"The first of the qualities [which a lawyer should possess is] ... utter fidelity to the cause of a client, with no thought of popularity to be won in his defense, no thought of unpopularity to be incurred by the assumption of his case. When old Malesherbes came voluntarily from his serene and safe retirement to defend Louis XVI before the Revolutionary Convention in Paris, he lost his case, as it was predetermined that he should, Louis lost his head, and a few months later the venerable head of Malesherbes followed that of his King into the bloody basket. But generations of lawyers since have worshipped his memory as Christians worship the martyred Stephen. When John Adams came to the defense of Captain Preston and his British soldiers after the so-called Massacre in Boston's King Street, with all of Boston clamoring at his door; when Andrew Hamilton came from Philadelphia to New York to the defense of John Peter Zenger and struck that great blow for the freedom of the press in America, they but did what every lawyer should rejoice to do if a like summons came to him."

Notre Dame Law School

The Notre Dame Law School, established in 1869, is the oldest Catholic law school in the United States. In keeping with its character as a national law school, the program of instruction is designed to equip a student to practice law in any jurisdiction; and the School numbers among its graduates members of the bar in every State of the Union. It is approved by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Purpose

Drawing inspiration, as it does, from the Christian tradition, The Law School, while aiming first of all at technical proficiency, aims at more than that. Its primary purpose is to impart the knowledge and cultivate the skills a lawyer needs to represent his clients effectively in a twentieth-century, workaday world. But professional competence is not enough: The Law School believes that lawyers and law schools must face the great questions concerning the nature of man and of society, the origin and purpose of law and the lawyer's role in society. These questions are given searching examination throughout the curriculum, particularly in a course on the Lawyer's Professional Responsibility in the first year, a Natural Law course in the second year and a course on Jurisprudence in the third year. Thus the School systematically endeavors to illuminate the great jurisprudential issues which, especially in this fateful age, insistently press for answer; and to make clear the ethical principles and inculcate the ideals which should actuate a lawyer. The School believes that a lawyer is best served, and the community as well, if he possesses not only legal knowledge and legal skills but also a profound sense of the ethics of his profession—and something else which the curriculum is likewise designed to cultivate: pride in the legal profession and a fierce partisanship for justice.

In short, the aim is to graduate men competent to prac-

Methods of Instruction

Professional competence in the law comprises two elements, knowledge and skills. Hence The Law School is concerned not only with imparting knowledge but also with cultivating skills. What are the skills a lawyer needs? They are many and varied, but the basic skills essential to professional competence are three in number. First of all, a lawyer must be able to diagnose a situation; he needs the ability to penetrate to the core of a problem. Next, he must be able to “find the law,” that is, he must be able to locate facility materials relevant to his problem and he must have the know-how to use those materials to advantage in his client’s cause. Finally, he must be able to express himself clearly, accurately and persuasively.

The first of these basic legal skills, skill in diagnosis, is developed by intensive training in analysis through rigorous use of the case method in the first year. The primary purpose is to sharpen the critical faculties of the student and, at the same time, to develop his creative abilities by keeping constantly before him this question: If you had been counsel in the case, how would you have presented it?

The remainder of the basic legal skills can best be cultivated by actual practice of the arts involved. Beginning with the second year, therefore, emphasis is shifted from the case method to the problem method, whereby students learn law by using it in working out specific legal problems. This gives the student intimate familiarity with the library and provides intensive training in the interpretation, adaptation and creative utilization of the materials he finds there.

The School is committed to small classes in order to facilitate participation by every student in the discussion at every meeting of every class.

Formal instruction is supplemented by lectures and panel discussions by eminent judges, practicing lawyers and legal scholars.

The Writing Program

In view of the urgent importance to the lawyer of ability to communicate effectively, the Notre Dame Law School has installed a writing program whose aim is to give students instruction and practice in the art of expressing themselves clearly, accurately and persuasively.

The writing program extends over the three years of law study. In the first semester of the first year, as part of the work in the Introduction to Law course, the student is required to prepare a memorandum of law upon an assigned problem of current legal interest. It is assumed that the memorandum will be filed with a judge of the highest court of the State in which the student lives or intends to practice. The student is expected to deal fully not only with the decisions and statutes in that State but with the decisions in other States as well and also with the Restatements, uniform laws (such as the Uniform Commercial Code), law review articles and other relevant materials. The typical memorandum runs to 20-25 pages. During the Christmas holiday, the instructor reads all of the memoranda, making copious marginal notes. The memoranda are then returned and, at a later meeting of the class, the more frequent faults are pointed out. In the second semester students are required to brief and argue an appellate moot-court case. Briefs are graded and criticized by members of the Faculty.

At the beginning of the second year, when the emphasis shifts from the case method to the problem method, the class is divided into groups of seminar size and each group is placed under the direction of a member of the Faculty who teaches a second-year course. A research problem is assigned to each student and at scheduled intervals the student meets with his faculty director to discuss the progress of the research. A tentative draft of a paper dealing with the problem is submitted and criticized, followed by submission of the final draft. In the second semester of the second year each student is required to submit three research papers, each under the direction of a different member of the Faculty. The four papers form the basis for a single grade awarded at the end of the second year.

Each third-year student is required to submit a major research paper to qualify as a candidate for a degree. The student may select any project of interest to him, subject to the approval of the member of the Faculty under whose direction he intends to work.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATIONS

As an aid to learning, the School has designed a system of comprehensive examinations. At the end of each semester students are examined not only on the work of the semester just concluded but on the work of preceding semesters as well; and the questions cut across various fields of law as do questions with which practicing lawyers have to wrestle. Except in the first year, each comprehensive examination covers the work of at least three semesters.

This system of examinations requires of the student consistent study. But the consistent study, and the systematic and continuous review which these examinations necessitate, reward the student with the kind of legal knowledge it is important to have—knowledge that is retained and kept current and so is always on call. Moreover, the interlocking system of comprehensive examinations and systematic and continuous review brings subjects already covered into juxtaposition with those currently under study and thus facilitates and deepens the student's understanding by helping him to see the law as an organic whole rather than as a succession of separate courses.

FACULTY-STUDENT RELATIONSHIP

One of the hallmarks of the Notre Dame Law School is the close liaison between faculty and students. Members of the Faculty are always accessible and devote to private conferences with students many more hours than they spend in the classroom.

EX-SERVICEMEN

The Law School welcomes ex-servicemen. Many of them are confronted by problems which ordinarily do not concern a law student. The School makes every possible effort to be helpful to them.

LAW BUILDING AND LIBRARY

The Law School occupies a handsome three-story structure of collegiate Gothic design at the entrance to the campus. This building, 157 feet long and 104 feet wide, has an assembly hall, classrooms, offices for the faculty and administrative staff, the Notre Dame Lawyer, the Moot Court and the Student Law Association, and a comfortable student lounge. In addition, it houses the Law Library, which includes a reading room 50 feet wide and 100 feet long, done in Tudor Gothic.

PLACEMENT

The Law School recognizes a responsibility to assist its students in finding suitable employment upon graduation. To that end a placement service is operated as one of the functions of the Dean's office. Contacts are maintained with lawyers and law firms throughout the country and with corporate and government legal offices, and qualified applicants are put in touch with prospective employers. While the School obviously cannot guarantee employment, it does make every effort to assist in locating employment opportunities.

NOTRE DAME LAWYER

The Notre Dame Lawyer, founded in 1925, is published five times a year by the students of The Law School. It affords an invaluable opportunity for training in precise analysis of legal problems and in clear and cogent presentation of legal issues. The Lawyer contains articles and book reviews by eminent members of the legal profession as well as comments and notes by the Editorial Staff. The Lawyer is entirely student-edited and its significance as an integral and important part of the School's instructional program derives in large measure from this fact.

Members of the Editorial Staff are selected from second- and third-year students on the basis of academic standing, and appointment to the Staff is recognized as a distinct honor.

The officers of the Lawyer are selected from senior members of the Editorial Staff on the basis of their scholastic, literary and leadership achievements. For the academic year 1963-64 the officers are:

- Editor, Charles J. O'Malley of Massachusetts
- Articles Editor, James P. Mercurio of Missouri
- Case Editor, Lawrence J. Gallick of New York
- Note Editor, Charles P. Sacher of Florida
- Research Editor, Eugene L. Kramer of Ohio
- Managing Editor, Franklyn A. Morse of Indiana
- Survey Editor, J. Russell Bley of Missouri
- Book Editor, Harlan P. Weir of North Dakota

MOOT COURT

The Moot Court, like the Notre Dame Lawyer, is conducted by the students themselves. First-year students are required to brief and argue at least one appellate case. Second-year students are eligible for the annual Moot Court Competition. Cases are briefed and argued before the imaginary Supreme Court of Hoynes, so called in honor of Col. William James Hoynes, Dean of the School from 1883 to 1918. During the preliminary rounds the Supreme Court of Hoynes consists of a practicing lawyer, a faculty member and a third-year student. Four second-year students act as counsel in each case.

For the final argument of the annual competition the court is composed of eminent judges of federal or state courts. The two winners receive the A. Harold Weber Awards, provided annually by Mr. A. Harold Weber, '22, of South Bend, a member of the Law Advisory Council. Quite apart from these awards, participation in the final argument is a coveted distinction.

The final argument in the 1962-63 competition was held on Saturday evening, November 30, 1963. The court which sat on that occasion was composed of:

- Honorable Elbert Parr Tuttle of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit
- Honorable Richard T. Rives of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit
- Honorable Jesse E. Eschbach of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana

The students who participated in the argument before this distinguished court were:

- Robert E. Frost of Ohio
- Michael B. Ryan of New York
- Michael J. Stepanek, Jr., of Indiana
- James Kay Sutherland, Jr., of Michigan

GRAY'S INN

Gray's Inn, named for one of the four major Inns of Court, was founded in 1954 by members of the Class of 1957. It has as its immediate purpose the discussion of the legal implications of current social, economic and cultural topics. At its monthly meetings, conducted off-campus in an informal atmosphere, the members of the Inn are given an opportunity to hear civic and business leaders and public officials as well as scholars present an analysis of contemporary problems. These speakers are then subjected to vigorous questioning by the members and a general discussion ensues. By this method the Inn hopes to make its members aware of the social responsibilities of the legal profession. All students are eligible for membership.

Officers of Gray's Inn for the academic year 1963-64 are:

Treasurer, Charles R. Macfarlane, Jr., of Texas
Vice-Treasurer, Robert C. Findlay of Washington, D.C.
Master of Revels, Joseph E. McDonald of Kentucky

GRAY'S INN

Gray's Inn, named for one of the four major Inns of Court, was founded in 1954 by members of the Class of 1957. It has as its immediate purpose the discussion of the legal implications of current social, economic and cultural topics. At its monthly meetings, conducted off-campus in an informal atmosphere, the members of the Inn are given an opportunity to hear civic and business leaders and public officials as well as scholars present an analysis of contemporary problems. These speakers are then subjected to vigorous questioning by the members and a general discussion ensues. By this method the Inn hopes to make its members aware of the social responsibilities of the legal profession. All students are eligible for membership.

Officers of Gray's Inn for the academic year 1963-64 are:

Treasurer, Charles R. Macfarlane, Jr., of Texas
Vice-Treasurer, Robert C. Findlay of Washington, D.C.
Master of Revels, Joseph E. McDonald of Kentucky
Keeper of the Black Book, Steven E. Weidner of Iowa

LIVING ACCOMMODATIONS

Two floors of Fisher Hall are reserved for law students. Fisher Hall, which combines modern functional architecture with the collegiate Gothic prevailing on the campus, was dedicated November 29, 1952. It is conveniently situated on the southwestern edge of the campus overlooking the golf course. There are a few double rooms; the rest are single rooms. All rooms are well lighted and harmoniously furnished in blond oak. Each room is equipped with a desk, chest of drawers, wardrobe, bookcase, study lamp and bed with innerspring mattress. Students living in Fisher Hall take their meals in the University Dining Hall next door. For information concerning the cost of living in Fisher Hall see "Fees and Expenses" beginning on page 35.

A student who desires a room in Fisher Hall is advised to apply to the Director of Student Accounts, Notre Dame, Indiana, promptly upon approval of his application for admission to The Law School.

Desirable furnished rooms in approved private residences are available for students who cannot be accommodated in Fisher Hall or who prefer to live off-campus, and the University makes every effort to assist them in locating suitable quarters. The average weekly rate for a single room is $9-12, for a double room $7-10. This includes linen, blankets and care of room. Since the more desirable rooms are in great demand, it is recommended that off-campus students plan to arrive well in advance of registration. The facilities of the University cafeteria are available to off-campus students.

Unfurnished all-electric apartments on campus are available for married students, preference being given to those with children. The rent is $65 a month, which includes range, refrigerator and hot-water heater. The occupant must pay for all electricity consumed. The average charge for both rent and electricity, including heat, is $82 a month. The University requires a $25 deposit from each new tenant. Rental of these accommodations is handled by the Rental Agent, Box 44, University Village, Notre Dame, Indiana. As the supply of

PHYSICAL WELFARE

Every opportunity is afforded the student to engage in healthful exercise. The indoor program is centered in the Rockne Memorial, which is devoted to the physical welfare of the students and faculty of the University. In the central part of the structure is a standard swimming pool. Surrounding the pool are 12 courts for handball and squash, and rooms for boxing and wrestling. Above the pool is a large gymnasium for basketball, indoor tennis, indoor baseball, badminton and other games. In the wings flanking the central part of the building are general apparatus rooms and rooms for corrective work. Facilities for outdoor play include an 18-hole golf course, 22 tennis courts and a 27-acre play field laid out for all common games.

The Students' Infirmary, which is in charge of the Sisters of the Holy Cross, is a modern three-story building. A physician is in attendance daily, and out-patient care, and bed care when necessary, are available to all students. No charge is made for these services, except that students living off-campus pay the nominal sum of $3.50 a day for bed care. The University does not provide diagnostic tests, medication or X-rays.

Requirements for Admission and Graduation

ADMISSION

A form of application for admission will be furnished upon request addressed to the Office of the Dean, Law Building, Notre Dame, Indiana.

The following persons, if of good moral character, will be considered for admission:

1. Graduates of an approved college
2. Students who have secured the required semester hours of credit in the University's College of Arts and Letters or College of Business Administration in prescribed combination programs

Beginning students are not admitted in the spring semester.

All applicants for admission are required to take the Law School Admission Test, prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey. The Test is given four times a year at examination centers throughout the country, including The University of Notre Dame, and in some foreign countries as well. A form of application to take the Test and a Bulletin of Information concerning it can be obtained from the Office of the Dean, Law Building, Notre Dame, Indiana, or from Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey.

Applicants are admitted subject to, and while in attendance are bound by, all applicable academic, disciplinary and other regulations (and amendments thereto) of the Notre Dame Law School and The University of Notre Dame.

PRE-LAW STUDIES

There are no particular courses which must be taken by a pre-law student in order to qualify for admission to the Notre Dame Law School. The qualities it is most important for a law student to possess are not the product of any one course or combination of courses. They can be developed in any course which is well taught by an exacting teacher who

The qualities it is most important for a law student to possess are not the product of any one course or combination of courses. They can be developed in any course which is well taught by an exacting teacher who requires his students to extend themselves. In the words of Chief Justice Stone, "the emphasis should be put on the intellectual discipline which the student derives from courses and [from] particular teachers, rather than [on] the selection of particular subjects without reference to the way in which they are taught." There is only one subject that is specifically recommended: a working knowledge of accounting is so helpful in the study of law that every pre-law student is urged to take at least six hours of basic accounting.

For the rest, his college days should be devoted to the cultivation of intellectual and cultural interests and to the formation of habits of inquiry, of accuracy and of intensive study. As already indicated, any number of courses in various fields of learning, such, for example, as English, History and Mathematics, will serve this purpose, provided they are well taught by exacting teachers.

REQUIREMENTS FOR SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC STANDING

In addition to the comprehensive examination described on page 10, a written examination covering individual courses is given at the end of each semester. The passing grade in all courses, as well as on the comprehensive examinations, is 70. To continue in The Law School a student must maintain a weighted average of 74 for each semester after the first. Even though he maintains an acceptable weighted average, a student will be dismissed if he fails more than one course in any semester. To be eligible for a degree, a student must have a cumulative weighted average of 74.

Examinations are not proctored. They are written on the Honor System under which, by the very fact of entering the Notre Dame Law School, every student binds himself neither to give nor to receive aid in any examination. The Honor System is administered by the Student Law Association.

To be eligible to take the examinations a student must attend class regularly and punctually, and his classroom performance must be satisfactory.

GRADUATION

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) is conferred upon successful completion of the prescribed program of instruction, which requires not less than three academic years of law study. The degree will not be conferred upon any student who has been guilty of dishonest or dishonorable conduct.

CHANGE OF REGULATIONS

The Law School and the University reserve the right to change at any time any regulation respecting admission to the School, continuance therein and graduation therefrom.

The Program of Instruction

The program of instruction is designed to prepare a student to practice law in any State of the Union. All courses are prescribed. Special instruction is arranged for any student who must have completed certain courses, not included in the prescribed program, in order to take the bar examination in the State where he expects to practice.

In a number of courses instruction is supplemented by lectures and discussions by visiting specialists.

The Law School believes:

"The worst enemy to the law is the man who knows only its technical details and neglects its generative principles. . . . We need lawyers now, if ever, who have drunk deeper at the fountain of the law, much deeper, than the merely technical lawyer, who is only an expert in an intricate and formal business; lawyers who have explored the sources as well as tapped the streams of the law. . . ." Woodrow Wilson, Legal Education of Undergraduates, 17 American Bar Association Reports, 439, 441 (1894).

In addition to other requirements, therefore, students are expected to read each summer a number of books having a bearing on the historical background and development of Anglo-American legal institutions. An examination on these books is given in September and must be passed before the student can continue.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSES

The schedule of courses and instructors for the academic year 1964-65 appears on pages 22 and 23.

LAW 111, INTRODUCTION TO LAW—The idea back of this course is that the student's understanding and progress will be facilitated by an elementary survey, at the threshold of law study, of the nature and operation of the Anglo-American legal system. To that end the fundamental assumptions of the Common Law are spelled out and its characteristic attitudes, methods and procedures are described. One of the primary purposes of this approach is to enable the student to grasp, early in his law-school career, the reasons why he studies cases and how to do so to advantage. After this first phase of the course has been completed, the student is given practical instruction in effective methods of using the law library. Assigned readings.

LAW 113 AND 123, CONTRACTS I AND II—This course presents a comprehensive study of the creation, transfer and termination of contract rights and duties. Cases and materials pertaining to offer and acceptance, consideration, conditions and the like, traditionally included in the standard Contracts course, are augmented by studies generally covered in a course on Sales, such as the transfer of property rights in goods incidental to a sale and the warranty liability of the seller of goods. This involves, among other things, careful consideration of extensive statutory material, e.g., the Uniform Sales Act and the Uniform Commercial Code. Murphy, Contracts Casebook: Cases and Materials on the Law of Contracts and Sales (Temp. ed.).

LAW 114 AND 124, TORTS I AND II—This course is concerned with the legal rules which determine whether civil liability attaches to conduct resulting in harm to others. Intentional injuries to the person, fraud, misrepresentation, libel and slander, unfair competition, interference with contractual relationships and invasions of personal interests are considered. Particular attention is given to the rules which determine responsibility for what are commonly called accidents and to the expanding field of liability without fault. The effect of legislation upon the common law of torts is studied through the medium of wrongful death and survival statutes, statutes permitting tort actions against the state and federal governments and the federal employers' liability acts. Prosser and Smith, Cases and Materials on Torts (3rd edition).

Prosser and Smith, Cases and Materials on Torts (3rd edition).
LAW 115, CRIMINAL LAW AND PROCEDURE—This course is intended to promote understanding of criminal law as one of the means to a good society. Modern criminal law is analyzed and evaluated as a means of preventing socially undesirable behavior. Common law principles are studied along with modern statutory developments. The practical workings of criminal procedure are examined, including arrest, investigation, indictment, bail, extradition, arraignment, trial, judgment and appeal. Special attention is given to such vital constitutional problems as self-incrimination, search and seizure, coerced confessions, double jeopardy and the right to counsel. Throughout the course the actual administration of criminal law is evaluated; this is particularly true of the various types of correctional treatment. Michael and Wechsler, Criminal Law and Its Administration, mimeographed materials and assigned readings.

LAW 116, LEGISLATION—This course is aimed at giving students intensive experience in the reading and drafting of actual statutory language. The class is assumed to be a house of a State legislature, and is divided into four committees. Each committee prepares a complete bill on an assigned subject, after exhaustively researching the relevant legislation of their own State, as well as of other jurisdictions. Contending interests, each favoring a different legislative approach to the assigned subject, are represented by members of the Moot Court, whose appearance counts as one of their four second-year arguments.

LAW 117, PROFESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITY—The special obligations, services and creative possibilities of a lawyer are searchingly examined: first as advocate and counselor, second as one who designs a framework that will give form and direction to collaborative effort, and third as a public servant. The larger jurisprudential questions are raised in the context of practical and theoretical problems of legal ethics: the lawyer's duties to his client and to the court, the uses and abuses of advocacy, the demands of the adversary system and of justice. The Canons of Professional Ethics are considered in the broader framework set forth in the Report of the Joint Conference on Professional Responsibility of the American Bar Association and the Association of American Law Schools. The student is introduced to the writings and lives of some of the great men of the profession who have advanced the cause of human freedom through law. Selected readings in legal history are also used. Assigned readings.

LAW 121, AGENCY—The theory and application of the rule imposing liability on the employer for an employee's torts are first examined. Attention is then concentrated on the establishment of the principal-agent relation, the power of the agent to bind the principal to contracts with third parties, the effect of the principal's ratification of the agent's unauthorized acts and the various rights of the principal, agent and third party against each other during the existence of the agency and after its termination. Mechem, Cases on the Law of Agency (4th edition).

LAW 125, PROPERTY I—This course encompasses estates in land, conveyancing and landlord-tenant law. It is concerned primarily with common-law and statutory devices (1) promoting the alienability of land, (2) regulating claims to property made by family members against one another, and (3) reconciling and adjusting claims of suppliers and consumers of land in the three common types of land-financing relationships. Casner and Leach, Cases and Text on Property (First Standard Edition).

LAW 126, PROCEDURE I (REMEDIES)—This course is concerned with the kinds of relief which courts afford. It integrates materials which formerly were considered in separate courses on Equity, Damages and Restitution. The course begins with a survey of the remedies formerly available under the divided system of law and equity. Detailed consideration is then given to the kinds of relief available in the modern unified court—the money judgment, the equitable remedies of injunction, specific performance and constructive trust, and the declaratory judgment. Van Heeke, Cases on Equitable Remedies and assigned readings.

The course extends throughout the second year, during which four research-and-writing projects are assigned to each student. The course is required of all second-year students who are not members of the staff of the Notre Dame Lawyer and who do not participate in the second-year moot-court program.

LAW 132, PROCEDURE II (JURISDICTION, VENUE AND PROCEDURE)—This course is concerned with the courts in which relief may be sought. It treats problems of jurisdiction of the subject matter and of the person, venue and the effective reach of the process of a court. Heavy emphasis on the jurisdiction of federal courts affords a close look at some of the significant problems of federalism. Forrester and Currie, Cases on Federal Jurisdiction and Procedure; Chadbourn and Levin, Cases and Materials on Civil Procedure.

LAW 133, CONSTITUTIONAL LAW—Attention is concentrated on significant present-day problems arising under the Constitution. Conflicting views as to the principles and canons of interpretation are critically examined. The theory and practice of judicial review are investigated. Problems involving the extent of Congressional power, the co-existence of our national and state governments, the protection of civil liberties, the making of treaties and their effects, and the respective functions of the executive and the judiciary are considered. Freund, Sutherland, Howe and Brown, Constitutional Law, Cases and Other Problems (2nd edition).

LAW 134, PROPERTY II—This course first considers the chief methods of promoting the security of land titles: title recordation, title registration, title insurance and adverse possession. The remainder of the course is devoted to a consideration of private and governmental control of land use through easements, covenants and conditions; allocation of water and air space; nuisance law; zoning and subdivision control; eminent domain; and taxation and financing. Casner and Leach, Cases and Text on Property (First Standard Edition); Haar, Land-Use Planning.

LAW 135, PROCEDURE III (PLEADING AND PRACTICE)—This course is concerned with the rules of procedure which govern the conduct of civil suits. The phases of a lawsuit are followed from the commencement of an action through the taking of an appeal. Special attention is given to pleading, discovery, pre-trial conference, summary judgment, trial and appeal. The heart of the course is a study of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Significant variations from federal procedure found generally in state procedural systems are considered, and problems are assigned which are designed to familiarize the student with the procedural rules of the state in which he intends to practice. Chadbourn and Levin, Cases and Materials on Civil Procedure.

LAW 136, GOVERNMENT REGULATION OF BUSINESS—This course seeks to acquaint the student with the major regulatory agencies which affect manufacturing and distribution, with the statutes they administer and with the chief problems and pitfalls in this important area of business affairs. The role of the corporate lawyer in counselling and directing policy with respect to these matters is also examined. Assigned readings.

LAW 141, NATURAL LAW—An inquiry into the demands made on the legal system by the inherent characteristics of the human person, and the ways in which those demands have been met in Anglo-American law. Broden and Rodes, Jurisprudence—Cases and Materials on Natural Law and Legal Process (Temp. ed.).

LAW 142, BUSINESS ASSOCIATIONS—The two important forms of business association, private corporations and partnerships, are considered. The course is concerned primarily with the corporate form. Promotion, incorporation, state and federal regulations respecting the issuance of securities, powers and duties of directors, rights and remedies of shareholders, creditors' rights and dissolution are considered. The Uniform Partnership Act is considered contemporaneously with the study of private corporations to the extent necessary to make clear the differences between the two forms of organization, particularly with regard to control, liability of the LAW 143, ADMINISTRATIVE LAW—This course is intended to promote understanding of the administrative process. To this end, the functions, powers and procedures of administrative agencies are examined. The conditions of valid administrative action, and the role and scope of judicial review are likewise considered. Special attention is given to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act. Davis, Cases on Administrative Law, mimeographed materials and assigned readings.

LAW 144, LABOR LAW—By way of introduction, the English common law and statutes affecting labor disputes and their effect on early American labor law are reviewed. Factors related to the development of labor organizations and collective bargaining are explored, with particular reference to methods used to encourage and to impede unionization and to their social, political and economic consequences. A major part of the course is devoted to an analysis of the Labor-Management Relations Act and the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959. Wollett and Aaron, Labor Relations and the Law.

LAW 145, PROCEDURE IV (EVIDENCE)—The aim of this course is to develop familiarity with the techniques by which evidence of controverted facts is presented in litigation before judicial tribunals. Traditional rules are compared with the Model Code of Evidence proposed by the American Law Institute. Ladd, Cases and Materials on Evidence.

LAW 146, FAMILY LAW—This course, conducted as a seminar, is concerned with discussion of problems in the following areas: the unmarried mother, “heart balm” legislation, annulment, common-law marriage, divorce, alimony and custody of children, separation agreements, property settlements, adoption, juvenile delinquency, old age assistance and aid to dependent children, the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, and artificial insemination. The course is designed to foster an awareness, through the use of some non-legal materials, of the need for inter-professional cooperation in the solution of these problems. The course includes a series of lectures on the Canon Law of marriage, annulment and divorce. Non-Catholic students may be excused from these lectures. Harper, Problems of the Family.

LAW 152, FEDERAL TAXATION I—Legal problems involving the federal income tax which commonly arise in actual practice constitute the chief matter for study in this course. Major emphasis is placed on substantive problems involving business activities of individuals, partnerships and corporations; family problems, especially those having to do with the provisions applicable to estates and trusts; and the problems of shareholders and creditors affected by corporate reorganizations and readjustments. Questions of policy are also considered in the light of fiscal history and with a view to likely future developments. The constitutional basis for federal income taxation is examined; and the functions in tax matters of Congress, the President, the Treasury (including the Internal Revenue Service) and the courts (including the Tax Court) are explored. Practice in the use of the various relevant materials, particularly the Code, regulations, judicial decisions, department rulings and committee reports, is insisted on for the purpose of developing facility in working with these materials and an appreciation of their practical importance and relative weight. Surrey and Warren, Federal Income Taxation, Cases and Materials (1960 edition) and Surrey and Warren, Federal Taxation, Current Law and Practice.

LAW 153 AND 163, ESTATE PLANNING I AND II—This is an integration of the traditional courses in wills, trusts, future interests and fiduciary administration, in a context which permits students to see the subject matter as a means of achieving their clients’ desires in disposing of property. The subject matter includes historical development, modern methods of planning, drafting, executing and administering legal devices, and the legal limitations placed upon the use of these devices, particularly the restraints traditionally studied in courses on future interests. The course includes examination of federal and state tax consequences, and discussion and practice in using the language and organization of effective draftsmanship. LAW 155, BILLS AND NOTES—This course involves a critical study of the text of the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act in the light of decided cases, with due attention to local variations and the Uniform Commercial Code. The topics considered, in the order of their appearance in the Uniform Act, are the form of a negotiable instrument, transfer by delivery and indorsement, the equities and defenses of the parties, their respective liabilities and the discharge of a negotiable instrument. Careful study of various forms of negotiable paper in current business use is emphasized. Algier and Steinheimer, Cases on Bills and Notes.

LAW 156, PROCEDURE V (PRACTICE COURT)—Every student must participate in at least one jury trial. Each Saturday during the first semester a complete case is tried in the "Superior Court of Hoyes," which follows, in the main, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Student counsel interview parties and witnesses, and prepare and file pleadings and a trial brief. All preliminary matters are heard by Professor Barrett and, on the afternoon preceding the trial, the jury is impanelled by him. The trials are presided over by Honorable Luther M. Swygert of the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. First-year students are required to serve as jurors. Faculty members from the several colleges of the University, their wives, local business and professional men, and members of the South Bend Police Department serve as parties and witnesses. Proceedings after verdict and judgment are heard by Professor Barrett. The aim of the Practice Court is to broaden the understanding and deepen the insight of the students—not only the upper classmen who try the cases but also the first-year men who serve as jurors—and to achieve this greater understanding and insight through active participation in the resolution of controversy by jury trial—the process which is central to and characteristic of our legal system. Barrett, Practice Court Manual (Mimeo); Goldstein, Trial Technique.

LAW 158, INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND PROBLEMS—This course is designed to develop on the part of the student an awareness of the scope and character of international legal problems, and of the role the United States is called upon to play as the leader of the West in the struggle with Communist imperialism. The course, therefore, focuses on existing international organizations, the problems they were designed to meet and the problems they, in turn, have given rise to. Robertson, European Institutions; Claude, Swords into Plowshares (2d edition); and assigned readings.

LAW 161, JURISPRUDENCE—This course, in the words of Woodrow Wilson, is devoted to an examination of "the essential nature and processes of law . . . the methods by which the law has grown, the vital principles by which . . . it has been pervaded, its means of serving society and its means of guiding it." Broden and Rodes, Jurisprudence—Cases and Materials on Natural Law and Legal Process (Temp. ed.).

LAW 162, FEDERAL TAXATION II—The operation and effect of the federal estate and gift taxes are emphasized, and the constitutional basis for these taxes is examined and policy questions are explored. Attention is concentrated on the different types of property interests that are subject to the two taxes, the tax treatment of powers of appointment, the operation of the marital deduction and split-gift provisions, and the valuation of estates and gifts. Warren and Surrey, Federal Estate and Gift Taxation, Cases and Materials (1956 edition) and Surrey and Warren, Federal Taxation, Current Law and Practice.

LAW 165, SECURED TRANSACTIONS—This course is designed to give the student an understanding of the law regulating various security devices available to creditors. The first part of the course is devoted to the use of land as security and includes a study of the lien and title theories of the real estate mortgage, and of the rules pertaining to foreclosure, redemption, priority, assignment and related questions. This is followed by a study of the use of chattels and intangibles as security, including an investigation of the law concerning Hanna, Cases and Materials on Security.

LAW 166, CONFLICT OF LAWS—This course is concerned with the principles followed by the courts of a state when asked to enforce the rights or duties created by the laws of another state. The general subject of jurisdiction is considered first, including the jurisdiction of a foreign state to create rights and duties enforceable elsewhere, and the jurisdiction of the forum to entertain suits based upon such rights and duties. The balance of the course is concerned with the choice-of-law problem in the fields of Torts, Contracts, Property, Business Organizations, Domestic Relations and Decedents' and Debtors' Estates. Emphasis is placed upon the theoretical bases of the Conflict of Laws, the general principles guiding the forum in choosing the applicable law and the American constitutional limitations on the freedom of the forum in this regard. Stumberg, Cases on Conflict of Laws.

EMPLOYMENT

Part-time work is available. It must be understood, however, that the study of law is a full-time occupation; and any student who, for pressing economic reasons, must work more than a maximum of 12 hours a week, is urged to consult the Dean as to the advisability of spreading the prescribed program of instruction over more than the minimum of three academic years.

LOANS

In addition to scholarships and part-time employment, there is a loan program, designed to help those students who, but for the availability of such assistance, could not attend the Notre Dame Law School. Under this program, second- and third-year students, who are without other resources, can borrow up to $500 a semester, or a total of $2000. While the student is still in school, the interest is 2%, payable quarterly. The principal is repayable in installments, beginning one year after graduation.

Notre Dame Law Association

Upon graduation students become members of the Notre Dame Law Association, a national organization composed of members of the bar who attended Notre Dame. The Association seeks to promote the interests and increase the usefulness of the Notre Dame Law School and to foster a spirit of loyalty and fraternity among the alumni of The University of Notre Dame who are members of the legal profession. Each year the Association provides the funds for a number of tuition scholarships, and its members render invaluable aid to the School in its placement activities.

The Association meets at The Law School each June in conjunction with the University's annual reunion weekend. It holds a meeting, also, in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Bar Association.

The officers of the Notre Dame Law Association are:

Honorary President, Mr. Frederick K. Baer, South Bend, Indiana

Natural Law Institute

The Natural Law Institute, a function of the Notre Dame Law School, was organized in 1947. Five annual convocations were held under its auspices, the last one in December 1951. Thereafter a search was undertaken for a way in which the Institute could function effectively on a year-round rather than a once-a-year basis. The search eventuated in publication of the Natural Law Forum, the foremost journal of its kind in the English language. The first issue came off the press early in July, 1956; the ninth will be available about May 1, 1964.

It is the purpose of the Forum to promote a serious and scholarly investigation of natural law in all its aspects; and, to that end, it seeks to encourage the widest search for universal standards relevant to the solution of contemporary problems.

The Forum is published, under the auspices of the Natural Law Institute, by an editorial board which includes the following distinguished scholars:

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Professor John T. Noonan, Jr., Notre Dame Law School

“If anyone . . . believes he can practice law without the investment of many hours of wearisome toil and actual physical labor, without the shouldering of many heavy burdens of care, without the suffering of many bitter disappointments, and without being subjected to harsh and unfounded accusations of unfaithfulness to his trust, let him change his course now before it is too late. The practice of law does indeed offer compensations other than financial, but it should be constantly borne in mind that whoever aspires to eminence in that field must love it and live it, for none other can survive its rigors.” From an address by Honorable Floyd S. Draper, former Chief Justice of the Indiana Supreme Court, before a Special Convocation at Valparaiso University on May 6, 1954.
