Dean's Bookshelf

Judy Fox recently contributed an article on “foreclosure echoes” to the bookshelf, recently published by the Loyola Consumer Law Review. The cite is:

Matt Barrett recently published the 2013 Supplement to the casebook, Accounting for Lawyers, which he writes with David R. Herwitz, as well as the 2014 Update for Gunn & Ward’s, Cases Texts and Problems on Federal Taxation, which he writes with Larry D. Ward.

Thanks and congratulations to Judy and Matt!

Classifieds

Miss your favorite soups on a cold winter day? It’s been confirmed that Food Services has discontinued two classic soups that used to be available in the Crossings. Ham & bean and chicken & dumpling soups are both gone from the menu line-up, apparently to never return. If you would like to express your disagreement with this decision and advocate for the return of the above, please follow this link to the Food Services page and click on the Cafe Commons link to comment. Let your voice be heard and help us bring back these popular soups!
