On February 2, at its annual “Salute to Business” luncheon at Century Center in South Bend, the Chamber of Commerce of St. Joseph County honored two Law School alumni. Charles “Chuck” Roemer, NDLS ‘58 and a member of the South Bend law firm of Roemer & Mintz, received the W. Scott Miller Distinguished Business Leader Award. The Miller Award represents the top honor bestowed by the Chamber. Mr. Roemer was honored as founder of the Chamber’s Leadership Program, co-founder of the Community Foundation of St. Joseph County, and developer, along with his wife
Denise, of a pre-marriage counseling program for engaged couples. Mr. Roemer has also served as president of the South Bend Board of Public Safety, Chair of the Chamber of Commerce, member of the board of Project Future, and co-founder and president of the Parish Council of St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Jenny Pitts Manier, NDLS '85 and a judge in St. Joseph County Superior Court, garnered the Athena Award. That award "recognizes an individual who has opened new opportunities for women in attaining their fullest potential in their profession and in business." Before her service as general counsel for Indiana Lieutenant Governor Joseph Kernan and the Indiana Department of Commerce and for the Office of the Indiana Commissioner of Agriculture, Pitts Manier was staff attorney for the Legal Services Program of Northern Indiana; chief assistant city attorney for South Bend; a member of the Board of Public Works; and attorney for the Redevelopment Commission and the Human Rights Commission.

PROMINENT NDLS ALUM,

BILL BALL, DIES

William B. Ball, NDLS '48, died January 10 in Fort Myers, Florida, while on vacation. Bill Ball, a nationally known constitutional lawyer who championed religious freedom and practice against secular encroachment, founded the law firm of Ball, Skelly, Murren and Connell, in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, thirty years ago. He did his undergraduate work at Western Reserve University.

A prominent Roman Catholic layman and member of the Order of St. Gregory the Great, he regularly represented the interests of his church both in court and in Congress. Much of his work was done as general counsel to the Pennsylvania Catholic Conference of Bishops.

He was vice-chair of the National Committee for Amish Religious Freedom, in whose behalf he won the precedent-setting Wisconsin v. Yoder. In Yoder, the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the conviction of three Amish farmers for refusing to send their children to public school.

Mr. Ball was active in the Pennsylvania Equal Rights Council, the Christian Legal Society and the Catholic League for Religion and Civil Rights. Mr. Ball argued nine civil- rights cases before the U.S. Supreme Court and assisted in twenty-five others. After law school, he served as a lawyer for W.R. Grace and Company and Pfizer Inc., later becoming a law prof at Villanova University. Carolyn Cook Ball, his wife of fifty-five years, survives him, as do a daughter and a sister.

ALUM NAMED

FELLOW OF ACTL

Paul T. Fortino, NDLS '75 and a member of NDLS' alumni board, has become a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers. Created in 1950 to recognize excellence in trial practice, the College includes members from every segment of the civil and criminal trial bar of the United States and Canada. Its purpose, in addition to identifying and recognizing outstanding trial lawyers, is to improve the standards of trial practice, the administration of justice, and the ethics of the profession. Invitation to membership is extended by the Board of Regents, the governing body of the College, only after careful examination of the nominee's experience, skill, ability, and ethical standards.

Mr. Fortino became a Fellow at an induction meeting that took place during the recent Annual Meeting of the College, in London, England. Paul and his wife, Carol, live in Portland, Oregon. Paul, a partner in the large Pacific Northwest firm of Perkins Coie, has practiced with the firm for nearly twenty years. He is a lawyer representative to the Ninth Circuit Judicial Conference and a member of the House of Delegates of the Oregon State Bar. He has also recently finished terms as president of the Oregon Association of Defense Counsel and president of the Oregon Chapter of the Federal Bar Association of the United States.

MADELINE MORRIS
SPEAKS AT NDLS

Madeline Morris, professor of law at Duke University School of Law and author of significant works on accountability, international humanitarian criminal law, and international criminal courts, was the featured guest at a Roundtable, sponsored by the Center for Civil and Human Rights. Held February 11, in the Civil Rights Reading Room, the session addressed “Complementarity and Its Discontents: States, Victims and the International Criminal Court.” Informal discussion and refreshments followed the guest's brief presentation.

HADLEY ARKES
SPEAKS AT NDLS

Hadley Arkes, Ney Professor of Jurisprudence at Amherst College, spoke at the Law School on February 4, in the Courtroom. His talk was titled, “On the Novelties of an Old Constitution: Settled Principles and Unsettling Surprises.”

Among Professor Arkes’ many books are two—his most recent—of special interest to those interested in constitutional law. The return of George Sutherland is an intellectual biography of one of this century's most capable Supreme Court Justices. Beyond The Constitution examines the philosophical presuppositions of the Constitution. Princeton University Press produced both books.

Arkes has been active in political circles, helping to draft (among other bills) The Defense of Marriage Act. He contributes a regular column, Life Watch, to the monthly magazine Crisis.

Professor Arkes’ lecture is the first in this year’s Olin Distinguished Lecture Series. Other speakers scheduled: Joseph Raz, of Oxford, on March 24, and John Keown, of Cambridge, on April 13. Harvard's Mary Ann Glendon will kick off next season’s lecture series in October.
Dolores Beadling, mother of Eileen Doran, died unexpectedly on February 5 of an apparent aneurism. Her funeral took place at St. Anne's Church in Bulger, Pennsylvania, on February 8. She leaves her husband, nine children, and seventeen grandchildren.

Patra Geroulis, 2L, under the supervision of Judy Fox, represented a young mother in St. Joseph County Court in January, assisting her in obtaining a restraining order against an abusive husband and child support for her young daughter. Marissa Kelly, 2L, represented a father in St. Joseph County Probate Court, allowing the father to obtain custody of the child he had cared for since birth.

Jim Swartz, 3L, supervised by Judy Fox, is assisting a senior citizen, preparing a complaint alleging violations of the Truth in Lending Act, the Home Owners Equity Protection Act, the Indiana Consumer Protection Act and breach of contract.

Tom McDermott, 2L, and Judy Fox prepared an emergency will for a client dying of cancer. Tom and Judy were able to take the documents to the client's home, where he was being warmly cared for by his friends and family.

On January 28, Judy Fox participated in a conference, “Fathering in the New Millennium,” sponsored by the Law School, the Department of Psychology and Sociology, and the Henkels Visiting Scholars Series. Judy is a member of the family-research group, a group of scholars from the University engaged in interdisciplinary research relating to the family. The group meets monthly to discuss their ongoing research. In February, Judy will present her research on the development of the legal definition of the term “father.”

Bob Blakey featured prominently in the History Channel's four-part series on law enforcement, which began February 8. According to the producer, Bob "stars" in one part, entitled "Tales of the F.B.I.: Taking on the Mob."

The Supreme Court on January 20, 1999, affirmed, 9-0, the Ninth Circuit's decision in Humana v. Forsyth. Bob Blakey argued for Forsyth in the Ninth Circuit and in the Supreme Court. Bob says that he is grateful to all those who "mooted" him and to Patti and Dwight, who helped enormously in finding materials in the library for the various briefs. Bob also says that he is greatly relieved to win; it takes off him the pressure that Professor Kelly applied when he told Bob, after a moot court in front of a number of students from Bob's first-year Criminal Law class, "Blakey, this is an easy case. I don't see how you can lose it!"

An editorial interview with Cathy Kaveny appeared in the January issue of U.S. Catholic. According to the magazine, "Kaveny skillfully navigates the middle course taken by the Catholic Church on end-of-life questions." Says Cathy: "We do not have a vitalist tradition that says we must keep the body going at all costs. Life is a great gift, but it's not the only game in town. There is a much better game waiting for all of us."
