. Fortunately, housing in the South Bend/Mishawaka area is very affordable, especially if you're used to living on the East or West Coasts.

We have tried to include comments from students who are residents of the facilities reviewed. We have also tried to include off-campus complexes where a lot of law students live and others that seem like they might work for law students. There are two complexes we want to warn you against. Hillcrest Apartments and the Notre Dame Apartments, while close to campus, are not in particularly nice areas and are not known for being well-maintained.

Caveat emptor (we're law students – we had to use at least one Latin phrase). Keep in mind that you should verify this information and any information you get from the Housing Office with the landlord or management agency.

GETTING STARTED

Call the University Office of On-Campus and Off-Campus Housing 574-631-5878 and ask them to send you the informational packets on on-campus and off-campus housing options. The information provided on on-campus housing is thorough and very helpful. The packet on off-campus housing (you'll get it in the mail, but you can also log onto their website and print it once you have an AFS ID) has a lot of practical information, like phone numbers and addresses, but it doesn't really tell you what different housing opportunities are like, how far they are from campus, who lives there, etc. We've tried to fill in some of those gaps with the information below. The packet the University puts together for off-campus housing can be really excellent if you're looking to sublet, want to find a roommate, would like to live with a family, etc. Make sure you look at it and cross-reference with the information below.

If you want to live on-campus, submit your application AS SOON AS POSSIBLE! There are many more graduate students who would like the convenience of living in university housing than there are spots. The university recommends you submit your housing applications as soon as you are accepted. If you wait to look for housing, it's unlikely that you'll find an availability on-campus. There is a waiting list, but a spot on a list is not a roof over your head.

Decide what you need out of a living situation before you begin your search. Sit down and ask yourself whether you need to live alone or want to be surrounded by people, do you already have a roommate(s) in mind, what kind of hours you like to keep, what kind of study habits do you have, do you like to cook, do you have a car, how much can you afford to spend, etc. If you know what you want in a place to live, it will be a much smoother process.

Look online. Go to www.rent.net and search by South Bend and Notre Dame University campus and try www.southbend.com/RealEstateHome.shtml. Also try www.apartmentguide.com. To find apartments around Notre Dame, choose to look for apartments in the state of Indiana in the metro area "Michiana and NW Indiana." On the next screen, choose St. Joseph County. Quite a few of the rental companies have good websites as well. The best we have found is www.edwardrose.com. They run several complexes in both Mishawaka and South Bend.

Good Luck! The good news is that even if you don't like your first year living situation, you'll probably never be there because it's first year, and let's face it, you live at the library! To be totally honest, almost everyone I know is happy with his or her living situation. South Bend is cheap, the people are nice and nothing is too far from campus. So don't sweat the housing search too much and worry about more important things – like finding a bag big enough to haul around 137.5 lbs of law textbooks!

GENERAL CONTACT INFO & WEBSITE

www.nd.edu/~orlh/housing/graduate/index.htm

FISCHER GRADUATE HOUSING

Rent, Utilities & Parking

$2,409.50/semester, $4,819/year, deposit of $460

Amenities & Pets

All utilities included. Parking available steps from your door (for a price). Unfortunately, there's no covered parking so come January get your shovel and scraper ready! There is coin laundry within walking distance. It is only accessible to Notre Dame graduate students, so you can feel safe washing your lucky exam socks alone late at night. No pets (not even fish anymore).

Description

New construction two-bedroom apartments. These are the nicest option for on-campus housing so everyone wants to live here. People who stay on campus for more than one year generally request to live here. You're still right on campus, but you're safely separated from the undergraduate dorms by a parking lot.

Everyone living here is a graduate student. If you apply to live in graduate student housing the University will match you up with one or more roommates from any of the graduate programs, but you can also request a roommate. People keep odd hours because everyone is a student, but there are 24 hour quiet hours (which most people abide by – this doesn't mean that having people over for a party will necessarily get you in trouble, but you may have to tone it down a bit on occasion). It is clean and, best of all, it's managed directly by the University, so problems tend to get fixed extremely fast.

Distance to the Law School

About a 10 minute walk from your door across campus to the door of the law school. You can ride your bike, but you'd never need to drive – although it's not unheard of for people to drive to the lazy lot (you'll have to ask some 2L or 3L about other places we park but aren't supposed to when you get to campus). The student shuttle also stops at FOG, which will also deliver you to the law school in ten minutes. (It takes about 30 minutes to ride back because the shuttle stops at Saint Mary's, Holy Cross and University Village as well. At night and especially during the holiday season, though, it is well worth the time, given how beautiful the campus looks. )

Student Comments

The first great thing about Fischer is the price. It's dirt cheap, and it includes some pretty good furniture. All utilities are paid for at a flat rate (also a very low price), so we had our AC roaring 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. There is almost no noise whatsoever, any time – so it's no Turtle Creek (i.e. MTV Spring Break). The apartment is a decent size – living room, small breakfast nook, 2 bedrooms, bathroom + extra sink, and kitchen. The kitchen is adequate, with a garbage disposal, but unfortunately no dishwasher. Decent closet space, but not great. No laundry machines – you have to walk to the community center, and sometimes it's a very cold walk. Never a security problem, nice area, no thugs or ruffians around. A few more notes: you have a chance of getting a crappy, antisocial roommate – it is a grad student residence, after all. I've lucked out twice, but I know people who haven't fared as well. Also, all ND on-campus housing has PLENTY of rules that they try to mom-and-dad you with – but enforcement is lax. Finally – if you want to live here, book your spot EARLY – it fills up fast.

O'HARA-GRACE GRADUATE HOUSING

Rent & Lease Terms

$1,998/semester, $3,998/year, deposit of $357

Amenities & Pets

All utilities included. Again, parking is available for a fee. Still no covered parking, though. There is a coin laundry in walking distance. It is only accessible to Notre Dame graduate students. Again, no pets.

Description

Older four-bedroom townhouses. You're right next to Fischer, still safely separated from the undergraduates. There are probably more 1Ls (that's you) in O'Hara-Grace simply because it's harder to get a spot in Fischer. Some 1Ls complain that the apartments are a little run down, but maintenance is reliable. A slightly shorter walk to the law school than from Fischer. You can ride your bike, but you'd never need to drive. And the same shuttle will pick you up.

Student Comments

It's cool, depending on who you're living with. A lot of 1Ls live around you and you get to know/party with them. Plenty of space.

O'Hara-Grace Townhouses are located on-campus, right next to the Fischer Graduate Student Housing complexes. Each townhouse is fully furnished and has four bedrooms, one and a half bathrooms, a kitchen, and living area. The bedrooms are located on the upper floor while the living area and kitchen are located on the first floor. It is cheaper to live in O'Hara-Grace than in the Fischer apartments. However, it comes with its share of drawbacks as well:

Four students share one full bathroom. That's one shower for four people!
Four students share one phone line. Students can opt for a personal line for a hefty fee. But it's well worth the price if you want to make and receive phone calls freely. The buildings (and the furniture) are older than those in the Fischer apartments.

Living at O'Hara-Grace has its advantages too. It is close to school & many of your friends live nearby. Also, the rent (for the entire semester or year) is directly deducted from your student account so you never have to worry about paying rent and/or electricity.

Between O'Hara-Grace and the Fischer apartments, I would personally would prefer to live in Fischer. I moved off-campus after my first year at O'Hara-Grace. And I wonder if I would have moved at all if I was living in Fischer.

Indoor pool & outdoor pool. Playground for the kids and a weight room.

Distance to the Law School

Usually under 10 minutes (to C-lot) with a six or seven minute average. Too far to ride a bike, so make sure you have a car.

Description

Right by the movie theater on Edison Road and not too far from campus, Candlewood apartments are spacious and in great condition. Quiet with a strictly enforced noise policy and safety patrol at night.

Who Lives There

While the management claims that there are very few law students and most of the residents are senior citizens and families, don't believe them. This is one of the more popular places for law students to live.

Student Comments

Convenient location with moderate prices. quick access to shopping and restaurants on Grape and McKinley as well as Cinemark Movies 14. Heavy traffic on Edison can make exiting an adventure, but apartment buildings are far enough from the street to avoid noise problems. Facilities include an indoor and outdoor pool, small exercise area, and covered carports. Two-bedroom apartments include a small washer/dryer unit (a real plus) and a dishwasher. Some of the bedrooms do not have phone jacks. Atmosphere varies depending on the number of students in the building. Generally, Candlewood is quiet with law students scattered throughout the complex.

Terms of lease: 3, 6, 9, 12, 14 or month to month. Also, ask about student options.

Amenities & Pets

This place has every amenity known to man. It's more of a country club than an apartment complex. You have a pool, tennis courts, basketball courts, a workout facility, a banquet hall, etc. Cats only.

Distance to the Law School

About a 10-15 minute drive. You could possibly ride your bike in the warm weather.

Description

The closest thing to Camelot you'll find in South Bend. The complex was built on this bizarrely landscaped hilly terrain to look like a medieval forest (no, I'm not kidding). The buildings are named things like "Enchanted Forest" and "Camelot". If you have King Arthur fantasies, look no further. In all seriousness, the apartments are relatively new and very attractive. Most students living here are very happy with the experience and have enough space to throw a few parties for the rest of us.

Who Lives There

Students and non-students alike. Quite a few law students live at Castle Point, especially 1Ls.

Student Comments

While most residents agree that the medieval theme of Castle Point is silly, bordering on ridiculous, the complex offers a reasonably priced alternative to living on campus that is no more than a ten minute drive from the Law School.

Units are fairly spacious for the price. Many of the units have been recently renovated with new carpets, paint, kitchen counters, bathrooms and wallpaper (these units are available for a small surcharge). However, all the units have old (and noisy) appliances. Dishwashers are standard, the kitchens have ample counter space and each unit is wired for cable television in both the living room and the bedroom(s). While each building has a laundry room, there are not many machines in each facility, which can be inconvenient, especially on Saturday and Sunday. Laundry is expensive. The staff is helpful and willing to work with students to accommodate preferences and possibly bring the rent down.

The facility also has a fitness club, an outdoor pool (open only in the summer for reasons which will soon be obvious to you) and several tennis courts. The tennis courts are nice, but the weight room is a joke. Admission is free.

Not far from campus. Very nice, but you pay for the quality.

Who Lives There

Very few students. Mostly young families and professionals.

Student Comments

Apartments are spacious, clean, and well-maintained. Each apartment includes a washer and dryer. All appliances are new. Garages are also available. Apartment complex has outdoor swimming pool, tennis and basketball courts, and clubhouse. Located in a quiet residential area about 1/2 mile north of Cleveland Road.

On the down side, one of the more expensive apartment complexes in the area. Traditionally, Georgetown has not been a popular choice among law school students – the tenants are primarily younger professionals, families, and senior citizens. Not the best place to live if you like throwing late-night parties at your apartment.

Although a bit expensive, these apartments feature a number of nice amenities and are located fairly close to campus. Those interested in Georgetown may also want to look at Main Street Village Apartments in Granger. For a slightly higher price, Main Street Village offers brand new apartments with more amenities.

Who Lives There

A decent number of law students as well as young families.

Student Comments

Good place to live. Full kitchen, but no dishwasher. Air conditioning provided. Community laundry. Carpeting is a little old. Not far from campus and close to the movie theaters and the restaurants on Grape Road. Security is pretty good, but I do see some strange people walking through the complex from time to time. Overall it's been great and I'd live here again. No pets, though.

Distance to the Law School

Just a little over three miles from campus. About a 10 minute drive with traffic.

Description

You will never have to drive more than three minutes to get to any major store. Literally right next to Sam's Club. Beware, the drive back during rush hour can take as long as 20 minutes. The corner apartments have porches that are perfect for hanging a hammock on.

Who Lives There

Lots of graduate students. Very few undergraduates.

Student Comments

The best thing about living here is the noise policy. People are seriously considerate about other people's hours. I would say that most of the people here are grad students of some kind. I have found their staff to be very helpful. I did all of my planning from out of town and never had a problem with getting information or reaching my rental agent.

Distance to the Law School

About a thirteen minute drive.

Description

Inexpensive housing. Very close to Meijer with easy access to the airport and the Toll Road. You're getting what you pay for here – it's cheap but it's not the nicest complex.

Who Lives There

While some law students live here, it's mostly South Bend residents.

Student Comments

The greatest benefit to living at Indian Springs Apartments is that it is cheap. In addition to cheap, they come with a washer and dryer inside the apartment. That definitely is a plus. The apartment also pays for heat, water and gas leaving only electricity and other luxuries to be paid for. If you're looking for a cheap place to stay with easy access to laundry (machines are in the kitchen area), Indian Springs is your place.

Living here isn't perfect though. Indian Springs is about 10 to 15 minutes away from campus. It is probably farther away from campus than most of the other apartment complexes. It's also on the opposite side of town than the other apartments. The neighborhood isn't the greatest either. While the complex itself seems pretty safe, it's pretty bad down the street. Also, while maintenance is pretty quick to help out, if there's a maintenance emergency after hours, like broken car horns going off at dinner or a leaking washer at midnight, you'll have to wait until morning.

All in all, I think that the rent is cheap because of the apartment's distance from school and its location. If Indian Springs were closer to campus, I would rate it higher.

A five to ten minute drive. Wouldn't bike it as it takes you through some pretty rough neighborhoods.

Description

Nice looking complex overlooking the St. Joseph River downtown. Only a few blocks from Corby's and Macri's. Ready access to the river walk and the chase (for kayaking).

Who Lives There

Mix of students and young professionals.

Student Comments

The Pointe is a great place. The apartments are spacious and clean. They come with washer and dryer. Everything is included in the price, except electricity and gas. The staff is friendly and usually services your requests promptly. Not many students so it's very quiet. Although it's in downtown South Bend, it's pretty safe. However, my wife and I are pretty careful if we venture out past 10:00. My car was broken into once, but nothing was stolen. If I were to come back to South Bend after graduation, I'd stay at the Pointe again and not look anywhere else.

Distance to the Law School

Right around five minutes to get to the school parking lot (and another five minutes walking from there).

Description

A quiet, fairly affordable complex two miles west of campus.

Who Lives There

Mainly families and elderly residents, with only a handful of law students living there and seemingly no undergraduates around.

Student Comments

It is a more affordable alternative to Candlewood or some of the other places if you want to live by yourself. There is a $25/month Notre Dame discount, so be sure to ask for that when you are applying. I've found on-site management to be pretty friendly and helpful. It's kept up pretty well for an older building, and repairs have been attended to within 24 hours of my requests. It is a great quiet place to study if you like to do that at home instead of at school. It is conveniently located to school and to groceries, and it is a great place if you are a jogger. The complex is situated across from the river, so when it's warm enough you can jog or bike up and down the river, which is about as pretty as South Bend can get (away from the Notre Dame campus, that is). Also very safe, if you're considering living alone.

Terms of lease:	6 or 12 months

Distance to the Law School

About a ten minute drive to campus – just south of Grape Road.

Student Comments

Runaway Bay offers a good combination of quality for price in an apartment complex. They may run slightly more expensive than some complexes, but the additional square footage in your kitchen and bathroom make it worthwhile.

Every unit has a fireplace and balcony. Most have laundry hook-ups with the option to rent a washer and dryer (this is where they get you, though). If you prefer to use this room for storage space, a public washer and dryer is available for every twelve units. The walls are a bit thin, so don't talk about your guests as they arrive since they can hear everything in the hallway.

The service from the office and repair staff is great. They resolve every repair the day you raise it. The facility has a fitness room, an outdoor pool and two tennis/basketball courts. Pets are allowed, but only up to 35 pounds.

Water and electric are not included. They normally run about $30-50/ month. Parking is included, visitor parking is available. You can pay a little extra for a covered carport. Pool, beach volleyball court, outdoor barbeques, cement turtles, "rally in the alley." Pets are allowed.

Distance to the Law School

A hop, skip and a jump between the athletic fields on foot gets you to the law school in 15 minutes. On your bike under 10 minutes. I drive and park in C1 by the stadium and I get from my door to school in 10 minutes. In terms of distance, you won't find a more convenient location than this.

Description

This is the closest possible living arrangement to campus. The apartments are nice and in relatively good shape. The management is professional and there is a police officer living in the complex.

Who Lives There

The undergraduate hockey team! Well, not just them, but TC is notorious for its rowdy undergraduate parties, so know in advance what you are getting yourself into. The trick is to request to live in the one building which only has quiet students . . .

seriously they have one, I live there, it's as silent as the grave. Meanwhile people are doing kegstands in the building next door. If you like the undergrad life and aren't quite ready to let go, then live in one of the "not so quiet" buildings. There are a few law students here, but mostly people who don't mind a little noise. People here are friendly and the maintenance staff is great.

Student Comments

"The boys lacrosse team lives here, what can I say."

"I recommend living here, it's equidistant from groceries, the bar and school!"

There are washer/dryer connections available in the townhouses: you can install your own or rent from the management. You can have two pets, 75 lbs max. The pet will cost $15/ month with a refundable $200 deposit.

Distance to the Law School

Only a couple miles from the law school. About a 5-10 minute drive.

Description

One of Gene Glick's properties. Everything is in great condition and the management is responsive and professional. The apartments are nice and the appliances are fairly new . . . no 30 year old stoves like at O'Hara-Grace or Turtle Creek. Best of all, there is a rent discount for Notre Dame Law Students!

Who Lives There

Graduate students, both married and single, but not many children.

Student Comments

University Park is located near the corner of Grape and Douglas Roads in Mishawaka. It is approximately 2.5 miles from campus. In good traffic, the drive is seven minutes to campus. To get from door to door in most conditions is a 15-20 minute proposition. For ND students and employees, the complex does not require a security deposit. The apartments are clean and functional, and the staff is generally friendly. There is a pool and a sauna on site. On the bad side, there is only one central laundry facility that you must drive to in order to wash clothes. Also, there are more townies than in other complexes. The distance is a good buffer from campus and its bustle.

The proximity to Grape Road shopping is a double-edged sword because while it is convenient to have close shopping, there can be noise problems. All in all, though, this is a great option for 1Ls; it can be summed up as convenient, clean, and affordable housing.

Amenities & Pets

Gas included in your rent. Parking is available right in front of the buildings. You can also rent a carport for $15/month on a month to month basis (I recommend a carport for the winter). There are 24 hr/day coin laundry facilities on the property. The townhouses have washer/dryer connections, so you can install your own or rent from the management company for $28/month. You can have up to two pets. The weight limit is 80 lbs. There is a deposit fee, which changes depending on how "damaging" your pet looks, so call and ask.

Distance to the Law School

About a 10 minute drive.

Description

You know you're not an undergrad anymore when you move into an apartment like this. The apartments are very well kept and spacious. Manager Gene Glick is known for taking great care of his properties and his renters. There is a strictly enforced noise policy, so don't live here if you like to play your electric guitar.

Who Lives There

According to their leasing office there are a lot of law students at Williamsburg, but not many undergraduates. The management said their tenants range from single, married and married with small children.

Student Comments

Rent is reasonable and gas is included. Electricity is a separate utility, more expensive in the summer due to air conditioning. Management is alert and always helpful. Laundry facilities are available near the clubhouse (which includes a meeting room and an outdoor pool). A washer/dryer combo is available for a minimal rental cost inside the apartment as well as a reserved carport.

HOUSES AND ROOMS/APARTMENTS IN HOUSES

The housing office has a list of houses, rooms, and apartments in houses that are available for rent. If you are interested, please contact the housing office or go to the office's website at www.nd.edu/~orlh. You can also find a local real estate agent.

If you want to buy houses, the best time to look is in the spring, but fortunately, property prices in South Bend are very good. Also check out www.Southbend.com/RealEstateHome.shtml.

Computers

AN OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD: THE BLUE SCREEN OF DEATH

Computers are essential to law school. We can't imagine what typing 60-page law review notes with hundreds of footnotes or even moot court briefs on a typewriter was like. You will be frustrated enough if you have to type your bar application on a typewriter during your third year to make you forgive any problems you have ever had with a computer.

The overwhelming majority of students bring a laptop to class to take notes/surf the internet/chat. Now, with the introduction of Secureexam, most students will also use their laptops for exams. Professors allow students to use laptops during class to take notes and the like, but it's usually not a good idea to hide behind your screen when you are answering a question. The entire building has a wireless computer network, so it's especially nice to have a wireless card. The network supports both Macs and PCs and laptop users can even print directly to the printers in the computer labs from anywhere in the building.

The Law School works out a great deal every year with a major computer manufacturer to provide sale-priced notebooks to its students. The manufacturer seems to rotate between Gateway and Dell. If your year happens to be a Gateway year, do yourself a favor and buy something else (and you might want to consider not buying the Dell, either). Consider a Mac! But never, under any circumstances should you buy a Gateway. Note for Mac users: we know you love your Macs, but to date, Mac users cannot use our exam-taking software. You'll have to borrow a PC from the law school if you want to type your exams.

Generally there's the "cheap model" (read "everything you need") and then the "expensive model" (read "nice, but not necessarily what you need"). The expensive model is nice, but, as has already been mentioned, the cheap model offers everything you need.

For those who don't have a laptop or a computer at all, the law school has two computer clusters that are open 24 hours a day. On the main floor of the library you will find the main cluster with 34 PCs and 2 Macs. On the third floor, the instructional law has an additional 13 computers that are available for student use except when Westlaw and Lexis hold computer training (these sessions are often pretty good, by the way, and you get free points and/or goodies). There are also three computers in the lounge downstairs, for checking e-mail. The labs have three high speed laser printers and printing in the law school is free for law students.

Computer clusters are also sprinkled around the campus and, of course, are available to you as a Notre Dame student. Because you have your own private account on the university server, you are able to access work saved to the "N:" drive from anywhere, on campus or off, which is especially handy when you've inadvertently used your last diskette as a coaster. One word of caution, however: if you choose to print in a "remote forum" (say, at the main library), printing will be charged against your student account. Students start each semester with $100 on their account for printing and pages are 10¢ each.

You will get free access to Westlaw and Lexis when you arrive on campus (enjoy them...they'll never be truly free again). Westlaw and Lexis are powerful legal databases that provide access to just about any legal source you can think of (except the one you need at 2:00 a.m. the night before a paper is due). Both provide training, competitions to encourage use, and free printing. The Lexis and Westlaw printers in the law school can be selected from the company's internet sites and are available from anywhere, including off campus. Lexis and Westlaw also provide employment opportunities for 2Ls and 3Ls as student representatives. In addition to handing out points, the reps get extra training in using Lexis and Westlaw – and then hang out at the lab, ready, willing and able to answer all your research questions.

If you have computing questions, the Law School has several onsite computer experts and they're incredibly helpful. Contact Dan Manier (manier.2@nd.edu, 631-3939), Director of Information Technology, Tim Gritten (gritten.2@nd.edu, 631-9793), or Jeremy Brown (jbrown7@nd.edu, 631-9793) for assistance. Tim usually has a bowl of jellybeans or seasonal candy available in his office when you come by to chat or ask why your computer is not working again. If you are the type of person who names their computer, he'll even remember its name and ask about her health from time to time. Campus-wide computing assistance is available through the Office of Information Technology, Room 111, CCMB (www.nd.edu/~ndoit, 631-1111.)

Cell Phones

CAN YOU HEAR ME NOW?

As cell phones are rather popular these days and many law students carry them, we thought we ought to mention something about them in this Guide. Since all of the major cell phone companies provide service in South Bend, picking a provider is probably going to be based on what kind of a plan you can get, and not what kind of a signal you can get.

Reception inside of the law school building is a tricky thing, although it is somewhat better now that the wireless computer network has been installed. Quality of reception varies by both the provider, and model of cell phone. To use your phone down in the lounge usually requires standing on one of the couches by the window and holding your nose just right. Sometimes that doesn't work and you only look silly. Most folks go outside to make their calls or stand next to the door if it's really cold out. There are also a few other windows that attract cell phone users, such as the one on the third floor by the elevator.

In the library, reception varies wildly although it's usually a no-go in the stacks and a maybe everywhere else. The policy for cell phones in the library is to be courteous: don't make calls from the library and don't take calls in the library. Leaving your phone on vibrate-only mode is fine unless you leave and leave your phone on your desk and your significant other calls repeatedly wondering where you are. And, because it was mentioned in an email recently, remember that when you take your call out of the library and into the hallway, there are still other people about, people who may not be interested in learning all about your weekend in New York.

If you're looking to get a new plan, Verizon tends to get the best reception, followed by T-Mobile. Just keep in mind that you might need more minutes than previously. Those cell phones will be very useful both for keeping in touch with loved ones who haven't seen you since you disappeared into the law school library and for your job search.

Keep in mind that our building is built like a castle – impenetrable to invading armies and cell signals alike. You'll have to step outside or cling to the nearest window to get a signal. The obvious exception is the library, where it seems everyone gets great signals and some carry on wonderfully loud and annoying conversations (hint: don't do that, it makes you very unpopular), and when you're in class, where your cell phone will always ring if it's on. Not surprisingly, professors don't like it when your cell phone rings during class. We recommend not letting it happen.

Liquid Refreshments

THIS IS AN IRISH SCHOOL, AFTER ALL

A great deal of the university social scene happens in bars. Even if you don't drink, you should be prepared to visit with your friends at one (or more) of these places occasionally. If you do drink, you should know that this is a town that takes their drinking very seriously.<sup>5</sup>

Bookmakers

2046 South Bend Avenue

574-272-1766

A large bar near the campus which has undergone several name changes. The food is not great, but Bookmakers, due to numerous TVs, is a good place to watch a game. Watch out for ridiculously large crowds during major sporting events.

Blarney Stone/Library/Finnegan's

Michigan and Wayne, South Bend

This bar has been known in the past for its numerous name changes and the ease with which undergrads were able to gain entry using questionable identification. The current version (Blarney Stone) has gained popularity among two groups, law students and athletes. It is not uncommon to see members of the football or basketball team in the mix here.

C.J.'s

417 North Michigan Street

574-233-5981

The best burger in the area, hands down. C.J.'s is a place to catch lunch or dinner, a drink and listen to live music.

Club 23

744 North Notre Dame Avenue

574-234-4015

Club 23 is an undergrad bar with sticky carpets and great drink specials. They play karaoke on Monday nights and get amazingly busy, especially the Monday after the law school starts. It is open later than most bars in the area, which is a plus.

Club Fever (Formerly Heartland)

222 South Michigan Street

574-234-5200

One of South Bend's only true "night clubs." This club features a mixture of locals, undergrads and grads dancing to the latest music.

Club Landing

1717 Lincolnway East

574-289-4122

A place to go dance and grab a beer, mostly a younger crowd. Salsa dancing on Thursdays. This bar is more of a local's bar which is a shame because it features a dance floor, several bars and a very extensive outdoor deck which overlooks the river.

---

<sup>5</sup> It's kind of a dichotomy, though. You can't buy liquor from a grocery (or similar) store on Sunday, but you can drink at a bar. Something to think about when making plans.

Club LaSalle

115 West Colfax

574-288-1155

The classiest place to get a drink in South Bend and the only true cigar bar. Located above the LaSalle Grill in downtown South Bend, business casual dress is required most nights. A great place to catch live jazz on the weekends. They have a large humidor and personal cigar boxes you can rent.

Corby's Irish Pub

441 East LaSalle

574-233-5326

Corby's is the quintessential Notre Dame bar and has been featured in the movie Rudy. Corby's has several pool tables and a great outdoor area. The bar is packed to capacity during home games and is a huge hit with most law students. Corby's has become the place to meet your fellow law students on the Thursday before the start of law school.

Current Affair Martini Bar

In the Niles Riverfront Café, 219 North Front Street, Niles

269-684-2233

Upscale, chic lounge with specialty drinks, wines, micro-brews and, of course, martinis! The Riverfront is also a coffeehouse and smoke-free. We have never met a single law student who has actually frequented the bar, though.

Fiddler's Hearth

127 North Main Street

574-232-2853

Arguably one of the best, if not the best, bars in South Bend. Fiddler's Hearth features the best Guinness in town, cider on tap, good Irish-pub fare and lots of good music. Popular every night of the week, especially with law students looking to enjoy a relaxed evening out, it tends to get very packed on Friday and Saturday nights. Wednesday night is open mic night and has featured the musical abilities of several law students.

Legends

University of Notre Dame

574-631-2582

The new on-campus bar/nightclub. Known as Senior Bar before the recent renovation. Though the bar has the best collection of bottled beers in the area, it also features the worst service. Your experience may include a 30 minute wait for your drink followed by a visit by the waitress informing you that they are out of whatever you ordered.

Linebacker Lounge ("Backer")

1631 South Bend Avenue (walking distance from campus)

574-289-0186

All roads lead to the Backer! The Backer tends to get packed every Friday and Saturday after midnight. The Backer is a true Jekyll and Hyde bar which may be empty prior to midnight and standing room only thereafter. The floor is sticky, the temperature is extreme, and the fun is unlimited. There is a cover, but in exchange you receive a ticket good for one drink. The house specialty is a long island ice tea which is well worth the cover. It is almost impossible to get into on Football weekends. The Backer is truly a Notre Dame Institution.

Mishawaka Brewing Company

3703 North Main, Mishawaka

574-256-9993

German-style food and their own really good micro-brewed beers (and root beer!) are the signatures of the Brew Co. The focus here is more on relaxing with friends and taking your mind off of things than anything else. Definitely one place you have to try while you're here. Tuesday night $4 pitcher specials.

Oaken Bucket

1212 South Ironwood

574-289-1616

Not too many people know about this place, but it is one of the best burgers in the area. It is about a 10 minute drive from campus, but it is definitely worth the trip, especially if you are looking for food along with your drinks!

Oyster Bar

Main Street, South Bend

Right next to Fiddler's Hearth, it is one of the few three floor bars in South Bend. The food is good and they have a large selection of drinks. Don't forget the third floor bar (faster drinks) and pool tables.

Pat's Colonial Pub901 West 4th Street, Mishawaka

574-259-8282

Near downtown Mishawaka; ND Fight Song rumored to be played here. Again, we know of no law students who have ever actually been to the Colonial.

Rumrunners

100 Center, Mishawaka (just off Main)

574-259-7522

A dueling piano bar and grill, one of the draws is Wednesday nights – 75 cent well drinks all night long. A big Wednesday hang out for grads and undergrads.

State Theatre Lounge

214 ½ South Michigan Street

574-232-0679

Located next to Club Fever, it's another place to go dancing in South Bend. Typically popular among undergraduates on Wednesday nights, it is currently closed pending renovations and reopening.

The Vine

103 West Colfax, South Bend

574-234-9463

Wine bar in downtown South Bend. Really good food and drinks.

Restaurants

EVERYTHING FROM FINE DINING TO LATE-NIGHT DIVES

SOME SOCIAL SUGGESTIONS...

	Start with...	Go to...	End with...
After Exams	Leahy's / Morris Inn	CJ's	The Backer
Girls' Night Out	A day spa	Fondue!	La Salle
Guys' Night Out	Between The Buns	CJ's	Beer (anywhere)
Football Weekend	Corby's	Legends	The Backer (if you can fit)
Parental Visit	Fiddler's Hearth	The Emporium	Turn in early
Hot Date	Carraba's	Francesco's	South Bend Chocolate Café

AMERICAN

You've heard of most of these places. South Bend has no shortage of chain restaurants. You will find we have omitted fast-food restaurants – don't worry, there's an overabundance of those, too.

Applebee's

6615 North Main Street, Mishawaka

574-273-0003

Offers steak, ribs, burgers, soups and sandwiches. There is also a location north of the Toll Road on Portage Road that tends not to be as busy as the restaurants on Grape Road after football games.

Buffalo Wild Wings (BW3s)

123 West Washington, South Bend

574-232-2293

Wings, beer, sports... all the essentials. Even if you don't like wings, they have plenty of other kinds of food, even meat-free food.

Chili's

4810 Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-271-1330

Try their Fajita-Rita Monday Nights (fajitas for two are $10 with $2 margaritas).

Culver's

5520 North Main Street, Mishawaka

574-271-7161

Somewhere between fast-food and sit-down, Culver's offers the usual burgers, fries, sandwiches and salads along with frozen custard for dessert. Keep an eye out for the "Flavor of the Day," and remember—they call them "Butterburgers," which means they're as unhealthy AND great-tasting as they sound. Free ice cream with a kid's meal.

Damon's The Place For Ribs

52885 U.S. 31 North

574-272-5478

Also the place for big screen TVs. You can find better ribs elsewhere, though.

Doc Pierce's

120 North Main Street, Mishawaka

574-255-7737

Place for steaks – under same ownership as the Emporium.

Famous Dave's Bar-B-Que

6402 Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-277-1888

Halfway-decent chain BBQ place. The menu is more fun and slightly (but only slightly) more authentic than Smokey Bones, and the quality of the food is not as great as it once was, but for unobjectionable chain BBQ, you can't go wrong here.

Garfield's Restaurant & Pub

In University Park Mall

574-273-2113

Houlihan's

4240 North Main, Mishawaka

574-271-3663

One of the nicer chains in the area, featuring private wine boxes belonging to local and regional VIPs (If Coach Charlie doesn't have one yet, he surely will soon). Also offers a delicious weekend brunch.

Jersey Mike's Giant Subs

5718 North Main, Mishawaka

574-247-0056

Located next to Indian Lakes Apartments. They offer great subs at a great price –these authors highly recommends at least one lunch trip there.

Jimmy Johns

54570 North Ironwood, South Bend

574-277-8500

At the corner of Ironwood and SR 23, this place has great subs.

J&W Taste of New Orleans

574-289-9237

1212 Beyer Street (right next to the Farmer's Market), South Bend

Professor Garnett tells us it is cheap (and tasty) New Orleans, Southern, and Cajun food. Even though he has spent some time in Alaska, I would take his word on this. Closed Sunday.

K's Grill & Pub

1733 South Bend Avenue (SR23), South Bend

574-277-2527

They bring out homemade cookies as appetizers. Ask the waitress about the "student discount" -- $1 hotdogs and $1 beers. You have to ask to get it.

Legends of Notre Dame

On campus

574-631-2582

Impressive selection of domestic, import and local beers. A little pricey for the quality of the food, but the location can't be beat. Local and up-and-coming bands perform many weekends.

Le Peep

127 South Michigan, South Bend

574-288-7337

307 East University Drive, Mishawaka

574-271-7337

Voted best breakfast in South Bend, according to their own materials. It's definitely worth the honor. Great lunch options too. Here's a major secret: If you hang out here on Fridays before home games, you might spy Brady Quinn. But don't tell anyone I told you.

Lone Star Steakhouse

4725 Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-272-5656

Does a mean pork chop and Delmonico steak.

Main Street Grille

112 North Main, Mishawaka

574-254-4995

Casual but upscale with an adjoining art gallery.

Macri's

214 North Niles, South Bend

574-280-4824

227 West University Drive, Mishawaka

574-277-7273

Authors highly recommend this place. Run by an Italian family. Sandwiches are terrific—try the Godfather. The desserts are terrific, as well. The downtown South Bend location is a good place for lunch with family or friends. Try the Mishawaka location to watch a game or play trivia.

Max & Erma's

4340 North Main Street, Mishawaka

574-243-5600

Another Midwest-based chain, this is one of the newest additions on the Main Street corridor in Mishawaka. Great burgers in two sizes – “Max” and “Erma” – and best of all, fresh-baked chocolate chip cookies and milk for dessert. Or if you prefer, they have a sundae bar too.

Morris Bistro

211 North Michigan, South Bend

574-245-6085

Located on the lower level of the Morris Performing Arts Center. Open for lunch and for two hours before performances at the MPAC.

Outback Steakhouse

4611 Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-271-2333

If you've never been, you've gotta go. It's worth the price. This author suggests the Bloomin' Onion.

Old Country Buffet

5540 Grape Road, Mishawaka (Wilshire Plaza)

574-277-7077

Not for the small of stomach. For sheer volume of food for the money, nothing beats the OCB. The salad bar is quite good, as are the multiple-drink refills and the ice cream bar. There are different entreés for every day of the week, and during Lent, they have fish fry Fridays.

Panera Bread

4310 North Main, Mishawaka 574-243-0001
 1290 East Ireland Road, South Bend 574-231-4932
 One of the many new places along Main Street, in Mishawaka

Red Lobster

3930 North Main, Mishawaka 574-255-6306

Ryan's Steakhouse

4811 Grape Road, Mishawaka 574-277-4949

Smokey Bones BBQ

Very affordable. Don't be fooled by its residential location and its modest exterior. Affectionately known to some as "The Den of Decadence," the New Saigon offers some of the most renowned dishes in all of Michiana.

Sunny's Korean Garden

512 South Spring, Mishawaka

574-255-5274

Receives many recommendations from the Professors Garnett (try the Princess Chicken).

Cash only.

Fazoli's

52772 US 33 North

574-277-4008

Serves fast-food Italian. Does not win any awards for authenticity. You've got to love the magical breadstick lady with her basket of goodies.

Francesco's

1213 Lincoln Way West

574-256-1444

Dine in an old stone home, far away from campus and lit by candles. You can't get much better than that.

Olive Garden

6410 Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-277-6503

Also does not win awards for authenticity. Not a bad place to go with your friends for those days when you've got two hours for lunch, especially during their all-you-can eat pasta promotion.

Papa Joe's Casa De Pasta

1209 Union Street, Mishawaka

574-255-0890

Classic old-school family joint. Only open on Friday and Saturday nights.

Papa Vino's

5110 Edison Lakes Parkway

Parisi's

1412 South Bend Ave. (SR 23)

Polito's

A well-kept Michiana secret serving excellent pizza and pasta. Across from Meijer. Delicious, authentic and won't break the bank.

Reggio's

1215 East Jefferson, Mishawaka

Sunny Italy Café

601 North Niles Avenue

574-232-9620

Yet another small, family-owned Italian restaurant. Like the others, it receives excellent reviews for authenticity. Checkered tablecloths and loud waiters. You'd think you were in Italy for all the choices here in Michiana, except it can't possibly snow this much in Italy.

Tosi's Restaurant

4337 Ridge Road, Stevensville, Michigan

800-218-7745

A relatively short ride to get there is rewarded with some of the best minestrone outside of Chicago. Directions at www.tosis.com

MEXICAN

Boracho Burrito

1724 North Ironwood, South Bend

574-271-2033

Just try to fit your mouth around one. Huge portions and open late (Tues. through Sat. 4 a.m.; Sun. & Mon. 2 a.m.). After midnight you'll see all colors of hair, along with piercings in places you'd hopefully never consider. But don't forget about Boracho for lunch—much less crowded, not nearly as colorful, but still a burrito the size of your head at a great value. The Giant Burrito Meal is only $5.25 – good luck finishing more than one.

Don Pablo's

574-273-3843

The granddaddy of casual Mexican restaurants in Michiana, Hacienda is the reason that our old Chi-Chi's is now a Chinese buffet. The food is wonderful (for a quick Mexican chain), the atmosphere fun and the prices incredibly low. They are famous for their wet burritos. Plus, they'll give you a sombrero on your birthday. Your South Bend Experience just isn't complete until you've tried Hacienda.

La Esperanza

Best bangers and mash in town. If you don't eat sausage, there's tons of other delicious and authentic food on the menu. They frequently have live music and an open-mike night, which is usually pretty fantastic. Seating is community, so you'll probably get to know your neighbors. A final plus is that since it's also a bar, they're open pretty late.

O'Sullivan's Crossing

235 South Michigan Street

574-289-3333

Great for big parties where everyone wants something different. It's like nothing else in the area. Assemble exactly what you want (lots of meat, veggie, spice, sauce choices) and the staff cooks it for you (so it's a little like B.D.'s Mongolian Barbecue). The staff is extremely friendly and helpful. You are guaranteed to go home stuffed.

574-282-1010

Considered by these authors to be the best bakery in South Bend. Good bread, terrific Danishes. If you want to impress your family or friends with a terrific desert, try the cannoli or cheesecake. Not open on Sundays. Their wedding cakes have a terrific reputation.

Nick's Patio

1710 North Ironwood Drive

574-277-7400

A favorite late-night spot for many ND students, Nick's really does serve breakfast 24 hours a day. When you can stomach eggs & cheese after dancing the night away at Heartland, you'll know you have the stamina of a Domer.

The Original Pancake House (Bibler's)

1801 South Bend Avenue, South Bend

574-277-4440

Did you know that Studebakers were once manufactured in South Bend?

COFFEEHOUSES

Barnes & Noble Café

LaSalle Grill

Tippecanoe Place

620 West Washington, South Bend

574-234-9077

The old Studebaker Mansion provides great atmosphere. You can choose to eat in the library, the parlor, or any number of individual rooms. Prices are fairly high, but the food is wonderful – try the highly recommended Sunday brunch for an exceptional value.

The Vine

103 West Colfax, South Bend

574-234-9463

A newer restaurant, located under the Palais Royale in downtown South Bend. Expanded menu, separate bar. Good food, especially the bruscetta. Named for its specialty wine bar.

Yesterday's Food and Spirits

12594 State Road 23, Granger, IN

574-272-7017

You may want to save this for when the parents are visiting, or when you're planning an important romantic event, because it's fairly expensive. However, it's beautiful, and worth every penny. Be sure to get reservations first, though: they often fill up in advance. Make sure to get dessert.

It's a simple enough system once you figure it out, but on your first visit it might seem a little confusing. Once you've mastered the pizza system, come back for the Beef Bar—made-to-order burgers and other variations. The Mishawaka branch makes the best pizza in town.

Movies

WHERE TO FIND THE SILVER SCREEN

The law library has a collection of law-themed movies which you can check out, both VHS and DVD, and South Bend has all the usual suspects in movie rental places (Blockbuster, Hollywood Video, Family Video). But sometimes you'll really want to get away from the real world. Where better than at the movies? Here's a sampling of some of the nearby theaters.

Bowling

YOU DON'T WANT TO BE THE ONLY LAW STUDENT WHO CAN'T BOWL

Each spring semester, the Student Bar Association organizes the law school bowling league. The league typically runs from January until mid-April when we enter the final stretch of the semester and finals. There are as many teams as there are lanes, and teams usually have 5 to 10 members; team names often have a legal flavor to them. Scores are based on the top five scores in the same game by any five members of your team. At least 100 law students (and most of the time, many more) participate during these busy weeks. The scores range from people who score less than 25 to those who own their own bowling balls (one lights up as it speeds down the lane) and regularly make 200. It's really less about bowling and more about having a little fun with your classmates. Of course, there is some friendly competition; after all, we are law students. The following list of bowling alleys is nowhere near all-inclusive, but these are the most familiar haunts for most law students.

Beacon Bowl

4210 Lincoln Way West, South Bend

574-234-4176

Beacon Bowl is a 10-15 minute drive from campus. On Thursday nights, Beacon Bowl has College Night All-You-Can-Bowl. They also have Rock-n-Bowl (black lights & '80's rock) night after 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Chippewa Bowl

225 West Chippewa Avenue, South Bend

574-291-5093

Chippewa Bowl is about ten minutes south of campus, across the street from the Showplace 16 Theater. Rock-n-Bowl Fridays from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m. Chippewa Bowl has daily specials that frequently change, so be sure to call ahead and see what great deal you can get.

Strikes and Spares

5419 North Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-243-2695

This is the area's newest bowling alley and is conveniently located on Grape Road, along with everything else. It's a little smaller than other places, but smoke-free, which is a major plus.

Area Attractions

WHERE TO TAKE/SEND YOUR VISITING RELATIVES
WHEN THEY ARE DRIVING YOU CRAZY

Although Indiana is the “Crossroads of America” (as Professor Rick Garnett would say, the place you go when you’re trying to get somewhere else), the Michiana area, as it’s commonly called does have many things to do. Sure, there aren’t any amusement parks, but there are dozens of wineries in Michigan, two nuclear power plants (surprisingly fun to tour), museums in South Bend, parks, bike trails, rivers and of course, beautiful Lake Michigan with its countless nearby beaches. Picturesque towns and antique shopping centers abound. If you can’t find something to do, you’re just not looking hard enough.

College Football Hall of Fame

111 South St. Joseph Street, South Bend

574-235-9999

www.collegefootball.org

Located in downtown South Bend, the Hall of Fame is home to the second most recognizable football field in South Bend. Odds are, if it exists, you can find it here, though you may end up paying a few extra pennies for it.

Other specialty stores include: Banana Republic, Gap, Burberry, Benetton 012, Louis Vuitton, Giorgio Armani, Gucci, Ralph Lauren, Boss Hugo Boss, and Coach. For a full listing of stores, locations, hours, as well as nearby hotels and other attractions see the Magnificent Mile website.

Road Trips

GETTING OUT OF SOUTH BEND

Do you have the time?

Actually, we're not asking if you have the time to leave the Bend for a break – we know you'll want/need to eventually – but rather we're trying to help make sure you get there in good time. The state of Indiana has long been an island unto its own with respect to the time it keeps. And as of this writing, it's anyone's guess as to exactly what time it will be in South Bend, as compared to the most likely road trip destinations.

Ever since Daylight Savings Time was instituted thirty-some years ago, Indiana was one of three states that, for the most part, refused to participate.<sup>6</sup> In other words, most of Indiana—including Notre Dame and South Bend—never participated in the semiannual “spring ahead, fall back” routine familiar to the rest of the country. In January, 2006, the state legislature finally passed a bill moving Indiana to EST effective in April of 2006. If you want to compare the time in South Bend to your time, please review this web site: <http://www.timeanddate.com/worldclock/city.html?n=892>

CHICAGO

You may want to get away from South Bend every once in a while. Fortunately, the Windy City is less than two hours away and offers more to do than you can imagine.

GETTING THERE

It's really easy to get to Chicago. If you're driving, just hop on the toll-road (80/90) and take it west. You can either stay on 90 which takes you over the Skyway and into the city from the south side (great if you want to go to a White Sox game), or you can get off and take Lake Shore Drive. This provides one of the most scenic views around and leaves you minutes from downtown. Also, if you don't feel like driving, the South Shore train leaves from the South Bend airport and can take you right into downtown. It's about ten bucks each way, less on the weekends. See www.nictd.com for schedules and rates.

SHOPPING & DINING

In a city of three million people, there are more places to shop and eat than you can imagine. One of the places you will probably want to check out is the stretch of Michigan Avenue known as the Magnificent Mile (check www.themagnificentmile.com for more info). Aside from shops and restaurants, the Mile also is home to great architecture. In addition, while you're there, don't forget to stop at Water Tower Place, 835 North Michigan, 312-440-3166. Inside the building is an eight-story mall with over 100 shops and dozens of places to eat.

<sup>6</sup> The other two are Arizona and Hawaii

Another place to check out is State Street. The best time to do this is around Christmas. I know that you will have finals looming over your head, but it's hard to beat the beauty at this time of year. There's a chill in the air, the trees lining the street are all decorated and lit, and don't forget to see the windows at Marshall Field's (now owned by Macy's, so the name might change) at 111 North State. People come from all over just to see how they have decorated them for the season. Don't forget that you can shop there too (usually after you've secured a summer job).

If you make your trip while it's still warm outside, check out the beaches. North Avenue beach will probably be the most popular choice and the busiest. Afterwards, try visiting Navy Pier (just look for the 150-foot high Ferris wheel . . . it's kind of hard to miss). They have all kinds of shops and restaurants, an IMAX theatre, and on certain nights they have fireworks shows. Call 800-595-PIER for more info.

These are just a few of the things you can do in Chicago. For more choices as far as restaurants, bars, nightclubs, and more, try www.chicago.citysearch.com. Or, you can ask another law student. It seems like a lot of them are from the Chicago area anyway.

SPORTING EVENTS

Chicago is a sports town; that's all you really need to say. There are the Bears and the Bulls – and the Blackhawks, the Cubs and the White Sox. While you may not be a fan of any Chicago teams, you can still go and see your favorite teams play against them. And by watching the fans go after, then lose, then regain a home-run ball hit into the stands, you will be ready to talk about wild animals in Property (trust me, it will make sense come spring semester).

Cubs games in the summer and fall are good times. Even if the Cubbies are losing, Wrigley Field will still be full. If you're going for the game, anywhere is a good seat but if you're going for atmosphere, try getting bleacher seats. Be warned though – bleacher seats are the most popular and tend to sell out the fastest.

MUSEUMS AND OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Yes, Chicago has a cultural side too. If you've got the time, check out the "Museum Campus" on the lakeshore. The Museum of Science and Industry, 773-684-1414, the Field Museum 312-922-9410 (look for the really big dinosaur skeleton), the Shedd Aquarium, 312-939-2426, and the Adler Planetarium, 312-922-STAR, are all located next to each other. And if you're into art, the Art Institute, 111 South Michigan, 312-443-3600, with its famous bronze lions guarding the steps, is a must.

Other areas of interest include the Civic Opera House (home to the Lyric Opera), the Second City comedy club (which has come to campus on occasion), the Steppenwolf Theater Company, the Auditorium Theatre, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and Brookfield or Lincoln Park Zoos (the Nation's oldest free zoo).

IN CLOSING

Chicago offers a wealth of experiences if you're looking for a weekend of fun, or just a day away from the books. The list above is by no means all-inclusive . . . in fact, it only covers part of the city and doesn't even begin to discuss what the suburbs have to offer. Remember that your purpose in getting away is to have fun, so don't try and do too much in one day. Besides, that just means that you'll have to make another trip later which is just another day of not having to worry about work.

INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Indiana's capital and largest city, is located about three hours south of South Bend. Although Indianapolis does not have as many attractions and sights as Chicago, it's definitely worth making at least one visit there during your law school career.

GETTING THERE

There's really only one way to get from South Bend to Indianapolis – by car. Just follow U.S. 31 south for about 130 miles. Once you get to Indianapolis, U.S. 31 becomes Meridian Street, which will take you into downtown. With the exception of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and the airport, just about anything of interest in the city is either in the downtown area or on the city's north side.

SHOPPING & DINING

Indianapolis has six major shopping malls that are located throughout the city. The two best known malls are Circle Centre Mall (located downtown, see Shopping for more information) and The Fashion Mall at Keystone at the Crossing (located on the north side near the intersection of 86th Street and Keystone Avenue). The north side neighborhood of Broad Ripple (located near the intersection of Westfield Boulevard and College Avenue) is home to some of Indianapolis' best ethnic restaurants, including several French, Greek, and Indian establishments. Broad Ripple also has several nice shops and nightclubs. The Jazz Kitchen (5377 North College Avenue) is Indianapolis's premier jazz venue for local, regional and national talent. For blues, you'll want to visit The Slippery Noodle Inn (372 S Meridian Street), also Indiana's oldest bar (est. 1850). Both offer full menus in addition to some great music.

SPORTING EVENTS

Indianapolis is best known throughout the world for auto racing. Three of the biggest races in the world take place at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway (located near the corner of 16th Street and Georgetown Road on the city's west side) – the Indianapolis 500 (IRL race in late May), the Brickyard 400 (NASCAR race in early August), and the U.S. Grand Prix (Formula One race in mid-September). Although each race draws hundreds of thousands of spectators, getting tickets to any of these events should not be too difficult.

Indianapolis also has a number of major professional sports teams including the Indianapolis Colts, the Indiana Pacers (NBA) and the Indiana Fever (WNBA). The Indianapolis Indians, the Triple-A affiliate of the Milwaukee Brewers, play ball at Victory Field in downtown Indianapolis. If you end up working in downtown Indy for the summer, be sure to take advantage of at least one of the Indians' day games – Victory Field is incredible and has been recognized as the Best Minor League Ballpark in America by Sports Illustrated. Victory Field, the RCA Dome (home of the Colts) and the Conseco Fieldhouse (home of both the Pacers and the Fever) are literally within walking distance of each other. Indianapolis is also known as the amateur sports capital of the world, hosting numerous college and amateur championship events, including the NCAA Men's Final Four in 1997 and 2000.

MUSEUMS AND OTHER ATTRACTIONS

The Indianapolis Children's Museum (located at the corner of North Meridian and 30th Street) is the largest children's museum in the world. Besides numerous hands-on and regular exhibits, the museum also has an IMAX theater. There are several attractions in White River State Park (on West Washington Street, just west of the Statehouse), including the NCAA Hall of Champions, the Eiteljorg Museum (collection of Native American paintings and artifacts), and the Indianapolis Zoo. Our Hoosier editor also notes the Soldiers and Sailors Monument in the Circle was the first in the country to honor the common soldier, and that the Statehouse is magnificent.

MICHIGAN CITY

Michigan City, Indiana, is home to both Indiana's maximum security correctional facility and the Lighthouse Place Premium Outlet Center. We recommend visiting the latter. Lighthouse has a terrific variety of outlets spread out in a pedestrian mall.

GETTING THERE

There are several variations on this route to the outlet stores, but this is the easiest way to get there. Take I-80/90 west to Michigan City (exit 39). Drive north on US 421/ Franklin Street for nine miles to Sixth Street, which will take you through downtown Michigan City. Turn left on Sixth Street and go about two blocks to the Outlet Center. It takes about an hour to drive to Michigan City from South Bend. You can also take the South Shore Line from the South Bend Airport. The train stops at 11th Street, which is six blocks south of the Outlets. A shuttle meets selected trains.

SHOPPING

There are more than 120 outlets at Lighthouse (see Shopping). Law students have been known to get incredible deals on suits for interviews from Brooks Brothers and Hart Schaffner & Marx. There are also numerous house wares outlets with much better prices than you can find in South Bend. If you have a long list of basic things you need to furnish your apartment in South Bend, a trip to Michigan City may be worthwhile.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Uhm, did we mention the maximum security prison? (Actually, the Coalition to Abolish the Death Penalty has sponsored trips to the prison at Michigan City, as it is the home of Indiana's Death Row.)

Summer in South Bend

IT'S NOT ALWAYS COLD HERE. REALLY.

Between local law firms and research positions, quite a few law students will find themselves staying in South Bend for the summer. For those transplants to South Bend, don't despair. There is actually quite a bit going on in the area during the summer. Below are some of my favorites. The Student Bar Association usually organizes a list of students who will be residing in any given city, including South Bend, so you can meet up with your peers and go explore.

Silver Hawks Minor League Baseball Team

www.silverhawks.com

574-235-9988

Races begin at the College Football Hall of Fame and historically finish on the 50-yard line of the Notre Dame Stadium. The event takes place the first week of June.

East Race Waterway

www.sbpark.org/parks/erace.htm

574-299-4765

The East Race Waterway is a 1500+ foot long artificial whitewater course operated by the South Bend Parks and Recreation Department. The Waterway routinely hosts national and world-class whitewater slalom races but is also open to the public on summer weekends. Rental inflatable kayaks and rafts are available beginning at the price of merely $2/person/ride. If you rent your vessel from the park district, they will also supply personal flotation devices, helmets and paddles. A rescue team is on duty along the course during public operation hours.

Public Swimming Pools

www.sjcparks.org

574-277-4828

South Bend can get quite sticky in the summer, but fortunately many area parks have public swimming pools. The most impressive is the Olympic-size wave pool in Mishawaka's Merryfield Park.

Firefly Festival

www.fireflyfestival.com

574-288-3472

The Firefly Festival for the Performing Arts is a summer series of events taking place on weekend evenings from mid-June through the first weekend in August in the amphitheater setting of St. Patrick's County Park in South Bend. Series includes varied music, dance and theatre programs. Adult ticket prices depend on the program, but start at $11. Past artists have included Ray Charles, Johnny Cash, the National Shakespeare Company, The Temptations, Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra with Wynton Marsalis, Tom Jones, Isaac Hayes, Kathy Mattea, Bobby McFerrin, The Oak Ridge Boys, Lou Rawls and many more. However, there is some talk of shutting down this festival, so you'll have to check next year.

Local Wine Tasting

www.michiganwines.com

Michigan is home to a large number of vineyards, many within 20 to 30 minutes of South Bend. See the website above for a list of wineries. You can also access summer hours, tasting room information and a tour map. Some of the wineries even host special events – the Round Barn Winery, for example, has classes on the art of winemaking and summer jazz concerts.

South Bend Farmer's Market

South Bend hosts a farmer's market that is open year round but is clearly best in the summer months. You will find vendors selling fresh produce, meats, flowers, antiques and other handicraft items. In the center of the market, there is also a great restaurant that features menu items made from the fresh ingredients – found right there at the market. During the summer, the farmer's market is open on Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. Get there early to get the best selection.

U-Pick Fruit Markets

www.swmichigan.org

Southwestern Michigan grows a wide array of farm-fresh fruits and vegetables every year. Michigan is well known for its cherries and blueberries but is also among the state leaders for apples, plums, sweet cherries, asparagus, grapes, snap green beans, pears, strawberries, sweet corn, cauliflower, peaches and cucumbers. The area boasts over 60 roadside markets and pick-your-own farms. You can research farms and what is in season in advance, or simply drive up I-94 and look for signs. If you'd rather have Indiana produce (or if for some reason you can't leave the state), visit www.in.gov/oca/other/markets.html for a comparable list of Indiana u-picks and agri-tourism.

Drive-in Movies

www.driveinmovie.com

574-936-7936

Indiana has over 20 drive-in movie theatres in operation. The nearest is Tri-Way Drive-in in Plymouth. The site boasts three screens and a double feature every night, except on the Memorial Day and Labor Day weekends when they run pictures from dusk to dawn. Their season runs from April through September. Tri-Way Drive-In is located at 4400 North Michigan Road in Plymouth, Indiana.

Vickers Theater

269-756-3522

A turn-of-the-century film house located about 40 minutes away. The theater focuses on independent films but has offered other art forms including live theater, music ranging from folk to punk, as well as performance art and poetry readings. The Vickers Theater's Outdoor Film Event (Sounds of Silents Film Festival) in August is well-respected among theater patrons.

College Football Hall of Fame Enshrinement Festival

574-235-9999

Held in August each year, the Enshrinement Festival is an opportunity to rub shoulders with college football legends. Events include acceptance speeches, a Youth Football Clinic, a Celebrity Flag Football Game and a party with fans on the Gridiron Plaza.

Fridays By The Fountain

www.morriscenter.org

574-235-9198

Every other Friday, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. throughout the summer, the Morris Performing Arts Center located in downtown South Bend sponsors an outdoor fair on their front lawn. Community members who work downtown come out during their lunch hour to enjoy live music, contests and tastes from local eateries.

You should also check out the Morris's website for its calendar of summer events. Tickets can be a little pricey on a student budget but the Center does attract well-known performers like Lynyrd Skynyrd and Jewel. The Morris is also the home of the Broadway Theatre League, the South Bend Symphony Orchestra and the Southold Dance Theater.

"Meet Me On The Island"

"Meet Me On The Island" is a summer concert series sponsored by WVPE (local NPR station) at the Century Center Convention Complex downtown. Listen for the many radio spots in advance of events.

Summer Festivals

Most of the towns in the area host a summer festival each year. South Bend and Mishawaka usually hold their events in June. You can hit up South Bend's Summer in the City Festival in a couple of hours. Mishawaka's Summerfest is a more elaborate festival encompassing three days of special events including a fireworks display, a movie in the park, live concerts and more. Everything but the carnival games are free. Be sure to check out the whole schedule and come and go throughout the weekend. And, don't forget the numerous smaller towns in the region which also like to celebrate summer in style.

Throughout the summer the parks department sponsors classes and programs at the parks like the Leeper Park Art Fair. Information is available on the website above. The parks department also publishes spring and summer activity guides.

Airlines & Airports

HOW TO GET IN & OUT OF SOUTH BEND

South Bend Regional Airport

www.sbnair.com

The closest airport to campus is the South Bend Regional Airport, located about 10 minutes away. Unfortunately there are only a limited number of destinations accessible through South Bend, so it is likely that you will have to transfer to get to where you want to be. The flight to Chicago is ridiculously short, but even so, it's nicer than having to pay to park at O'Hare. Don't worry – flying around the country for call-back interviews during your second year is no problem because law firms will fly you right out of South Bend.

South Bend Regional Airport is located on the northwest side of town on Lincolnway West. There is plenty of parking at the airport available at a reasonable price. Taxi fare between campus and the airport is about $14. Unfortunately, airfares out of South Bend are often much more expensive than at surrounding airports.

O'Hare and Midway

www.ohare.com/ohare/home.asp

Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest airport, is only a two-hour drive from Notre Dame. O'Hare offers non-stop flights to destinations throughout the world as well as airfares that are usually cheaper than South Bend Regional. Midway Airport, located on Chicago's southwest side, is only 1.5 hours from South Bend. Most of the major airlines also have limited service out of Midway.

Most Notre Dame students who fly out of O'Hare and Midway use the United Limo/Coach USA bus service (www.coachusa.com or www.busville.com) to travel from campus to the airports. The United Limo picks up passengers near the Hammes Bookstore on campus as well as at the South Bend Regional Airport. The bus fare is $33 each way or $57 round-trip. The bus ride takes about three hours.

Indianapolis International

www.indianapolisairport.com

Indianapolis International Airport, located on the southwest side of Indianapolis, is about a three-hour drive from the Notre Dame campus. Indianapolis is the only major Midwestern airport that is not a hub of any major airline. As a result, there are fewer flights to fewer destinations (although you can access just about any major city in the East, South, and Midwest). Because the Indianapolis market is not dominated by a single airline, airfares out of Indianapolis are some of the cheapest in the Midwest.

The problem is that the only way to get there is to drive. There is plenty of parking at the airport available at a reasonable price. A few South Bend taxicab companies will take passengers from South Bend to the Indianapolis airport, but their fares are exorbitant.

Buses & Trains

MORE WAYS TO GET IN & OUT OF SOUTH BEND

Amtrak

www.amtrak.com

The South Bend Amtrak station is located west of Downtown at 2702 West Washington Avenue. While the station is almost impossible to find (and a little bit scary), law students who use the trains have been happy with the convenience and price. If you find someone to drive you, the Amtrak station in Niles is a good deal nicer (and was in the movie Planes, Trains and Automobiles). Check the website for current routes and prices.

South Shore Railroad

www.nictd.com

The South Shore Railroad is a commuter rail line that connects South Bend with Downtown Chicago. The South Shore departs from the South Bend Regional Airport and makes numerous stops throughout Northwestern Indiana en route to Chicago. Schedule and fare information is available on their website. Depending on where you want to go in Chicago, the one-way fare is between $7 to $9 and the trip will take about two hours. Weekend and holiday trains are less frequent than weekdays.

Greyhound Bus

www.greyhound.com

Greyhound has several buses each day from South Bend to various destinations, including: Chicago, Toledo, Kalamazoo, Fort Wayne, and Indianapolis. Greyhound buses depart from South Bend Regional Airport

Bikes

GETTING AROUND CAMPUS & AREA TRAILS

Notre Dame has a fairly large campus with student parking at the edges. Many students take advantage of the bike racks at the law school and ride in either from home or from the parking lot. Dwight King, one of the research librarians, can often be seen in his bicycle helmet, walking into the law school in all kinds of weather.

If you decide to take a bike to the law school, remember to bring a U-lock. Bike theft is the most-reported campus crime: the local crooks will even take rusty, beat-up bikes. Campus Security offers free bicycle registration, online at www.nd.edu/~dnemeth/bike/bikereg.html. They also offer a "lock-up" for bike storage during the winter months, at the Stadium. And, every fall there is a used bike auction where you can pick up one of the bikes which have remained unclaimed from the winter lock-up as well as any bikes that Security has "liberated" from bike racks around campus after the students have gone home for break.

BIKE SHOPS

Any of these shops should have relatively current trail information.

Pro-form

2202 South Bend Ave.

574-272-0129

The closest bike shop to campus, at Ironwood and State Route 23. A nice high-end shop. The staff at Pro-form is probably the most knowledgeable in the area regarding road cycling. If you're a strong cyclist and are looking for a group ride of 40+ miles at 22-23 m.p.h., be at Pro-form at 5:30 on Thursdays. Only go if you've been training, the ride has a race-like intensity.

Albright's Cycling and Fitness

2720 Lincolnway West, Mishawaka

574-255-8988

About fifteen minutes from campus by car. Less expensive than Pro-From and still a good shop.

Outpost Sports

3602 North Grape Road, Mishawaka

574-259-1000

Has some mountain biking equipment.

MOUNTAIN BIKING & TRAILS

The local trail in South Bend is in Rum Village Park and consists of about four miles of winding single track created by mountain bikers with the blessing of the City. Difficulty depends on how fast you ride – some narrow stretches and tight corners make this a fun diversion, especially since it is only a fifteen-minute bike ride or five-minute drive from campus. To get there head south on US 31 (Michigan Ave) and turn right a mile or so past downtown on Ewing. There is a sign on this corner pointing to Rum Village Park and Nature Center. The trails in the main part of the park are off limits to bikes, so go past the park and turn left on Gertrude. The entry to the ride area is on your right a few hundred yards up. The City is pretty serious about controlling erosion in the area, so if the sign says it's closed, as it frequently is in wet weather, don't ride. If you get caught, you risk confiscation of your bike, and telling the cop you are a law student isn't likely to help your cause. Rum Village Park is also home to the local Frisbee golf course.

If you have time to get away for a few hours there are more riding options. Southern Michigan has a few rides, though you'll probably notice the topography is still pretty flat. T.K. Lawless County Park in Cass County is about an hour away and has a little over ten miles of trails for mountain biking. To get there, take US 33 north towards Niles, and turn east on MI 60. Shortly after Vandalia turn right on Lewis Lake Road and then east on Monkey Run Street. There is a sign for the park on M60. Parking costs a couple of bucks. If you find out why they call it Monkey Run Street let us know.

If you are not looking for single track there are a couple of good trails for family cycling in the area, including a Rails to Trails path that runs from Kalamazoo to South Haven in Southwestern Michigan, and a bicycle trail at Potato Creek State Park. There is also a trail running from Holland, Michigan up the coast of Lake Michigan to Grand Haven (about 23 miles).

ROAD BIKING

If you're into riding on the road, and have a road bike, get in touch with the ND Cycling Club. The club's website is www.nd.edu/~bike and their email address is bike@nd.edu. The website may not show it, but this is a committed group of cyclists. That said, the group is relaxed and friendly and eagerly welcomes newcomers. The club leads group rides of about 30 miles, six days a week in the fall. The rides include riders of mixed abilities, and vary from 15-22 m.p.h. The club's main focus is racing in the spring. The club races in the Midwest Collegiate Cycling Conference, which includes schools such as Michigan, Purdue, Michigan State, Illinois, and Indiana. Club members race 6-8 weekends during the spring at different schools throughout the region, all on the University's AMEX. The races are divided by ability level, so rookie racers can also get a taste of the action.
